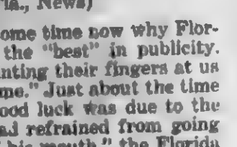
If the man who is supposed to represent Florida and its people in the U. S. Senate had his way there wouldn't be any such things as states' rights. Instead, if we followed his mouthings, we wouldn't be able to breathe without an okay from Washington. Pepper, a disciple of the late FDR, has preached regimentation for so long and with such gusto that it's about time the people of Florida awoke to the fact that they had better get rid of him next year before he sells the state down the river.



Every time that Pepper speaks he makes it obvious that in his book any time a southern congressman isn't a radical pro-union follower and votes only in their behalf, he's blocking progress in this country. Therefore, we assume that he has little use for the non-union residents of Florida and the South.

Although Sunday's speech was just so many words and nothing more by a man who was disappointed and disillusioned in Philadelphia last summer, nevertheless, they add nothing to the stature of Florida and the South, and it is hoped that the people outside of Florida and the South, who don't know him like we do, will pay little attention to his bid for votes next year, because there is always the fear that too many many Peppers in Congress could eliminate states' rights with the welfare state.

Regarding the welfare state, we believe that the Tampa Morning Tribune's definition of such is worth repeating:

"Unlimited taxation and regimentation of those who produce for the benefit of those who ride relief rolls, public payrolls, or get unjust favors from the public trough."

Three Books In My Life

Of course the first is the Bible. You get most of that in Sunday school while young. I have used phrases, etc., from it in my teaching, to clinch some doubt. As my Christian Dad used to say, "The Bible is the greatest literature of all ages, full of keen advice."

The second book, "The Last of the Mohicans" by J. Fenimore Cocper, is a classic for lads and lassies loving adventure and nature I began to read it at 18 years of age, and over my span of life have read this glorious book nine times and have seen it filmed.

No wonder that I have camped 24 summers on beautiful Lake George, N. Y., and surrounding Adirondack Mountain country. The inners of that book are all about that lovely lake and those mountains, during our Colonial years of struggle.

The third book, by Harold Bell Wright, "The Man Who Went Away," I will quote below, and you can be a judge of its worth. Remember you are touched or not by great literature and art. It will "make you" or leave you in a frenzied industrial-age rut. Lads and lassies need to get away from machinery and reach their God through His direct voice—the voice of the forests and wild nature. Here is the quote from "The Man Who Went Away":

"Beneath these giant 350 foot tall Sequoia trees of California, that are a continuation of life which has endured through geologic ages, our modern machinery and money age rushes madly, desperately intent upon making its frantic miles per day. Sleek limousines, sporty roadsters, huge cross-continent busses, shabby rattletraps, giant trucks, scientists, priests, laborers, judges, politicians, scholars, children, soldiers, lovers, police.

"Possessed by all the devils of unrest, the highway invades these cathedrals of time, yelling with profane impudence, 'I am progress, I am civilization.' In the shadowy quiet of its ten thousand, thousand years the forest breathes gently, 'Peace, be still.' The highway roars arrogantly, 'I am the uttermost in life—the culmination of all living, the fulfillmnt of all time.' The forest, brooding in the stillness of its unhurried aeons, is silent.

"The highway, with tortured nerves and weary muscles and reeling brain, and despairing soul, screams, 'Faster! FASTER!' The forest questions, 'Whither? WHY?' But because these poor slaves of progress built their highway, they condemn themselves to live in it. They feel themselves doomed to follow the concrete way of their machinery and money civilization, even though amid the toil and confusion they sometimes hear a still, small voice!"

Give Me the Mountains

Give me the mountains. I O give me the sky.
Give me the vast spaces, on which to rely
For allurement and happiness and happiness all supreme.
Give me God's handiwork—for life and its dream.

Give me the woods in autumn's red glory.
Give me the Heavens, a dark, starry story.
Give me the air—cool, crisp and entrancing;
Give me all this—as age keeps advancing.

YOU take the city, YOU revel in noise,
YOU speed your vehicles, nigh gold or alloys.
YOU build your skyscrapers—indeer, touch the sky!

Thus do we live, and thus do we do!
YOU take the city, YOU ignore the slow.
I love tranquility—I love God's sweet PEACE.
GIVE ME THE MOUNTAINS!

release, O! Release!

CHAPTER NINETEEN

I THOUGHT we had gotten out of Boston, thought Marvell wearily, and now this creature reeking with the accent, the command, the snobbery, walks in on us. He followed Miss Searle back into the hall. Just above her head, between the spokes of the stair railing, were Kit's muddy-toed shoes. She could have listened from this passageway above quite concealed had she remembered to withdraw her feet.

"Come down, child," called Miss Searle peremptorily. There was no answer, then Marvell addressed the shoes, "Kit, have we anything to offer Miss Searles?"

"No," said Kit flatly, and then added, "Milk."

"I should like a glass," said Miss Searle, in some perversity for she knew Kit did not want to be out of earshot for a moment.

"You have come to a lonely place, Mr. Coomes. Practically no neighbors."

"I count you as one."

"Oh, I am solitary. There is Mr. Furse, or was."

"Furse?" The name was faintly familiar.

"That gray clapboard saltbox the other side of me."

"Did he come alone, too?"

"Mined. He told me his father bought the place for its silver mine—rum out, of course, if there ever was one. I warned him against such folly but he is young and impatient. I dare say the war will be good for him. But he was a nice lad. I rode with him occasionally. You will like him, if he comes back from the war."

"What I am most interested in," said Marvell, "is someone with a family. My daughter will need companionship."

"You have come too far out of town for that."

"I can go in."

"The natives are unfriendly. To me, at any rate. I don't like them, so why shouldn't they be? I don't appreciate their sneaking children, they don't care for my horses. They could be improved, of course, but I have no talent for that."

Surely she came out of some buckram-bound, time spotted novel, her haughtiness and ill-temper revealed in fine, straining print. "I am a native," he said.

"You? Have you come back?"

"No, in Maine. But I am reverting to type." Faster than you know, he thought.

Kit came in and handed Miss Searle a cool, slippery glass of milk. Miss Searle sipped it slowly. "Come to tea with me," she ordered. "Tomorrow."

Kit looked at her measuredly. Then she spoke, "I'd like to learn to ride."

"Teh dan. You walk well, that means something to start with. I shall come over in the morning. Put her in bloomers, Mr. Coomes. There's no reason for learning side saddle. My father taught me—he insisted on the habit." She smiled faintly. She finished the milk, handed the glass back to Kit, and with a brief farewell strode out of the house and onto her horse.

"Unhappy as the devil," murmured Marvell watching her ride off. Kit was sweeping an imaginary long riding skirt around her legs. "Did you like her?"

"All right." Kit had not felt much at home with her. "Are we going to picnic now?"

Marvell remembered suddenly that Kit's manners had not been al they should. "Wait a moment," he said. "We owe Miss Searle for the damage you did."

"I didn't know they were hers."

"It wasn't gracious to throw them at her."

"She was crow; so were you."

"So were you. You can afford to be gracious, Kit."

"How?"

"Kindness," acted out. "That's your great feminine advantage, to act."

She sighed, but she could afford kindness now, she was going to learn to ride tomorrow. "I will," not entirely sure of what she was promising.

The next morning Kit was impatiently waiting in the swing that hung between the two maples in front of the house. Her serge bloomers scratched unmercifully, and swinging kept her mind off her discomfort. Promptly at ten, Miss Searle rode down the lane, leading a small gray mare.

"Good morning!" she called, dismounting. "All ready, I see. Where's your father?" She had rather expected to show off her horsemanship in front of a fussy, apprehensive guardian.

"Walked? Perhaps he should be learning to ride. I think we'll go up to the big meadow. It will be quite like a ring. You lead Neru. She won't hurt you."

Kit's stomach fluttered. She had never realized before that a horse was so big. But when she was astride, the mare's size seemed part of her own and the first lesson—to bump bareback around the field after Miss Searle, learning to grip with her knees—was a success. At the end of an hour, Miss Searle called a halt. Kit was tired and sweaty and rather mad that Marvell had not come back in time to see her in action.

"I'll rest with you for a moment before I ride home. Is there anyone about at all, child? Are you all alone?"

"Mrs. Crane's inside. She's getting lunch. She comes every day."

"Mercy, she's a good soul but such a poor cook. I suppose Brewster sent her. Your father should get someone from town, a good Swedish woman. He should think of your diet, if not his own."

They sat down in the swing. By keeping it in motion with her foot, Kit was able to give herself a scratch every now and then.

"Does your father ride, Miss Searle?" asked Kit.

"My father passed on some time ago," said Miss Searle, removing her hat. There was a faint red mark on her forehead where the hat had pressed too tightly. Kit thought that her light brown hair, drawn so tightly back from her ears, must hurt her, too. "But he did ride to perfection. He was an extraordinary man, my father, such a devoted husband and tender friend." She closed her eyes.

"No, thank you." She looked down at Kit with large, light eyes. "In spite of all the demands on his time—he was a lawyer with a large practice, a civic leader. He devoted himself to three children and the social life my dear mother loved—" the tinge of bitterness in the last phrase escaped Kit—"he always had an especial care for me. I was the sickly one, you see."

Kit sized up her figure, her strong, capable hands. She didn't look sickly, she looked half asleep. If she were to run and to laugh and to let her hair blow forward as Mother used to do, thought Kit, she would look awake and rosy.

"He took me on long trips out west where we could ride in the mountain air. In Colorado. We traveled to the health springs abroad. Then he chose my house for me here so that he and I might live in the country and become strong—though he never lived here."

"Where are the other two of you?"

"My brother Amory is abroad. My sister is married and lives in Boston. My mother has a very full life of her own."

"I haven't any brothers or sisters or mother," said Kit, trying to copy Miss Searle's wistful tone.

"But you have your father." Miss Searle smiled at her and put her hand on Kit's forehead. Their eyes met and Kit forgot her itching, her nervous apprehension at the thought of mounting that huge, slippery back again tomorrow, her restless desire that Marvell would come home, as she was overborne with flattery at the earnest pleading in Miss Searle's large gray eyes. It was almost as if she were begging Kit to remember something, and Kit wanted to give her what she was asking for. Only she didn't know what it was. With a little thrill running down her spine she felt that she and Miss Searle were one person, one age, with one secret.

Then, just as Miss Searle opened her lips to speak, a tinny black new car flashed into the driveway. Marvell jumped out and waved to the two under the trees. Miss Searle and Kit watched him silently. Then Miss Searle got up and taking Kit's hand, slowly strolled across the grass. "What a lovely place this is," she murmured. "It never used to look like this when the Houghtons were here. It must be your living in it." She felt, rather than saw, the new green everywhere, the pearly sunshine, the soft weather-beaten house against the blue hills. She pressed Kit's hand a little tighter.

"I waited for you," she said as Marvell came up to them, "to hand your daughter back all in one piece. She is a good pupil."

"Did she ride that blueberry nag hethered up there?"

"Neru is a fine jumper."

"That's great, but are you?" and he winked at Kit who wished uneasily that he wouldn't make fun. "Stay and have something to eat, Miss Searle."

She did not take her eyes off him. His hair was marked by a broad gray streak that glistened in the sun. She said abruptly, "That is just what I was going to suggest. May Kit lunch with me? The child may be overtired and a light lunch and a cool nap . . ."

He looked thoughtful. Well, it was a friend for Kit, and that pleased him, oddly enough, for he imagined Miss Searle didn't get on very well with most people. "Sure, Kit may go."

Kit danced up and down, partly in pleasure, partly in defense against the scratchy serge. They walked toward the horses.

"I daresay Mrs. Crane's all very well," Miss Searle began, "but everything is on the heavy side in the country. It might be possible, you know, to get a good couple, Mr. Coomes. Dutch, preferably—the men are well trained farmers and the women's cooking simple, but . . ."

Marvell interrupted her, "That's a grand idea. Let me see you mount up, Kit."

Miss Searle gave her an expert hand. Then she turned back to him. "Tomorrow morning at ten we'll have another lesson, Mr. Coomes. She mustn't miss a day if she is to progress. I'll drive her back this afternoon."

Marvell waved them off. He'd been all set to pack up a picnic and take them out in the new car. Kit hadn't even noticed it. But a horse must be pretty exciting to her. He turned his back on the house and faced the barn and the newly ploughed field beyond. He was so angry that he shook a little. Then he laughed. "By God," he said aloud. "I not only have to beat the Barlows, but the Dutch!"

Jeremiah---Spokesman of God

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Jeremiah 1; 14:7-22; 20; 22:1-23; 23:5-10; 37-39.

The Lord told Jeremiah to stand up to the princes of Judah and tell them of their wickedness, and not to be afraid of them for He, the Lord, "am with thee, to deliver thee."

For their sins, the Lord caused drouth in the land of Judah, and the people prayed to Him to send rain—"O Lord our God, we wait upon Thee, for Thou hast made all these things."

Because Jeremiah prophesied the destruction of Judah and exile for its people, the priest, Pashur, struck Jeremiah and put him in the stocks that were in the high gate of Benjamin.

All happened as Jeremiah prophesied. The Chaldeans came, took the king prisoner, put his sons and the princes of the kingdom to death, and put out his eyes.

MEMORY VERSE—Jeremiah 17:7.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Troop 250

Boy Scout Troop 250 ushered at the Coliseum Sunday, Nov. 5, at the Catholic Rural Life Pageant. On Wednesday, Nov. 9, they joined with parochial school children at 8:30 a. m. to greet the Apostolic delegate, Archbishop Amelelo Giovanni Cecograni, and to receive his special blessing at St. Joseph's Cathedral.

On Dec. 6 the scouts will be in charge of the pop stand for the St. Aloysius Christmas bazaar in the school annex, Dec. 10 they will hold their Christmas party in the annex. The Boy Scouts Mothers Club will assist with the party.

Cub News

The Cub Pack 250 committee meeting will be held Thursday, Nov. 17, in the St. Aloysius School annex, at 8 p. m. The project for the next pack meeting will be photography. A contest of old snapshots will be held for the parents.

Fifteen Cubs from Troop 250 will be interviewed over Radio Station WOSU, Saturday, Nov. 19, on the Safety Time program, at 10:45 a. m. The parents of the Cubs in Den 5 met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack McAndrews Wednesday evening, Nov. 9. The meeting was for the purpose of welcoming the parents of the new Cubs, to acquaint them with cubbing, and to make future plans for the troop. The guests were Mrs. Allen Sweeney, Mrs. Wheeler, Mrs. Charles Herriott, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leister, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maxwell, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Grogan. At the regular den meeting Friday, Nov. 11, Den 5 elected the following officers: Jim McAndrews, denner, Barney Grogan, keeper of the buckskin, Glen Keffer, treasurer, and David Maxwell, assistant denner.

Mrs. Ned Grogan was hostess at the den meeting Oct. 29. It was a combination Halloween and birthday surprise party celebrating Barney Grogan's 10th birthday.

Hilliards FHA Appointments Made

During the business session of the last meeting of the Hilliards Chapter of the Future Homemakers of America, Sue Hamilton, president, appointed Donna White and Reva Nichols as historians of the club and Clarice Scheiderer as news reporter.

After the business meeting the officers of the club conducted a Dr. I. Q. quiz program. June Prince, Vice President of the club, was Mistress of Ceremonies. The other officers, Sue Hamilton, President; Margaret Phillipi, secretary, and Patty Rings, Treasurer, helped with the program. The girls were awarded corn candy for answering their questions correctly.

Tuberculosis need not be a fatal disease. It can be cured, but it is easiest to cure when discovered early and treatment is begun at once.

80th Birthday Dinner Served On Self-Made Table

Dr. O. L. Linville wishes to thank his many friends on the Hilltop who remembered him with greetings, gifts and messages of congratulations on his 80th birthday.

He is very proud of the fact that his birthday dinner was served on a table made by himself. Through an advertisement in The Hilltop Record he received a call from Mrs. Floyd Bern that she had a large extension table. It was of white ash and originally belonged to the Lelia Cooley family. It was purchased, remodeled and refinished and is now nine feet, nine inches long, seating 16 persons, has four extra boards with drop leaves extending almost to the floor and when closed is 24 inches in width.

Dr. Linville has a hobby shop at his home and spends his leisure hours there making useful things.

Modern Poetry

By Esther Weakley

WE TWO

We two shall walk together into fall;
Your way, dear, will be my way. It the road
Grows rough at times we shall not mind at all
(We've faced far worse together.) Should life's load
Grow heavier with time, though we are old,
We'll never reminisce of "better days";
We'll look ahead, my dear. And when the cold,
Short days of winter come, we shall, in ways
Beyond our present comprehension, fill
Each one to overflowing. Winter will
Be very brief, my dear, but we who dare
December days together shall not care.

Faye Chilcote Walker, in her book SCALE OF VALUES.

LOST RADIANCE

Never, oh never, attempt to recapture
The flame from the ember of that old affair,
Lest you forever be robbed of the rapture
Of what you remember — that never was there!

LEGAL NOTICES

PUBLIC NOTICE
Common Pleas Court, Franklin County, Ohio
No. 178960—Homer E. Lumsden, 1910 W. Temple, Los Angeles 26, California, Plaintiff, vs. Dorothy Tom Frasier, 67 Chapel Avenue, Chicago 49, Illinois; Frank Frasier (husband of Dorothy Tom Frasier, 67 Chapel Avenue, Chicago 49, Illinois; Betty J. Tom, and the unknown spouse of Betty J Tom, if any, 6768 Merrill Avenue, Chicago 49, Illinois; Fred A. Tom, 6768 Merrill Avenue, Chicago 49, Illinois; Marguerite Tom (wife of Fred A. Tom), 6768 Merrill Avenue, Chicago 49, Illinois, Defendants.

PETITION

Now comes the plaintiff and for his petition, says that he is seized in fee simple and in possession of the following described real estate: Situated in the County of Franklin, in the State of Ohio, and in the Township of Franklin: Being in Survey No 1279, Virginia Military Land, and being also a part of a certain tract of 42.87 acres conveyed by Charles E. Tom, etal., to Emmet E. Tom, etal., by deed [illegible] of record in Deed Book 284, page 438, Franklin County Records, and being more particularly described as follows: Beginning at an iron pin in the north line of the P. C. C. and St. L. Railroad right of way, which point is south 86° 30' West a distance of 485.0 feet from an iron pin in the west line of Hague Avenue, and in the north line of said P. C. C. & St. L. Railroad right of way; said point being also the southwest corner of a tract heretofore conveyed by said Emmet E. Tom, etal., to the Hilltop Supply Company by deed as recorded in D. B. 756, page 198, Recorder's Office, Franklin County, Ohio; thence from said point of beginning north 31° 31' East a distance of 114.90 feet to an iron pin; thence North 86° 30' East a distance of 404.36 feet to a point in the center line of Hague Avenue (passing an iron pin at 385.00 feet); thence north 3° 29' West along the center line of Hague Avenue a distance of 167.04 feet to a point; thence south 87° 10' west a distance of 726.06 feet (passing an iron pin at 26.00 feet) to an iron pin on the east line of 20.989 acre tract; thence along the east line of said 20.989 acre tract south 3° 29' East a distance of 10.00 feet to an iron pin; being also the southeast corner of said 20.989 acre tract, and on the north right of way line of aforementioned railroad; thence north 86° 30' east along the north right of way line a distance of 366.26 feet to the place of beginning, containing 1.326 acres, subject to all legal highways. Plaintiff further says that the defendants Dorothy Tom Frasier, Fred A. Tom, and Betty J. Tom, whom plaintiff does not know if she is married or not, have or claim to have an interest in said real estate adverse to the plaintiff; that Frank Frasier is the husband of Dorothy Tom Frasier; that Marguerite Tom is the wife of Fred A. Tom; and that it is unknown whether Betty J. Tom is married or not, and if so what her name is or the name of her spouse, if any. WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays that the defendants be notified of the pendancy of this action and be required to set up their respective claims, if any exist, to said real estate, and that his title to the same be forever quieted against said claims and for all other and further relief to which plaintiff may be entitled in the premises.

Looking Ahead with Jean Worrel

Everyone knows that the difference between future security and insecurity depends not on what is earned but on what is saved.

Think what you will do when old age deprives you of the means of earning your own livelihood. Think what your family will do if by your untimely death they are left to carry on alone, without your income to feed, clothe, shelter and educate them.

Ordinarily it is difficult to save money but now, in keeping with the times, a new and easy way of saving has been arranged. Just as the Government has made it easier to pay our income tax at regular intervals from the salary cheque, so independence for old age and protection for wife and children can now be conveniently provided by small salary deductions.

What could be more sound than, with the co-operation of your employer, saving a small part of your salary to assure an income for yourself or your family when your paydays are over. The programme is permanent and uninterrupted because the deposits are automatic. The savings dollar properly becomes the first item in the budget rather than the last. The plan to which I refer, the Sun Life Salary Savings Plan, is so flexible that a programme of saving can be adapted to fit the needs of each wage-earner, single or married, man or woman, according to individual problems and ability to save. Such policies are the property of the assured and in the event of entering the service of another employer it is a simple matter to continue the savings arrangement intact.

Let me tell you more about this savings plan and show you how easily it can be adapted to meet your own requirements. Just call or write

Thanksgiving

"We gather together to ask the Lord's blessing,
He chastens and hastens His will to make known;
The wicked oppressing, cease them from distressing
Sing praises to His name, forget not His own."

Through the years, the familiar w o r d s of "The Thanksgiving Prayer" have sounded clear and true on Thanksgiving Day. For Thanksgiving Day — a holiday that is perhaps more exclusively American than any other we observe — is an important link between the humble beginnings of our nation and its present awe-inspiring magnitude and also its future, whatever that is to be.

On a memorable first Thanksgivg Day long ago, the brave Pilgrims met together for feast and prayer, grateful to the Supreme Being for having led them to a land of abundant harvest and one with a limitless future. They meant the thanks they gave then to encompass the opportunity presented by their new found freedoms, as well as the happiness that they had achieved.

And we, living today, are indeed fortunate to be able to partake of the tradition they established.

For us, Thanksgiving Day is more than a commemoration of the occasion on which the Pilgrims gathered b e f o r e an aboundant board to celebrate the establishment of their firm f o o t i n g in America. For us, Thanksgiving Day has become an occasion for pausing to count the blessings that have come to the peoples of America year by year, until today this National Holiday arrives annually as a milestone in the journey of progress launched by our forefathers.

Today, with pride and humble gratitude for the persistence and courage and strength that made it so — we give prayers of thanks for the constant plentifulness of our harvests . . . for the consistently busy activity of our industries . . . for the magnificent strides forward in literature, music and the other arts . . . that in wonderful combination give us the rich moment - to - moment living so typical of our country.

Above all—we celebrate Thanksgiving today with thanks for the good fortune of being citizens of a mighty Democracy that allows us the freedom to forge ahead with deed as well as word. And we offer a heartfelt prayer that this most important wealth of all — will continue to be here through the years for ourselves and our children and their children to liv e and enjoy!

On The Record

By Harry Franken

Outside Sources Furnish News Breaks

In a daily paper last week I noticed an item from a place called Medicine Hat, in Canada. The [illegible] paper also had stories with [illegible] lines of Tuckahoe, N. Y.; Benares, India; and Middlebury, Vt.

Now no paper or press association has the money to have a correspondent in such out of the way places. And if the expense [illegible]n't prohibitive, such places still wouldn't be good enough [illegible] sources to warrant a full time correspondent.

If a woman in a remote village in India had sextuplets, or a three-headed calf was born in the interior of Africa, the world would probably know about it in a matter of hours. News of this sort gets to the world by means of tipsters, people who contact the news agencies when something of interest happens in their particular locale.

Community newspapers also depend on outside sources for much of their news. Miss Treva Charles, 652 S. Harris-av, works in the State Office Building From a window she saw fire equipment going out W. Broad-st. She quickly phoned the Record to tell us about it. The result was a front page story and pictures on the State School fire.

A telephone conservation with New Rome a few days later called to our attention a barn blaze on Norton-rd, enabling us to get exclusive pictures of the fire.

These are only two examples of a very common happening. A great many stories in today's paper are the results of tips from our readers.

As a reader you can help make the paper better by letting us know the news of your neighborhood. If there's a fire nearby or an accident, chances are we won't hear about it until all the excitement is over, unless YOU telephone Ra. 1125 and tell us the news.

Won't you you be our reporter?

GOOD NEWS:. Word comes from the conservation department that there are fewer complaints from farmers this year about property damage by hunters—there have also been fewer arrests for infractions of the hunting laws.

There isn't enough game in Ohio for anyone to make their [illegible] by hunting [illegible] reason most people go hunting is for the sport. Destruction of property, shooting game out of season, or taking more than the bag limit is not very sportsmanlike.

I am a city dweller, I like to hunt, and I get pretty angry at the "No Hunting" signs that spring up every fall. But I place the blame on irresponsible hunters, not the farmers. I am happy to see that the hunters' conduct is better this season.

Runaway Plane Back To Owner

Two city policemen, Normand Foland, 2511 Grasmere-av, and George Curry, 259 S. Eureka-av, are happy today following a "too successful" test flight of a model airplane made by Patrolman Foland.

Last Friday the two policemen took the plane, a gasoline powered model Foland had spent a month making, to Sullivant Ave. Airport for a test flight. The plane took off and headed for town. The two men followed in a car, but lost sight of the plane at Binns-blvd and Mound-st.

The plane was returned Saturday by Gayle Armstrong, 41 W. Tuland-rd, who found it in the Sullivant-av area.

Out of Control, Car Hits Fence

A woman motorist who apparently lost control of her car cut a wide swath in W. Broad-st near the Columbus State School Thursday night.

Police said she traveled left of center for some 50 feet, then bounced onto the sidewalk, knocked down a light pole, sideswiped a utility pole, tore down a section of the school's fence, then stopped.

Miss Mary Houser, 24, of 687½ N. High-st, who was uninjured, was arrested and charged with reckless driving. Her passenger, Mrs. Katherine Asche, 19, of 524 Parsons-av, suffered a bruised right elbow.

Bill Hawes Elected New West High Alumni President

By Dick Ardlo

Bill Hawes

The annual election of officers for the West High Alumni Association was held recently upon conclusion of the Homecoming dance. Colorful decorations of buff and brown added to a spirited evening of dancing and renewal of friendships. The football team was introduced, the queen and her court crowned, and the newly elected officers announced before a capacity crowd of grads and students.

Past President Woolson and his associate officers, Vice President Snyder and Secretary-Treasurer Helschman retired their positions to following alumni: Bill Hawes, president; Bob Baag, vice president and Marilyn Hoelcher, secretary-treasurer.

President Hawes expressed his desires of maintaining and increasing an active alumni membership. This years program will open with a membership drive, followed by projects similar to those of the past.

The official installation has not been completed.

Authorize Funds To Rebuild State School Dormitory

The way was cleared Monday for the rebuilding of the dormitory at the Columbus State School destroyed by fire a month ago.

The State Board of Control authorized transfer of $150,000 in funds to defray cost of the repairs.

The board transferred $90,000 from rehabilitation funds of the Welfare Department and $60,000 from another appropriation already provided for repairing the exterior of the building.

Roof of the three-story structure housing 150 inmates was destroyed by the fire and the remainder of the structure was heavily damaged by water.

Seeks Christmas Gifts For State Hospital Patients

Christmas gifts for 1500 patients at the Columbus State Hospital are being sought by Mrs. J. F. Bateman, wife of the hospital superintendent.

For the woman patients, Mrs. Bateman asked cosmetics, wash cloths, soap, combs, handkerchiefs, costume jewelry, candy and fruit. For the men, she requested pipes, tobacco, ties, playing cards, handkerchiefs, writing paper, combs and candy.

Gifts may be left at the hospital. Mrs. Bateman said that it was not necessary that the gifts be wrapped.

Spends Least; Gets Most Votes

Henry A. Koontz, 485 Hilltonia-av, had the lowest personal expense account in city council race, although he led the six candidates in the number of votes received. His campaign expense account, filed with the Franklin Co. Board of Elections, shows expenditures of $89.

The Good Governent Committee, which backed Koontz and the other six Republican candidates for municipal offices, listed campaign expenditures of $2203.

Charles H. Jones, 355 S. Chase-av, unsuccessful candidate for the board of education, has not filed a campaign expense account.

Pedestrian Killed In McKinley Ave.

James Durham, 60, who lived at the Adams dump in McKinley-av., was killed by an automobile in McKinley-av. at the New York Central system crossing at Harris-av, Thursday.

Sheriff's Deputies reported he was struck by a car driven by John Mateo of 2251 Fisher-rd Durham was dead when an ambulance arrived.

The body was taken to the Wylie S. Shroyer funeral home, 1278 W. Broad-st where services were held at 10:30 Monday. Burial was in Union Cemetery.

Durham is survived by a sister, Mrs. Marie Kennedy, and three brothers, Harry, William and Raymond Durham.

Two Line Want Ad Brings 50 Calls

A large ad isn't necessarily needed, if you're selling a quality item at a fair price, This was the recent discovery of Mrs. A. H. Andrews, 180 N. Burgess-av.

She advertised an arbor tilt table saw in a Record "two-liner" which cost only 36c.

The first caller, who arrived about 7:30 the same evening the ad appeared, knew a bargain when he saw one, and bought the saw.

A total of 50 calls was received at the Andrews residence during the next three days.

You can place your own action-packed Record ad simply by dialing RA. 1125 prior to 5 p. m. Monday or Wednesday.

Finish Recount In Norwich Twp. Ballot Dispute

A recount on the disputed ballot case in the Norwich Twp. Board of Education race shows the winners to be C. H. O'Brien, Ned Woodruff, and Carlton Liggett.

The Franklin Co. Board of Elections stated that no other results had been changed at the completion of the official ballot count.

The Record failed to report the election of William S. Brown, 1792 Little-av, as justice of the peace in Franklin Twp. Both Brown and E. C. Miller, 3327 Clime-rd, were elected. The incumbent, E. Robert Banker, was defeated.

$1000 Fire Hits Third Floor Of Midland-av Home

Fire in a third floor attic caused an estimated $1000 damage shortly before noon last Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Cockerill, 175 Midland-av.

Assistant Fire Chief R. W. Cassell said be believed the blaze started in a spouting on the northwest corner of the house, probably from a chimney spark. The fire was confined to the attic inside and the upper part of the outside of the three-story brick residence.

The third floor is occupied by Leroy Lowe and Alfred Bellows, who were not at home at the time. No one was injured.

Mrs. Cockerall said she saw smoke through the front window of her house and aroused John Buchanan, who was asleep in his second-floor room.

A next door neighbor, Chester Myers, 171 Midland-av, heard Mrs. Cockerill calling for help and notified the fire department. The first alarm was turned in at 11:01 a. m. and extra equipment was called at 11:06.

Dr. Howard Ferrell, 387 Eldon-av, reported the Ferrell Marble Works, McKinley and Souder-aves, was looted of two shotguns a radio valued at $104 Thursday.

New Parking Plan Passed By Council

To Increase Parking Areae On Side Streets

City Council Monday night voted to change parking regulations on side streets running into W. Broad-st and Sullivant-av on the Hilltop in accordance with a plan approved by the Traffic and Transportation Commission.

The new regulations, which will go into effect 30 days from Monday, will provide 69 added parking spaces on streets running onto W. Broad-st.

Parking will be permitted on one side of the street between Broad-st and the first intersection with the exception of Eureka-av, Hague-av and S. Powell-av. Parking will still be prohibited on these streets.

Parking will be permtited on the east side of the following streets entering into Sullivant-av: Belvidere-av, Clarendon-av, Eureka-av, Harris-av, Highland-av, Midland-av, Oakley-av, Ogden-av, Richardson-av, Terrace-av, Warren-av, Wayne-av, Wheatland-av and Burgess-av.

Councilman Henry A. Koontz stated that he thought the change was a good one and that he had favored such a change for the past two years.

The traffic commission approved the plan for the Broad-st area Oct. 6 and surveyed the Sullivant-av area more recently.

E. O. Melvin, 107 S. Warren-av, member of the City Traffic and Transportation Commission, points to one of the "No Parking" signs that will soon be removed due to council's vote Monday evening.

Recreation Dept. To Organize Boys' Athletic Club At Glenwood Park

Glenwood Recreation Center will be one of the 11 locations where Boys' Athletic Clubs will be organized by the city recreation department. The clubs will meet in six recreation centers and five school buidings, leased for that purpose.

The first and organizing meeting for the club will be held at the recreation center Saturday, Dec. 3, at 9 a. m.

The Boys' Athletic Clubs will be organized in three age groups; naimely, covering 4th and 5th, 6th-7th and 8th-9th grade youngsters. The program will consist of participation and coaching in basketball, volleyball, boxing, wrestling and table tennis during the indoor season, and in various outdoor games such as baseball, softball, tennis and others during the outdoor season. Competitive programs in sports for each age group will be provided, with a possible tournament in all sports on a city wide basis.

The organization plan for the first meeting December 3 calls for the 4th and 5th grade group to report at 9:00 a. m.; the 6th-9th grades at 10:00 a. m. and the 6th-7th grades at 11:30 a. m.

All equipment for various sports activities will be provided by the Recreation Department, and it is only necessary for the youngsters to provide gym shirts, pants and gym shoes. Any youngster not having gym shoes may participate in stocking feet or barefooted.

Hilliards Schools To Hold Open House Wed.

The Hilliards elementary and high schools will hold an open house at the school Wednesday night from 7:30 to 9:30.

George Beery, county school superintendent, will speak on "Modern Trends in School Organization." The film, "Little School House in the Red" will be shown also.

Parents will have a chance to meet the teachers and observe their work, and to visit the school board members.

Jack Winkler, president of the student council, will preside at the meeting. The Hilliards band will provide music for the occasion.

George Wing, West High School teacher, knows his local history. He identified an old photograph of a High-st building appearing recently in the Columbus Citizen, as the old court house, built in 1840. Court files, including an old photograph, confirmed his identification.

HOGE MEETING WED.

The general quarterly meeting of the Women's Society of Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church will be held Wednesday evening, at 7:30 in the church.

Hilltoppers Enter Birds In Canary, Cage-Bird Show

At least five Hilltop residents, members of the Columbus Canary Breeders Club, will enter birds in the 11th canary and cage-bird exhibit to be held at the Deshler-Wallick Hotel, Dec. 2, 3, and 4.

Hilltop members of the association are Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Worral, 98 N. Westmoor-av; Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Taylor, 248 S. Richardson-av; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vail, 278 Whitethorne-av; Richard Williard, 2055 Sullivant-av; and Mrs. George Peters, 42 N. Huron-av.

Prizes will be awarded to the best birds in each of 21 sections of the display in addition to numerous added awards. Approximately 700 birds are expected to be entered in the show.

Worrel, the show manager, will be one of the judges. Other judges are Walter Piechel, Ludlow, Ky., and Robert Centofanti, Detroit.

Worrel will appear on television over Station WTVN at 2:30 Thursday and Friday with some of the birds that are entered in the exhibit.

Storm Disrupts Electric Service

Damage was done to at least three locations on the Hilltop by lightning Monday night and electric service was disrupted as heavy rains and an electrical storm swept the city.

Damage was caused when lightning struck homes or light poles at 360 Wrexham-av, 300 N. Hague-av, and at the rear of 112 Stevens-av.

Dry and milder weather was predicted, following the spring-like storm.

"BOOTS", A HILLTOP CAT, risked several of his nine lives by entering the Walter Ewing home, 3322 Wicklow-rd, Santa Claus style, down the chimney.

"Boots" made his entry by climbing a rose trellis outside the house and dropping down a 30-foot flue into the recreation room fireplace. Had he chosen one of the other five flues in the Ewing chimney, the results might have been disastrous, with a landing in the gas furnace, the living room fire, or an attic "dead end" pipe.

As it was though, the story had a happy ending. The Ewings cleaned the soot from the cat's eyes with an eye dropper and brushed his long fur. And as a reward for his efforts, "Boots" has been adopted into the Ewing family.

Tarbutton Talks On 'Welfare State' On Radio Forum

George T. Tarbutton, 180 S. Brinker-av, first assistant prosecuting attorney for Franklin Co., appeared on the University Forum broadcast over station WOSU Sunday, Nov. 27, together with Prof. Gordon Hayes of Ohio State University, and John W. King Jr., Columbus attorney. The panel discussion was concerned with "Welfare State." Tarbutton represented the views of the ordinary citizen. Prof. Hayes took the academic point of view and was not much concerned with the problems of administration and enforcement of various proposed measures while Mr. King took the opposition view.

Tarbutton called for an increase in Social Security benefits together with an increase in coverage in line with the bill now in Congress and stated, on the proposed health insurance, that he favors a type of benefit that would provide coverage for families stricken with catastrophic type of illness such as polio where treatments are extremely expensive and long continued to such an extent that they would exhaust ordinary family resources.

Tarbutton also discussed the "Brannan Plan" and favors the release of perishable commodities on the open consumer market even though parity payments are continued to farmers on these same commodities. Tarbutton cited statistics to show that the government now has 100,000,000 pounds of butter in warehouses that, if released, would substantially reduce the price of butter at the local grocery store. The "Brannan Plan" applies only to perishable commodities and Tarbutton also stated that the costs of storage on perishable commodities soon exceeds their value and is an additional burden that the government would not have to pay.

Robert Morris Group Elects Mrs. Swartz President At Meeting

Mrs. John Swartz, 106 S Brinker-av, was elected president of Robert Morris Chapter at an election held Nov. 20. Mrs. John Wolfe was chosen for the office of vice president, and Mrs. Stanley became secretary-treasurer of the group.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hale, 42 S. Central-av, assisted by Mrs. Fred Clark, Mrs. Ruf Fishbaugh, and Mrs. Marie Payton, entertained the past matrons and patrons circle of Robert Morris Chapter with a turkey dinner at 6 p. m.

Members attending were Fred Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cline, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Draper, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Colburn, Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Drye, Mrs. John Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hulls, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Johnson, Mrs. John Jones, Leo Peoples, Mrs. Charles Price, Mr. and Mrs. John Swartz, Mr. and Mrs. Wylie Shroyer, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Turner, Mr. and Mrs. James Ware, Mr. and Mrs Herman Woerner and Mrs. John Wolfe.

Miss Welsh Weds Mr. Butts Thanksgiving

Mrs. DeWayne Butts

Vases filled with large white chrysanthemums and Oregon fern were used to decorate the altar for the Thanksgiving morning ceremony at the Riverside Methodist Church, uinting Miss Jeannie Welsh and Mr. De Wayne Butts. Rev. Sidney Everson officiated at the double ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence R. Welsh, 268 Powhatan-av. Mr. Butts is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Butts, 3329 Riverside-dr.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ice blue slipper satin, with a high round neckline with peter pan collar. Tiny self-covered buttons extended down the front of the basque waist and ice blue nylon lace extended from the shoulders to the quilted midriff. The nylon lace also trimmed the cuffs of the leg-of-mutton sleeves, the ice blue satin cloche, trimmed in blue nylon lace, held the bride's finger-tip veil of illusion. She carried a white Bible, topped with chrysanthemums and long white satin streamers.

Miss Kathleen Trapp, maid of honor, the bride's only attendant, wore a gold slipped satin gown with a deep neckline, double bertha collar, and basque bodice with a gold satin head dress. She carried a bouquet of wine red chrysanthemums.

Dick Welsh, brother of the bride, was the best man for Mr. Butts.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast at the Beechwold was served to the bridal party and immediate family of the bride and bridegroom.

When the couple left for Florida and Cuba immediately following the breakfast, the new Mrs. Butts changed to a rich brown wool suite, with chartreuse blouse and brown accessories, wearing her bridal corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Grove City High School and attended Ohio State University, where she became affiliated with Delta Zeta sorority.

Mr. Butts graduated from Hilliards High School and also attended Ohio State University and was affiliated with Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

After Dec. 10, the couple will be home at 1773 King-av.

Congratulations are in order for Mrs. N. B. (Corinne) Gilliland, daughter of Mrs. John Miller, 104 N. Hague-av. Now living in Sport Hill Parkway, Easton, Conn., Mrs. Gilliland won first prize in a New York Herald Tribune snapshot contest for a picture of a "smiling six-year-old child" from Manhattan. Her prize is a three-day, all expense trip to Bermuda with accommodations at Harmony Hall in Bermuda.

• • •

Mrs. Howard Yates, from Townley, N. J., was the weekend guest of Ruth Yates, 114 N. Harris-av.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Morrison, 668 Racine-av, had lots of people in for Thanksgiving dinner. Those there to enjoy the turkey were their daughter, son-in-law and grandson, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hull, and "Skippy" Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. John Reynolds and daughter, Juanita, and Joe Woods.

• • •

And guests of Dr. and Mrs. G. B. Nessley, 394 S. Central-av, on Thanksgiving Day were Olive Nessley and Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Stouder, Reynoldsburg.

• • •

Richard K. Cave, who's a student at Wooster College, spent the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cave, 603 Crescent-rd.

• • •

Mr and Mrs. Herman Lichterman visited Mrs. Lichterman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hulls, 3272 Wicklow-rd, during Thanksgiving week-end. While here they also acted as best man and matron of honor, respectively, for her brother, Charles A. Hulls, who was married Nov. 26.

• • •

Mrs. Edgar Planck sends in a note of thanks to all the ladies of Kiwanikwe who furnished items for the Thanksgiving basket that organization filled for a needy family.

• • •

Congratulations again. This time to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mitchell, 86 S. Richardson-av, who celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary Nov. 25. Their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mitchell, 385 Binns-blvd, gave a party for them Nov. 27.

Others of the family who were present were Mr. and Mrs. James Mitchell and family, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Masters, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Murnane and family.

Glenwood WSCS To Meet Thursday

Glenwood Methodist WSCS will hold its December meeting Thursday, Dec. 1, in the church parlor. The morning session begins at 10 o'clock and Mrs. C. E. Hill will review chapters 9 and 10 of the book "Japan Begins Again."

Mrs. J. G. Bowser and Mrs. John P. Jones will give short talks. A solo will be sung by Mrs. Paul Karn. Luncheon will be served at noon by Circle 5, Mrs. Dale Vance, chairman. The afternoon program will begin at 12:45 and will consist of carol singing. A group of children from Highland Avenue School will be present to sing some Christmas carols. The business meeting will follow with Mrs. P. C. Edwards presiding.

Moose Ladies Sponsor Christmas Parties

Several Christmas parties are being sponsored by the Women of the Moose. Children's Hospital, Hannah Neil Mission and the Juvenile Center will be among those entertained. The program will include the singing of Christmas carols, refreshments, and gifts for the children.

Mrs. Grace Welker, child care chairman, Mrs. Frances LaFollette, homemaking chairman, and Mrs. Lena Robertson, social service chairman, are in charge of the program.

The Moose women are also planning presentation of books to the Columbus Public Library, Chillicothe Veterans' Hospital, and the Mooseheart Children's Home.

JOB'S DAUGHTERS NEWS NOTES

By Patti Holycross

With Thanksgiving all over, we can all rest for a short while but we have lots of work to do. Our last meeting in this term will be Thursday, Dec. 8. Then the next night will be the semi-annual installation of officers.

I imagine a lot of you are wondering who got what, when and why, so I'll tell you right now. Those elected and appointed are: honored queen, Patti Holycross; senior princess, Nancy Hardy; junior princess, Janet Roller; guide, Shirley Shroyer; marshall, Geneva Emrich; chaplain, Jean Lockwood; first messenger, Marilyn Davis; second messenger, Ann Wilson; third messenger, Margie Compton; fourth messenger, Jane Jones; fifth messenger, Shane Swartz; musician, Audrey Eddy; librarian, Barbara Loechler; recorder, Janet Hill; treasurer, Phyllis Phillips; senior custodian, Linda Hall; junior custodian, Carol Echols; inner guard, Suzanne Lehman, and outer guard, Marilyn Davis.

And there you have the new line up for the next six months. At this time Julia Billingsley, our present honored queen, and her family would like to thank everyone who helped anything to do to make her term a successful one.

I understand that Suzanne Lehman is recovering from the chicken pox.

Jean Meservey, one of our past honored queens, reports that she likes her new job in Washington and we'll expect to see her home about Christmas time.

Thats all the news for now and I'll be seeing you, you, you and especially you Dec. 8.

Church Groups Plan Dinner, Party On Nov. 29, 30, Dec. 1

The annual congregational dinner of Hilltop Lutheran Church will be held Tuesday and Wednesday nights, Nov. 29 and 30, in the church. It is being held two nights to accommodate all of the congregation.

The dinner will be served by the Tena Wagner and Wenrich Missionary Societies.

The annual Christmas party of the Mothers' Club of Hilltop Lutheran Church will be held at 12:45 p. m. Thursday, Dec. 1, in the church parlors with a luncheon. Christmas carols will be sung and gifts exchanged.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Merl McMillen, Mrs. Homer Heil, Mrs. Paul Haught and Mrs. Edward Rielly.

Small Sandwiches, Big Flavor

Cheese spread and almond sandwiches can be cut into dainty finger sandwiches and still keep their man-sized flavor. That's because the cheese spread itself, one of a large family of cheese spreads which come in attractive five-ounce glasses, has a satisfyingly sharp flavor. Almonds and chopped sweet pickles provide interesting texture. Make this spread for both hearty and dainty sandwiches. Collect the glasses for cheerful breakfast service.

Cheese Spread and Almond Sandwiches

- 5-oz. glass sharp cheese spread
- ¼ cup chopped blanched almonds
- ¼ cup chopped sweet pickles
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- 12 slices bread, crusts trimmed

Blend the cheese spread, almonds, pickles and mayonnaise. For each sandwich, spread a generous portion of this mixture between two slices of the bread. Cut each sandwich into three strips and arrange on a chop plate.

Shop Early But - - -

Thanksgiving is over and preparations for Christmas are well underway, preparations that started as early as Hallowe'en.

Newspapers, as advertising media, gain in revenue during the ever-lengthening holiday season, as do other businesses for which the holiday preparations provide a "harvest season."

Naturally we find no fault with the practice of spreading the shopping rush by urging early shopping for gifts. There is nothing wrong with urging people to mail early, and beginning in the middle of November to call attention to the material observance of the Christmas Season.

But we should not allow these preparations to obscure the basic religious significance of Christmas. And certainly the spiritual preparations for Chirstmas should be given as much time as the material preparations.

Many Christians prepare for Christmas with observances during the church season of Advent, which begins four weeks before Christmas.

We are pleased to note that, again this year, the reading program between Thanksgiving and Christmas, American Bible Society is pursuing its World Wide Bible offering suggested daily Bible passages for that period under the slogan, "The Book To Live By."

We urge all members of the community to participate in the religious preparation of their church for Christmas.

It is well to "shop and mail early," but the true meaning of Christmas should not be forgotten in the seasonal rush.

Roving Photographer

By Bill Gibbon

Beginning with this issue, the Record brings you another new feature—the Roving Photographer. Each week our photographer will roam the community and ask the opinions of Hilltoppers on interesting questions. He will take their pictures and print them in the column with the replies. Your suggestions on questions to ask, will be appreciated. This week the photographer asked: "What do you think about the increase of the bus fare?", and "Have you noticed any difference in the service—good or bad?" Here are the answers:

Mrs. C. D. Johnson, 27 S. Oakley-av, housewife, says: "I guess it is all right to raise the fare, because we understand it will bring down our electric rates. I've noticed little change in service. However, it did take a little longer the first morning."

James Doyle, 431 S. Richardson-av, lineman at Timken's, states: "Doesn't bother me much. There is no difference in service, and I ride the buses every day."

Mrs. George Terapak, 401 S. Warren-av, housewife, remarks: "Too bad people have to pay more money. I've noticed no change in the service."

Keith Smith, 60 N. Huron-av, student at Franklin University and ambulance driver at Spears Funeral Home, says: "The raise cuts into my budget too much. By working my way through college, I can't afford it. There has been no difference in the bus service."

Mrs. Ruth Grever, 3482 Sullivant-av, housewife, thinks: "The electric light rate should be decreased. I don't ride the buses too much, so the fare raise doesn't affect me so much. I haven't discovered a change in service. I still have to wait for the bus."

Dollars and Sense

BY ROBERT B. STEARNS

The average Columbus family has had the LOWEST combined residential electric and public transportation expense of any of the eight largest cities in Ohio, The Record's own study reveals.

The greatest possible prominence has been given the five cent fare and the $4.20, plus 6.40 per cent surcharge, 100 kwh residential light and power rate; but never at the same time.

If we are to present our current troubles in true perspective, its is both reasonable and necessary that the two be considered together: especially when the same source supplied both services, with the profit of one making possible the admitted loss of the other.

The American Transit Association has established 60 rides as the average for each family per month. This calculation appears reasonable; particularly to this individual, whose family of three will account for at least 200 trips each month.

For simplification, it is assumed in the following table prepared by the Record that each trip involves use of a transfer; three cities charge 1 cent each, with none at all obtainable in Canton.

	60 Transit	100 kwh	Total
Col.	$3.00	$4.47	$ 7.47
Toledo	6.00	3.50	9.50
Cincinnati	7.50	3.00	10.50
Cleve.	8.10	3.35	11.45
Dayton	4.88	3.69	8.57
Akron	5.00	3.05	8.05
Canton	7.50	3.82	11.32
Y'st'n	6.00	3.06	9.06

Source: Public Utility Commission of Ohio. American Transit Association.

If the company offered to continue the same old deal on the basis of a 10 per cent electric reduction and 7 for 50 cents fare, Columbus would have combined expenses $8.30 well below every one of the above but Akron. By the same calculation, a 6 for 50 cent fare would involve $9.02 as the combined total expense.

The Chicago Transit Authority, operating under law which, in effect, will not permit it to operate at a loss, raised fares to 15 cents on surface lines with a two cent transfer on the elevated. Regular 'el' fare was raised to 17 cents at the same time, just a month or so ago.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

"GOOD morning, Mr. Coomes," Miss Searle responded. "I came to thank you for the apples. It's quite like coals to Newcastle—on three sides of me all the apples are mine!"

"I know it doesn't mean anything—that little episode was a private scene between Kit and me. You were just the unfortunate bystander who became involved."

"Oh, I was chastised for losing my temper," she said with her little well-bred laugh at the end of the sentence that Marvell found extremely annoying.

"And you mustn't think, Mr. Coomes, that I have been bothered by Kit this summer. She is a charming, thoughtful companion and it has meant a great deal to me to have her visit me."

"She's off in the woods just now," he said, hoping she wouldn't burst out of the kitchen door the next moment to give the lie to that. "And I can speak for her when I say how much we appreciate . . ." what was he getting himself in for?

"I should like so much to have you both for luncheon next Sunday," she went on serenely, "Kit told me her mother's name and you can imagine how surprised I was to know we had met. She came to see us in Dedham." She stopped because he was looking at her so hard. He was thinking how he'd like to shake her, shake her hard, till that bird fell off her hat, all the while telling her flatly, to keep away, with her small talk, and her hypocritical hope that he would be the gentleman because he had married a Barlow and bred one.

"Boston is small," she went on. "Yes," he said, "that's why I was never there much. I'm afraid, though, that we shan't be free, Kit and I. She'll be going the rounds with me when I'm out making new contacts."

"Oh? Another day, then. Are you going to sell—something?"

The idea had come to him on the spur of the moment. Now he began to enjoy it.

"I'll tell you." He took her arm and led her around the house. "You know, I want down this morning to see about a furnace. Brewster is selling it, but his wife is buying the new one out of her egg money or some such, by mail order. When she saw me making plans to remove the furnace single handed, so to speak, she came down on the price of the old one if I would install the new one. Then Brewster came in. He was pretty sore that his wife had driven a bargain without him, and in my favor at that, until he heard about the deal. He calculated one thing and another and said: 'Engineer, eh? Did you build the Brooklyn Bridge?'

"'Lord, no,' I said. 'I sold that. My big job was heating and ventilating the Chicago Stock Yards.'"

Miss Searle smiled faintly.

"Well, the upshot of it was that Brewster suggested that he start me out in business. 'You're just what we need here,' he told me. 'We've had no one here for well trouble or fixing furnaces for a year or so. Have to send all the way to Worcester now. If it's an emergency, there's just Henry Thompson who don't know nothing.

"You mean you are going to be a plumber?"

"Yes siree. Now in a big house like yours . . ."

"Were you an engineer, Mr. Coomes?"

"Why, sure, for years I was the mainstay of Barlow and Abbot, ever hear of them?"

She wrinkled her forehead and then said in some surprise, "You mean Proctor Barlow . . . ?"

"A bad engineer. He inherited the business, with no solid training as a plumber behind him. That doesn't make for much gumption. No easy inheritance does."

She flushed as if he had slapped her. Well, that scotches her hopes for our social intercourse, he thought. She turned away, murmuring some perfunctory phrase of good will for his plans. He wanted to cry out to her, "It's only that nothing must come between Kit and me and the kind of life I've planned—we've got to stand on our own and we've got to be free!" But that would mean telling everything, even the gnawing resentment he felt because he had been driven out of his hard-won place, driven here to the most piddling life he had ever known.

When she had ridden around the bend of the lane, he returned to his chopping. It was no use, he would never get out. So much work that was not his kind to be done—a bit of wood here, a field there, the shed half converted. And none of it good enough. He would never get through even with help. He was always at his best in a beginning, and that was months behind him. He hated the restraint of persistence, of development. He wanted perfection immediately. He would have given everything—anything—for a drink. He started for the house. He had not told the truth to Miss Searle. The fact was that Brewster had only asked for help with a furnace. Well, why not become this plumber fellow he'd boasted so much about? She's pushed me into it. And he went on the run to call Brewster.

Soon, they were well known throughout the small radius of Colcord and neighboring towns—Coomes and his daughter in their shiny, squeaky car.

He drove down to the store two or three times a week, always taking Kit and always staying a half hour or so after his purchases were stored away, to talk with the other customers. He was at home there, an easy talker, with quick dramatic gestures. He soon had more than a speaking acquaintance with the old families—the Coates, Ellsworth's, Greenes, Haskells, Turners—names that were well marked among the dead on the then headstones in the cemetery as well as on the tin mail boxes of the living. He made it known he was an engineer returning to his old work of plumbing, the trade that had given him his start, and that he could add architecture and carpentry on a small scale to his contracts. At the auctions, he always managed to make a new face remember him, and he placed an ad in The Clarion. The notice, neatly spaced and blocked off with heavy black lines, read: "M. Coomes, Contractor and Plumber. Old Colcord Road. Tel: Colcord 190."

Marvell's first job was for the Stanewesks, who lived on the rim of the town. The job was quite a plum—the installation of a bathroom, and in his enthusiasm for his first contract, he threw in more than it called for—not only the pipes and fittings and labor, but a few minor architectural suggestions. He sat on a high stool in front of the drafting table in his workshop and worked out the blueprint and estimates in the evening. He got his supplies through Brewster and he knew he was paying a little more than he ought, but he scratched it off a mythical expense account. Even with the extras he contributed, the size of the estimate worried him, but Stanewski, a dark, wiry Polack, agreed readily and paid half cash in advance.

On his way over the first morning, he had to stop by at the store to pick up the helper Brewster had found for him. He was a thin tall boy not more than sixteen. He looked both worried and excited as he stood waiting, in stiff new overalls, clutching a Boston bag.

"I-i-i-m Henry!" he got out wildly.

"Good enough. Come right along." He eyed the bag. "What's that? Your lunch?"

"N-n-no. Tools."

Marvell didn't laugh as he put out his hand to take the bag, but its weight almost overbalanced him. "You come prepared all right. No old saws about the plumbing trade for you!" Henry did not reply. His painful stammer and the terrible importance of his first mission kept him as shut as a clam. Marvell went on talking amiably, remembering the reassurance of a human voice the time he had started out on his first job down in Castine. It had been a shimmery summer morning like this one with more salt in the blue air and he had carried a lunch, put up by his mother, about as heavy as Henry's tool kit. All he had done that first morning was to hold a lantern at a back breaking angle—and handed round his lunch to the master plumber and a couple of kids who had come to watch. Now he was that boy again, as well as Henry, as well as an experienced jack-of-all-trades and highly successful father.

"I have intimations of immortality," he told Henry, who didn't relax for a moment. He kept his eyes hard on the road and pressed his bony knees harder around the bag.

There was the house, substantial and weather beaten, with several unpainted ells and sheds tacked on to it crazy fashion. There was the dusty road running in front of it and the sloping apple orchards wailing it in to a hot hollow. As he idled over tying up the horse, Marvell wondered, as he always did when he got on these back roads, why people were so careless in choosing a place to build.

Henry was breathing heavily in a fever of impatience to begin work, so Marvell nodded at him in a conspirator's fashion, and knocked loudly on the door.

It was only a moment before it was opened, and Mrs. Stanewski peered out. Marvell stepped back in surprise. The woman before him, half hidden by the door and half clad in a loose sort of wrapper was the most magnificent thing he had ever set eyes on. She was big and white, her immense blue eyes rather vacant of expression. But nothing could mar the perfection of her neck and arms and the long red-gold hair that hung around her face. She blazed in that doorway till Marvell felt uncomfortably hot. "You're the plumber, Coomes?" Her nasal voice made him wince. He made some answer while he concentrated on the white of her neck and felt a sharp desire to bite it.

"Well, come on in and see what the damage'll be." They went through a musty, disorderly room into a damp hallway and climbed a flight of steep stairs where great orange stains on the wall indicated the leaks of last spring's thawing. They passed through a bedroom, the bed unmade and rumpled. She stepped high over a slop pail in the middle of the floor, and Marvell automatically did likewise in a kind of follow-my-leader fashion. "It's to be here," she indicated a passageway that ran unevenly down to one of the ells. "I'm going to have a baby, see," she continued in her twang, "and this time I'm going to have everything extra."

So part of that rich, ripe whiteness of her was pregnancy. Marvell looked around for other children, but there were none in sight.

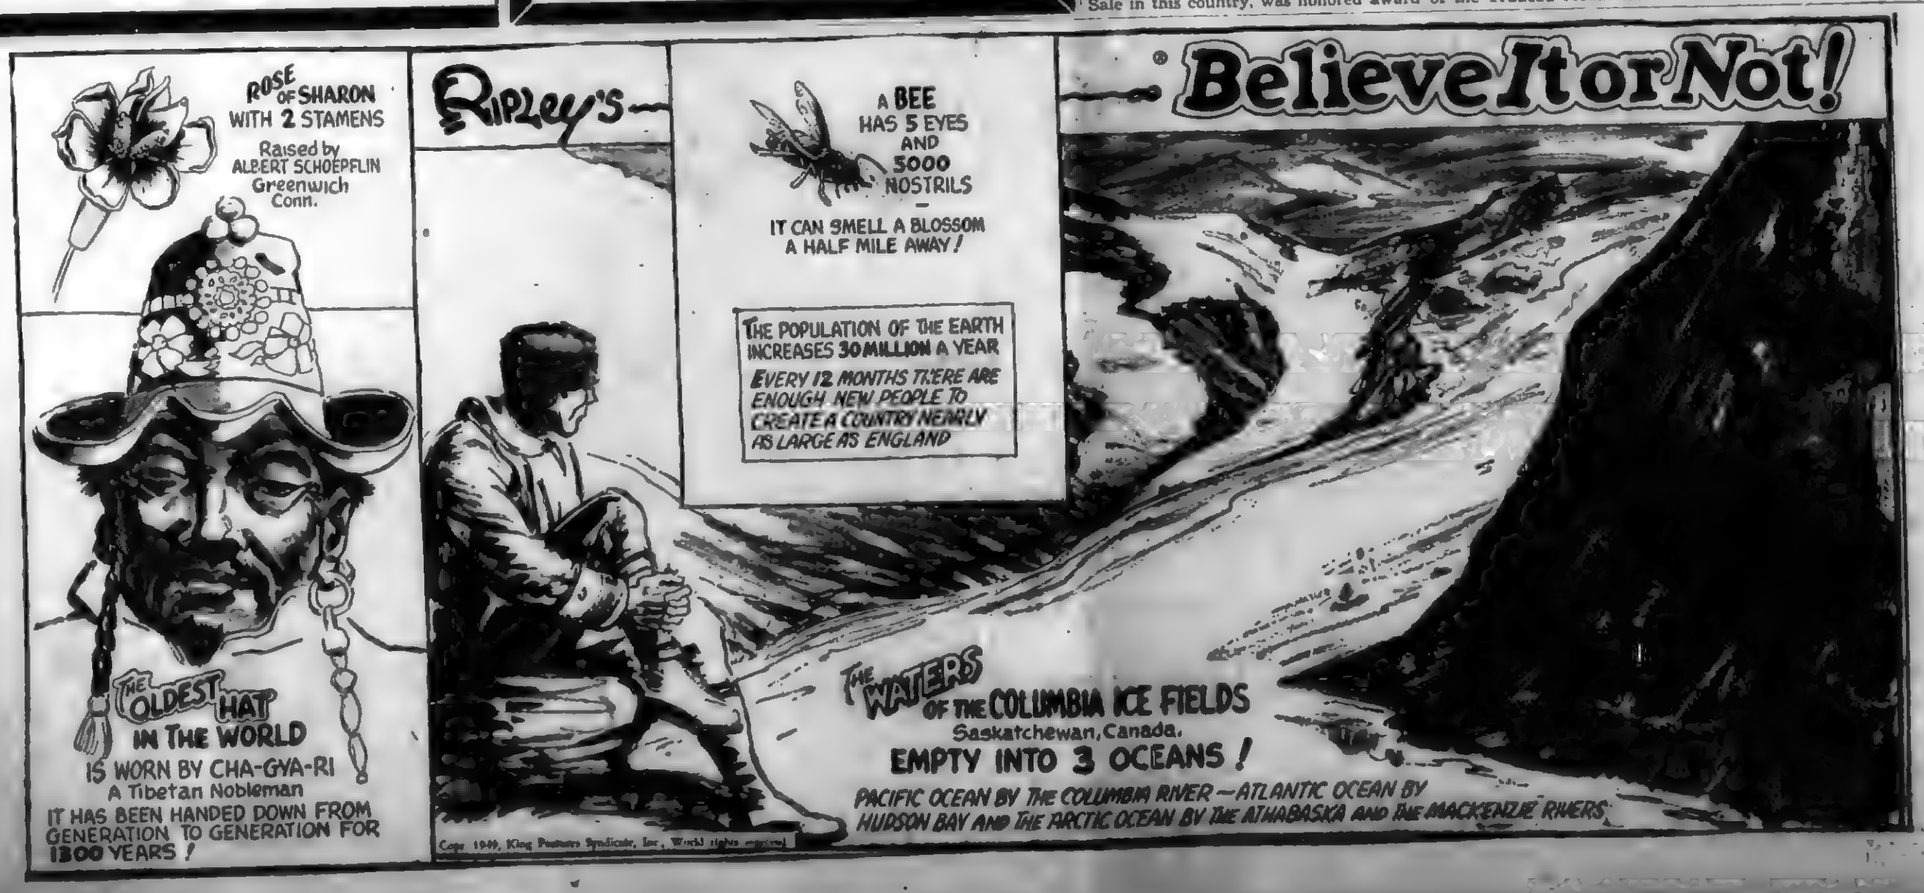
Looking Ahead with

Jean Worrel



"Never put off till tomorrow what you can do today" is a fine old proverb, but for too many of us it runs: "Never do today what you can put off till tomorrow." We in the Life Insurance business run into this "put it off" attitude only too often. I am not speaking of those infrequent cases where a man postpones signing a life insurance contract for a day and is killed, thus leaving his family penniless instead of comfortably off as he intended. I am thinking more of the man who believes in insurance and intends to purchase it—but always tomorrow, never today. This is an average man, and he doesn't die suddenly—but let us see what he is losing.

The longer he puts it off the more expensive his insurance will be, for insurance purchased at an older age costs much more than that bought at an early age. Also, he runs the risk of becoming completely uninsurable—in which case he could not buy protection at any price. Then again, both he and his family are becoming accustomed to spending money which should be invested in future security. Should he finally get around to buying insurance he may find it necessary to give up what his family then regards as essentials.

Have YOU been risking your loved ones' happiness by giving them luxuries now, in exchange for dire need should you die? Or have you made sure that they will have a reasonable standard of living always?

Never put off till tomorrow what you can do today. Ensure the security of your family now. Remember, it IS important. It MAY BE vital.

Mrs. Matilda Dennif Holt, 67, of 2759 Eakin-rd, died Friday in her home. A native of Perry Co., she had lived here 50 years.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. W. S. Essex and Mrs. S. A. Luther, both of Columbus; three sons, James D. and Nathaniel Holt, both of Columbus, and Herman G. Holt of Cincinnati, and a sister, Mrs. Jane Golding, also of Columbus.

Funeral services were at 2 p. m. Monday in the Glenwood Methodist Church with the Rev J. B. Shellhaas officiating. Burial was in Green Lawn cemetery.

Mrs. Porter Opens Nurses Registry

A nurses professional registry has been opened on the Hilltop by Mrs. Fernie Porter at her home, 57 S. Eureka-av.

A graduate nurse, Mrs. Porter had been called on many times to hunt nurses for persons who were ill. Seeing the need for a nurses registry, she now has on file graduate, practical, and infant nurses, available at any time of the day or night.

Mrs. Porter has lived on the Hilltop eight years. Her husband, Earl, is a conductor on the New York Central railroad. The Porters have three children. Mrs. Porter is a PTA board member and an active member of the Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church.

City League Battle Seen As Close Race; Central, Defending Champs, Inexperienced

By Dave Miller

All but one of the seven city League Basketball teams will have played their opening game for the 1949-50 season by a week from this coming Friday evening.

Central opened their season last Friday night, and South begins their campaign this evening by encountering Mifflin on the home floor. West, East, Linden McKinley and North all begin on Dec 2, while Aquinas' Terriers await until Dec. 13 to begin their season by traveling to Coshocton.

Central's Pirates are the defending champions, both of the latter cage season, and of the 1949 Central Ohio District Basketball Tournament. The Pirates won all but one game, that a 67-55 verdict to South in the City League.

Following is a summary of the City League schools, and what their coaches have to work with:

Central

The Pirates are expected to have a good year, whether they have experienced men or not. The Buc coach, Shadel Saunders, always produces top-flight basketball teams, and this year is no exception. The Riversiders have a total of six lettermen. They include Johnny Wolfe, John Towler, John Shook, Bill Hairston, Bob Conrad and Marvin Hairston, in addition to the usual top grade material Saunders gets from his reserves of last year, and surrounding junior highs.

East

The Tigers' coach, Bucky Walters, who in his first time as varsity cage coach, last year guided the E. Broad-st school to a runner-up spot in the City League, and has in addition to some returning letterman, a reserve team up from last season who won the reserve league title in the last game of the season from West's seconds.

Walters has two returning lettermen from which to build his team for the present season. They were both regulars last year. They are Center Johnny Johnson and Guard Teddy Hughes, who both played stellar roles throughout last season.

North

Carol Woodruf, cage coach at North, said last week that he has the experience, but it's the heighth that he's now worrying about. Woodruf has six returning monogram men, but only two stand over six feet tall and so he's hoping to dig into his reserves to try to get that needed heighth that is very necessary in the winter sport. Lettermen include Forwards Bob Blachard and Zack Willson; Center Charlie Kepp; and Guards Thommy Thomas, Dave Creamer, and Joe Bourne. Woodruf lost another last season regular, Jimmy Widdoes, through a transfer to Athens, Ohio, where his father Carroll C. Widdoes moved to coach Ohio University.

North also draws from junior highs, Indianola and Crestview. The Polar Bears will begin their cage season Dec. 2 playing host to Lancaster.

South

Bulldog coach, Pug Hood, can boast that he has the biggest team in the City Loop. Paul Ebert, South's sensational stringbean center-forward, will captain the Pups for the first 14 games before he gets his diploma at midterm—a loss which may well cost Hood and his boys the 1949-50 city championship. Hood's starting five constitutes the tallest group in the seven team circuit. Ebert is 6 ft. 5, John DeLong is 6-4; Dave Jones stands 6-2, and Dave O'Connor and Bob Strawster are 6 ft. even.

Hood isn't overly confident, however, with Ebert leaving, O'Connor being a possible mid-year loss too, and DeLong being a question mark because of a trick knee. A lot of attention will be focused on Jack Keller, the young sensation who just came over from Roosevelt Junior High, after leading the Junior High League in scoring last season, Clyde Trumbull, another graduation loss in January, Don Oelgetz, Bob Holderle, Dick Wagner, Bob Nolan and Dick Ruh will probably round out the varsity with Bob Saikus, Dick Wagner, Dwight Stutler, Newt Thomas as an Carl DeBolt not entirely out of the picture. The Pups, the only Columbus team to defeat Central last season, open their coming season by playing host to Mifflin tonight, and Springfield Dec. 2.

West

Coach George Williams isn't as optimistic as the majority of the City League coaches. The only time anybody knows when the Cowboy starting lineup will be is say, maybe five minutes before game time, while other coaches are predicting their lineups, sometimes before the practices have begun. However, Williams' method seems the best. When the ballplayers come to practice they know they have a chance of proving themselves just as well as the other guy, and that way play best.

Williams has four returning lettermen ready for action this year, in addition to a runner-up reserve team of last season. Only one of the lettermen graduate at mid-year, he being Captain Jim Rudolph. Other returners include Forwards Phil Young and LeRoy Hood and Guard Bill Thrush.

Others sure to see action are Bob Epps, Jack Winnestaffer, Dave Caton, Paul Ellingsworth, George Crissinger and Jerry Johnson. At the moment, Ellingsworth, who was leading scorer on the reserve team last year, is being primed for Rudolph's post after mid-year. The Cowboy cagers will inaugurate their coming season at Newark Dec. 2.

Linden

Coach Johnny Rawn is looking forward to a bright campaign to come, although he lost most of his star performers through last June's graduation. The peppery little Panther coach has only two lettermen from which to build his coming cage squadron. The returning monogram-men include Paul Burns and Bob Weber. However, Rawn has a lot of material coming up from a third place reserve team including Harold Hines, Dick Birkhead, Bill Woodring, Bob Coldren, Bill Vannett, Jack Burns, Dick Lukie and Dick Himler. Also coming up from the junior high team is Bob Allen, Jim Sengel, Bob Crawford, Louie Troutman, Dick Safreed and Bob Potts. The Panthers open their 1949-50 season Dec. 2 at Grandview.

Aquinas

The Terriers won't begin their season until Dec. 13 when they visit Coshocton. The reason for the late beginning is the fact that most of the Aquinas cagers play football, and also that their coach, Jack McAndrews is both football and basketball mentor, and because the Terrier footballers did not end their season until a week ago, basketball is just now beginning to start at the Mt Vernon Avenue School. McAndrews however, will be greeting a total of six returning lettermen at the opening cage session. They include Forwards Bob Dolan and Jerry Miller; Center John Masdea, and Guards Jack Schmidt, Dick Erb and Dick Ort. Boys coming up from last season's reserve team include [illegible] Reckling, Jim Mangan, Dick Weakley, Al Pierano, Bernie Melichorre, Dick Fogo, Dick Swepston and Jim Salle.

Singing Preacher At Burgess E. U. B.

Rev. Russell E. Ford, associate pastor of the Cadle Tabernacle, will appear at the Burgess-av E. U. B. Church Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at 7:30.

An accomplished artist, Rev. Ford paints as he sings and preaches.

Nearly 100 West Students Graduate In January Class

By MYRON T. SEIFERT

Nearly 100 seniors, who hope to graduate in January, are making plans to complete their 12 years of schooling.

Most important hurdle, of course, is the scholastic requirement of 16 3/4 units which must be met by members of the class before commencement, Class Advisor A. E. Buchanan said today.

For the next several weeks committees will be hard at work making final preparations for activities.

Two dates of interest to the January class of 1950 are the traditional Senior Prom, Jan. 12, and the banquet, Jan. 18. Commencement date has not as yet been decided.

Names that loom large in 12 A activities and who are blueprinting final plans of the seniors include the following: Jim Conley, chairman; Joe Hutt, asst. chairman; Dick Wolfendale, Willy Evans, Lewis Lowry, Walter Smith, Charles Stump, Garth, Truppe, Bob Thatcher, Margaret Saint, Ann Manus, Ann Grabill, Jean Huston, Shirley Saylor, Sally Rapstock, Donna Carter, Joan Hicks, Joan Jackson, Marilyn Maile, and Doris Mann, refreshment committee.

Entertainment Committee: Bob Wood, chairman; Jim Miller, asst. chairman; Dave Camp, Bill McCrady, Bill Gardner, Chuck Klein, Bill Ruble, Bill Shelton, Joyce Wirth, Nancy Lu Sheppard, Phyllis Plank, Shirley Cline, Donna Cramer, Joyce Ours, Dawn Dennison, Louise Bitzer, Charlotte Cranston, Ada George, Marilyn Miller and Ida Mielke.

Charge Cruelty To Dog

A Goodale-st woman was charged with cruelty by police last week in the starvation death of a pet dog. Police had sought the owner of the dog since the case was called to their attention last Monday. License of the automobile in which the dog was found, was issued to a non-existant Midland-av address, and the dog license was sold to a person giving a Central-av address.

Our First Christmas Card

Our first Christmas card of the season has arrived. And from far-away Japan—from Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Stengel in Nagoya, Japan. Writes Mrs. Stengel:

"I've been in Japan since April and would like to extend to The Hilltop Record and all my Hilltop friends a very Merry Christmas and Happy New Year. I am the former Frances Murray of 800 S. Terrace-av. My folks still live at that address. I graduated from West High.

"I've seen many interesting things over here, all of which make me very happy that I'm from the good old U. S. A. My husband is a veterinarian working for the U. S. Government in the rehabilitation of Japan. He is now with the public health department of the Tokai-Hokuriku Civil Affairs Region at Nagoya. He graduated from Ohio State University in 1948. We have a 21-month-old son, Tommy, who made the trip over with me."

The Buckeyes:

Under the above title a Detroit newspaper had this to say following the Ohio State-Michigan game:

Ohio State rooters gave some of our hotels quite a going over after the Michigan game.

They threw tables full of dishes down stairways. They broke 300 electric light bulbs against walls and floors. They pried insignia off elevator doors, broke the glass on pictures and heaved various loose items out of hotel windows until the cops had to be called to halt the fray.

And the celebrants weren't teen-agers, either.

Adrian Fuller, writing from Detroit, observed that "the rooters were not only smelling the roses, they were seeing everything through rose tinted spectacles or something."

Man Injured By Fork Lift

Dick Howard, 23, 346 Guernsey-av, was injured Monday at the Columbus General Depot, where he works as a storekeeper, when the fork lift he was operating overturned. He is in Grant Hospital.

The lift struck him, breaking his left arm and crushing the elbow of his right arm. No internal injuries were incurred, according to his mother, Mrs. Elmer Howard, Sr.

Mrs. C. A. Norris Cancelled Her Ad; This Is Why

A lot of folks are cancelling Record want ads these days. Mrs. C. A. Norris, 176 N. Westmoor-av, was one of them. She offered some girls' clothing for sale and scheduled the ad for two editions.

She "killed" the second insertion. Why? Simply because she sold the clothing the next morning to one of six callers.

The Record want ad habit is a good one to acquire; it's convenient - economical--and profitable. Why put it off? Step to the phone and place your ad now. Dial RA 1125.

J. Harold Oney New Master Of West Gate Lodge

J. Harold Oney

The announcement of the election of J. Harold Oney, 37 Binns-blvd, as Worshipful Master of the West Gate Lodge of Masons was made this week. Oney succeeds George Levisay.

Other officers elected were: Russell Friend, senior warden; Harry Fell, junior warden; Warren Hilbert, treasurer; Kenneth Sharadin, secretary; Harry Weimer, senior deacon; Howard Hartranft, junior deacon; William Pascoe, tyler; and George Levisay, trustee for a three-year term.

Oney has appointed W. W. Kendall, senior steward; Floyd Kaltenbach, junior steward; and Clyde Cunningham, chaplain.

The West Gate Hi-12 Craftman's Club presented Oney with a gavel and pledged the club's support to the new officers.

A reception will be held at the West Gate Temple Saturday at 8 p. m., honoring the newly elected officers. Entertainment and dancing will be featured.

PTA Award Given To School Fund

By Myron T. Seifert

Top PTA membership solicitors at West High School come from senior registration room Auditorium C, it was announced this week by President L. S. Will.

In fact these boys garnered far in excess of 100 members for the local PTA group which now has the largest school membership in the state, almost 1500 members.

The quartet of boys who engineered the campaign for their room are Newell Yaple, Dick Wood, Dick Will, and Don Ocles.

In addition to parents of boys who signed up from this room, civic leaders and celebrities are on the local PTA roster, including Mayor James Rhodes, and most city, county and state officials.

Newell Yaple received the PTA five dollar award in behalf of the winning room, Auditorium C, and in turn, presented the money to Principal I. F. Young, for use in the general school fund.

The award was made at the West High PTA meeting held in Room 2 at the Powell-av school, Tuesday, Nov. 9.

Hilliards To Pick 'Farmer Of Year'

"The Hilliards Community "Farmer of the Year" and "Junior Farmer of the Year" will be acclaimed at the January meeting of the Hilliards Chamber of Commerce.

The Agriculture Committee of the Chamber has asked for nominations by Dec. 15. The committee is composed of E. V. Hauelsen, Clark W. Van Schoick and Ralph J. Woodin.

Selection is based on success in farming, farm living and rural citizenship. Elmo Spring of Alton won the senior award last year; and Clarence Kaiser, Jr., the junior plaque. Junior farmers are classified as those between 18 and 25 years of age.

Earl Rader Goes To Farm Bureau

Earl R. Rader, 254 S. Richardson-av, this week started work as a salesman for Farm Bureau Insurance.

Until recently, Rader was associated with Rader's Food Market, 984 W. Broad-st. He attended Miami and Ohio State Universities. During the war he served in the Army.

Both Rader, and his wife, the former Ruth Horst, are graduates of Hilliards High School. They have two children, David, 3, and Judy, 1.

PMA Twp. Com'itteemen Are Elected

Production and Marketing Administration Community Committeemen were chosen this week by farmers of Franklin Co. A chairman, vice chairman, and third member were chosen in elections in each of the townships.

In Franklin Twp. farmer-voters chose John Huffman, 126 S. Harris-av; Albert Tinapple, 4211 Fisher-rd; and Carl Lustnauer, 1254 Georgesville-rd.

Elected in Norwich Twp. were Ed Haueisem, E. A. Renner, and Carl Wolpert, all of Hilliards.

Those elected in Prairie Twp. were Mike Weber, Galloway; Ellis Huffman, 762 Rome-Hilliards-rd, and John O'Hara, Galloway.

Members chosen will be responsible for the local administration of such national farm programs as agricultural conservation, price supports, acreage allotments, marketing quotas, and federal crop insurance.

To be eligible to vote or hold office it was necessary to have an interest in a farm that is participating in the program being administered by the County Agricultural Conservation Association. This applies to owners, operators, and tenants.

The Production and Marketing Administration was formerly known as the AAA.

Russell Henry Heads Quonset Sales Force

Russell S. Henry

Russell S. Henry, vice-president and sales manager of the Columbus Steel Structure Co., for 18 years associated with Robinson's Electric Store, 2403 W. Broad-st, is now in charge of the sale of Quonset Buildings locally.

Quonset Buildings were developed during the war to provide the armed forces with an all-steel, prefabricated, packaged building which was weather-proof and easily erected.

Since the war, Quonset Buildings have been re-designed to adapt it for commercial, industrial and farm buildings throughout the country. In addition to the design changes, many new models have been introduced which permit the erection of buildings of almost any length and width, with clear spans up to 40 feet.

Among the refinements introduced in the post-war Quonset building is the appearance of a low alloy high tensile steel providing greater strength and permanence for these buildings.

These buildings have also taken advantage of the oldest structural form in architectural history—the arch—to make possible the production of a group of basic buildings using from five to eight percent less material to enclose a structure of given dimensions than other designs.

Hilltop Woman Hurt In Accident

Mrs. Clara Wolfgram, 65, of 329 S. Terrace-av, suffered shock and was cut on her legs Wednesday afternoon when the auto in which she was riding collided with an ambulance at Souder and Sullivant-avs, police reported.

She was riding in an auto driven by Ronald E. DeVore, of the Terrace-av address. The auto collided with an ambulance driven by Walter W. Smeeth, 914 N. High-st, who was arrested by police for failing to stop at a stop sign.

The ambulance was en route to Carmel Hospital to pick up patient.

Wolfgram was taken to Carmel Hospital by Fire Dept emergency squadmen.

OLD PARSONAGE SOLD

Kiwanikwe Honor Aux. Presidents

Presidents of the ladies auxiliaries of the local Kiwanis Clubs were honored by the Hilltop Kiwanikwe at their meeting at Schmelzer's Restaurant Tuesday evening.

Gifts were presented to visiting presidents: Mrs. Pauline Scott, 2240 Eddington-rd, president of Kin, the Northwest Club auxiliary; Mrs. Lela Gusler, 3615 W. Broad-st, president of Kiwani-Annes, Downtown Club auxiliary; and Mrs. Effie Ebner, 2557 Minerva Lake-rd, president of Louwanis, Linden Club auxiliary. Mrs. Arthur Klemm, 87 E. Beaumont-rd, president of Clintworth, the Northern Club auxiliary, was unable to be present.

The program had a Thanksgiving motif, with Mrs. Martha Hegenberger, president of the Hilltop auxiliary, delivering the Thanksgiving message.

The entertainment for the evening was a takeoff on television broadcasts.

Marilyn Ring, soprano, sang two solos and a duet with Paul Hegenberger. They were accompanied by Ellen Page at the piano.

Lee Koontz and Jinx Gutcher put on a sitting room program, "Sal and Lem."

The Kiddie Program featured Michael Agee and Sam Alford at the piano, and the dancing of Linda Lee Prior and Carol Clark. Next on the agenda was a Travelogue with Dorothy Saunders and Martha Hegenberger.

Jerry Simonson red the "News Bits of the Week," The Kiwanikwe chorus sang two numbers, and Marilyn Trappe sang a solo.

A quiz program, "Stop the Tune," was presented, complete with prizes. Winners were Lea Gusler, Pearl Miller, Petie Thorne, Chloe Ann Sparks, Effie Ebner and Lillian McVay.

Lee Witherspoon was the accompanist for the program and Rosalie Agee was the commentator.

Heart Ailment Hospitalizes Vance

Carroll H. Vance, 49, 3090 Fremont-st, Wednesday morning suffered an attack of coronary thrombosis. His condition is "improving," according to Mrs. Vance.

Vance is in Mt. Carmel Hospital. Doctors have ordered no visitors for two weeks.

Hilltop Man Reunited With Mother After 19 Years

MRS. HERMINE VIETH; 76, mother of Hans Vieth of 314 S. Algonquin-av, is greeted by her son and granddaughter, Karin, 8, upon her arrival from Germany. She had not seen her son in 19 years.

• • •

Mrs. Hermine Vieth, 76, mother of Hans Vieth of 314 S. Algonquin-av, recently arrived on the Hilltop from her home in Duisburg, Germany, via ship and plane.

After three years of arranging for the trip, Mrs. Veith was united with her son after 19 years separation. Mrs. Veith sailed from Hamburg, Germany on Nov. 4, and arrived in New York City on Nov. 18. After staying overnight there she flew to Columbus.

Her son, Hans, a naturalized citizen, is a terminal operator at the Shell Oil refineries on Fisher-rd. He credits John Vorys, Columbus congressman, with making the arrangements that finally brought the elderly lady here as an immigrant.

Met In Cologne

Hans and his wife, Hedy, a native of Illinois, met in Cologne, in 1926, while she was visiting there with her parents. They were married and came to the U. S. in 1930. That was the last time they saw the senior Mrs. Vieth until this month.

During the war Mrs. Vieth narrowly escaped death when her apartment house was bombed, while she was staying with her daughter in the country.

Arriving in time to celebrate Thanksgiving Day with her family, Mrs. Vieth was "bewildered" by the quantity of food available. Mrs. Vieth, who comes from the British Zone of Germany, reports that rationing is still severe there.

The Vieths have two children, Wolf, 15, and Karin, 8.

Mrs. Anna Farris Funeral Friday

Mrs Anna Bell Farris, 74, of 249 S Eureka-av, died Tuesday in her home following a short illness. She was the widow of Dock B. Farris.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. Charles A. Watson, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. W. O. Brown, Mrs. Floyd E. Gerens and Mrs. Ethel Albert, all of Columbus; one son, Pascol H. Farris, Tullahoma, Tenn.; one brother, Arthur Bowman, Lebanon, Ind.; 11 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be at 2:30 Friday in the Jerry Spears Funeral Home.

Hilltop Woman Writes Radio Show

A HILLTOP WOMAN, Mrs. K. L. Martindale, 86 Clarendon-av, will write a new youth program that will be presented each Saturday over station WCOL from 1:15 to 1:45 p. m. Six youth organizations will participate in the program, which will be called, "Special Freight." The initial program, Dec. 3, will introduce all six groups, and each group will have the full half hour on following Saturdays. Jack Buck, WCOL announcer, will be master of ceremonies, and Ed Sprague will direct the show.

Plan New Masonic Lodge On Hilltop

Would Name Lodge For Late Dr. L. B. Turner

Plans are being completed for a new Masonic lodge on the Hilltop to be named for the late Dr. L. B. Turner, active for many years in the West Gate Masonic Lodge.

The Ohio Mason, weekly Masonic paper, stated this week that the list of signers on the original petition for a charter is growing daily. All Master Masons in good standing living on the Hilltop or West Side have been invited to become charter members of this new Masonic lodge.

Gaylen Shank, 621 Wrexham-av, a past master at West Gate Lodge, is chairman of the committee asking the Grand Lodge for dispensation. Information regarding the new order may also be had from Maurley Sutton and Fletcher Wright.

Tentative plans are to have the new lodge meet at West Gate Masonic Temple on the second and fourth Fridays of each month.

The new lodge is being organized as the result of rapid growth of the Hilltop community. West Gate Lodge now has a membership of 1,650.

High Ridge Yule Party Date Set

H. T. Van Ness, president of the HRCA, reports plans have been formed for the December meeting which is to be held on Tuesday evening, Dec. 13, at 7:45. This meeting will be held in the recreation room of the Hilltop Church of God at Whitethorne and Safford-avs. Two guest speakers will appear.

Most details have been arranged for the High Ridge Christmas party for the children of members and friends. Santa will be present with a large Christmas tree and presents for all the kiddies. The date has been set for Friday, Dec. 16, at 7:30 p. m. The party will be held in the recreation room of the Church of God at the corner of Whitethorne and Safford-avs.

Students Essentially Religious Bevis Tells Hilltop Ministers

Dr. Howard L. Bevis, president of Ohio State University, in a talk on "Religion on a University Campus," told members of the Hilltop Ministerial Association and their wives that university students are essentially religious but "not formally religious, mainly because this is an informal age."

President Bevis said that of the 25,000 students at the university more than 90% belonged to some religious denomination. He stated that 53 denominations, including Hindu, Moslem and Russian Orthodox, are represented on the campus.

Bevis said that the number and diversity of students made one large religious gathering impossible, but that many small meetings were held. "We have no direct concern with dogma, but with good works," he added.

The ministers and their wives were told that no "quota" or prejudicial system was used in admitting students to the university, but that " we cannot speak as to what social barriers are set up by students themselves. We cannot control people's likes and dislikes, this can be worked out only through education."

Bevis said that a religious coordinator has recently been chosen to bring all religous centers under supervision of the university. The expense for the coordinator is shared by the churches and the university.

Expressing a belief in the need for religion, Bevis said, "There is not much chance for world peace unless it is conducted through some kind of religion."

HOWARD L. BEVIS

The luncheon meeting was held Wednesday noon at the Westgate EUB Church. Rev. Harold Dutt, pastor of the church, was in charge of the arrangements.

The next meeting of the ministerial association will be Jan. 78. Jerry Spears will speak on "Conducting the Funeral Service."

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Max Slane

On Oct. 29 at 7:30 p. m. in the Maynard Avenue Methodist Church, Rev. Harry E. Bright performed a double ring ceremony which united in marriage Miss Marilyn Lee Kardos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Kardos, 342 S. Burgess-av, and Mr. Richard Max Slane. Mr. Slane's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Dewey A. Slane, Maize-rd.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of winter rose satin which featured a sweetheart neckline, small roll collar, closely fitted pointed bodice, cap sleeves and a very full hoop skirt. Her headdress was an open crown bonnet of matching satin, trimmed with lace and a fingertip length veil. She also wore rose mitts and a strand of rose-colored pearls. Her bouquet was of coral reef roses tied with satin ribbon and backed by green leaves.

Maid of honor and only attendant for the bride was Miss Bertha Woodruff who wore a gown of soft blue taffeta. The net yoke and off shoulder neckline was outlined with matching blue lace. She wore matching taffeta mitts with an open crown bonnet trimmed in lace. Her flowers were yellow Gloria roses.

The bridegroom's best man was Mr. John Sheridan. Mr. Robert E. Willis and Mr. B. J. Williams, cousins of the bridegroom, seated the guests.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 100 guests was held at Balcony Hall. Mrs. Kardos received her guests in a wine velvet dress, matching hat, and black accessories with a corsage of yellow roses and carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a teal blue dress of crepe, a gray hat, and black accessories. Her corsage consisted of deep red roses.

Acting as hostesses at the reception were Mrs. R. Bruce Cowgill, and three cousins of the bridegroom, Mrs. B. G. Williams, Mrs. Robert E. Willis and Mrs. W. R. Schnug.

For the couple's wedding trip to Detroit, the new Mrs. Slane changed to a royal blue suit with rust accessories.

The bride, a graduate of West High School, was until recently associated with the Farm Bureau.

Mr. Slane was graduated from North High School and received his degree from Ohio State last December. He is at present an insurance underwriter at the Farm Bureau.

West PTA Presents Awards To Rooms With Most Members

Awards for highest PTA membership were presented by Mrs. L. S. Will, president of the West Junior-Senior High organization, to the winning rooms at a musical program and tea Tuesday, Nov. 29, in the school.

Mrs. Heitz' room took first place in the junior high school and was represented by Carol Lilly who received the award. Mrs. O. D. Lehman is room mother. Winner in the senior high was Mr. Seifert's room with Mrs. Yaple as room mother. The prize, to be used for the senior class memorial, was presented to Newell Yaple.

The musical program was given by the junior high girls' advanced glee club, a group from the senior high choir, a piano solo by Bob Johnson, a trio of senior high girls, and a French solo by Lois Neff.

The tea was held following the program in the Yuletide-decorated apartment with Mrs. Clare Barnard and Mrs. H. R. Keller presiding. Hostesses were Mrs. Harvey Fenstermaker, Mrs. H. R. Compson, Mrs. Bernard Swisher, Mrs. William Hallsteine, Mrs. H. K. Poor, Mrs. Cloice Wheaton, Mrs. A. A. Anderson and Mrs. Charles Arbaugh.

Skull Sessions, Hours Of Practice Prepare West High Cagers For '49-'50 Season

RIGHT—POINTS FROM FOULS COUNT TOO, so Coach Williams stresses foul-shooting practice. First home game will be with Grandview on Tuesday, Dec. 6.

West Cagers Open Season Against Tough Newark Five

By Dave Miller

West High's basketball quintet will inaugurate its 1949-50 cage campaign this Friday evening when it travels to Newark, to meet an always dangerous Wildcat five.

The Cowboy basketballers, coached by George Williams, are trying to start things out like they did last year around this time. In their opener, a year ago, they defeated Newark, 45-27, and that same Wildcat team became one of the best fives in Central Ohio, going to the district tournament.

The Wildcats, coached by aggressive Max Douglas, can be looked on as a very strong opponent, and it's a cinch the Cowboys will have their hands full all evening.

The reserve team will also make the trip with the varsity. In their initial contest last year, they dropped a 32-14 verdict.

George Williams, Cowboy cage mentor, has been putting his basketballers through stiff workouts in the first half of the week, to try and get that needed "extra wind," which they will need for the games to come.

The locals scrimmaged Tuesday evening against some college freshmen, easily defeating them. The Cowboys, as reserve and varsity units, have been practicing since Nov. 14.

Some boys who are sure to see action are forwards Phil Young, Paul Ellingsworth, LeRoy Hood and Frank Carson; centers Capt. Jim Rudolph and George Crissinger; and guards Bill Thrush, Jack Winnestaffer and Jack Gammon.

The local cagers lose one man at mid-year, Capt. Jim Rudolph, and his needed height at the pivot will be missed. Last season, the locals had won eight consecutive games, and were sailing on the top rung in the City Loop race, when they lost their two high scoring aces, Chuck Weeks, and Paul Theisen, and won only two games after mid-season, finishing with a five - five City League record.

The starting five used in the scrimmage Tuesday were forwards Phil Young and Paul Ellingsworth; center George Crissinger; and guards Bill Thrush and Jack Winnestaffer. Rudolph was missing from practice. All but Crissinger and Ellingsworth saw action in last season's contests. Those two, however, were the high scoring twins on the reserve team.

Junior High Team Has Five Returning Lettermen; Set For Good Season

By Dave Miller

West Junior High's coming basketball season should be mighty successful, that is if returning lettermen mean anything, because O. D. (Red) Lehman, junior high cage coach this year, has five returning lettermen.

Lehman is probably one of the most fortunate mentors in the 11-team junior high loop, but as he said last week, "this league is just a mecca for a bunch of over age ball players."

The red-headed coach was one of the three junior coaches who tried to lift the age limit of the league back another year. However, at the present, the league has a 16-year-old limit, which normally is the age of a junior in high school.

At least four of the 11 teams are very tough, but the only reason they are consistently good is the fact that they all have a bunch of 16-year-old boys playing against boys of around 13.

Lehman guided the local junior high forces which now formulate the senior high squad in 1946-47 to a won seven and lost three record, and the following 1947-48 season to a four - six mark, and last year, with an eighth grade team, won five and lost five.

Lehman emphasized he has taken mostly ninth graders to form his team, and those boys worked hard in order to gain first string positions. However, last year he attempted a new method, that being to take eighth graders and give them game experience in order that he may have a good team for the coming season.

The five returning lettermen, who were all regulars from last year's team include forwards, Bob Thornton and Doug Clark; center, Jerry Trabue, and guards Bill Haire and Dick Hutchison. Trabue was high point man of the team last year with 123 markers, being second high scorer in the loop. He made a first string berth on the All-City Junior High team. Haire was on the second team.

Thornton is a big forward, and a natural basketballer, being one of the greatest tip-in artists at West Junior, with his 6-foot, 2-inch frame. Clark, the other forward is also 6' 2", but has been alternating with Roger Meyers, also 6' 2", for his berth, and will have to battle for his job. Trabue, who is 6' 1" is playing the pivot and his natural ability will profit the local junior in the coming year. However, he is a mid-year graduate, and will go on to the senior high reserves in January.

Trabue's position will either be filled by Meyers or a short, stocky hook artist, Jim Kimball, an eighth grader, but also another natural at the game. The two guards, Haire and Hutchison, seem set for first string berths.

Lehman discloses that it will be a strictly seven-man team, with the fore mentioned seven being the ones most likely to see action. However, Jan Sullivan, David Green, Bob Wilson, Jimmy Vincent and Joe Hutchison aren't entirely out of the picture, and are promised action throughout the year.

Lehman plans to mix a little fast-break type offense in with his pivot offensive. With three big boys like Thornton, Trabue and Clark to get the rebounds, and sharp shooting guards Haire and Hutchison out in the far court, West Junior seemingly can't miss. However, anything can happen in that junior high loop. The locals' defense will probably be a 2-3 proposition, with the three big boys under the two guards pressing the charging opposing guards. This defense is seldom used in the junior loop, but Lehman saw it work to perfection against his own team by Barrett last year, and decided to try it.

Dollars and Sense

BY ROBERT B. STEARNS

As a nation we can no longer afford to be economic hypochondriacs, because a country, like an individual, can worry itself sick.

WINSTON CHURCHILL

"It must occur to sensible people to ask themselves how it is, if the American system is wrong, that the American democracy of 140 million hard-working people are able to keep themselves at a far higher standard of life than we are and are able to lend us a helping hand and give us so much aid and bear so large a part of our burden."

"Because our generation has lived through one of the worst depressions in history, we are obsessed by the difficulties of maintaining high employment.

"The real danger may not be that we fail to maintain reasonably high employment but that we take action which threatens the progressiveness and freedom of the system." (W. Walter Williams, Chairman, Nat'l Comm. for Econ. Development)

"There is a lot of earnest and persuasive talk about the government providing individual security. And there are many people who believe the government can do that. But we know, if we are willing to be realistic, that the government cannot provide security. Only the people can do that. (W. G. Vollmer, Pres. Texas and Pacific Ry.)

LABOR STATESMANSHIP

The American Federation of Labor in its official Monthly survey said:

In the present precarious business situation, wise union policies are of utmost importance in negotiating with your employer. Get the facts on his financial condition and outlook from him if possible, supplement your information by writing AFL headquarters.

Perhaps your employer's prospects are excellent; but if his profit margin is being squeezed by price declines your future will be more secure if you help him improve his competitive position. A wage increase may depend on a plan for union cooperation to prevent waste, save expenses, cut costs, improve production.

Such a plan can be developed through a Union-Management Production Committee. Now is the time to revive this prewar plan and make it effective for today's needs. (AFL Monthly Survey)

If labor and management can sit down and work out their problems in this spirit there will be good reason to be hopeful of the outcome.

Martin Ill, To Close Radio Business

Floyd Martin, 1969 Sullivent-av, for 25 years a radio repair man on the Hilltop, will close his business this week due to ill health. Present plans are to reopen it again in April. He will spend the winter at Tucson, Ariz.

AT REHEARSALS OF "SUSPECT", the Hilltop Little Theatre's new production to be presented Sunday, Dec. 4, at John Burroughs School auditorium, Barbara Loechler, 629 Columbian-av (right), and Katherine Belhorn, 410 Reinhard-av, fix the arm Bob Price injured while showing the play's heroine the raven's nest. C. Wilbur Hatch, who plays Dr. Rendle, looks on. The play is a three-act mystery. Price lives at 261 Leichworth-av.

NEARLY 800 MILES AN HOUR—ON THE LEVEL

A FLAMING TAIL blazes across the desert sky at Muroc Dry Lake, Cal., as the fastest plane in the world—the U. S. Navy's Skyrocket—roars through a test run "close to 800 miles an hour" in level flight. Speed of sound is 760 miles an hour at sea level. (International Soundphoto)

MINISTRY

But yesterday, they did not ask for bread,
They are the victims of the spoilers' curse
(It could have come to my own land instead)
That fell upon a peaceful universe.
And crushed the helpless, left them desolate!
My friendly hand shall reach across the sea
To share with them who are less fortunate
What God has given me!
Laufa M. Lockwood,
in her book
THE WAY THE WINTER CAME.

MOTHER, FATHER AND SON keep the wheels turning at Erlenbach's Hardware, 2409 W. Broad-st. Ready to give the customer service are, left to right, Harold W. Erlenbach, Jr., his mother, Hazel, and Harold W., Sr. They reside at 2464 Westwood-dr. Mr. Erlenbach, who has been in the hardware business since 1921, purchased the store in 1945. Before that he had worked seven years in the store when E. O. Melvin owned it. Erlenbach's specializes in paint and interior decorating problems. The store has taken on several new lines of tools and supplies in recent months.

Modern Poetry

Edited by Esther Weakley

LEAF BURNING

I swept the fallen leaves up yesterday
And touched them with slow fire;
And as I saw smoke rise and drift away
I knew a keen desire

To sweep my mind of old things lying there,
Dreams long since dead . . .
Hopes that have clung like leaves on boughs now bare,
And tears that I have shed . . .

I longed to gather every little grief
Small doubts and fears and lay them in a sheaf
On fire, smoke-crowned.

Then stir the embers so a laughing wind
Might lift the ashes of old praise or blame
And bear them far away, leaving my mind
Clean as if swept by flame.
Virginia Eaton.

To you,
The darkest night, some star

AGAIN

Again the Gothic lands know ancient pain—
The wide sweeping prairie, the startled field
Are filled anew with the ravished and slain,
Invasion's grim proof of profit and yield.
A sun's neutral glance throws into relief
Stark desolation that has no true measure
While pilgrims palsied and withered by grief
Search the grey ruins for shards to treasure.
The night is filled with cadences of wonder,
Of numb despair and futile questioning;
What sound is this above the rain, the thunder,
What sighing sound like distant murmuring:
All that is left when war has claimed its own—
A woman weeping in the dark alone.
Alice Craig Redhead,
in her book
THE LAST BATTALION.

SUNSET

The sunset lingers in the sky,
All amethyst, and flame and gold;
The wind is but a breath, a sigh,
As color heightens fold on fold.
In this brief hour, the heart cries out,
So piercing is the mind's desire,
For some new word to sing . . . to shout
This ecstasy of clouds on fire.

STEPIN FETCHIT MAY PLAY SATCHEL PAIGE IN FILM (IF HE CAN STAY AWAKE SO LONG)

By CHARLES W. WHITE
Central Press Correspondent

MUNCIE, Ind. — The one and only Satchel Paige, Cleveland pitching ace, may prove an ace-in-the-hole for another famous Negro, Stepin Fetchit, Hollywood figure who announced here that he's going to make a movie based on the ballplayer's life.

Stepin Fetchit, noted as the world's laziest man, revealed recently that although he has made more than a million dollars doing nothing, he's broke now.

However, he is under contract, he says, to play the part of the Great Sachmo, and after that he hopes to pay all bills and "sit down and rest."

An alleged account of $570 due a Chicago film library, was Stepin Fetchit's main trouble when the sleepy movie star and former associate of Will Rogers made an appearance with his Stars on Parade show at a Muncie auditorium.

Sheriff W. Pete Anthony attached all of Stepin Fetchit's possessions, including a red sedan which the tired man admitted is not paid for yet.

• • •

"I AIN'T had no luck since Will Rogers died," Fetchit, whose real name is Lincoln Theodore Monroe Perry, told the sheriff. "I'm just a poor man trying to make a poor living."

Stepin Fetchit has not always been poor, though: in the Will Rogers days and when he was in silent films before, he made plenty of money.

Working with Anita Stewart in In Old Kentucky and later with such stars as Spencer Tracy, Bryan Donlevy and others, the former Key West, Fla., Negro delighted millions with his supernally weary ways and high-pitched, piteous drawl.

Even the college kids got to imitating him, and Stepin Fetchit was definitely a national hero.

"I had the biggest bankruptcy in history up in Chicago," Stepin Fetchit told reporters. "It was the biggest up to that time, they said."

He was asked how a man who could make a million dollars doing nothing could lose it so fast.

"Well, I just overspent myself," the actor explained. "About four million dollars more than I had. Spent it different places: I know I wound up without it . . ."

He is pretty smart, though, and if the Satchel Paige picture runs true to expectations the too-tired man may have the last laugh—or snore—in spite of clustering creditors.

• • •

STEPIN FETCHIT is congenitally funny, on the stage or off. You can't talk to him long in serious vein, for that matter.

He just naturally goes into his act, seeming to enjoy its effect on those around him.

The long-tall-gangly entertainer says he was born in Key West, Fla., in 1897, right next to what is now President Truman's summer White House. From then on, he declares, life has been a continued problem of finding out how to make a living doing nothing.

"I found out everybody wants you to do something," he observed, "but nobody wants to pay you for it."

Speaking of Satchel Paige, Stepin Fetchit said he is looking forward to playing the role of the great Indians' pitcher.

"We look alike," he explained. "And Satchel Paige has the Stepin Fetchit personality. Paige says the less he exercises, the more he can save his strength to pitch. Now, that's the true Stepin Fetchit personality. We're good friends, too"

Waked up for more details, "The Yawn" said playing the new part will satisfy a lifetime urge.

"I always did want to be something," he confessed, "but I never wanted to do it to be it. I guess that's why I'm a success as the world's laziest man."

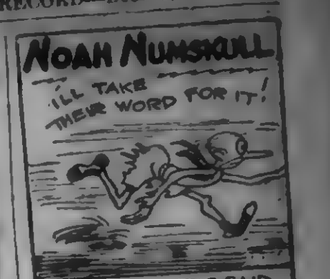
QUEEN OF GEMS OF 1949

ARRIVING in an armored car surrounded by gun-toting guards, Lynn Carroll is voted Queen of Gems of 1949 at a diamond show in New York's gem center at Bowery and Canal streets. She is wearing $2 million worth of glittering diamonds. (International)

Words of the Wise



When all is done, human life is, at the greatest and the best, but like a forward child, that must be played with and humoured a little to keep it quiet till it falls asleep, and then the care is over.
—(Sir William Temple)

Household Hint

If the tile in your bathroom is stained so that you cannot get the stains off with ordinary cleaning, try this: Dissolve one part of sodium citrate crystals (purchasable at your drug store) in six parts of water. Measure and add an equal amount of glycerine and mix well. Stir in enough whiting to make a thick paste. Spread over stains, let dry, then wash off and rinse well.

Words of the Wise

Far better it is to dare mighty things, to win glorious triumphs, even though checkered by failure, than to take rank with those poor spirits who neither enjoy much nor suffer much, because they live in the gay twilight that knows not victory nor defeat.
—(Theodore Roosevelt)

Household Hint
Be careful in using extension cords. Many fires have been caused from worn cords and from placing them improperly. Cords should never be placed where they will be stepped on or pinched, under heavy rugs or furniture. Never nail an electric cord to a wall. Keep cords free from knots or sharp bends which may break fine wires and damage the coverings.

GENERAL ELECTRIC
Space Maker REFRIGERATORS GIVE YOU More of Everything!

Just take a look at this beautiful refrigerator. It's the new 1950 General Electric Space Maker Refrigerator—the refrigerator that gives you one-third more refrigerated food storage space with no increase in kitchen floor space.

And look inside this great, new General Electric. Note the ample shelf space, the space for additional bottle storage, the deep meat compartment, and the deep, full-width fruit and vegetable drawer.

This new, advanced design is made possible by improved design and engineering of General Electric's famous "sealed-in-steel" refrigerating mechanism. It is smaller than the previous units, so it takes up less room in the base of the refrigerator. Yet it has 1/3 more refrigerating capacity, freezes ice 35% faster, and consumes less electricity. Entire interior stainless steel equipped.

West High Seniors Plan '50-50 Hop' December 15

By Myron T. Seifert

First social event for the 225 12B West High Seniors will be staged at the school Thursday evening, Dec. 15, Class Advisor George Neeb said today.

Called a "50-50 hop", the Class of 1950 plans an informal party and dance for their one and only social function this term. Dick Lemkuhl, class president, announced.

Committees, hard at work on the social affair, and named by President Lemkuhl, include:

Social Committee: Joe Janes, chairman, Jean Byrum, Louie Snyder, Shirley Mielke, and Joan Freshcorn.

Ticket Committee: Frances Smith, chairman, Barry Emrich, Mary Anne Ross, Bob Birle, Delores Sparks.

Refreshments Committee: Elaine Vandevender, chairman, Larry Hoover, Dick Merriman, Mary Della Howell, Carol Buckshaw.

Publicity Committee: Jack Six, chairman, Joyce Lewis, Sue Kuna, Barbara Stewart and Elaine Taylor.

Decoration Committee: Sue Glass, chairman, Marilyn Matthews, Don Nafzger, Joanne Olpp, and Marilyn Valentine.

Speaking candidates are now busy drafting their original, respective speeches for the initial competition to be held at the school Tuesday, Dec. 20.

A committee of teachers, selected by the seniors will judge the merits of each try-out. One boy and one girl will be selected to represent the class; also alternates will be selected, public speaking teacher E. M. Kaylor announced.

GIRL SCOUT News Notes - - Activities

By Pat Martindale

The new officers of John Burroughs Girl Scout neighborhood are: president, Mrs. Raymond Haughn; vice-chairman, Mrs. Melvin Craig; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Lowell Hardacre; program chairman, Mrs. Howard Hartranft.

Those on the nominating committee are Mrs. Robert Ward, Mrs. Lewis McCracken, and Mrs. George Minks.

Troop 152 met at the home of Mrs. Robert Ward to fold 5000 sheets of Christmas seals. Leaders are Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Haughn.

Brownie Troop 127 recently hiked to Westgate Park for its first cook-out. The girls learned how to use an axe and chop wood.

Brownie Troop 178 held a wiener roast at Westgate Park in September; enjoyed a Halloween party at Mrs. Howard McVay's home; visited No. 18 engine house at Cleveland and Windsor-av; donated to the Community Chest; and watched a television show at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Clelland.

The scouts at John Burroughs have a uniform exchange. Anyone interested in good Brownie or Girl Scout uniforms should call Mrs. Paul Dorr, RA. 3369.

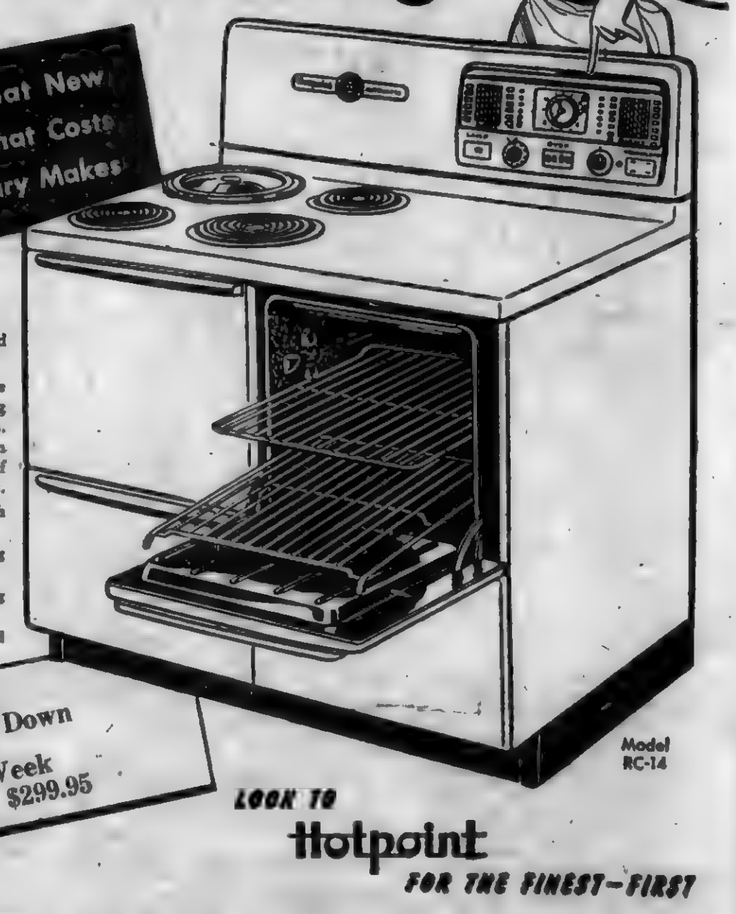
Brownie Troop No. 182 held their investiture ceremony Wednesday, Nov. 9 to which the mothers were invited, in the lunch room of John Burroughs School, under the direction of Mrs. H. C. Booth, assisted by the leader, Mrs. John L. Neff, and co-leaders, Mrs. R. D. Thorne and Mrs. Marie Clay. Refreshments were prepared and served by the troop committee, Mrs. C. L. Schmidt, Mrs. F. K. Harvey, Mrs. A. H. Williams and Mrs. Leslie Forster.

On Thursday, Nov. 10, this troop appeared as guest on the television program, Tune Shop, over WLW-C. Adults who accompanied the Brownies were Mrs. John L. Neff, Mrs. R. D. Thorne, Mrs. Marie Clay, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Schmidt, Mrs. Martha Crawford and James Smith.

On Nov. 9 St. Aloysius Troop No. 13 hiked to the Columbus waterworks and filtration plant. The girls were shown through the building by a guide, who explained every step of water purification from the time it left the Scioto River until it came out of the water taps in their homes. Each girl was given a booklet on water supply information. The troop enjoyed a picnic lunch and play period and then hiked back to town. Mrs. Mary Morgan and Mrs. Marveen Martin, leaders of Troop No. 13, accompanied the girls.

The St. Aloysius Girl Scouts and Brownies will sponsor a booth at the PTA Christmas Bazaar, Dec. 6, in the school annex. The older Girl Scouts will usher and serve as messengers. Troops 13, 248, 249, 250 and 251 will participate.

Troops 202 and 203 from the sixth and seventh grades of St. Mary Magdalene School will conduct a bake sale on Saturday, Dec. 3, at the Economy Drug Store, 2870 W. Broad-st. Co-chairmen in charge of the sale will be Mrs. E. T. O'Brien, 319 S. Algonquin-av, RA. 0659, and Mrs. E. J. Fisher, 2976 Parkside, RA. 4320.



BACK FROM A HUNTING TRIP in Canada, these men pose with an eight point and a five point buck deer they bagged. Pictured with the deer are George B. Ford, Emmett Bright and Earl Shears, at the rear of Shears' home, 48 Letchworth-av. Twelve members of the hunting party bagged 10 deer on the six day hunting trip at Archie Rogerson's Smoky Lake Camp at Fort Lorin, Ontario. The thermometer dropped to 10 degrees below zero, Shears reports.

Stop Wasteful Spending

(Editor's Note: This is one of a series of pamphlets, "It's Fun To Live in America" being published by Kiwanis International and being reprinted in the Record. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower recently presented a medal and a check for $1,500, on behalf of Freedom Foundations Inc., for the development and publication of this pamphlet. The pamphlet has been published monthly since January, 1948. Distribution now totals 27 million copies.)

MY DEAR MR. SENATOR AND CONGRESSMAN:

I am writing you about this business of federal spending. I am what you call one of the "little guys." I am single, make fifty bucks a week and own a second-hand car. It may sound corny, but I want to save enough to buy that "little white cottage."

Out of my fifty bucks, my boss has to withhold $5.45 for federal income tax. That's $238.40 a year, and BROTHER, THAT AIN'T HAY. That means I work about thirty-four days out of every year just to pay income tax.

NOW, I DON'T MIND SPENDING FOR GOOD GOVERNMENT. I think our defenses should be strong and that we ought to pay for such things as the Postal Department, F.B.I., and other necessary services. BUT I DON'T BELIEVE IN WASTE. My Grandpop used to say, "A penny saved is a penny earned." As I look back on it now, Grandpop was a pretty smart old duck. He saved his money, bought a horse here and a mule there, and finally had a livery stable. Automobiles came along, so he sold his stock and started a garage. HE DIDN'T ASK NOBODY FOR NOTHING, just saved his money, worked hard and wound up with a pretty good stake. When he got old he was able to sell his business and take it easy.

Well, to get back to this business of federal spending. As I said, I don't mind spending for GOOD GOVERNMENT, but it burns me up when a lot of bureaus up there in Washington come along and put the heat on you fellows to give them more and more money to keep adding people to their departments.

The other day I got hold of one of these reports by the HOOVER COMMISSION, the group appointed by the President to look into the cost of federal government. BELIEVE ME, SOME OF THE FACTS I READ MADE MY BLOOD BOIL.

For instance—

That approximtely one-half the several million purchase orders issued by the government each year are for items totaling less than $10.00, yet the paper work done on every purchase transaction costs more than $10.00.

That government records fill a space of 18,000,000 square feet at a cost of $20,000,000 a year and the filing equipment alone is worth $154,000,000.

That in one county in Georgia, 47 government employees attached to seven separate field services of the Agriculture Department have been working with only 1,500 farmers.

That the government worker handling my G. I. Insurance Policy carries a work load of only 450 policies, whereas the worker in a private insurance company handles 1,762 policies.

These are just a few of the facts that this report gave. All this talk in millions and billions is mighty confusing, but I have enough common horse sense to know that a lot of this money has been wasted just like "pouring sand down a rat hole."

Now, Mr. Senator and Congressman, and I don't care what your politics are, I am writing you to ask you point blank to get behind some of these ideas recommended by the Hoover Cowmission. We "little guys" have heard this business about "soak the other guy" quite a while. Now we realize that every dollar we pay in taxes is just as hard on us as it is on the other fellow. So, we want you to DO SOMETHING AND DO IT QUICK.

'Think This Over'

By William "Doc" Campbell

Human Engineering

I saw a remarkable demonstration of man's ingenuity a few months ago, while on the famous "Jeffersonian" of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Sitting in the exquisitely designed card room in a setting of gay emerald green and gold, with large embossed cards of bygone days on the walls, I beheld a wonderful, yet ludicrous, thing happen.

On the door of this room, leading to the other coach is a singular device, a long, horizontal, flat metal rod that responds immediately when touched by a passenger, and lo and behold, the aluminum door begins its almost human and uncanny opening. The funny part of the show was that an elderly lady with an immaculate, gray permanent hair-do tried to impose her mind against "man's invention." She pressed the rod and the door opened, slowly and slyly (so to speak) in her direction, for about two feet—stopped—then quietly moved again almost like a human being, until it was wide open. Then, as the lady went through, it began its uncanny return doings after her; but she, like thousands of us who found it terribly exasperating to close the old train doors behind us, found it resented her efforts! She pulled and pulled at that door, but that marvelous invention was mindful of its own business. It did not budge and would not do her bidding.

I chuckled and waved to her through the glass of the door to "Go ON!, GO ON! it would do it better than she". And it did—so sensitively, so cannily, that one thought there might be human hands about. But no, the invention gently closed that door, and with a very beautiful, almost inaudible "click" it was perfectly shut, awaiting the next passenger.

Such was a new and marvelous gadget that saved personal energy and did it without causing one to "LOSE HIS TEMPER".

Let's have plenty of useful gadgets and save "losing our tempers"!

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

MARVELL called down to Henry who leaped into action at the word go. Mrs. Staneweski yawned languidly. "You'll do a good job, won't you?"

"We're using copper pipes," he assured her. "Last you a lifetime."

"I don't care what's underneath. It's what shows." He was assuring her that the porcelain fittings would be the whitest thing she's ever seen, except yourself, he thought, when Henry came in. He ran his eyes over the passageway and stammered out, "Where do we dig?" The exotic bloom of the lady was wholly lost on him.

At noon Marvell and Henry took their lunch to the shade of one of the apple trees near the house. Henry had eaten his cheese sandwiches fast and silently, and then stretched out for a nap, pulling a large cotton handkerchief over his face. Whether this was for protection or for what he believed was a laboring convention, Marvell did not know. He admired Henry's style in the matter.

From the house came the high, thin bawl of Mrs. Staneweski. "You want cawfee? We have some left."

He went over to the kitchen window that was open and leaning on the sill said politely, "If it is no trouble." Then he saw the rest of the family. Two pale blonde heads cropped up between Mrs. Staneweski and her dark, silent husband.

"Pete, carry it out." Two heads wobbled higher in view and Mrs. Staneweski handed the children a steaming cup which they bore out of the front door. It was the boy who handed him the thick white cup. The little girl stood close behind him like a shadow. They must be about Kit's age, Marvell thought. He took the cup and thanked them gravely. Their almost colorless eyes never moved from him so that instead of carrying the coffee to the shade of the tree he stood rooted there before them and drank the contents hastily and self-consciously. How pink they were, he thought. The tannish pink of the young birch saplings in the spring that grew fawnlike in between the trunks of the parent birches in the lanes.

"What are your names?" he asked as he handed back the cup.

"Peter and Audrey." It was hard to tell which of them had spoken. Were they twins, he wondered? Their pale flesh was so identical even to the way it blended off the forehead into their ashen, springy hair.

"I have a daughter about your age. She'd like to play with you, I think. May I bring her over tomorrow?"

Again the reedy voice—or was it voices— "We'll have to ask Ma." They disappeared into the house like two pale candle flames blown out. They arranged it with Ma, apparently, for later on their heads peered in at him and Henry. "She can come."

Henry blinked at the interruption. "W-w-who?"

"The Staneweski heirs, they're selfish, aren't they?"

"Oh, kids!" said Henry scornfully.

When Marvell reached home that evening, he called through the kitchen window as he always did if he had been out of the house for some time, "Kit! I'm home."

She came running out the back door to meet him, a very domesticated figure in a long percale apron, fruit stained, for she had been helping Mrs. Crane with the canning.

"A good day's work?" he asked.

"We boiled and we boiled. The kitchen's a mess. We'll eat on the porch."

"I netted a couple of prospects for you, Kit, to play with, Peter and Audrey Staneweski."

Then as she made no answer he continued, "I hope I'm not throwing you to the lions."

"Why?"

"Well, you've been in retirement for a long time. They may be too much for you, you're not shy about going, are you?"

"A boy and a girl?"

"That's all."

"It won't come out even, but we can act."

Now what did she mean by that, he asked himself.

But it did come out even, she found, for Peter and Audrey were practically one person.

They were waiting on the front steps of their house the next morning when Marvell drove up. Even Henry had a spark of interest in their meeting. Kit jumped down and walked up to them. "Hello," she said determinedly. "I'm Katherine Coomes."

"Hello," and the faint unity of their high voices struck Kit as it had Marvell.

Mrs. Staneweski in a bright green and orange wrapper leaned out of the window. "You can play outside all morning till eleven, when I'll have some cake for you." She withdrew her bright head, leaving Kit to blink away the orange dots that had come before her eyes just as they did when she looked at the sun too long.

"Is that . . . ?"

"Ma," they replied briefly.

Then a dark head appeared at the window. "Will you kids feed the chickens first?" It was a shy, low voice so unlike Mrs. Staneweski's blare or the twin's tremulo that Marvell looked up at the sound of it.

"All right," whined Peter and Audrey.

Kit nudged Peter and hissed, "Who's she?"

"Poldi," said Peter.

"Our sister," Audrey hissed back.

She came out the side door with a chipped enamel pan of scraps. "Don't forget to pick up the eggs this time, you two." She scolded, but her eyes and mouth smiled. The dress she wore, soiled and faded, covered a childish figure. But her dark, oval face looked so voluptuous, so peaceful that Marvell was startled. A voluptuous Madonna, he thought. She couldn't have been more than fourteen.

"Come on, get under steam, all of you," said Mrs. Staneweski, who had followed Poldi. Peter sidled off and Audrey seized Kit by the hand and followed him.

"Is she another daughter?" Marvell asked Mrs. Staneweski as Poldi slipped back into the house.

"Sure, but she's the old man's girl. Wants to be a farmer. Just like the old country, working in the fields. Say, is there anything I can do for you?"

Marvell said hastily, "That's what I have a helper for. Worth his weight in lunch, too."

She turned back toward the house, rocked uncertainly on her high heels, and steadied herself against Marvell.

"What is your old country, Mrs. Staneweski," he asked, conscious of every thch of the spotted gown that she had wrapped around her delt tighter than ever.

"Mine? Right here. What do you think?" She laughed heartily. "It's the old man's that's Poland. I'm Irish-American. I was Irene Caddigan. My father run the blacksmith shop in town. But you wouldn't know anything about me would you?" She challenged him to discover her secrets.

"The older one is not like you, but the other two—so pink—" he doundered. "I suppose children divide their parents between them. I mean . . ."

She shrugged. "There was another set of twins in between. I lost them. That's the Polack strain—twins, we never had none in the Caddigans. But this time I want a boy for myself." The idea pleased her. She lost interest in Marvell and trailed back into the house, her high heels buckling under her weight.

The three children had fed the chickens. They forgot the eggs. Kit was interested in Poldi. She adored children older than herself and had already made a plan how to impress her. "Will she come play with us?"

"No," said Peter crossly. "She works for Pa."

"Oh," Kit was let down. "Why aren't you two in school?" she demanded for want of anything else to say.

"We were sick all winter. Ma got permission for us to stay out the rest of the time. I'll tell you what we had," began Audrey.

"Stop it," said Peter. "Nobody wants to hear."

"Poldi was good to us," went on Audrey, "yes, when you're sick she sings and rocks you."

But Kit had no experience to match Audrey's so she ignored the subject and led the way into the front yard. They were all silent and wary and the twins skirted around Kit as if waiting for some word from her. She had never been thrust into the position of leader before—"Well, come on," she said impatiently. "Let's do something. Let's play statues." It was a perfect game for Peter and Audrey. They fell naturally into wooden positions. It was hard to choose between them. When it came to be their turn, brother and sister always chose each other. Kit abandoned this monotony by saying, "Let's tell stories. I'll begin." Peter scuffed the dirt morosely.

Audrey sucked a little medal that hung around her neck on a silver chain.

"What's that?" asked Kit instantly lighting upon it.

"My medal the priest blessed. It's Our Lady."

"I got one but it's broke," announced Peter.

"I have a gold cross," said Kit.

"Is it blessed?"

"It's a birthday present," she replied authoritatively.

"It's no good if it ain't blessed," they chorused together.

"Don't talk at once! I can't tell you apart."

"Don't you know I'm a boy?" asked Peter.

"By your name and your pants." Kit was withering in her tone. "Shall I begin the story?"

They resigned themselves. And though they asked innumerable questions beginning with "why"; scratched themselves noisily; sucked grass stems and otherwise showed their boredom, the session lasted until Mrs. Staneweski bawled through the kitchen window: "Cake's out."

LIFE

A wheel that endlessly turns,
Forever forward — never back.
Kings and grubs who blindly dig
Meet fate and fate alike.
Yet as each day unfolds its wares,
We seek to choose, when it
Were just as well to reach and take—
Poor pawns that ride upon the wheel!
Perchance to ride, perchance to break.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Den 2, Pack 56

Cubs of Den 2, Pack, 56, enjoyed a trip through the city and state buildings. Capt. Scully gave the boys a warm welcome at the city jail. "Know Your City" is one of the den's projects.

On their return to the Den, a lunch was served. The food was marketed and prepared by the Cubs. The menu consisted of Sloppy Joe's, baked beans, pickles, potato chips, Kool-Aid, ice cream and cake.

The afternoon was spent preparing a beautiful basket of food for Thanksgiving to be given to Mrs. Barbara Laicher of Southwood-av, whom the den is sponsoring this year.

A paper drive and rummage sale will be held this week by the Cubs. The proceeds from these projects will provide money for the Christmas candy, cookies and gifts which will be distributed to various hospitals and institutions at Christmas time.

Den 2 will take an active part in the bazaar at John Burroughs school Dec. 1 and 2.

Troop 214

Scouts of Troop 214 of St. Mary Magdalene school last week made a hike to Camp Clime. Those who went on the hike included: Donald Capretta, Jim Davis, Richard Sweeney, Tim Martin, Jim Martin, Phillip Crisp, Bib Boehm, Jim Boehm, Jack Armour, and scoutmasters Martin, Boehm, Davis, and Garrity.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT
by FRED NEHER

Approximately $225,700,000 has been raised from the sale of Christmas Seals since 1907 to finance the tuberculosis control work of the voluntary tuberculosis associations. During the same period, the TB death rate has been cut nearly 85 per cent and the lives of more than 4,000,000 who would otherwise have died from this disease, have been saved.

The Low Down On High Ridgers

By One of Them

A new 16-inch screen—television, of course—has entered another home on Butler. This one is an Admiral. Owners? The FRANK SINACOLAS. It's a combination set with radio and phonograph.

Seems as if every other home has one. If they'd all cooperate and place them at a certain angle in the living room, the home next door could watch it too—providing the shades remain up. Nothing like seeing a show on someone else's money—eh?!

The MELVIN WOODS are building a fence. This time of year the ground is pretty hard. But he has some help. His dog helps him dig the holes. Now it'd be much easier if WOODS would put the fence posts where his pooch starts a hole. But in that event MELVIN said his posts would be all over the yard. Guess he's right.

MARIE WHALEN bought a sack of sugar at the store and somehow on the way home a hole formed itself and she didn't quite have the 5 pounds she started out with. Thus she left a path of sweetness all the way home. Quarter please, Marie!

This isn't fire prevention week, but a warning to PHYLLIS BROWNLEE'S neighbors. Don't do what she did. PHYLLIS was trying to bake a cake and iron at the same time. She burnt one layer, and scorched a blouse. Burnt cakes (to me) taste like chocolate anyhow. So what's the difference? I'll take a piece of her cake any day. She won a prize a couple of years ago at the state fair for one of her tasty cakes.

VERNON BIDWELL told his wife to make use of all the free coupons she gets in the mail, such as soaps, etc. But she went even further. She has samples of free dog food—yet she has no dog; soap powders she doesn't care for; and canned meat that her husband won't eat because he had so much of that in the army. "Well," he says, "you don't have to go to extreme."

She shrugs her shoulders. "What do you do with a man like that? Try to save money, and still it doesn't work out. Can't win."

"Going to buy a train for my grandson," commented GRANDPA HARRISON. Good ole BILL. He always liked trains. Bet he'll spend more time with his grandson this next year, and of course will show him how to run that train.

First FRANK SHEA was UP. Now he's DOWN—not only down, but DONE. What are we talking about? Well, he finished his upstairs a few weeks ago, and now he completed painting his basement. His family had better watch out. He'll start on them next. Come to think of it, their bird is a beauty. Wonder if he put the paint brush to it? Good ole Frank.

Galloway Church Music Festival Is December 4

The Fourth Annual Music Festival of St. Pauls Lutheran Church of Rome will be held Sunday, Dec. 4, at 8 p. m. at the church.

The main features of the program are Bob Jahm, organist, an outstanding senior of the Ohio State School of the Blind; Marion Embleton, a contralto from Capital University; the Little German Band of Grove City, radio and television stars; David Dietzal, a 14-year-old boy, will be the violinist. He is a pupil of Capital University school of music and studies under Professor Elliot; Harold Johnston, a colored soloist who loves to sing, and a member of King Avenue Church Choir and Marilyn Huntley, an accordinist from Capital University school of music.

The Junior and Senior Choir of the church is also an outstanding feature. The junior choir has two soloists. They are Doris Brown and John Durban. Both choirs are under the direction of Jack Swinehart.

Evelyn Parker the organist of the church will be the accompanist.

The musical festival is sponsored by St. Paul's Brotherhood for the benefit of the athletic program of the congregation.

Ellis Hoffman, Howard Anderson and Andy Show have charge of the program.

LUTHERAN CHILDREN MEET

The Children of the Church group of the Hilltop Lutheran Church will meet Saturday at 2 p. m. at the church. The group will make Christmas gifts at this meeting.

Jeremiah Denounces False Prophets — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Jeremiah 5:30-31; 23; 26-28.

False prophets stilled the fears of the people with comforting words, and thought they were wise, but Jeremiah told them that they said, "Peace, peace, but there is no peace."

The Lord said, "Woe be unto the pastors that destroy and scatter the sheep of My pasture," and promised that He would gather the remnant and bring them again to the folds.

Jeremiah warned priests, princes and people of disaster if they did not repent their evil ways. Angered, they would have killed him, but decided he was uttering Jehovah's words.

Ond, Hananiah, broke the wooden yoke Jeremiah wore, but the prophet said an iron one would replace it, and that Hananiah would die.

MEMORY VERSE—Jeremiah 23:28.

Glenwood Youth To Give 'Nativity'

Dec. 4 at 7:30 p. m., the choir and youth department of Glenwood Methodist Church will present a pageant, "The Nativity".

This pageant was written by Mary Riddile Walton. The choir, under the direction of Mrs. Walton, will furnish the musical portion of the program, with Mrs. Clyde Moore at the organ. The young people, under the direction of Annis Turner, will portray the Nativity scene.

Gay Wade will play the part of Mary; the angels will be Marlene Tague, Jane Lloyd and Phyllis Phillips; shepherds, Bill Maxwell, Leo Peoples, Jon Kimes and Dick Ardle; kings, Bob Smith, Stanton Prior and Don Edwards.

University Chorus Presents 'Messiah'

The YMCA and YWCA at Ohio State University have invited members of all Columbus and Franklin County churches to attend performances of Handel's "Messiah" at 3:15 and 8:15 p. m. Sunday at the Men's Gymnasium on the campus.

The 315-voice University Chorus, directed by Prof. Louis H. Diercks, will present the oratorio program as part of the campus organizations' "White Christmas" project.

Westgate Pastor Plans Ardent Series

A series of four Advent sermons is being announced by Rev. Norman L. Schreiber, pastor of the Westgate Methodist Church. The sermons will follow the great historical trilogy of St. Paul in the 13th Chapter of First Corinthians to the great festival of Christmas. Beginning Dec. 4, the topic will be "Small Hopes"; Dec. 11, "Great Faith"; Dec. 18, "Sacrificing Love"; and on Christmas, "The Joy That Is Christmas".

Concordia Lutheran Presents Movie

A film on the menace of communism, "The Sickle or the Cross" will be shown at Concordia Lutheran Church, 45 S. Brinker-av, Sunday at 8 p. m.

This full-length motion picture of 75 minutes was made at Hal Roach studios and played by a talented cast of top-ranking actors. The community is invited to view this portrayal of the conflict between Christianity and one of its greatest enemies.

Rev. Shellhaas Lists December Topics

Rev. Joseph B. Shellhaas, pastor of Glenwood Methodist Church, is announcing his morning sermon topics for the month of December as follows:

Dec. 4, "The Prophet Who Suffers"; Dec. 11, "The Prophet Who Hopes"; Dec. 18, "The Prophetic Wisdom"; Dec. 25, A Christmas Sermon.

Sunday services are at 10:30 a. m.

The first Christmas Seal Sale in this country was conducted in 1907 in Wilmington, Del., in an effort to raise $300 for the care of a group of tuberculous patients. So successful was the sale that $3,000 was raised.

JOE HAGUE, 44 BINNS-BLVD, is president of the Hilltop Little Theatre. This amateur players group will stage a three-act mystery, "Suspect", on Sunday evening, Dec. 4, in the auditorium at John Burroughs School, 2585 Sullivant-av. Tickets for the production are available at Spang's Drug Store, 2785 Sullivant-av; D. K. Finley, 30 E. Broad-st; and the Hilltop Record office. Hague is an attorney.

Church of Christ Has 'Woman's Day'

Woman's Day will be observed in the Hilltop Church of Christ on Dec. 11 at the morning worship service.

Mrs. Paul Keckley will be guest speaker. Mrs. Keckley, who is a practicing attorney, for a number of years has been active in women's church organizations. She is now the second vice-president of the Ohio Council of Christian Women.

C. and St. L. Railroad right of way, which point is south 86° 30' West a distance of 256.0 feet from an iron pin in the west line of Hague Avenue, and in the north line of said P. C. C. & St. L. Railroad right of way; said point being also the southwest corner of a tract heretofore conveyed by said Emmet E. Tom, et al., to the Hilltop Supply Company by deed as recorded in D. B. 788, page 195, Recorder's Office, Franklin County, Ohio; thence from said point of beginning north 31° 51' East a distance of 114.90 feet to an iron pin; thence North 86° 30' East a distance of 404.36 feet, to a point in the west line of Hague Avenue (passing an iron pin at 384.60 feet); thence north 3° 29' (West along the center line of Hague Avenue a distance of 167.04 feet to a point; thence south 67° 10' west a distance of 784.06 feet (passing an iron pin at 24.00 feet) to an iron pin on the east line of 20.989 acre tract; thence along the east line of said 20.989 acre tract south 3° 29' East a distance of 10.00 feet to an iron pin; being also the southeast corner of said 20.989 acre tract, and on the north right of way line of aforementioned railroad; thence north 86° 30' east along the north right of way line a distance of 246.00 feet to the place of beginning, containing 1.335 acres, subject to all legal highways. Plaintiff further says that the defendants Dorothy Tom Frazier, Fred A. Tom, and Betty J. Tom, whom plaintiff does not know if she is married or not, have or claim to have an interest in said real estate adverse to the plaintiff; that Frank Frazier is the husband of Dorothy Tom Frazier; that Marguerite Tom is the wife of Fred A. Tom; and that it is unknown whether Betty J. Tom is married or not, and if so what her name is or the name of her spouse, if any. WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays that the defendants be notified of the pendancy of this action and be required to set up their respective claims, if any exist, to said real estate, and that his title to the same be forever quieted against said claim and for all other and further relief to which plaintiff may be entitled in the premises.

Said defendants are further notified that they are required to answer said petition on or before December 24, 1949, or judgement may be rendered as prayed for therein.

What Disposition Should We Make of a Cremated Remains?
Cremated remains should be shown the same respect and consideration as any other remains. They should never be scattered. You would not wish the remains of some stranger strewn around on your property, neither does anyone else wish your remains on their place.
There are proper places for them, either in a Niche, Crypt or Grave. Regardless of where the remains have been cremated, we are pleased to furnish Niches from $25 up, Crypts from $450 up and GRAVE SPACE FROM $5 UP FOR PROPER DISPOSITION.

World Nose Count in 1950 To Be Most Comprehensive

By HENRY C. NICHOLAS
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The year 1950, which marks the turn of the half century, will witness the fulfillment of one of the dreams of the statesmen, scholars and business men of the world.

The most comprehensive census of world population and agriculture ever undertaken will be made, and we will then possess the best picture of the world population and the world food situation we ever had.

The census of world agriculture will be undertaken by the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations. More than 65 nations have indicated they will cooperate in this gigantic undertaking, and it will be the first time that the farmers in some of these lands have ever been quizzed on the extent of their operations.

Along with population data six groups of information on agriculture will be sought. These will involve the size and kind of farm; how the land is used; how many people are on the farm; area harvested of various crops; use of animal or mechanical power; and livestock population.

• • •

RUSSIA, AS USUAL, shows no interest in this ambitious undertaking. But some of the countries behind the iron curtain have indicated they will participate. Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary, all under Communist influence, will co-operate in this gigantic farm-fact-collecting project.

More than 140,000 trained enumerators will interview the 150,000,000 people and obtain detail information on the agricultural situation in the United States. This is a far cry from the first decennial census in 1790, which was presided over by Thomas Jefferson, as Secretary of State.

This first census was conducted by the 17 United States marshals, aided by 600 assistant marshals. There were no special forms to record answers to the few simple inquiries. Each enumerator used whatever paper or notebook he chose.

After completion the enumerator posted the lists of names in two public places in his district—in taverns, meeting houses or other points of gathering—so that persons who had been overlooked might add their names.

• • •

IF PRESENT PLANS are completed, there will also be a census of population of the Western Hemisphere. For the last two years the Census bureau in Washington has been training statisticians of Central and South American countries in the art of census taking, in preparation for a census of the Americas in 1950.

The present estimate of the world population is 2.3 billions. It is also estimated that there is a maximum of 4.5 billion acres of potential arable land, a ratio of less than 3 acres per person.

These accepted figures, however, are mere estimates, which are not sustained by censuses in a large number of countries. China has never taken a census and estimates of her population vary from 400 million to over 500 million. The now accepted population and agriculture data in other countries may prove to be equally inaccurate.

The information supplied by this near-world census of 1950 may greatly alter the picture we now have of the world situation. It will supply statesmen, scientists and businessmen with information on world conditions, regarding which they are now largely ignorant, and may greatly influence the course of future history.

PHILIP M. HAUSER
Acting Director, Bureau of Census

A Little Bit Of Everything

By russ lang

Roger, Roger. It seems such a long time since "OUR BOYS" chuffed off for Ann Arbor, but we simply have to tell you about this. After an unusually stirring send-off and the noisy crowd of kids had scattered in happy disarray, we met Roger.

A spry old gentleman in porter's cap hoisted a discarded placard high aloft and marched all around the station shouting football's traditional disinterest in our good neighbor to the north; "WE DON'T GIVE A D--- FOR THE WHOLE STATE OF MICHIGAN." ROGER, Roger.

• • •

Mom, "Now, Junior, what do you say at a party when you've had enough?"

Jun. "Goodbye."

It not only seems but it really is longer since Homecoming night. However, having had a little experience with cowboy boots, and knowing that it was not Rodeo time in Bexley, we couldn't help furling our toes whenever one or all of the playtime cow waddies went by our perch in the Deshler lobby.

It was not until later, much later, that we learned their identity; a passel of fine Chiropodists up to their annual Homecoming trick of treats. Even so, we can't quite get clear of the idea that maybe in the beginning each member of the gay, colorful bunch was just as well pleased that his room mate could help ease his dawgs.

• • •

Perhaps the voter has arrived at literacy in the eyes of the law.

• • •

We can't swear to the one about Mom and Jun. but we can swear to this one. It happened in our own house before our own wildly delighted eyes out there where the orange juice flows like water. To be fancy, we were serving the o.j. in the patio while the management was trying to talk turkey in the kitchen with an Apache Indian.

Right about then in flounced a very fancy Mother, fresh off the "Golden State" with an adopted son in tow, and most anxious to show him off. Incidentally, the writer does not mean merely plain old fancy fancy but a lady who, above all things, must follow rigid protocol. The following ensued, with the Indian never moving an eyelash:

Mom, "Won't you have some orange juice, G.B.?"

G. B., "No."

Mom, "No what, G. B. Darlin'?"

G. B. "No, orange juice."

• • •

This Thanksgiving Day let us remember that we are very, very lucky to be Americans. After all, the story could have set down elsewhere and, as a matter of fact, when he became airborne the odds were 15 to 1 against every one of us.

But we were lucky. We hit the jackpot. We live in the United Stated of America.

Odd Fact

On her way to get her driver's license, a woman in Newark, Ohio, lost control of her car and crashed into the Motor Vehicle Bureau office, injuring two employees.

Christmas Seals were first sold in Denmark in 1904. The idea was "imported" to this country in 1907.

RECORD WANT ADS GET RESULTS.

Odd Fact

In Clearwater, Fla., fourteen green flags stolen from the country club were returned with a note saying, "Sorry, but we can't find any use for these."

By Mrs E. C. Sheets

Don't forget the annual Christmas bazaar and supper to be held Saturday night, Dec. 3, in the Columbia Heights Methodist Church basement. It is put on by the Monitors (young married folks) of the Sunday School. You will find attractive gifts priced very low. Supper will start at 5:30.

Thanksgiving Day was celebrated in true family style when the five children of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Sheets, Sr., came home with their families for the day. They were Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Sheets, Jr., and sons, Edward III and Jeffry, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Lamb and sons, Tom, Jim, Bill, Tim, Rex and Tad, Mr. and Mrs. John David Sheets and sons, David and Dick, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Nole and children, Cheryl and Dennis, and Mr. and Mrs. Elton Kaderly and children, Caroline, Rebecca and Robert.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Taylor and daughter, Eva, and Dr. Richard Frankhauser visited over the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Golden Yeater, Maple-dr.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Broyles, Smith-rd, spent several days in Detroit to celebrate the 47th wedding anniversary of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McComis. It was also the 30th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Russel Broyles, as well as his birthday. Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Wallace (sister of Mrs. Broyles) were on hand to help celebrate her husband's birthday. It looks as if November had only one day.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Schroeder entertained Thanksgiving Day. Their guests were her father and sister, Mr. Jackson and Eloise Jackson, Decatur, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Leichty, another sister, of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Marion Jackson (her brother) and two daughters, of Huntington, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Schroeder, 164 Lawrence-av, entertained the Rome Card Club, Saturday night, the guests being Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Butin, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Denman, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Lamb, D. C. Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Warner and family spent Thanksgiving with John Warner, son of D. C. Warner and family, 1182 Kelton-av.

Jim Beery was week-end guest at the Henry Warner home.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Caris, Maple-dr, entertained their son and daughter Thanksgiving Day. Rev. and Mrs. Robert Peterson and four sons of Sandusky and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Caris of Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Barnecut, Maple-dr, entertained for Thanksgiving their son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Earl Knisely, and son, John, and niece, Mrs. Edgar Landon, and son, Hal Michael, Worthington.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shinn, 201 Pasadena-av, entertained Thanksgiving Day, his mother, brother and sisters, Mrs. Matti Shinn, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Sweetman, Henry Shinn and Thelma and Selma Shinn.

Mr. and Mrs. Raus Ritchey are staying at the home of their son, Kent Ritchey, Pasadena-av, while the younger Ritcheys are visiting in Michigan. Saturday afternoon Robert N. Clark, brother-in-law of Raus Ritchey, visited him.

Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Ison, Gregg-av, spent last week-end in Stephens, Ky., visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira P. Ison.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ison, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Suver and family, Buena Vista-av, and Marjorie Krohn, Maple-dr, spent Thanksgiving Day at the Ison home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Elliott, Amity-rd, entertained his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Elliott, Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Coulter and Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Schoonover and family spent Thanksgiving Day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Sampson.

Little Virginia Whalen (Sister) celebrated her sixth birthday with a party. Those attending were Linda Richey, Tommy English, Billy and Virginia Hackensmith and Janie Lowery.

Marie Beatty visited at the Whalen home Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Shephard and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hauff, Columbus, visited Saturday evening at the Whalen home.

Mr. and Mrs. William Craigie, parents of G. T. English, were Thanksgiving and week-end guests at the English home, Pasadena-av.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Armstrong had the family dinner Thanksgiving Day at the home. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Loel Lamb and family, Mrs. Harold Hart (Mildred Johnson).

Phyllis Armstrong was maid of honor and Paul Armstrong was an usher at the Lois Alder-Jim Rice wedding in Hilliards Thanksgiving night.

Household Hint

If dresser drawers stick, even with soap and paraffin treatment, locate the spot that sticks; it probably will be a bit smoother than the rest. Sandpaper or plane down, but be careful not to take off too much wood. Make sure that the front of the drawer remains at its original level, even though the inside edge may be made lower.

On The Record

By Harry Franken

Reluctance To Be Quoted Is Alarming

A plague to newspaper writers are the persons who don't choose to express their views for print. The "no comment" reply has become the universal way of dodging questions.

Each day writers are told "don't use my name." The anonymity of "usually reliable source" and "high government official" has been used by many who did not want their name linked with their views.

A fear of "what other people might think" has reached alarming proportions.

Ten years ago England and France were engaged in war with Germany. The general attitude at that time was one of denying that the war affected us in the least. A survey of Hilltop residents showed that the vast majority of them clung to the phantom of neutrality.

However, one man saw that we must stand for something, that ignoring the trouble abroad could only lead to our downfall. O. H. Craft said in a letter to the editor of the Record:

"The question before the American people at this time in relation to the conflict in Europe and Asia is one to be faced courageously.

"It isn't any secret to say that a large majority of the American people stand with Britain and France on this issue. If we fail to support Britain and France with our material resources now, we may be compelled to go the whole way later, and possibly against overwhelming odds."

Just a little more than two years after this letter was written, eight years ago Wednesday, came the attack on Pearl Harbor. Perhaps this attack might not have been so successful if the "large majority of people" mentioned in the letter had been as willing to support their beliefs as was Mr. Craft.

"Few would live so petty and useless!
That dare not hit at something ere he die,
Rather than, screened by safe majority,
Preserve his little life to little ends,
And never raise the rebel battle cry."

Galsworthy.

Things Is Tough All Over: As usual our sympathy goes to the store clerks and postmen during the holiday season, but this year we shed an extra large tear for Santa Claus.

Called down from his North Pole home while the children were still wearing T-shirts, the old boy has had nothing but trouble up to now. Dropping in on one Ohio town via parachute, a gust of wind took him past the city square and dropped him in the river. His entrance into one town was delayed because his sled, on a truck trailer, was snowed under. In a store in Pittsburgh Santa was fired for his "woebegone eyes".

Latest trouble of St. Nick is a letter from a little girl giving him one last chance to leave her a doll carpet sweeper. "This is final," she concludes, "I love you, why don't you love me?"

Hilltopper Elected To Medical Honorary

Effie O. Ellis, 110 S. Oakley-av, has been elected to membership in Alpha Omega Alpha, international honorary medical fraternity, at the University of Illinois.

Third and fourth-year medical students whose grades rank them in the highest sixth of their class are eligible for membership in Alpha Omega Alpha. The fraternity was founded at the University of Illinois in 1902.

REFUSE VIOLATORS WARNED

The Columbus Health Department has issued a warning that continued violations of an ordinance against dumping ashes and rubbish in alleys may be prosecuted. Dr. Joseph Drayer, deputy health commissioner, said cold weather has brought an increase in the number of violations—even where containers for ashes have been provided.

Mr. Palmer Found Garage First Day The Want Ad Way

Have you been looking for a garage in which to house your car this winter?

James Palmer, 2766½ W. Broad-st, had the same problem. So he placed this "Wanted to Rent" ad for two insertions in the Record:

WANT garage, vic. Hague and Broad. JO. 1108, after 6.

Result: He cancelled the second insertion; the first ad did the job, the same day it was published. In fact, Mr. Palmer tells us he could have rented three garages.

Use the quick, easy, economical way to locate shelter for that car of yours during the long winter months ahead. Start your ad now in the Record. Schedule it to run several times and cancel it as soon as you get results. For courteous service call RA. 1125, ask for "Classified."

New Pupil Enrollment Deadline Jan. 20

The board of education has announced that arrangements should be made between now and Jan. 20 for the enrollment of new kindergarten and first grade pupils in the public elementary schools in the Columbus school district.

Children who will be five years old on or before May 1 are eligible to enroll in kindergarten, and those who will be six years old by that date are eligible for the first grade.

Parents wishing to enroll their children should call the school for an appointment with the principal and the school nurse.

The school nurse is available at Highland Avenue School on Tuesday morning and Thursday afternoon; at West Mound Street School on Tuesday morning; at West Broad Street School on Thursday morning and Tuesday afternoon; and at John Burroughs School on Friday morning and Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

FRED GABLER OF 1500 WILSON-RD was the subject of a recent feature story in the magazine "Better Living," published by DuPont. Gabler is owner of the Buckeye Printing Ink Co., manufacturers of printing and lithographing ink. Two pages of pictures and story were devoted to Gabler and his local business.

13 Club Aids Fire Victims

The 13 Club came to the aid of a young couple and their children whose house trailer was destroyed by fire.

The trailer of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Snider, at 2344 Lenora-av, was stricken by fire, destroying all the family belongings. They were not at home at the time of the fire.

The Hilltop organization came to the aid of the family, outfitting their two children, one 10-months and one three years old, with new clothing.

Snider says he hopes to set up housekeeping again soon and hopes to be able to get some used furniture to replace that lost in the fire.

IN BUILDERS' EXCHANGE

The Ohio Plumbing Fixtures and Supply Co., 2012 Sullivant-av, was admitted to the Builders' Exchange of Columbus at the last meeting of that group.

Parking Allowed

City workmen had a busy week-end taking down the "No Parking Allowed" signs on side streets running into W. Broad-st and Sullivant-av on the Hilltop. The new parking regulations passed last week by City Council went into effect immediately due to an emergency clause incorporated in the new law. Ordinances passed by council usually become effective in 30 days. The emergency ruling will substantially increase the parking area in the Hilltop Shopping district during the Christmas rush.

Tarbutton Says City Wronged In Bus Fare Hike

Assistant County Prosecutor George T. Tarbutton, 180 S. Brinker-av, entered the bus rate fight this week claiming that city officials failed to protect citizens against higher bus rates and excessively high electric rates.

Tarbutton's application to intervene in the case on behalf of the public will be heard at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday in the court of common pleas by Judge Dana F. Reynolds.

He said that he is acting in the case as an individual and that the matter is in no way connected with his duties as prosecutor.

Hilltop Kiwanians To See Movies Of OSU Game

The first kick went wide, but the opponents were offside. The next attempt split the uprights and the scoreboard read 7-7. That's how the game ended.

Hilltop Kiwanians will relive the thrills of the Ohio State-Michigan game that earned the Buckeyes their invitation to the Rose Bowl, when Lionel Clark of the University Athletic Dept. shows the films of the game at the Kiwanis luncheon Thursday.

The movie will be the main part of the program of the regular luncheon meeting at Schmelzer's Restaurant.

Group Seeks Aid For 3 Families This Christmas

A group of persons who believe Christmas can be enjoyed much more by bringing happiness to someone who might not have a nice Christmas, has adopted three needy families and is asking your help in providing gifts for them.

All three of the families are fatherless. One is a mother with six children and the other two are mothers with three children. Any type of gift would be appreciated by these families, outgrown clothing, extra cans of food, or discarded toys.

Information on how you can help give someone a happier Christmas can be obtained by phoning MA. 1265, extension 491. A Hilltopper will answer all your questions.

GRANTED BUILDING PERMIT

A mistake appeared in the building permit column of last week's Record. It should have stated that Charles E. Griffin, 114 N. Haldy-av, has been granted a permit to build a 1½-story frame dwelling and one-car concrete garage at 262 S. Southampton-av.

Mike Zimmerman

Gilda Sellers

Barbara Galbreath

Rebecca Leach

Linda Reese

Jimmy Haughn

Winners of last week's Hilltop Record-J. Curtis Allen photogenic baby and child contest were announced by Allen today. They are Mike Zimmerman, 11 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Zimmerman, 32 N. Wayne-av; Gilda Sellers, 6 weeks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Sellers, 42 N. Ogden-av; Barbara Galbreath, 8 months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Galbreath, 219 Parkmoor-dr; Rebecca Leach, 4 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Leach, 92 S. Highland-av; Linda Reese, 8 years, daughter of Mrs. Betty L. Reese, 128 N. Central-av; and Jimmy Haughn, 3 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Haughn, 771 Racine-av.

Camp Chase Post Observance Dec. 7

A Pearl Harbor Day anniversary observance will be held at the Camp Chase Post 98, American Legion, Wednesday. Dinner will be served at 6:30, followed by entertainment and refreshments.

Non-members of the post will be admitted if they have discharge papers from the armed forces. Non-member veterans will be given an opportunity to join the Legion if they have served at least one day active duty between Apr. 6, 1917, and Nov. 11, 1918, or Dec. 7, 1941, and Sept. 2, 1945.

"STUDY" SULLIVANT AV. LINE

Hope for an early extension of the Sullivant-av bus line dimmed today. City Council, Monday night, asked officials of the Columbus Transit Co. to "study" the proposal.

Mrs. George Tarbutton Wins First Turkey Contest

Mrs. Tarbutton and her entry.

First winner in the Hilltop Record's weekly Christmas Turkey Contest is Mrs. George Tarbutton of 180 S. Brinker-av. Mrs. Tarbutton's entry won out over a huge field of entries on the basis of her originality in depicting a Christmas tree complete with ornaments. Her solution to the scrambled ad lines were concealed within the ornaments.

Mrs. Tarbutton's entry was not the only one however to rank high in the mass of originality. Numerous entries were ruled out for various reasons such as incorrect wording of the answers, insertion of extra words, lateness of submission of entries, and lack of neatness.

From the evidence of the many entries into the first week of the Turkey Contest, it is quite apparent that the Hilltoppers like turkey and that they like contests which the Record sponsors.

The first week's contest is now finished and another begins today, with another turkey for someone's Christmas dinner to be awarded to some lucky Hilltopper. The contest is easy—so get started now and win that Christmas Turkey.

Here are the rules: All of the advertisements on the contest page have letters omitted from the words used in composing them and the complete message can only be interpreted by taking the letters of the alphabet from a scrambled line in another place in the advertisement and placing them in their proper places. Only the letters appearing in the scrambled line of any respective advertisement may be used.

You do not cut the letters out, but cross out each one from the line as used . . . then you can check your results. All ads must be filled out.

Weekly award of a free turkey will be made each week with consideration given to correctness of answers, originality in submitting answers, promptness and neatness. All replies must be addressed to "Christmas Turkey" Editor and be postmarked no later than midnight Friday of each week.

Each week's winner will be announced in the following Tuesday's edition of the Hilltop Record.

Newcomers to this week's advertisers on the contest page are: Seillers, 2404 West Broad-st; Schroeck's Sinclair Station, 2460 W. Broad-st; Sullivant Avenue Lumber Co., 4200 Sullivant-av; Abbott Laundry, 1580 Sullivant-av; Reichelderfer Insurance Agency, 2823 W. Broad-sts.

IT'S AN EVEN DOZEN CHILDREN—six girls and six boys—for Mr. and Mrs. John A. Snyder, 268 S. Powell-av. The latest addition to the family, Thomas, is 17 days old today. The family, left to right, are Kathleen, 18 months old; Mary, 15; Paul, four; Mrs. [illegible], holding Thomas; Patty, two; Mr. Snyder; Tony, three; Regina, six; Helen, 13; Janet, seven; Mike, eight; John, 12, and George, 10. Dr. A. W. Verhoff has delivered all 12 children. Mr. Snyder has three jobs in order to support his large family. He is a printer at the Columbus Dispatch, and also works for Brinks, Inc., and the Hilltop Florists.

Dr. Ray Miller New Hilltop Shrine Pres.

Ira Claggett Is Secy-Treas. For Another Term

By Myron T. Seifert

Following the annual Hilltop Shrine breakfast, held at the Seneca Hotel, Saturday Dr. Ray J. Miller, 119 Binns-blvd, was elected president and Ira Claggett, secretary-treasurer. Dr. Miller succeeds Russ Carter to the Hilltop Shrine post, while Claggett was named to succeed himself.

With a total membership of more than 500 the Hilltop Shriners turned out en masse to fete a score of Hilltop candidates Saturday morning, preparatory to their initiatory rites at the downtown Masonic Temple.

The local club, which was instituted on the Hilltop eight years ago, has grown by leaps and bounds, commanding the signal attention of the Aladdin Mystic Shrine Divan who commanded the Hilltop Shrine Club for its splendid work in promoting fraternal fellowship and having a vital part in helping to underwrite the Crippled Children's Hospital program.

Hilltop Nobles of the Mystic Shrine contributed substantially to the Crippled Childrens' Fund when they assembled around the festive table at the Seneca Saturday morning at 6 o'clock, giving $180.

Noble Carrol Vance, one of the local club's stalwarts, became ill the day before the assembled breakfast. Hilltop Shriners showered Mr. Vance with "Get Well" cards and flowers at the hospital where he is now a patient.

Larry Keller official in one of the Shrine units, was in attendance at the Hilltop Shrine meeting Saturday morning. It was he who lauded the Hilltoppers for their exemplary work in Shrinedom, and subsequently called this matter to the attention of the Aladdin Divan and the thousands of Shriners in attendance at the ceremonial in the downtown Masonic Temple Saturday afternoon and evening.

The Hilltop Club was given a salute for its good work at the ceremonial, and apprised of its splendid services, thousands of central Ohio Shriners applauded the announcement of its achievements.

GM Personnel Man Addresses Lions

R. L. Woods, personnel director and industrial relations manager at the General Motors plant, addressed members of the Hilltop Lions Club at its regular meeting Thursday.

Members of the club made plans at that time to aid Kiwanis in selling the special Kiwanis Christmas edition of The Hilltop Record. Plans call for sales teams of a Kiwanian and a Lion to work together on the house to house [illegible]

Three On Sick List As West Meets Grandview

The West Cowboys will play their first home game of the year Tuesday evening when they meet an always dangerous Grandview five on the local court around 8 p. m., with the preliminary reserve fray an hour earlier.

As of this morning, Coach George Williams of the locals is quite uncertain as to what will form the Cowboy starting lineup. Three boys of the team, two of them regulars, are ill, which may prevent their play this evening.

However, at late report, the three will see duty, but of course not at their full strength. The three are Centers Jim Rudolph, Phil Young and George Crissinger.

Rawlins Opens Hilltop Studio

Jimmy Rawlins

Jimmy Rawlins Dance Studios made an announcement of special interest to Hilltop residents this week when they disclosed the opening of dance studios at W. Broad-st and Hague-av.

Located in the former library site at 21 N. Hague-av, the new school is expected to receive a warm welcome. Many Hilltoppers will remember Mr. Rawlins as a boy of 17 dancing at West High School. He graduated from West in 1932.

Class and private instruction for children, teen-agers and adults will be given in tap, ballet, baton twirling and ballroom dancing. The winter quarter will begin Jan. 1. Registration for the classes can be made this month at the main studio at Spring and High-sts. Purchase of gift certificates of dancing lessons as Christmas presents may also be made at the downtown school.

The Rawlins organization also maintains dance studios in Clintonville and Worthington.

Three Hilltop Misses Become November Brides In Traditional Ceremonies

Mrs. Grover C. Chamberlain

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Babbert
(Engraving courtesy of J. Curtis Allen)

Miss Juanita Rose Hinkle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harley R. Hinkle, 465 Hilltonia-av, was wed to Mr. Grover H. Chamberlain, 850 Linwood-av, son of was wed to Mr. Grover H. Chamberlain of Kenton at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday, Nov. 23, at the Broad-st Church of Christ with Dr. Floyd Faust officiating.

The bride wore a gown of ice blue satin ballerina-length full skirt, and a double-breasted jacket with a deep U-neckline. Her cap of satin bands with shoulder-length veil of net matched the dress and her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a Bible topped with a purple-throated orchid and satin streamers with tiny white shattered carnations.

Mrs. Charles Richards, the bride's sister, wore a dress of magenta satin and a matching cap. She carried a muff with four white gardenias.

The best man was Mr. Albert Armnet of Lima and the ushers were Mr. Charles Richards and Mr. William Porter. Hostesses at the reception which was held at the bride's home were Mrs. William Porter, Miss Dorothy Mason and Mrs. Forrest R. Hurley, Jamestown, O.

Mrs. Hinkle wore a dress of royal blue crepe and matching feather hat with a yellow shattered carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a gown of wine crepe and pink feather hat with a white shattered carnation corsage.

After a trip to Dearborn, Inn, Mich., the couple will be at home at 850 Linwood-av.

Mr. Chamberlain is a senior in the college of commerce at Ohio State University and the new Mrs. Hinkle is associated with the Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

Mrs. George Rempel

A Grove City ceremony united Miss Ramona Riebel and Mr. George Rempel in marriage at St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church Friday, Nov. 11, at 7 p. m. with Rev. Theodore Proehl officiating at the picture ring service. Miss Riebel is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Riebel, 749 Brown-rd, while Mr. Rempel's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Rempel, 520 Vernaont-pl.

Escorted down the aisle by her father, the bride wore a gown of heavy candle-light satin, princess style with a sweetheart neckline trimmed in seed pearls. Her three-quarter length veil of imported illusion was edged with lace held in place by a halo of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of white roses and carnations with ivy streamers. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Harold Garver, the matron of honor, and Miss La Donna Distelhorst, maid of honor, wore ice green taffeta gowns. Miss Pat Schley and Mrs. James Sanders, in rose taffeta, and Mrs. Ralph Ducy and Mrs. Ward Walcott, in gold taffeta, were bridesmaids. The attendants also wore white nylon mitts and carried mums matching their gowns and a halo of mums for their head-dress. Miss Mary Jean Lustnauer, flower girl, wore a white taffeta gown and a veil of illusion similar to the bride's dress. Danny Distelhorst was ring bearer.

Mrs. Riebel wore a dress of mauve crepe with navy blue accessories and a pink rose corsage.

Before a chrysanthemum and huckleberry-adorned altar in the Trinity Lutheran Church Miss Mary Carol Zimpfer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl P. Zimpfer, 232 Midland-av, and Mr. Jack Babbert, son of Mr. and Mr. Neville Babbert, 44 S. Hague-av were united in marriage by Rev. George S. Schultz Wednesday, Nov. 23, at 7 p. m.

The bride, attired in a copper satin, street length gown, carried a colonial bouquet of gold and bronze chrysanthemums with pink rosebuds in the center.

Her matron of honor, Mrs. Ned Smith, wore a street-length gown of green satin and carried yellow chrysanthemums with pink rosebuds in the center.

Best man for Mr. Babbert was Mr. Ralph Petty.

The bride's mother chose a gown of green silk with a corsage of yellow carnations and yellow rose-buds. The bridegroom's mother's dress was of black silk with which she wore a corsage of pink carnations and pink rosebuds.

A reception was held at Balcony Hall at 8 p. m. with Mrs. Ralph Petty, Mrs. Henry Frazer, Carmen Day and Phyllis Myers as hostesses.

For their trip to Cleveland, the bride changed to a toast gabardine suit with a tweed coat, brown accessories and a brown orchid.

The new Mrs. Babbert is a graduate of West High and Capital University and is now teaching at West Broad Street School. Her husband was also graduated from West and is now employed as a clerk at the General Army Depot.

The couple will make its future residence at 147 N. Burgess-av.

Not Much Coffee In Brazil

By Robert B. Stearns

Spot coffee, Santos 4s, N. Y. was selling for about 32 cents per pound on Oct. 14. On Dec. 3 the same grade sold at 48½ cents, about a 65 per cent advance in eight weeks.

One pound at 48½, that is, included in the purchase of 250 bags of 132 pounds each of standard No. 4 grade green coffee beans from Santos, Brazil, on the spot in New York.

Brazil normally produces over one-half of total world supplies and is the source of approximately the same proportion of our imports. The size of the Brazilian crop, together with our rate of consumption, determines the price of coffee in this country.

A long dry spell at the beginning of the growing season set off the speculative enthusiasm and our customary scareheads. The American penchant for hoarding further complicated the situation by removing an estimated million or more bags from suppliers to pantries.

The current crop, which will be harvested during our summer and early fall months, isn't even far enough along for the Brazilian National Coffee Department to make its first official estimate, due in about 60 days.

George Gordon Paton & Co., world's foremost coffee economists, in their Nov. 4 "The Coffee Weekly", make a brilliant statistical analysis and, in rare form, sum it up as follows:

"This would mean that world consumption (now estimated at a 32.5 million bag rate) would have to drop by 2.5 to 4 million bags in 1950-51 to achieve a balance between supply and demand. Which leads, by indirection, to the unanswerable question: "At what price will world consumption slump by from eight to 16 per cent?"

There are some who believe—not without some justification—that as a result of the recent upward move in green coffee prices, coupled with devaluation, a drop of 2.5 million bags in consumption outside of the United States is already indicated. Only time will tell whether this premise is correct.

However, Brazil's 1950-51 crop may have suffered from drought to even a greater extent than now anticipated. Brazil's 1951-52 crop, also, at this time next year may give evidence of being another small yield. Consumption, both here and abroad, may not slump as quickly or as sharply as many expect because of higher prices.

These are the factors that make markets. All we have tried to do at this juncture is to stress the fact that a severe coffee scarcity isn't necessarily a sure thing, or, to put it another way, may not be as severe as now indicated. The recent rise in price, also, may have discounted almost completely what may lie ahead."

Roving Photographer

By Bill Gibbon

This week's question is: "Have you started your Christmas shopping yet? If not, when will you do it?" Your ideas for "Roving Photographer" questions will be appreciated.

Bill Born, 92 S. Hague-av, police officer: "No I haven't. Usually I get it done at 8 p. m., on Dec. 24. I see too much downtown traffic as it is. I know what I want to get my wife, so I'll just go in and get it." Born was interviewed while having his car greased at Spires' Service Station.

Mrs. John Swartz, 186 S. Brinkes-av, housewife: "I'm not planning on Christmas shopping, because we are taking a trip South. My husband, three daughters and I are going to Washington, D. C., then to Williamsburg, Va., where he was stationed in the navy two years, and then on to Florida." Mrs. Swartz was photographed at C. & S. Dime Store, 1432 Sullivant-av, while shopping.

James Walsh, 1463 Walsh-av, produce manager: "My wife has done a lot of Christmas shopping, but she's waiting for more money from me. I'll have to do some myself Wednesday, my next day off." Walsh was interviewed while waiting for a haircut at Combs Barber Shop, 2698 Sullivant-av.

Rita Johnson, 626 S. Ogden-av, drug clerk at Todd's Pharmacy, 2578 Sullivant-av: "I haven't started yet. I haven't too much to do, but it will probably take me two weeks. I always seem to wait until the last minute to do it." She was "shot" while on the job.

CARD OF THANKS

FARRIS—We wish to thank our kind friends and neighbors for their acts of love and sympathy during the recent loss of our mother, Anna Farris, and also extend grateful thanks for the beautiful tributes to our loved one. Especially do we thank The Jerry Spears Co and Rev. Doty for their service.

Thelma, Dorothy, Eva, Ethel and Pascol.

Daniel J. Stokes Rites Wednesday

A young widow blamed the housing shortage in the accidental death of her husband Monday.

Mrs. Bernice Stokes, 193 S. Hague-av, and her two-year-old daughter, Sharon Kay, found Daniel J. Stokes, 25, dead in his room at 182 Wilson-av, apparently the victim of monoxide poisoning. Mrs. Stokes had been living with her parents and Stokes had taken a room while they looked for a place to live.

Funeral services will be at 2 p. m. Wednesday in the Jerry Spears Funeral Home with Rev. Joseph B. Shellhaas officiating. Burial will be in Green Lawn Cemetery.

Also surviving Stokes are his father, Dr. Paul Stokes of Mt. Vernon, and a brother, David Stokes of Columbus.

Franklin D. Joyner Dies Monday

Funeral services for Franklin David Joyner, 72, of 178 Stevens-av, who died Monday in his home, will be at 1:30 p. m. Thursday at the Wylie S. Shroyer Funeral Home, where friends may call. Burial will be in Union Cemetery.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Eva Joyner; three daughters, Mrs. Mary Blaken and Mrs. Florence Salesgaver, both of Columbus, and Mrs. Irene Roberts, Zanesville; two sons, William and David Joyner, both of Columbus, and a brother, Eddie Joyner, Middletown.

Mrs. E. N. Schroeder Taken By Death

Mrs. Elizabeth Nancy Schroeder, 81, died Monday night in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Albert C. McClintock, 299 Whitethorne-av. The widow of Fred H. Schroeder, she had lived here 56 years.

Surviving are a son, Fred E. Schroeder, and another daughter, Mrs. William Perry Doersam, Sr., both of Columbus; a sister, Mrs. Sadie Bergman, York, Pa.; five grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are being completed by the Jerry Spears Funeral Home. Burial will be in Union Cemetery. The family requests the omission of flowers.

CARD OF THANKS

SPANABEL—We wish to thank our neighbors and friends for their floral and memorial offerings; Rev. C. F. Lutz, the Burgess Ave. EUB Church, singers, and Circle No. 3, the Jerry Spears Co, and employees. Especially the State Highway Patrol for their cooperation. All for the help and comfort during the dark hours of sorrow caused by the going away and death of our beloved wife and mother, Macie Z. Spanabel.

George A. Spansbel and family

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

KIT PLAYED with Peter and Audrey every day until Marvell finished the job. In the companionship of these two, Kit discovered the meaning of the graciousness Marvell had counselled. It was purely expedient; for if she yielded kindly and patiently to their desires, she could with skill get them in the mood for hers. True, their moods were never long sustained; she snatched them as she could. It was a narrow step from story-telling to acting and Kit bridged the gap by acting out the cries of her own tales. When her listeners grew restless under their own powers, Kit stood ready to direct them.

Kit drew her material from the stories Marvell read to her each night, an hour before bedtime. And these were from the Bible and the Arabian Nights. He had the virtue for the rich depth of feeling and vivid clearness of the Oriental tales—tender or oratorical as need be—and both of them fell under the spell of the simplicity of the East, leaving the less comfortable complications of the Shakespeare set for later.

"David and Goliath" was one of Kit's favorites. To keep their interest up, Kit had to hand over the fat parts to Peter and Audrey. But she interpreted their parts for them in such detail that she was able to run the whole show.

"Audrey, you be Saul. And Peter can be David and I'll be Goliah who's killed."

Saul wore a rakish crown of golden rod, David swung his five pebbles in Kit's clean handkerchief. Goliath directed from the foot of the apple tree.

"Audrey, I mean, Saul—you're in great trouble. You can't win against the Philistines and a terrible giant, Goliath, wants to fight one of your men alone and take your kingdom if he wins. And you can't find anyone to fight for you."

"Why can't Saul fight for himself?" asked David who wasn't quite sure at this point whether he wanted to be the giant or not.

"She's king. That's why. Now you come up, a little shepherd boy, and say a little off-hand, not to show how pleased you are that you are ready, 'Let no man's heart fail because of him...'

"And, Saul, you fuss around him anxiously, and get out all your armor for him to try on—we'll have to have some tin covers and pans for that. And then David, you try it on, and look worried, because the stuff is too heavy and anyway you're pretty weak with excitement by now. Then you say, 'I cannot go with these for I have not proved them.' So you go off to work and get the stones and the pebbles. See? Now we'll do that much."

When Mrs. Stanewaski interrupted one of these sessions either for a treat or a whining command to do the chores, the three children shrieked at the top of their lungs, "To your tents, O Israel," and made pell-mell for the kitchen.

"What's that mean?" asked Mrs. Stanewaski collaring Peter as the three flew into the kitchen in answer to one of her bellows, "What's this Israel thing?"

"It's the day of revolt among the Chosen People," panted Kit, stumbling over Audrey who was trying to get to the batter bowl for the first lick.

"You'd think we were all heathen, to hear you yell that out. I don't know what the priest would say. Audrey, drop that spoon! That ain't what I called you for."

But neither Mrs. Stanewaski nor Marvell bothered them much. They played together, ate together and scrapped occasionally among themselves. Kit never got used to the messy kitchen with its peculiar smell. She stayed outdoors as much as she could. She accepted the cakes and cookies and other sticky messes Mrs. Stanewaski doled out and was slightly interested in the large amounts that the lady of the house consumed. Her face was always either flushed with eating and talking or really swollen in a placid drowsiness.

Once, Marvell asked Kit for her opinion of Mrs. Stanewaski. She said, "She's smooth and thick like the cream that comes to the top of the milk pan." Then she added, "and she sort of smells the way the pan does after it's been standing."

"Well, don't tell Nedda that," he advised. He called Edith Searle by that nickname behind her back, a name that her Papa had used and which she had repeated to Kit. Nedda, he thought with some derision and some amusement, had simply refused to give up. She rode with Kit each Sunday, bowed to him formally whenever they met in town or on the road, ignored his professional status entirely by sending a request to Henry to fix a clogged bowl in an emergency. Not that she had asked them to lunch, again. But his resentment towards her was easing off. Because she was coming more into his territory, out of that farcing house of hers, and he felt more at home with her.

One morning she arrived before Kit was ready. Marvell held up a sign he was pointing for her inspection. "It's for the head of the lane, on a post, what do you think of it?" The blocked letters that he was filling in with black paint, read "MARVELL COOMES, CONTRACTOR AND PLUMBER."

"It will be easy to read."

"I hope you won't mind professional proximity so close to you," he went on knowing that he should keep quiet but rather enjoying teasing her.

"Not at all."

"The Stanewaski job is going through on schedule."

"They are a shiftless lot."

Marvell grinned: "When they get used to the set tub, they'll be lily pure."

She flushed and he took it for oversensitivity, but she was angry through and through and when she was angry, she was honest.

"Have they paid you yet?"

"Half."

"You'll never get the rest of it. Stanewaski took out a mortgage for this venture. He's an illiterate, mean man. And his wife's off the streets."

"Maybe that's why," said Marvell gravely, "but shouldn't we say, 'The Common?'"

"It's not funny," she said. "She grew up here a fast, flashy little gamin who got into trouble with Stanewaski. They are both Catholics so he had to marry her. Everyone knows how she carries on—now—even after the children ... Now he treats the oldest girl like a work horse. It's no place for Kit!"

"I think you're wrong," his voice was too gentle. "They are teaching her something, to be loyal to her own kind."

"Her own kind? And what is that, pray?" She could not have stopped now, she was plunging headlong into his affairs as she had promised herself not to do.

"People."

"It will be the kind of loyalty she'll be ashamed of later on—and of you. You can't wipe out her first years of fine care and upbringing. Not now, but later, she will reach for more and blame you for having held her back."

He spoke very quietly. "If you want to come here, you must learn not to criticise us, not to nag, Nedda."

He stopped suddenly, seeing how pale she was. "I'm sorry," he said for there was something pathetic and almost embarrassing in those big, wet eyes.

She tried to control her trembling. But her heart seemed twice as big as her body and shook her violently. That name and that voice, surely it had been her father speaking once again. How could he know? Had he used it deliberately or was it meant to convey a meaning that only she knew yet, by intuition, but that was safe with her until he needed it. "My name," and her voice was a harsh whisper.

"Shocked?" He was relieved that it was nothing more. "Can't we use first names when we defy each other so often?"

"Yes, yes. I loathe ceremony. I won't interfere again, Mr. Coomes—Marvell," she added hastily.

He heard the screen door bang as Kit came out, crying, "Am I late?"

Marvell moved his hand in a half circle, a gesture that embraced them all, the house, the child in the doorway, the woman whose shadow lay tall as his on the lawn. "Give us a year and you won't have to interfere about anything. We'll be all set!"

* * *

There was a year of four seasons that behaved with decent respect for the equinoxes. No longer indebted to the earth, Marvell found it more friendly, nothing out of frost, out of flower. Now it was Indian Summer when some mornings had the clear ring of good glass and others were smoky with fog, smelling sharply of the wild grapes and the burning leaves. Now the circle of his first year had closed to be climaxed by Kit's birthday party.

The day took shape perfectly, slowly rising out of the smoking morning to the high arc of golden noon. The guests were to arrive at twelve-thirty. It was a hand-picked list, he thought. Ben and Fanny and Nedda, they were Kit's choice as well as his. Audrey and Peter, but no other kids, insisted Kit, too many of them made it their party instead of yours.

By eleven-thirty Marvell won on the thin edge of expectancy. He had nothing further to do. His liquor was in the pantry, the duck in Mrs. Crane's roasting pan, the lawn and the driveway combed and brushed. Kit was with Mrs. Crane in the kitchen, swirling the spatula over the iced cake, impatiently waiting to stick in the candles. He could hear their voices, monotone and treble, as he wandered through the rooms, moving a chair, rubbing a table corner with his coat sleeve, eyeing the decorations of autumn leaves with some dissatisfaction. They looked dead already, stiff as pokers, their once glossy leaves curled in dry despair.

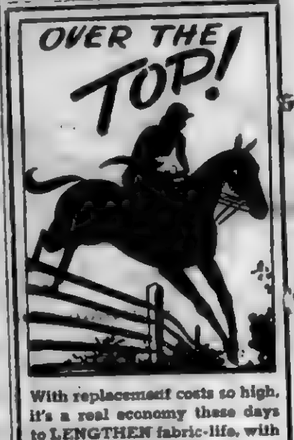
Job's Daughters Attend Services

The Job's Daughters of Bethel No. 1, the first Bethel organized in Columbus and in the state of Ohio, held their annual "Go To Church Sunday" in the Westgate Methodist Church Sunday, Dec. 4. Forty-two of the members were present representing 15 churches in all sections of the city.



Joan Dew of 145 S. Roys-av is the honored queen. After the church service the girls and the four members of the council present were invited to the Dew residence for lunch.

West Cagers Drop Season Opener To Newark 50-47

By Dave Miller

West High's basketballers inaugurated their 1949-50 cage campaign by dropping a 50 to 47 verdict to an inexperienced Newark five before a crowded throng in the latter's gym last Friday evening.

Consecutive free throws by Wildcat players Gene Watson, Ronnie Foote and Jim Cromer in the final minute of play spelled victory for Newark.

The game was as evenly matched as anyone would want it. Newark's Cromer and our own Phil Young were hitting the nets with consistency all evening, with Young ending up as the high scorers of the evening with 24 points, eight field goals and the same number of free throws.

The Wildcats, who started four juniors and Cromer, a sophomore, took the lead for keeps about three minutes before the third period ended when Cromer sank a free toss to break a 32-32 tie, and from there Newark held the upper hand, at one point by eight points, and a minimum of two markers.

Coach George Williams of the Cowboys had his boys keyed to a high pitch for the game, and the first quarter proved that by the 19 tallies they scored. Center and Captain of the Hilltoppers, Jim Rudolph, was out of the game because of a serious illness, but Young filled the bill at pivot very successfully, playing the full 32 minutes of the game. Paul Ellingsworth and LeRoy Hood started at the forwards, and Bill Thrush and Sophomore Jerry Johnson played guards.

Max Douglas, coach of the Wildcats, tried out an experiment at halftime, when he put two men on Young, who had already hit for 15 points in the first half. He felt that if he could hold down Young, he would be stopping the whole West offensive team. Young was able to get only three more points, all foul tosses. In fact, the team scored only six points in the period, with Paul Ellingsworth getting the remaining four.

The game started off nip and tuck, and West held its biggest lead in the first period by 14-11.

The Cowboys had a 19-17 margin at the first period's end. At half-time the score was 26-all.

Young opened the second half with a duo of free throws to put West ahead by two, but Center Bob Sims of the ultimate winners made good on a tip to tie the count. Cromer and Ellingsworth matched goals, but then big Ellingsworth added another bucket a few moments later, and West found itself in front by a margin of 32-30.

This was the time. Newark lowered the boom on the heads of the West Cowboys.

Gene Watson, the only senior on the Newark squad, sank a side shot to start things rolling, however only to tie the score at the present at 33-all. This was the time for Cromer to sink a free throw along with consecutive gratis tosses by Sims and Foote. Then Tom Riley of the Wildcats hit on two straight longies, and George Riley made good on a free throw to give Newark an overwhelming third period lead of 40-31.

Johnson and Young collaborated for three points from the foul line, and Jack Winnestaffer sank a long set shot which cut the Newark margin to 41-37. George Crissinger, who stands 6 ft. 4 in., jumped in a bunny shot from around the pivot to quickly cut the Wildcat lead in half, and it was still anybody's ball game!

Sims and Young, the two opposing centers, matched left-handed hooks, and the lead was still two markers. After Sims and Foote of the Wildcats increased the lead to 47-41 with two buckets, Winnestaffer and Young came back with consecutive baskets to again narrow the margin to two points.

However, in those final two minutes, three straight gratis throws by Watson, Foote and Cromer completely stopped the Cowboys, and with three seconds left in the game, Young shot a wild long shot from the side which stripped the nets, and the scoring was finished in the opener of the season.

Young was high point man with 24 points, followed by Cromer, who collected 15. Sims and G. Riley followed those two in order with 10 and 9 points respectively.

The Cowboy reserves won the prelim, 25 to 19, in a nice second half finish, in which they came from a 9-5 lead at halftime to tally 16 markers in the final half. The boys in their first game showed signs of nervousness but opened up in the final quarter. Eddie Bradley of Newark was high point man, followed by Bill South of West with seven tallies and Jim Lang of the Hilltoppers with six.

Sr. Class Plans Rummage Sale

By Myron T. Seifert

The 12A January graduating class of West High is planning to stage a rummage sale at 901 Mt. Vernon-av, Saturday, Eddie Sensenbrenner, class president said today.

Money netted from the sale will be used solely to replenish the class treasury, Sensenbrenner said.

Hilltoppers who care to contribute to the rummage project are asked to call Ann Manus chairman of the committee, 659 S. Hague-av, RA. 3471, or Sensenbrenner, 335 Guernsey-av, RA. 2080.

Folks who find the church "cold" usually sit on the back row near the door.

150 West High Pupils To Dance And Sing Through 'Bittersweet Anne'

By Myron T. Seifert

Approximately 150 West High students will be seen in the musical comedy "Bittersweet Anne" to be presented at the school auditorium Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 7, and 8 at 8 p. m. under the direction of Mrs. Edith White and Mrs. Evelyn Hall, vocal and dramatics instructors, respectively, at the Hilltop school.

Pretentious scenery, most of which was made by the stage crew boys, art and industrial arts departments, will add color and interest to the scintillating comedy, filled with snappy music, sentimental thoughts and action.

Two romantic roles are portrayed by Lois Neff as Bittersweet Anne, and Bob Ochs as Capt. Roger Lee. Comedy leads include Mary Lou Tilton as Duchess De Grasse; Walter Smith as the Duke De Grasse; Lee Love as Noel.

Supporting roles in the operetta include: Frank Bahn as Papa Jule; Dick Palmer as Stefan; Dick Wolfendale as Drigger; Marilyn Gauggel as Molly; Pat Noland as Mama Jule; Margaret Morgan as Zeta; Dave Camp as Hubert; Joe Dickson as General Zozo; Daneta Adams as Queen of Dreams; Roger Horn as King Gus; Paul Lyons as Anton Jule; Tom Cox, First Pirate; Bob Kiper as the Poet; George Brown as Duke; Joe Gossett as the Jester; and Sue Glass as the Dancer of Dreams.

Mob groups—including pirates, soldiers, peasants, slave girls, reel dancers, and ladies of the court provide character color to the enchanting comedy. The list includes slave girls Barbara Bell, Judy Brock, Judy Banning, Bonnie Barber, Nancy Krull, Shirley Shell, Shirley Rein, Patty Overmire, Shane Swartz, Mary Steed, Doris Thomas and Peggy Morris.

Soldiers Jack Roberts, Joe Balthaser, Bob Pike, Bill Walker, Russ Gardner, Myron Davis, Dick Gilbert, Cliff Everett, Bill Gilland, Jim Calhoun.

Peasants are Elaine Fry, Elaine Coussar, Louann Roades, Charlene Lowry, Carol Luckshaw, Shirley Mielke, Joann Olpp, Almeda Smith, Barbara Stewart; Joann Willie, Julia Billingsly, Charlotte Cranston, Marylou Dawson, Norma Dehmann, Dawn Dennison, Joan Deyo, Wilma Faris, Lois Farrand, Ann Grabill, Shirley Grimes, Joann Hicks, Jean Huston, Ann Manus, Barbara Pindell, Nancy Sheppard, Ginny Cockerill, Martha Holt, Gilberta Coffman, Theda Hiles, Lucille Assay, Irma Anderson, Virginia Goolsby, Elenor Lane, Jayn Rice, Darlene Keithborth, Betty Walker, Helen Killian, and Yvonne Clover.

Ladies of the Court: Nancy Gilmore, Joyce Oura, LaVina Soualin, Jane Batfrell, Marilyn Jackson and Shirley Cline.

Irish Reel Dancers: Joann Hicks, Joann Olpp, Shirley Mielkle, Barbara Stewart, Helen Killian, Shirley Grimes, Norma Dahmann, Ann Grabill, Lois Farrand, Charlotte Cranston, Marylou Dawson, Barbara Pindell, Dawn Dennison, Nancy Sheppard, Ann Manus and Elaine Fry.

Mrs. White and Mrs. Hall are assisted by student director Mary Beeson and costume chairman Ginny Cockerill, supported by the makeup chairman Barbara Loechler and a committee of Donna Davis, Louise Bitzler, Sharon Clarkin, Ruth Cleaver, Donna Cramer, Diane Fulton, Donna Grueser, Dorothy Nichols, Charlotte Stuck, Sarah McFadden and Pat Underwood.

Working behind stage are members of the stage crew: Ted Biddison, Dick Briggs, Carl Dye, Dave Lazenby, Dick Kruczanski, Chuck Leibensperger, John Lusignola, John Meservy, Tom Myers, Howard Merriman, Joe Petitti, Al Shade and Durwood Vincent.

Providing instrumental music are: first violins: Jack Galloway, Mary Holmes, Phil Redick, Jim Garrett, Rita Ambrosia, Harriett Jones, Sheila Pugh, Jim Hall, Shirley Campbell, Roseanna Scott.

Second violins, Judy Harvey, Barb Wendel, Joann Lehman, Erwin Kuhn, Ned McMillan, Bob Faistl, Doris Ezzo, Jim McCrady, Joan Hogabaum, Jim Dailey, Beverly Boothe, Chloe Wood, Bill Baker, Elizabeth Frost.

Flutes: Dick Gilbert, Carolyn Stillwell, Barb Taylor, Mary Martindale, Joybe Arbaugh.

French Horns: Jerry Witherspoon, Virginia Vail, Pat Bennett.

Viola: Ruth Lorenz and Paul Forgrave.

Basson: Marilyn Story.

Alto saxophone: Herb Bosen and Jack Hagans.

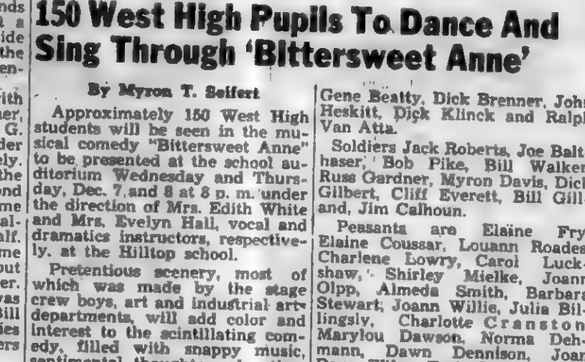
Clarinets: Bill Grim, Carol Graham and Margaret Calhoun.

Trombones: Barbara Nippert and Carl Cline.

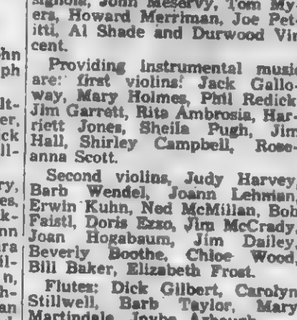
Trumpets: Jean Barlow, Bill Bayburn and Dave Miller.

Bass: Tom Heyl and Marilyn Matthews.

Bells: Janie Jones.



Piano: Bobby Johnson and Nancy Timmons.



WEST RESERVES WIN

In the reserve game, the West seconds won their second consecutive game of the year, defeating Bexley's seconds, 36 to 25. Paul Thompson of West was high man with 12, followed by Jim Wahoff and Jim Salomon of Bexley, who both collected eight. The local reserves, coached again by Fred Heischman, were never behind in the game.

The High Ridge Civic Association reports that the latest word from Santa Claus is that he will be present at the HRCA party at the Hilltop Church of God Friday, Dec. 16, at 7:30 p. m.

Cowboys Defeat Bexley 52-41 For Season's 1st Win

By Dave Miller

Led by their sharp-shooting center, Phil Young, West's basketball five entered the win column for the first time this season, defeating Bexley's Terriers, 52 to 41, on the losers' court last Saturday evening.

Young, who hit for 24 against Newark the previous night, plunked 22 through the nets in the Bexley tilt. He was time after time tipping in bad shots from the back court, and was, without a doubt, the star of the game. Phil, along with forward LeRoy Hood, managed to get a good percentage of the rebounds throughout the game.

The Hilltoppers, at one point in the opening quarter, trailed the Terriers by eight points, but from there fought an uphill battle to retain a lead they never relinquished. Near the end of the game, Coach George Williams of the locals substituted freely, but it wasn't until only two minutes were left in the game that he took out his stellar center.

The game was one of those frays where a few mistakes would cost you the ball game. For instance, Center Jim Alywin of Bexley missed two easy bunnies at the beginning of the third period, and before the host five could regain themselves, the Cowboys had scored nine points.

Alywin, the big 6-foot 2-inch center, who is only a junior, was very closely guarded by Young, and was held to a game total of three buckets, along with four successful free tosses.

In the opening quarter, Bexley tallied five quick points before West could even break into the scoring column. Phil Young's free throw finally dented the scorebook for the Hilltoppers. Then Terrier Jim Pohlman connected in rapid succession for four points, and Bexley held their biggest margin of the night, a 9 to 1 lead.

Then West started to click. Bill Thrush and Young got together on two free throws before Jim Legg of the ultimate losers sank a charity toss to make the score 10-3. Then Young hit on three straight baskets, a jump, a hook and a side push-up to cut the margin to 10-9. Then Jerry Johnson, sophomore guard, put the Cowboys in front, 11-10. Pohlman and Thrush then exchanged two-pointers as the initial quarter finished with the Cowboys holding a slim 13-12 lead, which they had increased to a 23-20 lead at half-time.

The final drive made the score 34-23, and from there on Young, Thrush and Co. handled matters pretty effectively, with some clever floor play by Hood also chiming in with the offset. Midway of the third period, Legg's push shot cut the Cowboys' lead to nine points at 36-27, but eight quick markers by the aforementioned trio put the Hilltoppers out in front by their widest margin of the game, a 17-point lead of 44-27. After Alywin's free throw West led at the third period end, 44-28.

Bexley outscored West in the final quarter, 13-8, but all was in vain, because the third period spurts meant the ball game.

Young was top scorer with his 22 markers, followed by Pohlman of the Lions, who collected 11. Thrush followed in close order with 10, pressed by teammate Hood, who got eight.

Scottish Rite Masonry embraces principles learned by the candidates who petitioned for this higher honor.

Summarily the institution teaches and stands for the worship of God, for truth and justice, liberty, enlightenment, fraternity and philanthropy. It believes in principles rather than programs.

Pattern of the initiatory work, conferred on the elected candidates last week, followed this sequence:

Lodge of Perfection, degrees fourth through 14, include fourth degree, Secret Master; fifth, Perfect Master; 6th, Intimate Secretary; seventh, Provost and Judge; eighth, Intendant of the Building; ninth, Master Elect of Nine; 10th, Elect of Fifteen; 11th, Sublime Master Elected; 12th, Grand Master Architect; 13th, Master of the Ninth Arch; 14th, Grand Elect Mason.

Council of Historical Degrees are 15th, Knight of the East, or Sword; 16th, Prince of Jerusalem.

Chapter of Philosophical Degrees, are 17th, Knight of the East and West; 18th, Knight of the Rose Croix of H. R. D. M.

Consistory, Traditional, and Chivalric Degrees are, 19th, Grand Pontiff; 20th, Master ad Vitam; 21st, Patriarch Noachite; 22nd, Prince of Libanus; 23rd, Chief of the Tabernacle; 24th, Prince of the Tabernacle; 25th, Knight of the Brazen Serpent; 26th Prince of Mercy, 27th, Commander of the Temple, 28th Knight of the Sun; 29th, Knight of St Andrew; 30th, Grand Elect Knight K. H.; 31st, Grand Inspector Inquisitor Commander; 32nd, Sublime Prince of the Royal Secret.

Among Hilltop 33rd degree Masons are Judge C. J. Randall, Edward C. Turpel, Charles C. Cook, and John P. Kuhn.

Just Like The Nuts That Fall -- They're A Little Cracked, That's All

The annual nut festival of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club was held Thursday night at the Hilliards High School. The evening of wackiness was under the direction of "Farmer" Cunningham of the agricultural committee of the club.

On the right the Kiwanikwe chorus serenades Leo Phillips with the query "How Ya Gonna Keep 'em Down on the Farm". In the lineup (in the usual order) are Mrs. H. C. Cunningham, Mrs. Joe Agee, Mrs. Martha Hegenberger, Mrs. Dorothy Cowles, Mrs. F. E. Mersch, Leo Phillips, Mrs. Jim Miles, Mrs. Evelyn Shroyer, Mrs. Phil Stout, Mrs. Rosemary Egan and Mrs. Bob Trappe.

Hartung Retired From Fire Dept.

Lt. Arthur H. Hartung, 2440 Sullivant-av, was retired from the Fire Department Thursday by Safety Director C. C. Cole because of physical disability.

Lt. Hartung entered the department Apr. 13, 1921. He has been assigned in recent months to the Fire Department Drill School. His disability, examining physicians reported, resulted from smoke poisoning and injuries suffered through years of firefighting.

Complete Rt. 40 Improvement Of 7-Mile Section

Another section in the program for improving U.S. Route 40 has been completed and was opened to full traffic Monday afternoon. A seven mile section consisting of a divided lane highway, 24 feet in width with an eight inch concrete pavement on a 12-inch sub-base of local gravel is drained by a total of fifteen miles of six-inch drain tile along each edge of the pavement.

The improvement starts at West Jefferson and extends westward through the cloverleaf at intersection of Routes 40 and 42 and continues to the west limits of the village of Lafayette.

The improvement was started in October, 1948, under the supervision of Joseph M. Morrissey, assistant division and construction engineer, with Hubert Stritmatter as project engineer, and W. H. Ringwald & Sons of Chillicothe, general contractors. This portion of the highway was completed at a cost of approximately $1,000,000 in which the Federal Bureau of Public Roads and the State of Ohio participated.

Hilltop Needs A County Commissioner

It is welcome news to learn that Harold Cunningham will be a candidate for county commissioner next year. We believe he is a winner and a candidate who will get a large vote.

In view of the fact that the county commissioners deal largely in matters pertaining to the areas outside the city corporation it is fitting that these areas should have representation.

Cunningham has been both a city man and a farmer. He is qualified to provide good judgement on matters that would come before him.

We believe Democrats should get behind him and see that he is nominated and thereafter Republicans too will support his candidacy in a big way.

Gay Philosopher 1950 Version

Making its appearance in several local business places this week is the 1950 calendar of "The Gay Philosopher" series reproducing another of the famous original paintings by Henry Major. The smiling and likable but disheveled old character is pictured in a rocking chair in front of his quaint home This calendar is entitled "The Gay Philosopher Sez," and here's what he "sez":

"EASY does it," I always sez.

"Seems to me too many people are in too much of a hurry. Funny thing is they don't seem any farther ahead at the end of the day than the rest of us.

"Now me, I jes' keep rockin'—slowly, of course—and take in the goin's-on. What I don't learn from my paper or passers-by, the 'little bird' tells me. I know what's going on. What could be more important?

"Some folks say I'm a bad example. Others claim my takin' it easy inspires 'em to accomplish things. Me? I don't care! I've accomplished all I ever care to, anyway. In fact, I'm one of the few living examples of a man who is thoroughly satisfied with everything."

Harold Cunningham To Run For County Commissioner

Harold Cunningham

Harold Cunningham, 4744 Fisher-rd, will be a candidate for Franklin County Commissioner in the May, 1950, primary election. He is a Democrat.

The Hilltop Record has known of Cunningham's interest in this position for several months and today is endorsing his candidacy for the position.

Cunningham, a farmer, was for a number of years active in the insurance business in Columbus and has a very wide acquaintance throughout the county.

He is a member of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club and chairman of that organization's agriculture committee; is president of the Keystone Bible Class of Hillcrest Baptist Church and active in that church community brotherhood; a member of the Ohio Farm Bureau, he has three sons and a daughter, a stepson and stepdaughter.

He owns 92 acres on Fisher-rd, and farms an additional 150 acres nearby.

Brother Is Charged In Libel Case

Wayne Wolfe, 2130 Whitehead-rd, was bound over to the Franklin County Grand Jury by Justice of the Peace Robert E. Banker in a hearing at the Franklin Twp. hall last week.

Charges of criminal libel were brought against Wolfe by his brother, George Wolfe, 856 Midland-av, charging publication and distribution of an election pamphlet, "Know Your Candidate".

Wayne Wolfe was bound over to the grand jury at the request of his lawyer, Gail R. King. King said that his client will deny publication of the pamphlet when the case comes before the grand jury.

George Wolfe was an unsuccessful candidate for Franklin Twp. trustee in the November election. Wolfe claimed that material published in the pamphlet was "malicious and untrue" and that he wished to be cleared of charges made against him in the pamphlet.

A date has not been set for the grand jury's consideration of the case.

Ballots Mailed For HBA Election

Ballots in the Hilltop Business Assodation annual election of officers are due at the next meeting. Members not able to attend the meeting are urged to send their ballots to the secretary of the association. The secretary, C. H. Campbell, said today that all ballots have been mailed out.

Candidates for the offices are F. D. Sparks and Ed. Witherspoon for president, Dr. Fred S. Marsch and John Nippert for first v. pres., Dr. Palmer Cordray and Harold Erlenbach, Sr. for second vice president, Elmer Regenberger and Paul Leighninger for treasurer, and Sam Alford, Joe Briggs, Russell Carter, Dr. E. E. McNamee, Dr. R. J. Miller, and Paul Rausch for trustees. Three trustees are to be elected.

IS 32ND DEGREE MASON

The name of Dr. Bruce A. Tanner, 13 N. Westmoor-av, was omitted from the list of Hilltoppers receiving advanced Masonic degrees at the recent ceremony in the Masonic Hall, 34 N. Fourth-st. Tanner was awarded 32nd degree honors.

Revenue Agents Take Car For Tardy Taxes

Officials of the office of the local Collector of Internal Revenue have impounded a shiny, new 1949 Buick "Roadmaster" sedan because its owner failed to meet income tax payments.

The sealed automobile was hauled into Stropes Garage, 2432 W. Broad-st, where it will remain until Dec. 13. Then it will be auctioned by the government to cover the unpaid tax bill.

The auto is owned by Harry Kershaw, 283 S. Highland-av. He has been arrested numerous times as a numbers man. Seizure of the car was according to routine procedure as a "last resort," said Harry F. Busey, collector of internal revenue here.

Van Ness To Make Year-End HRCA Address

H. T. Van Ness, president of the HRCA, will deliver the 1949 closing of the year address at the monthly meeting to be held next Tuesday evening at 7:45, in the recreation room of the Hilltop Church of God, corner of Whitethorne and Safford-avs.

All members are urged to attend this meeting as reports are to be made on the High Ridge school project.

Final arrangements will be made for the association's first annual Christmas party to be held Friday evening, Dec. 16.

Dailey New President Of Property Owners

W. Herbert Dailey, 615 Belvidere-av, former city councilman, has been elected president of the Franklin County Property Owners Association.

A new year's party will be held the first week of January, at which time new members of the association will be introduced and the officers will be installed.

KIWANIS PRESIDENT'S BALL

The annual Columbus Kiwanis president's banquet and inaugural ball will be held at the Neil House Saturday evening. Reservations are being taken for the event.

Plan Kiwanis Christmas Paper Sale

FINAL DETAILS ON THE HILLTOP KIWANIS charity edition of The Hilltop Record, to go on sale Thursday, December 15, made this week when the arrangements committee met. The committee is responsible for distribution of the special issue newspaper. The committee is, left to right, John Nippert, Ben Knepper, chairman; Sam Morrison and Howard Tuttle. Funds from the sale of the paper will go to worthwhile charities.

Mentorwood K of P Names New Officers

John Schmauch has been elected chancellor commander of the Mentorwood Lodge 770 of the Knights of Pythias, W. Broad-st at Burgess-av.

Other officers elected by the lodge at the recent election are Robert Herd, vice chancellor; Charles J. Hoodlett, prelate; George Ringa, master of works; O. E. Spencer, secretary; E. J. Dunavent, master of finance; Ralph Bieber, treasurer; Carl Smith, master at arms; Edward Gleeson, outer guard; William Ardle, inner guard; and Harry Hiss, trustee for a three-year term.

August Weber of the Mentorwood Lodge has been appointed a member of the Supreme Tribunal.

Installation date for officers will be early in January.

Hilltopper Guilty In Traffic Death

Donald J. Moerch, 20, of 484 S. Ogden-av, was found guilty of second degree manslaughter by a Common Pleas Court jury in Lancaster Wednesday.

Moerch's automobile was involved in a collision in which Mrs. Idella Florence Denune of near Stoutsville was killed Sept. 2, 1948, near Lithopolis, while returning from the Ohio State Fair.

Two-Year-Old Hurt In Home Accident

Christina Boehm, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Val Boehm of 44 Brehl-av, injured herself last week when she pulled a chest of drawers over on herself.

Her father, a fireman, gave her first aid and took her to Mt. Carmel Hospital where she received seven stitches on the chin. Boehm is stationed at the W. Broad-st and Wheatland-av firehouse.

"BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS, and you'll ring the bell," Johnny Beerbower, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Beerbower, 82 S. Harris-av, reminds Aubrey Fisher, West High student, 310 N. Ogden-av.

As one Hilltopper to another, Johnny says, "Dig out that Christmas Seal letter, Aubrey, and mail it back to the Columbus Tuberculosis Society with your contribution. They need it!" Or at least that's what Johnny would say, if he could pronounce those big words.

In short, the Columbus Tuberculosis Society finds that its return Christmas Seal mail is falling behind last year's schedule at this time. The organization would appreciate speedy returns so that it can go ahead with its tuberculosis control plans for 1950.

Village May Expand West of Hague Ave.

Seek Extension Of Hague-av Bus To Pennsy R. R.

The Franklin County Commissioners have approved a plan to annex part of Franklin Twp. west of Hague-av to the village of Valleyview.

A public hearing on the annexation will be held at the commissioners' office of the court house Jan. 30. Motion for the annexation was made by C. P. Lauderbaugh and was seconded by Nathan A. McCoy, Jr. It passed unanimously. A petition bearing the signatures of a majority of the property owners in the area had previously been filed with the commissioners.

Land included in the annexation lies between the NYC and Pennsylvania railroads, west from Hague-av to Powell-av. Two areas east of Hague-av, one north and one south of the village, would also be annexed to the village. This land borders the railroads.

Mayor Archibald Rodgers of Valleyview said the annexation would expedite the extension of the Hague-av bus line to the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Rodgers stated that having the bus run through the village rather than the township would cut down the insurance costs of the Columbus Transit Co.

Hilltopper Is Oldest Newsie

J. C. Harrington Sells Charity Papers At 85

J. C. "Curley" Harrington of 3327 W. Broad-st, has staked his claim as the oldest member of the Charity Newsies.

Long one of the organization's most active workers, Mr. Harrington at 85 still enjoys a keen appreciation of the fine accomplishments of the organization he has served as president (1927-28) and in many other official capacities during his life.

He will be there rooting for 100 per cent response to the group's forty-third annual street sale of red-heart special edition newspapers. This sale is Dec. 17, when Newsies will man key corners about greater Columbus.

Judge Edward C. Turner of 4309 W. Broad St., is another from our community to hold "veteran life" membership in the Newsies. In fact, the thio Supreme Court jurist was a founding father of the Newsies back in 1907.

The Hilltop will supply many more active participants when the 125 or more business and professional leaders turn back their calendars and become newspaper boys for a day.

The roster includes: W. Herbert Dailey, 615 Belvidere-av; Robert L. Durham, 199 S. Brinker-av; Max Gutkind, 476 S. Burgess-av; C. Carlton Hartley, 2465 W. Broad-st; A. Louis Holzbacher, 97 S. Algonquin-av; James W. McDevitt, 462 S. Huron-av; Roy M. McGhee, 104 S. Ogden-av; Fred Moritz, 90 N. Warren-av; A. T. Vollmann, 208 Binns-blvd; Theodore E. Vollman, 76 Whitethorne-av; Leroy S. "Lee" Weigand, 3181 W. Broad-st; Walter W. Grelle, Jr., 2182 Willamont-av, and Otho Hayner, 787 S. Richardson-av.

Wins Top Prizes In Canary Show

Mrs. Richard Vail, 178 Whitethorne-av, won top honors in the Columbus Canary Breeders' Canary and Cage Bird Exhibit at the Deshler Wallick Hotel last week-end. This was the first time she had shown her birds.

A singing canary of Mrs. Vail won a blue rosette and cup, and her parakeet won first prize in the novice class.

Her birds also won four blue ribbons.

Illness Fatal To Six-Year-Old Girl

Carolyn Ann Vecchiarelli, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Vecchiarelli, 692 Whitethorne-av, died Tuesday in her home after a six months' illness.

She is also survived by her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Fannie Vecchiarelli, of the home, and her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Pataki of 1236 S. Washington-av.

Mass of the holy angels will be sung at 9:30 a. m. Saturday in St. John the Baptist Church. Burial will be in St. Joseph Cemetery. Friends may call at the Maeder-Quint Funeral Home, 1068 S. High-st.

Hilltop Donor First At Blood Center Birthday

A Hilltop woman who was the first blood donor at the Red Cross regional blood center in Columbus, returned Wednesday and gave the first pint of blood on the center's first anniversary.

Mrs. Blanche Lappe, 181 S. Roys-av, was one of 200 donors at the blood center on its first anniversary. Richard M. Allison, chairman of the blood program committee, said that 23,555 pints of blood were donated during the year.

Allison said that two per cent of the residents in the county were supporting the center, and that if 10 per cent donated there would be an ample supply of blood for all who needed it.

HBA Christmas Party Set For December 13

Members of the Hilltop Business Association and their wives and husbands will eat roast turkey and exchange gifts when the association holds its Christmas party at the Glenwood Methodist Church, Dec. 13.

The dinner will be served at 6:45. Music will be furnished by Carl Speckman's Male Quartet, and the audience will join in the singing of Christmas carols.

Men at the party will bring a man's gift and the ladies will bring a gift for a lady. Santa Claus will drop around to aid in the distribution of the 50 cent gifts.

Members of the association are urged to make their reservations for the party as soon as possible. The deadline is Dec. 10.

Mrs. Underwood Dies

Mrs. Gertrude E. Underwood, 72, died this morning in her home at 55 N. Skidmore-av. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Catherine Scott, 717 S. Harris-av, two sons, Clifford of Grove City and Gerald at home, one grandson, one brother, and one sister. Funeral arrangements are being completed by Jerry Spears Funeral Home.

Chet Cook Is Santa Claus To Needy Children; Ready To Play Role for 15th Year

By Myron T. Seifert

Santa Claus, in the name of the Aladdin Ardent Arabic Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, to thousands of Central Ohio boys and girls, is Chester C. Cook, 81 N. Warren-av, who will round out his 15th Christmas this year as chairman and emcee of Columbus' greatest Christmas party for unfortunate and, in many cases, underprivileged kiddies.

Performing his greatest role (and they are legion, as our story will show) he is never happier than when he can bring cheer and sunshine to the lives of these boys and girls.

Yes, Hilltop's "Noble Chet" has performed his greatest act of all, during the past 14 years, providing these kids with entertainment, toys, candy, fruit, nuts, etc.—and come Christmas Eve, he and his committee will again find their way to places where kids are sometimes forgotten.

Chet, and his committee of Shriners, last week-end at the downtown Shrine Ceremonial passed the hat and came up with $2600—with more to come—all of which will go to these important agencies in our community: The Franklin County Children's Home; Methodist Children's Home, Worthington; Hare's Orphanage; The Nightingale Cottage; Hannah Neil Mission; Florence Crittenden Home; and all crippled children taken care of the Aladdin Shrine in its jurisdiction.

Often donning the "Old Gent's" red suit, hood and mask, Chet fills his pack with goodies and toys, and migrates with his "Shrine Reindeer" to these different institutions, where the kids receive him with open hands.

In parceling out these welcome gifts with a twinkle in his eyes, an occasional tear of sympathy, understanding and joy which stirs his heart—drops behind the Santa Claus hood, and with a prayer of thanksgiving on his lips, he proceeds with his impressive sincere ritual of making the kids happy.

That jolly laugh of bespectacled Santa Claus Chet—that confiding chat of innocent childhood with the whiskered, round bellied fellow—are scenes the kids never forget; they look forward to seeing him next year.

A bed-ridden child; a youngster from a broken home; a kiddy whose parents have passed away—Chet knows them all, and can call many of them by name.

He also knows, in many instances, the case history of many of the tots before he goes to the institution or home—and manages to say a cheerful, kind word to the kiddies—scenes like these Chet never forgets.

And the kids, year after year, ever remember him — judging from the remarks from superintendents in charge of these agencies—and letters received by him years afterward.

So you see why Chet gets a "kick" out of dispensing gifts to these. Collecting the money from his Noble Brothers, purchasing the toys, wrapping the gifts, planning the schedule and party, and playing Santa Claus. And

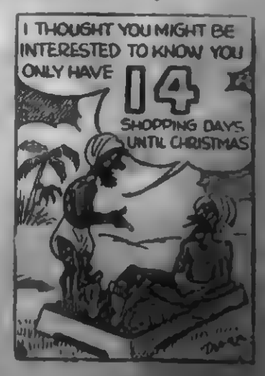
West Boy Scout Troop To Sell Christmas Trees Again

By Myron T. Seifert



West High's own Boy Scout Troop No. 45 again will hold a Christmas tree mart at the Sparks-Kent Grocery lot, W. Broad-st, beginning Saturday, Dec. 10, under the supervision of scoutmaster and West High instructor Jim Brown.

Boys in the wood shop at the Powell-av school have already completed 300 standards for the trees, under the direction of C. F. Bateman.

Money derived from the sale of the Canadian spruces will be used to help finance the No. 45 Troop Boy Scout cabin in the Hocking Hills.

Helping on the project are assistant scoutmasters, Stan Frost, Ronald Fuller, Paul Recketts, Ed Van Allen.

About Folks You Know

Goings — Comings — Doings Of Your Hilltop Neighbors

By Helen James, Society Editor

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Scantland and daughter, Marilyn, formerly of Cincinnati, are now residents of the Hilltop at 66 S. Demorest-av. Their son, Donald, is a freshman at Harvard this year.

* * *

Several of our social-minded Hilltoppers are entertaining their clubs with Christmas parties around this time of the year. For instance, Mrs. Fred Lively, 1943 Floral-av, will fill her home with 16 guests of the Donna Social Club next Thursday for a Yuletide gathering . . . And Mrs. T. S. Fox, 25 S. Brinker-av, has invited the members of the HEC Club into her home Dec. 14 for their annual Christmas party. Mrs. G. A. Payne of Bradenton, Fla., who is staying with Mrs. T. S. Fox, will hold a dinner for the same club at Mrs. Fox's home this week.

* * *

Two more new arrivals on the Hilltop: Mrs. Daniel McPherson and her family are changing their place of residence from Bexley to 397 Catherine-st, Apt. 4, and Mrs. Lucille O'Rourke called in to tell us that, while she formerly lived at 240 Dana-av, she now calls 91½ S. Hague-av home.

* * *

Mrs. Forest L. Keiser, Mrs. Ray Teegardin, Mrs. T. S. Fox and Mrs. Abe Davis spent the weekend in Wheeling, W. Va., where they attended a meeting of the Ladies' Oriental Shrine.

* * *

A late change of address: Dr. J. W. Schenz is leaving 3120 Ellispi to make his home in Hilliards. His new number will be 1764 Walcutt-rd.

GIRL SCOUT News Notes - - Activities

New officers of Girl Scout Troop No. 103 are Barbara Williams, president; Joan Davis, vice president; Jodell Bargar, secretary; Shirley Deitchle, treasurer, and Ann Cockfield, reporter. The troop has just completed its work for radio badge and is believed to be the first in Columbus and Franklin County to earn this proficiency badge. Each girl has appeared at least twice on a radio broadcast. They visited WCOL where Bill Hindman and Ed Sprague of that station explained the things necessary in producing a broadcast such as transcriptions, announcements, sound effects, etc. They also visited the Westgate Electric Co. where they were shown the mechanism of a radio under the guidance of Don Rice, manager. The girls have appeared many times on the Housewives IQ Program with Bud Sweeney and Rita Thomas over WHKC. Clark's Bakery once presented the girls with a birthday cake over the "Listen Ladies" program, and Nesbitt Orange Drink Company provided the girls with literature and their drink so they might write a commercial or sport announcement—one of the requiremnts needed for this badge.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bargar, parents of one of the girls, gave a television party for the troop at their home, Nov. 23. After watching the Milton Berle show and others, games were played and refreshments served. The troop members were guests of Tom Gleba on the Teen Canteen, over WLW-C Television Station, Wednesday, Nov. 23, at 4:30 p. m. They showed some of their work and told about their badges and projects. They arrived early enough to see the station and see the Tune-Shop broadcast. Troop 103 is the first Senior Troop to be televised in Columbus.

The girls attended the West High Neighborhood box social Wednesday evening, Nov. 23, at the VFW Hall.

Troop 103 represented the Columbus and Franklin County Girl Scouts and the Community Chest and the Columbus Citizen Christmas Parade Friday, Dec. 2, at 7:30 p. m. at downtown Columbus. Attired in their uniforms, the girls rode like queens in two beautifully decorated convertibles driven by Barbara Kenworthy and Mrs. C. F. Distchle, leader of the troop. Mr. Meyers of the Community Chest provided four huge feathers as decorations. The Girl Scouts are a Red Feather Agency.

Christmas Puppet Show To Be Presented At West High

"A Bowser From Chris," a Christmas story, will be presented by the Community Junior Theater at West High School Friday, Dec. 16, at 3:45 p. m.

Peg Bickle and Vivian Michael are in charge of the play, a puppet production.

The play is written around the two popular television characters, Stinky and Chris Columbus. Stinky is a mischievous little fellow who is always in some kind of trouble; but usually manages to come out alright with the aid of Chris Columbus.

The Christmas season brings more problems to Stinky because he wants a present that his mother and father can't buy for him. He goes to Chris for help but Chris is unable to produce the present; so they have to call on some fantastic creatures for help.

There are twenty puppets in the cast. They are exclusively fist puppets (Punch and Judy type) and hand-and-rod puppets (combination of fist and rod puppets). The first puppets are quite large, and many of them have movable mouths. Although some of the characters were designed and created by Mrs. Michael and Mrs. Bickle for television, many others have been designed exclusively for the children's theatre show.

Vivian Michael, author of The Hand and Rod Puppet Book, teaches art at Everett. She is a well known puppeteer and is education advisor in the Puppeteers of America.

Peg Bickle of Ohio State University English Department has presented many children's plays and puppet plays throughout the country. In 1945 and 1946 she presented the Lazarus puppet show for Christmas.

Season tickets as well as single admission tickets will be on sale at the performances.

Monoxide Danger Cited In Gas Burner Installation

Health authorities have issued a warning against the danger of carbon monoxide gas when gas conversion burners are carelessly installed in old furnaces. The danger comes from blocked flues.

Thermostatic control of gas burners permits extreme temperature changes inside flues. The resulting expansion and contraction of the chimney walls frees loose mortar and soot.

To eliminate the danger of carbon monoxide, two cleanings of the chimney are necessary, once before the burner is lighted and again a few weeks later. Soot and loose mortar can be removed through the clean-out plug at the base of the chimney.

Free Throws Win Nip And Tuck Battle For Bobcats

By Dave Miller

Grandview's Bobcats defeated the West Cowboys last Tuesday evening in the West gym 52 to 50 in an overtime thriller-diller, one of the most evenly matched games played in many a year on the Cowboy court.

With 20 seconds to go, Grandview's Tery Smith was fouled in an attempt for a drive-in lay-up shot, and after a time-out he calmly stepped to the free throw lane and dropped in two gratis tosses to cinch the decision.

The Bobcats were led by their alert shooting guards, Eddie Linsley and Smith, who plunked 30 points between them to spark the Grandview attack. However, West's Phil Young was not able to play, and that fact proved the difference in the game.

If Young had played his usual brand of ball displayed against Newark and Bexley, it's a cinch that the Bobcat tilt would have been a rout in West's favor.

Young suffered an ankle injury in the Bexley game last Saturday evening, and by game-time of the Bobcat tilt, was unable to play, according to Coach Williams. The latter felt that any constant running and walking on the foot might injure Young's ability later in the season.

Throughout the Grandview game, the two centers who took Young's spot, George Crissinger in the first half, and Jim Rudolph in the second, it was obvious that if Young could have been in there, fewer shots would have been missed, and West could have held a commanding lead.

Bill Thrush was the leader for the Cowboys, hitting for 23 markers, however getting only one in the last quarter, and the overtime. Thrush collected 14 points in the third period. It was great shooting under the basket by Frank Carson and Jim Rudolph that held the local forces together in the final quarter and overtime.

Just as the pattern was against Bexley, the Bobcats took a 5-0 lead before West could score. Bill Thrush came back with two straight buckets to cut the ultimate winner's lead to a single tally. The score at the first period was 9-7 in the Bobcats' favor.

Ellingsworth, Crissinger and LeRoy Hood got together for five markers early in the second quarter, but Smith and Linsley came back with a duo of buckets to make it 13-12 in Grandview's favor. Bill Thrush and Joe Steffe matched goals, but Linsley followed with a tip as compared to Thrush's side push to make the score at the first half's finish, 18-16, again in the visitors' favor.

After that slow and low-scoring first period, Williams inserted Rudolph in at the pivot in place of Crissinger. Rudolph, who had started the game, had to leave the fray midway of the opening quarter because of a recurrence of an injury, but resumed play in the final half.

The teams see-sawed throughout the third period, with Thrush scoring 14 of the 18 points scored by the Cowboys in the period. Bill played a grand ball game with his numerous timely shots, and his constant defensive work which was of great value.

At the end of the third period, Grandview still held a lead, this time of 37-34. However, things began to pop wide open in the final quarter, and baskets poured through the hoop quicker than the scorers could keep track of them.

Rudolph and Linsley matched hooks to start proceedings off. Then Dick Biscotti of the Cats sunk a long side shot to put the visitors ahead 41-36, but Thrush, Carson, and Rudolph came back with four straight points as matched to Biscotti's free throw to make the score 43-40. Carson sank a push, but Linsley came back with a drive-in bunny. Then, after Jim Rudolph layed in a hook from the left side, Jack Winestaffer stole the ball at mid-court from Terry Smith, and dribbled in for what every one thought was the game winning bucket. However, with 11 seconds remaining in the game Linsley sank a free toss to knot the score at 46-all and send the game into an overtime.

In the overtime, Rudolph sank a hook with only 29 seconds elapsed in the period, but Linsley came back upcourt with his favorite drive-in shot to tie matters again. Carson then took a long pass downcourt from Winnestaffer on a rebound and plunked in two tallies for the locals, their final of the game. Linsley sank another drive-in as bedlam broke loose throughout the gym. Smith was fouled, as he dribbled in for a fast break shot. The rest is history. After a timeout, he calmly sank two free throws to win the game, and under the new rules, Grandview received the ball out of bounds after the second shot at mid-court, and from there on, the Bobcat basketballers "stalled" until time ran out.

In the hotly-contested reserve game, the West seconds won their third straight game of the year, defeating the Grandview underclassmen, 33-19. Paul Thompson of West and Joe DePetro of Grandview were top scorers with seven points apiece. Morris Dobbs, although he only played one quarter, was second high scorer for the Broncos with six tallies.

Hilliards FHA Holds Initiation

The FHA Club of Hilliards High School met in the music room for its regular November monthly meeting. There were 4 members present.

New members were initiated Tuesday, Nov. 29. Some of the requirements were: Girls carried all books to each class in a large burlap sack; girls were not allowed to wear hair fasteners or lipstick and wore one tennis shoe and one high heeled shoe.

On Dec. 22, the new girls will furnish a program for the FHA. Sue Hamilton, president appointed Gale DeWolfe chairman of this committee.

Cyclist Hits Cow In McKinley Ave.

Jesse E. Smith, 47, of 3539 Trabue-rd, was injured Wednesday morning when the motorcycle he was driving struck a cow in the 3000 block of McKinley-av, Sheriff's Deputy Paul Stormont said.

The Upper Arlington emergency squad took Smith to University Hospital, where his condition was reported as "serious." Stormont said the cow apparently wandered onto the road from a nearby field and had to be shot after the accident.

Hilltopper Coaches St. Charles Reserves

Dethy

Ray Dethy, 3013 Parkside-dr, is a junior at Ohio State University, but he's no undergraduate when it comes to coaching football.

Dethy coached St. Charles reserve eleven this season, the first team he has coached. The team hung up a season record of four victories and two defeats.

They dropped games only to Central and North, the schools whose first stringers finished first and second in the city league.

Dethy is majoring in Physical Education at the university.

Hilltop 'Y' Hoop League Starts

By Joe Hutt

Last Monday night, the "Y" League was officially opened. Six teams are participating. They are St. Paul's E. C. Church, Hoge Memorial, Highland Avenue Friends, Burgess Avenue EUB, Hilltop Church of Christ and Oakley Avenue Baptist. They are coached respectively by Austin Hutt, Ben Lewis, Dick Koontz, Howard Dellinger, Charles Steele and Raymond Lowry.

A new system has been initiated this year by J. E. Downing of the Hilltop YMCA. The coaches of their respective teams will vote for the most outstanding player of the evening of the other teams.

The two teams to start off the evening were St. Paul's and Hilltop C. of C. They fought nip and tuck but St. Paul's came out on top by the score of 26 to 21. Bill Groomes and Joe Hutt were voted outstanding of the evening. Groomes of Hilltop C. C. was high scorer with 10 points while Bing Reeves and Joe Hutt were high with 8 each for St. Paul's. The score by quarters is as follows.

H. C. C.	3	4	3	6—21
St. Paul's	3	5	6	7—26

Highland came out victorious over Burgess in the second game by the score of 34 to 18. Jim Hamrick of Burgess and Jim McGuire of Highland were voted outstanding players. Hamerick was high point man for Burgess with six points while Bill Killian of Highland was tossing in nine points.

Burgess	3	1	6	8—18
Highland	4	10	12	8—34

In the last game of the evening Hoge tromped Oakley by the score of 38 to 13. Berry Emrich of Hoge and Clarence Golden of Oakley were voted outstanding players. Ward Cassell of the winners hit the net for 16 points while Golden hit for eight points. The score by quarters:

Oakley	2	7	2	2—13
Hoge	6	9	14	10—38

The referee and the umpire for the evening were Dick Slager and Bill Hall.

Chet Cook Is Kids' Santa

then on Christmas Day the Nobles see that in each agency every kid has the traditional Christmas dinner. Occasionally, he drops in and enjoys the dinner with the youngsters.

The week before Christmas he sees that the following day nurseries have complete turkeys for dinners for children and mothers—South Side, North Side, East Side, West Side, Goodale, Hammond Neil Mission and Florence Crittenden Home.

A Columbus public school product, Chet came up the "hard way." Perhaps this can explain his interest in children, their development and growth. A thumbnail sketch of his career reads like Horatio Alger; a recital of all his activities would make interesting reading of perhaps Hilltop's busiest citizen.

His principal occupation now is that of president of the Sunday Creek Coal Co. which has extensive interests in southern Ohio. He is trustee for several estates; president and treasurer of the Granville Inn and Golf Course; he is, and has been trustee of the Children's Hospital for 20 years; trustee and vice president at Mt. Carmel Hospital; trustee of downtown Masonic Temple; trustee of Columbus Tubercular Society since 1922; was auditor-trustee of the Ohio Public Health Association since 1936; past president (4 years) and director of Columbus Country Club; vice-president of the Columbus Club; member of Columbus Athletic Club; past president and director of Columbus Rotary Club; member of Hoge Memorial Church.

His Masonic history began at York Lodge in 1907, and West Gate Blue Lodge, as charter member in October, 1913. He was treasurer of the Hilltop body 1913-14; his other affiliations include membership in the following: Temple Chapter, April 1921; Columbus Council, May 20, 1921; Mt. Vernon Commandery, May 27, 1921; Scioto Consistory in 1910; and was First Lieutenant Commander in Consistory since 1937; made member of the Supreme Council, Sept. 27, 1936; Aladdin Temple, April 25, 1911; and elevated to Potentate of that body in 1936; Red Cross of Constantine May 16, 1931, as Sovereign, and on Nov. 11, 1940, he was made 33rd Degree Mason, highest official honor in Masonry, and is now Grand Herald of the Grand Imperial Council of Red Cross of Constantine.

Since the death of Mrs. Cook formerly Leah Ann Herbert in 1945 he has made his home with his foster daughter, Dorothy D. King, and his brother, Ralph E. Cook. He also has one son, Chester Herbert Cook who resides in Arlington at 1930 W. Lane-av.

West Teacher Discussion Groups Plan Course Material, Student Development

By Myron T. Seifert

West High teachers, along with other teachers in the Columbus school system, in conformity with the wish of Superintendent Novice Fawcett, are bending every effort to promote the cause of education, schools, and students.

First step in revision of the course of study at the Powell-av school was taken last week when Principal Irvin F. Young suggested to teachers a study, discussion, and finally a resolution to adopt an enriched, practical series of courses, based upon the individual student's needs.

"Problems common to most teachers come in for their share of consideration," Young said to his teachers.

Outlining many problems already confronting the schools, Young enlisted the aid of his coworkers in an effort to provide Hilltop teen-agers with every advantage and device that would tend toward the development of a useful citizen.

A general professional teachers' meeting among West High teachers is scheduled the third Monday of each month after school, when a seminar is held.

In addition to the general meeting, committees of departmental groups are already discussing problems common to each course, including the selection of material, minimum essentials to be taught in each course, and elimination of superfluous duplication in various courses.

Coordination of junior and senior high subjects will command attention in both seminar and department meetings, Young said.

Committee groups, and their chairmen at work follows:

English: Mrs. Florence Heitz, chairman; Mrs. Mary Dugan, Alma Keeler, Mrs. Delane Kittel, Adolph Kittel; Mrs. Thelma Knerr, Lola McFarland, Alice Offerman, Myron Seifert, Edna Smith, Mrs. Jane Thomas, and John Thompson.

Dramatics: Mrs. Evelyn Hall and Mrs. Velma Millhone.

Science: O. C. Montgomery, chairman; Mrs. Estelle Bell, Mary Baker, F. E. Bonar, Wendell Branson, Mrs. Frances Davis, George Heitz, Virginia Liggett, Earl Reed, E. T. Stone, and Calvin Park.

Language: Margaret Campbell, chairman; Leona Glenn, Mrs. Margaret Harold, and Edith McKelvey.

Physical Education: R. C. Glass, chairman; Fred Heischman, O. D. Lehman, Helen McCormick, Mack Pemberton, Mrs. Margaret Poole, and George Williams.

Household Arts: Lola Forbes, chairman; Rhoda O'Harra, Ona Prather, and Emma Uncapher.

History: George Neeb, chairman; Arthur Buchanan, I. H. Cammarn, A. B. Cole, E. W. Elliott; Mae Jones, Edwin Kaylor, Elnora Kautz, Mrs. Mary Mock, Mrs. Mary Murphy, George Neeb, David Randall, and Harold Washburn.

Mathematics: Harry Zulauf, chairman; John Brown, Mrs. Margaret Henry, Kenneth Love, Roy Marine, Ted Mayer, Cyrus Sedgwick; Pauline Sparrow, and George Wing.

Commercial: Eva Wright, chairman; Otte France, Inez Gooley, Frances Hannan, Mrs. Mozelle Warren, and Helen Workman.

Industrial Arts: C. F. Bateman, Arthur Miller, C. S. Kennedy, Jack Schuster, and H. G. Trout, chairman.

Music: Ola Trump, chairman; Clair Barnard, and Mrs. Edith White.

Art: Mrs. Florence Gardener, chairman; and R. E. Teichert.

Careful Handling of Game, Recognition Of Symptoms Can Prevent Rabbit Fever

(Editor's Note: The Ohio Department of Natural Resources reports that no cases of tularemia have been reported since the opening of rabbit season. In 1941 in Ohio, 213 cases were reported. This number dropped steadily with only 13 cases being reported in 1945. Last year, 15 cases were reported. The Record brings the following story on tularemia in the hope that the disease may be stamped out completely in this state. Modern medical science can cure tularemia, YOU can prevent it.)

By William M. Firtch, Jr.

Dead rabbits may kill a lot of men this year! Alive, the bunny's only protection is evasion, he's no man-eater. Dead—that's a different story.

The rabbit has only his hearing, protective coloring and speed to pit against the gun and dog, coordination of the hunter. The odds are against the rabbit and his life is short.

So you kill him. But then he may have his revenge if you aren't careful. He won't haunt you but you might wish you had never shot him. He carries a secret weapon—"tularemia", sometimes called "rabbit fever."

Tularemia is primarily a disease of wild rabbits. More than 90 per cent of the human cases in the United States are from this source. No human cases have been traced to rabbits raised under domestic conditions — not because they are immune but possibly because they do not come in contact with the ticks which transmit the disease. Skunks, coyotes, foxes, squirrels, beaver, groundhogs, opossum and deer have been found carriers of the germs. Quail, pheasants, grouse and other game birds may be infected. Domestic cats, dogs and hogs may also carry the fever.

Sickness starts with a sore or ulcer, at the place where the germs entered the body. Persons who pick infected ticks from sheep or other animals are in danger of infection from crushing the ticks in their fingers. Unlike many germs, the germs of tularemia can go through healthy skin without having a scratch, a bite or cut for entrance. The sores are frequently quite extensive, much swollen, discolored and ulcerated. Nearby glands swell painfully and may form pus. The patient will have fever and be weak and exhausted. The disease usually causes 31 days of fever, 31 days in bed and a slow convalescence for about four months. Reports of human cases in this country have sometimes exceeded 2,000 cases per year, of which five per cent die.

Best protection against the disease is to exercise great care in handling wild game. Wear rubber gloves when dressing animals. Do not handle game at all when you have scratches or cuts on your hands. Do not shoot game for food if it is sluggish, appears ill or refuses to run. Do not handle rabbits found dead. Keep your hands away from your eyes and disinfect scratches and bites immediately. Wash thoroughly with soap and water after touching even the fur of a wild rabbit. Destroy all rabbits whose internal organs are studded with whitish spots. Cook wild game thoroughly. This will kill the germs which remain alive and virulent in the red juices of undercooked game.

The pneumonia that may come with rabbit fever, or tularemia, formerly killed 40 patients out of every 100. Now a chemical remedy of the same general type as penicillin has been discovered. It comes from a living organism which is halfway between a fungus and a bacteria, Actinomyces griseus, instead of from a mold as does penicillin. This remedy is called "Streptomycin" and is extracted from microbes living in the soil. It was discovered in 1944 by Dr. Albert Schatz, Dr. Edith Bugie and Professor Selman A. Wakeman. Application has brought swift changes from a state of wretchedness to one of almost complete comfort, drastic drops in temperature, recovery times and disability periods.

In more than half the cases of tularemic pneumonia, however, there may be no ulcers or visible indication of tularemia. In that case, the doctor could not be sure what disease he was treating until he received the results of laboratory tests which would take several weeks. In some cases the patient might be dead days before the test would show that he had tularemia.

Streptomycin is a cure for tularemia with or without the highly fatal pneumonia that may accompany it, but to save the patient with tularemic pneumonia, it must be given early. Patients critically ill with pneumonia of undetermined origin, if they are in a region where tularemia occurs, should be given streptomycin at once, without waiting for the results of a test.

Tularemia has been known for 31 years, was first studied and described by the United States Public Health Service. Originally it was thought to be confined to the United States, but is now known in many other parts of the world.

WOMAN'S DAY OBSERVED

Woman's Day will be observed in the Hilltop Church of Christ, Burgess and Olive, on Dec. 11 at the morning worship service. Mrs. Paul Keckley, second vice-president of the Ohio Council of Christian Women, will be the guest speaker.

Nothing IS FREE!

You Pay THE BILL Regardless

COMPULSORY HEALTH INSURANCE, under the guise of broadening Social Security, would make wage earners more and more subservient to an already top-heavy Federal bureaucracy. Every individual would pay the full price of his medical care, through deductions and additional taxes—and would further pay in lowered quality, less freedom of choice, and mark of red tape.

In a nation-wide survey by Opinion Research Corporation, three-fourths of the people stated their Doctor's bills were fair and reasonable. For large and unexpected medical and hospital bills, 87½% preferred VOLUNTARY pre-payment plans.

NOTHING is free about a COMPULSORY Health Tax . . . don't allow it to become a compulsory tax burden. Tell your Congressmen and Senators you do not want it, and have your clubs act.

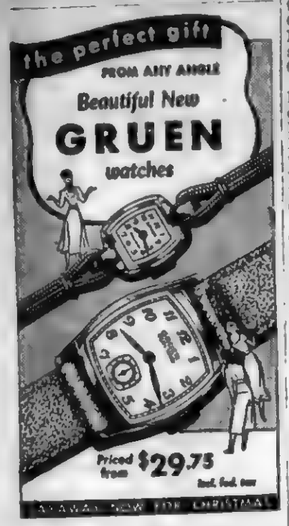
Five Apply For Eagle Rank In Southwest Scout District

Five candidates for the eagle scout award will appear before the Southwest District board of review this year. This is the second year in succession that five eagle candidates have come from this district.



These scouts are: Glyndon Davis, Jack Newell, Fred Braithwaite and Ted Biddison, members of troop 172 sponsored by the Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church. The fifth candidate is Lewis Mathers of troop 86 sponsored by St. John's Lutheran Church in Grove City.

Scouts will appear before the District Board of Review Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m. at the Burgess Ave. E. U. B. Church. Each candidate will be interviewed by the five man board which is headed by Paul Wichterman, district advancement chairman.

Upon the board's approval the candidates' applications will be processed through the local council office and forwarded to the national council where each will be placed on permanent file.

The awarding of the Eagle Scout rank will take place Feb. 12 at the Council Eagle Court of Honor.

Com'ittee Named For Legion Essay Contest

A committee has been appointed by the Camp Chase Post of the American Legion to conduct an essay contest for pupils of the ninth, 10th, 11th and 12th grades.

The title for the essay will be "The American Way — How to Improve It." Final date for entering the contest is Jan. 20.

E. Blair Graham is head of the committee at Camp Chase Post, and is being aided by Milton Hain and Bernhardt Swisher. The essays must be not less than 400 words long and not more than 600.

Camp Chase Post is sponsoring the contest for West Junior and Senior High Schools, Holy Family School, Starling Junior High School, and the Convent of the Good Shepherd School. Full details of the contest are available at the schools.

Seeks To Stop Reservoir Plans

Emile Reiss, former Hilltop attorney and candidate for mayor of Columbus, has filed a petition seeking to halt the city's plan to build a single purpose dam on Big Walnut Creek.

Reiss said that the dam would be for the benefit of areas outside the city and that the ones benefitting from the dam would not pay "one nickel" for its construction.

Reiss said that 22 per cent of the city's water was being pumped to users outside the city, who pay only a 10 per cent higher water bill.

City council recently passed a 10 million dollar bond issue for the construction of the dam and increasing the water supply. The money is to be paid from water bills over a 30 year period.

Sponsor Movie For Vet Hospital

A matinee movie at the Rivoli Theater for the benefit of the veterans' hospital at Chillicothe is being sponsored by the West Unit Blue Star Mothers Saturday, Dec. 17, at 1:30.

"Deputy Marshal" will be the feature attraction. Tickets are 40 cents for adults and 20 cents for children. They will be on sale at Hilltop schools and other locations. Mrs. Louis Kruczynski is program chairman.

Blue Star Mothers Ask Radios, Pianos

Mrs. C. E. Thompson, 68 S. Harris-av, rehabilitation chairman of the west unit of the Blue Star Mothers, has announced that her organization is seeking used pianos and radios for the veterans' hospital in Chillicothe.

Mrs. Thompson says that anyone having instruments to donate should call her at RA. 5746, and the instruments will be called for. She added that instruments not in working condition would be repaired.

Hilltop Grocery Store Buys Ton of Soap

Hardy's Shopall, 2461 Sullivant-av, is buying soap by the ton now. They have just received one of the largest single orders of Ajax cleaner to be sold in Columbus.

John Hardy, proprietor of the store, says the ton order was needed to offer a constant supply of the cleaner to their customers.

Delay Hearing On Entry Into Bus Controversy

George T. Tarbutton, 180 S. Brinker-av, was informed Tuesday of postponement of his presentation to Common Pleas Court of reasons he should be permitted to represent the "public's side of the bus rate controversy."

Tarbutton said Judge Dana F. Reynolds reset the hearing for 9:30 a. m. Dec. 14. Tarbutton is an assistant county prosecutor, but he has entered the bus fare fight as a citizen. The hearing date is to decide his right to intervene in behalf of bus riders, electors and electric consumers.

Tarbutton said he was informed by Judge Reynolds that Attorney Lawrence D. Stanley of the Columbus Transit Co. would be in Cincinnati Wednesday.

Rev. A. J. Wold, pastor of Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church, will be the principal speaker at the scouters' dinner at Glenwood Methodist Church next week. Robert Draper, Southwest District Chairman, will preside over the business meeting.

• • •

City firemen answered only four calls on the Hilltop this week. Anti-freeze boiled over in an automobile radiator, a stove pipe fell, a grass fire was reported, and two persons were injured in an auto accident.

• • •

The Hilltop Business Men's Association voted unanimously this week to hold a 15th Hilltop Minstrel Show. The show will probably be held in February.

• • •

Fate of the proposed General Motors plant on the Hilltop is still uncertain this week. A tract just west of city limits has been under option to the company for several months. No persons or organizations are known to oppose the building of the new plant.

• • •

The Highland Ave. Friends Church will hold special ceremonies at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, commemorating the 300th birthday of William Penn, founder of Pennsylvania and famous Quaker.

• • •

Ten Years Ago

Three Hilltop men have been appointed to executive positions in the cabinet of Mayor-elect Floyd F. Green. George F. Ward will be safety director, William V. Crowe will be executive secretary, and J. Real Neth will be director of welfare. Henry A. Koontz is rumored as having the inside track on the job of street cleaning superintendent.

• • •

West High Alumni plan a dance Dec. 15. A alumni basketball team will play the West reserves on the same night.

• • •

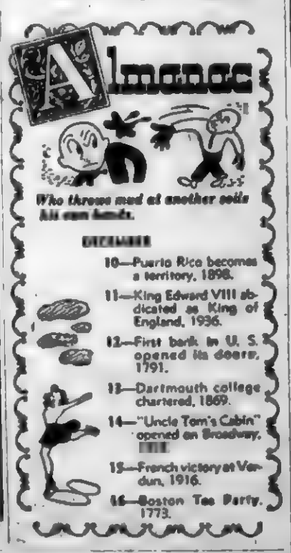
The Hilltop Business Men's Association male chorus will present a Christmas program at the London Prison Farm, Sunday. On Monday the association will hold the annual election of officers.

• • •

The West High basketball team lost the season opener to Hamilton 32-25. The team will journey to Lancaster tonight to try for the first win of the season.

• • •

Members of both parties attended a victory dinner sponsored by Camp Chase Post 98, American Legion for the winning candidates in the recent municipal election. Mayor-elect Green said at the party, "I've never found a job too big for me to tackle, and the job of being mayor is no exception."



Students Chosen For Field Work

John M. Zahn, 260 S. Ogden-av, and Richard M. Zimmer, 250 S. Warren-av, were among 28 seniors in the Ohio State University accounting department who have been chosen for field work assignments during the winter quarter.

The students will do professional work with accounting firms in 12 cities. The field work will begin the week after Christmas and the students will return to the campus for the spring quarter. Zahn will work with Touche, Niven, Bailey and Smart, Chicago; and Zimmer will work with Lingo and Konkle, Columbus.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

MARVELL Had already tested the quality of Brewster's whiskey; now he went back to a decanter in the dining room to really taste it. It was not bad, not good either. But there would be sherry for the ladies. With glass in hand, he retraced his steps, through the front hall to the living room, then through the newly cut door into what he called the study. Were there too many rockers, cane-bottomed or painted, the easiest buy at an auction? Did the rag rugs make the rooms look too bare, with so much board showing, wide boards, old, sometimes painted punkin yellow, sometimes sage green? Nothing could be more pleasing to him, nor more obvious, than the contrast with the red rep, velvet, brocaded stairways, walnut studded, over-crowded, underheated house he and Kit had left behind.

From the study he slipped into the passageway from the shed to kitchen and opened another bottle of whiskey. Replenishing his glass, he explained to himself that this would do very well, an extra bottle out here in case of emergency—snakebite for the children or Nedda fainting. He grinned. He could imagine nothing less likely. But if Nedda should be awkward and ill at ease with Ben and Fanny, would she run out back here with him for a nip? For there was a chance that it might not come off, this opening performance. He had staved them off so long. "Wait for the best weather; wait till I have it all cleared up, wait, wait . . ." And he must be sure and be business like with Ben, counting up the cost of repairs, the probable income from his yearly trade, the advantages of the country, be sure and stress that, for man, child and beast. "The house sets southwest, where our prevailing winds come." There was a fine ring to that, he thought admiringly, no native could have done better.

He wished they would hurry up and come. Right now when he was so ready for them, so sure of everything. He refilled his glass and set the bottle behind some old tins of paint on the shelf. Then he walked back to the front hall and peered out of the glass side panels of the front door. The grass, faded by the summer, was pure gold in the sun. The sun was fierce these last days, he thought, and the shadows longer and so it seemed to him that his own sensibilities were extended, in some fierce heat of intensity, to longer shadows of tenderness and compassion, for each guest that was coming. Suddenly, how transparent they were, how well he understood them! This day was for them and most of all for Kit, his singleness of purpose that would cut straight as an arrow across this perfect day.

He did not see the car, nor hear the first honk of the horn. Brewster circled his car around the drive. In the back seat, Ben and Fanny vibrated with the motor and then lurched forward abruptly as the car stalled. The gray house, the strong line of blue hills beyond, the tawny grass shimmered before their eyes like a mirage. All waited for a cloud to shift, the picture to fade, then Marvell flung open the front door and came toward them in quick strides, waving his hand.

Fanny jumped out and cried impulsively, "How lovely! It looks just as you told us it did."

"We noticed you'd staked your claim out front," said Ben, turning to give Brewster instructions for picking them up.

Marvell beamed. "I didn't exaggerate, did I?" And then Kit was upon them, crying excitedly, "I knew you'd come first!"

"Happy birthday, darling," said Fanny, stooping to kiss her. "Uncle Ben has your box." The oblong dress box that Ben carried was tied with white ribbon. Kit seized Ben's hand and walked him to the house ahead of the others, her eyes measuring the box.

In the small front hall Fanny stopped to admire its low proportions. "It must be quite old, Marvell, and how fresh it looks."

"Two hundred, I think," Marvell replied. "Kit, will you take Fanny to your room and do the honors?"

Leaving Marvell and Ben together, they went up the steep stairs laughing gaily, balancing the box between them.

"I'll get you something to drink," said Marvell. "Brandy? Whiskey?"

"Nothing now, thanks." Ben had walked over to the living room. "Is that where we came from?" he asked, pointing to the valley below.

"That's the town—you drove right by the Common. Did you notice the four churches? The view's great, isn't it?"

"Very fine."

Ben had never seen Marvell look so well. He smiled at him and then said nervously: "While we have a minute, before the party begins, there are one or two matters I'd like to discuss with you." He sat down in a stiff little chair and crossed one leg over the other.

Marvell shook his head. "But the party has begun, Ben. It began hours ago. Save it till later."

He noticed, then, that Marvell held a glass in his hand, a stiff highball to judge by the color. "This is simply a matter of information," he went on, "we are not going to take an inventory of assets or anything like that." He tried to keep his tone light.

Marvell took another drink. "Well?"

"As you may know, Emily had a child last spring . . ."

"Proctor took his time about a legal heir, didn't he?" interrupted Marvell.

Ben ignored this senseless remark. "A boy named Bradford."

"Yes, yes, I saw it in the paper."

"It makes a change in Proctor's future, shall we say. In any event, feeling more at ease with me, perhaps, because of long family association . . ."

Would he never get his piece said, thought Marvell irritably.

"He has returned, in the full sense of the word, his affairs to me." He pursed his lips as if considering the full wisdom of this move. Why, Marvell thought, he's as pleased as if he were a sophomore just tapped by a secret society.

"I would have written you the details, but it happened a short time ago and as we were coming out here, I thought it best to discuss it with you in person."

"What's there to say?"

"Why, I have been your advisor, too," Ben reminded him, "and our relations have been less impersonal than is the usual case. In representing Proctor again, I don't want you to think I am being disloyal to you."

"You're not representing us in court, are you? You can be our Solomon, Ben, not our Daniel."

"That old business," murmured Ben uneasily.

"That old business," mocked Marvell. "I let him off too easy. I wish I'd broken the will." He felt uncomfortably warm, from the liquor, from the suffocating blanket of self pity.

Ben looked at him in surprise. "You? It was Proctor who made that unfortunate remark. It's better forgotten. You came off . . ."

"Beautifully, didn't I? So unexpected." He slammed the empty glass down on the mantel.

Ben avoided his flushed face, his angry eyes, by turning squarely in his chair and staring out of the window.

That skunk, thought Marvell, never quiet for a minute in his grave, or is it mine? He wasn't thinking of Ben, or the son, or even Proctor, but of his own lost chance for a comeback. All his talent for quick judgment, necessary risk, sure-fire action—all of it cramped in the tool box of a country plumber! And why? Because when he had been free at last, Elizabeth had tied his hands, so unfairly, with a legacy—mortgaged his present to another's future. Why hadn't she let him go? Then the shame of that thought cut him and he protested hotly, that wasn't true—Kit and he were free, Ben must see it and applaud. That was all he wanted, approval and applause.

"Look," he said, grabbing Ben by the arm, "this is just a lot of child's talk—who cares? It's just a minute in time. Look at this house, way over two hundred. Look at the floor boards, hand made nails. I plastered that ceiling. Kit helped with the paint. You can tell her brushmarks!" He pulled him back to the window. "That's all our land down there. And the house sets—" Like a damp firecracker, his enthusiasm sputtered and went out. What did Ben care which way the wind blew? "The house sets still," he finished lamely.

"I should hope so," said Ben. He wasn't quite sure what he had started. He backed away from the window and asked conversationally, "I see you are in the contracting business from the gatepost. Where do you run the business end of things?"

"I'll show you my workshop," said Marvell seizing the opportunity to pick up an extra drink on the way through the house. "Come on."

But they were barred by Kit at the door—Kit in a new coral dress, fresh out of the box.

"Is this my daughter?" Marvell cried, striking his forehead dramatically.

Kit whirled around. "See! and the beads to match!"

Ben accepted her thank-yous with a pat on the head. Fanny watched him fondly. You are better with boys, she thought. They were all bunched in the narrow doorway, when there was a sharp rap of the outside knocker.

"Let me!" cried Kit pushing between them. It was Edith Searle.

"Nedda, Nedda! Look at my new dress!"

"This is a great occasion, isn't it?" she drawled, handing Kit a large package and Marvell her green sunshade with a bamboo handle. "I fully expected to see banners strung across the lawn announcing the event."

Marvell seized her by the hand. "Mr. and Mrs. Hall, Miss Edith Searle, Colcord's one claim to fame, our great sportswoman, usually appearing on a horse!" Ben shuddered—the introduction was a good imitation of a side-show barker.

'Think This Over'

By William "Doc" Campbell

Your Boy — 8-Years-Old — and a Piano

I saw a lovely spinet piano go into a house the other day, and I thought: for "advanced" or "beginner"? However, being exposed to the tone of that piano would eventually determine, in part, the correct love for beautifully toned music.

Well, I had some luck too, while young, in New York City—a Weber "square" piano, then a Weber "upright" and later a small "grand". At eight years of age, a few lessons from my older sister; then a year at the Brooklyn Conservatory of Music, with the accompanist of the great Belgian violinist, Ysaye, as my teacher. A year of a two manual pipe organ (our own church), then played hymns for the Christian Endeavor Society and thus through adolescent years came great days and many, many friends.

In Columbus thousands have heard "that something in my touch" while playing for the kids in the various public schools, and at West High at isolated pianos in the building—and always a group of keen youngsters. But why all of this introduction? Just for the reason that I never made music a profession, but was interested only in the joy of playing for myself and others.

Well, a few years ago, after one of my camp trips to the Adirondacks, I hankered for a piano. Going into a fine hotel at Lake George, I improvised on a splendid upright in one of the parlors. On passing through the lobby, the clerk called, "That was certainly fine. Come again." Then the idea caught. Why not play for my supper? The next evening I played again, and again he spoke. So I let loose: Could I play and put my plan before his proprietors?

To make a long story short, these hard-headed business men heard me, and agreed that for my evening dinner I would play one hour. I did so, but having no extensive repertoire and little popular music, I was "let out" at the end of the week. However, I received a four dollar dinner each night and was treated like a millionaire guest.

The following summer, and with new proprietors at this same hotel, I thought I might get more "eats", so I again played on the splendid action upright in one of the parlors. In rushed a youngish woman, all excited, and said, "Who is playing? Such a touch!" She offered me some refreshment and I then pulled my "stunt" again. She and her husband talked it over, and agreed they would be glad to have me play for their dinner guests and would provide me the same meal as other guests. The piano this time was wheeled into the lobby, but as before—a limited repertoire — and I was "out" after one and a half weeks.

But here is what I desire to convey. With my very limited piano instruction, the greatest joy of my life (next to camping) has been the making of friends through music. So if you have a boy (or girl) who will stick to it, let him be EXPOSED to GOOD piano instruction. Begin early, around eight years of age! Later he will rise up and BLESS YOU. Remember—YOUR BOY . . . eight years old . . . and A PIANO.

"THINK THIS OVER."

Rupture Shield Expert Here Again

E. J. MEINHARDI, widely known Rupture (Hernia) Shield Expert of Chicago and Michigan, will be at the Deshler-Wallick Hotel, Columbus, 4 days—Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, December 15th, 16th, 17th and 18th, Office Hours 11 A. M. to 5 P. M. only. (Positively no evening office hours.) He has been coming here for 20 successful years. Thousands recommend him. Ask your nighbors.

The Meinhardi Shield positively prevents the Rupture or Hernia from protruding in 10 days on the average—thereby guarding against dangerous strangulation. (No surgery, no medicines or injections, and no time lost.) The smallest or largest and most difficult cases are all invited. There is no charge for private consultation. Every ruptured man in this vicinity should come to see this Shield during the above specified days and office hours. This Shield is for men only. Notice: If you do not wish to purchase our Rupture Shield, we can supply you with any type pad desired for your present old style appliance—such as oval, concave or flat rupture pads.

Jeremiah Teaches Personal Religion — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Jeremiah 3:6-7; 20: 2l.

Jeremiah chides the people for their backsliding and unrepentance, telling them that the birds of the air know the time of their flights, but God's people "know not the judgment of the Lord."

After rebuking the people for their wickedness, Jeremiah defied them to kill him, saying, "Do with me as seemeth good unto you . . but ye shall surely bring innocent blood upon yourselves."

Acknowledging the justice of chastisement, man repents of his sins—"I repented; I smote upon my thigh: I was ashamed, yea, even confounded, because I did bear the reproach of my youth."

After man repents and is forgiven, the law of the Lord will be written in his heart. God will be his God, and promises that "they shall be My people."
MEMORY VERSE—Romans 13:30.

Publisher Addresses Adventist Group

A rally of literature evangelists, headed by J. F. Kent, the Seventh-Day Adventist publishing secretary of the Columbia Union, consisting of Ohio and six other eastern states, was held at the Eastwood Seventh-Day Adventist Church Saturday.

The theme of Pastor Kent's address, given at 11 a. m., was a call to the church to awaken out of sleep and engage in Christian service. "We have come to the darkest night that has settled down on this earth," he said, "and men's hearts are failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth." He admonished his hearers to be watchful of their own danger of becoming complacent in the saving of souls. "The devil is never too busy to rock the cradle of the sleeping saint," he declared.

Priest Named To Conduct New Novena Series

Rev. Anthony Kleinschmidt, professor at the Pontifical College Josephinum in Worthington, will conduct the new Novena series in honor of Our Lady of the Miraculous Medal which begins at St. Mary Magdalene Church on Monday, Dec. 12.

The Novena honoring the Blessed Virgin has been in progress at the Hilltop church since 1933. Services begin each Monday with Mass and Novena at 8:30; other exercises follow at 10, 3, 4, and beginning at 6:15 at 45-minute intervals up to and including the 9 o'clock service. Confessions are heard at all the exercises.

The Novena church can easily be reached by taking the Sullivant-av bus to the end of the line and walking one block north.

Rev. Dutt Plans Advent Sermons

Rev. Harold Dutt, pastor of Westgate Evangelical United Brethren Church, has planned a group of Advent sermons for the pre-Christmas season.

On Sunday, Dec. 11, the theme will be "The Birth of Hope", on the following Sunday Rev. Dutt will preach on "The Name of Names", and the sermon topic Christmas morning will be "The Gift of Gifts". Sunday services at the church are at 10:30 a. m.

No. 178860—Homer R. Langston, 1910 W. Temple, Los Angeles 26, California, Plaintiff, vs. Dorothy Tom Frazier, 67 Chapiel Avenue, Chicago 49, Illinois; Frank Frazier (husband of Dorothy Tom Frazier, 67 Chapiel Avenue, Chicago 49, Illinois; Betty J. Tom, and the unknown spouse of Betty J. Tom, if any, 6703 Merrill Avenue, Chicago 49, Illinois; Fred A. Tom, 6703 Merrill Avenue, Chicago 49, Illinois; Marguerite Tom (wife of Fred A. Tom), 6703 Merrill Avenue, Chicago 49, Illinois, Defendants.

PETITION

Now comes the plaintiff and for his petition, says that he is seized in fee simple and in possession of the following described real estate: Situated in the County of Franklin, in the State of Ohio, and in the Township of Franklin: Being in Survey No 1279, Virginia Military Land, and being also a part of a certain tract of 45.87 acres conveyed by Charles E. Tom, et al., to Emmet E. Tom, et al., by deed shown of record in Deed Book 234, page 420, Franklin County Records, and being more particularly described as follows: Beginning at an iron pin in the north line of the P. C. C. and St. L. Railroad right of way, which point is south 84° 30' West a distance of 455.6 feet from an iron pin in the west line of Hague Avenue, and in the north line of said P. C. C. & St. L. Railroad right of way; said point being also the southwest corner of a tract heretofore conveyed by said Emmet E. Tom, et al., to the Hilltop Supply Company by deed as recorded in D. B. 756, page 106 Recorder's Office, Franklin County, Ohio; thence from said point of beginning north 21° 31' East a distance of 114.93 feet to an iron pin; thence North 34° 30' East a distance of 466.96 feet to a point in the center line of Hague Avenue (passing an iron pin at 435.00 feet); thence north 23° 29' (West along the center line of Hague Avenue a distance of 187.04 feet to a point; thence south 67° 10' west a distance of 726.08 feet (passing an iron pin at 20.00 feet) to an iron pin in the east line of 20.989 acre tract; thence along the east line of said 20.989 acre tract south 23° 29' East a distance of 10.00 feet to an iron pin; being also the southeast corner of said 20.989 acre tract, and on the north right of way line of aforementioned railroad; thence north 84° 30' east along the north right of way line a distance of 256.23 feet to the place of beginning, containing 1.325 acres, subject to all legal highways. Plaintiff further says that the defendants Dorothy Tom Frazier, Fred A. Tom, and Betty J. Tom, whose plaintiff does not know if she is married or not, have or claim to have an interest in said real estate adverse to the plaintiff; that Frank Frazier is the husband of Dorothy Tom Frazier; that Marguerite Tom is the wife of Fred A. Tom; and that it is unknown whether Betty J. Tom is married or not, and if so what her name is or the name of her spouse, if any. WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays that the defendants be notified of the pendancy of this action and be required to set up their respective claims, if any exist, to said real estate, and that his title to the same be forever quieted against said claim and for all other and further relief to which plaintiff may be entitled in the premises.

Said defendants are further notified that they are required to answer said petition on or before December 24, 1949, or judgment may be rendered as prayed for therein.

The Low Down On High Ridgers

By One of Them

The JOHN THOMAS' have a little THOMAS now. No doubt another future president of the United States. Congratulations to the proud parents.

A collection of salt and pepper shakers is in the possession of MRS. CHAS. SMITH. She has them from one-half inch high to seven inches. She has exactly 27½ sets. Why do I say the ½? Because she broke one salt shaker an she's saving the pepper because she hopes some day to match it.

HERB RUMFIELD has bought an Admiral television set. Daughter SHARON has a hard time keeping her mind on her lessons. Suggestion: Have one of the channels picture a teacher in a classroom as a reminder.

"Lights Out" program on television last week was only a warning, I presume. Not too long afterward the lights really went out during the storm on Monday night.

LEAH BURNS gave her grocery order over the telephone. On her list was coffee. She ordered her particular brand and said that kind suited her to a T. TEA she got. Just a mistake, of course, unless they were teasing her because she pulls tricks on them. One was the day she phoned for an order to be delivered. Later she decided to drive over and pick it up herself. They like customers like that. They'd save time and gas if more people did that.

DOTTY FLOYD says she's going down to get a "Gorgeous George" permanent wave. She quotes: "If his curls help HIM in wrestling, it might help ME in bowling."

She can't complain about her bowling though. She's doing so good now, she often makes her BALL roll down the ALLEY, SPARE the GUTTER, make the TEN-PINS do the SPLITS by making a STRIKE which she does thrice and marks them in three consecutive FRAMES to make a TURKEY..

"Pop — Spurtt — Sptt — Sptt." That's the story of a few High Ridgers' tanks. They're going, going — all at the same time, it seems for the Lowdens, the Murnanes, the Greenos, the Schwartz's and the Leedons. Tanks, tanks and more tanks.

Tanx.

See you next week, folks!

If you ever tried to start a fire in a refrigerator, you know what a lot of preachers are up against.

We hear a lot nowadays about the "common man." What other kind is there?

GENERAL ELECTRIC
Space Maker REFRIGERATORS
GIVE YOU More of Everything!

Model NC-8

Just take a look at this beautiful refrigerator. It's the new 1950 General Electric Space Maker Refrigerator—the refrigerator that gives you one-third more refrigerated food storage space with no increase in kitchen floor space.

And look inside this great, new General Electric. Note the ample shelf space, the space for additional bottle storage, the deep meat compartment, and the deep, full-width fruit and vegetable drawer.

This new, advanced design is made possible by improved design and engineering of General Electric's famous "sealed-in-steel" refrigerating mechanism. It is smaller than the previous units, so it takes up less room in the base of the refrigerator. Yet it has 1/3 more refrigerating capacity, freezes ice 88% faster, and consumes less electricity. Entire interior stainless steel equipped.

Use Care In Discarding Medicines

A near tragedy occurred at John Burroughs School a few weeks ago. Children on their way to school found a small box of pills packed in cotton Luckily they decided to take the box to the principal's office rather than sample the contents as many curious youngsters would have been tempted to do.

A phone call to the druggist and a check of the prescription number revealed the buyer of the medicine. Thinking that a sick person might be in need of the pills they were sent to the buyer's home. The woman at the house said they no longer needed the pills and she had thrown them out in the trash.

The pills weren't poisonous, but they could have made someone very sick. Dr. Ollie Goodloe, city health commissioner, reports that there were several cases last year of children becoming seriously ill from swallowing old medicine.

Dr. Goodloe warns that all old medicine should be destroyed. Liquid medicines should be poured down the drain, followed with clear water to rinse the drain. Salves, ointments and pills should be burned.

There is also danger of keeping medicine that is old. Freshness is as important in many of the medicines you take as it is in meat, eggs or milk. Some medicines lose their strength with age. Others become stronger and thus harmful.

What is good for one person during a particular illness may be highly dangerous for another person. Even seemingly harmless drugs may become dangerous if taken over too long a period of time. Take medicines only as long as your doctor suggests—then get rid of them.

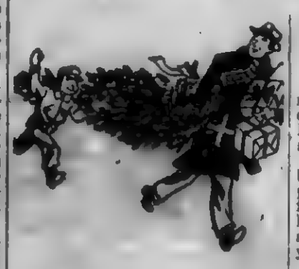
Gifts Needed: There are 1500 people on the Hilltop depending on you for a Merry Christmas.



Mrs. J. F. Bateman, wife of the superintendent of the Columbus State Hospital, is again seeking Christmas gifts for the 1500 patients at the hospital.

The large majority of these patients have no responsible relatives, and will receive no Christmas gifts unless they are donated.

Many of these patients look forward to Christmas with almost childish anticipation, and it would take very little to make them happy. For the women, Mrs. Bateman suggests cosmetics, wash cloths, soap, combs, handkerchiefs, costume jewelry, candy, and fruit. Appropriate gifts for the men are pipes, tobacco, ties, playing cards, handkerchiefs, writing paper, combs, and candy.

These gifts needn't be expensive, they needn't even be wrapped. They can be left at the hospital or here at the Record.

Shop On The Hilltop! Yule Go For The Big Christmas Values In Your Community Stores

HILLTOP stores are actually bulging at the seams with holiday merchandise in anticipation of an "old time" Christmas. Nearly every Hilltop merchant has decorated his store in keeping with the Christmas spirit.

An attractive array of gifts is being offered at a wide range of prices, including new and different articles of better quality. It appears as though there is no shortage of holiday items this year.

All kinds of merchandise are on display in local stores to bring Yuletide joy to every member of the family. This year a greater variety of new and different gifts and gadgets make their debut on the shelves.

Many Practical Gifts

On the more practical side there is an abundance of clothing of all kinds for the entire family, general merchandise, auto accessories, hardware and electrical appliances. Television sets are among the most popular gifts. Radios—both AM and FM—along with refrigerators, stoves, kitchen sinks and fixtures, toasters and washers are in demand, too.

For the hobbyist, many Hilltop stores are offering attractive gifts for sale. Included among these are motors for the basement workshop, cameras and photographic supplies, and a variety of sporting goods.

Other gifts that people can use year around are sweepers and ironers, watches and rings, clothes and furniture. Photographs, pets, and dancing lessons would be appreciated gifts.

Food Is Plentiful

Food for the holiday platters is plentiful in Hilltop shops. For the main dish, turkeys, chickens and hams are available at economy prices. Ingredients for fruit cakes are on stock in most groceries. Oranges, apples, nuts, cookies, popcorn balls, and candy will fill the bowls for between-meal snacks. Boxes of candy, cigarettes, or tobacco will also make suitable gifts for the holiday.

Christmas trees are now on sale at several locations on the Hilltop. Plenty of tree lights trimmings and holiday decorations are available, too.

All of these items, mentioned above, are on hand in stores on the Hilltop. Most of the stores, except grocery, will be open until nine o'clock in the evenings during the two weeks before Christmas. Convenient and adequate parking space in the community makes shopping easier, and there are no parking meters on the Hilltop. You can save money by shopping here, because your neighborhood merchants, not having to pay high downtown rents, can afford to sell at low prices. The people of very few communities have such complete shopping facilities right in their own neighborhoods.

For saving time and money, and avoiding parking problems, shop on the Hilltop.

Two Women 100 Years Old Saturday

MRS. MARY JANE EWING

MRS. JOSEPH BRIGGS

Two women, living scarcely two miles apart, celebrated their 100th birthdays Saturday.

Mrs. Mary Jane Ewing, 172 S. Richardson-av, and Mrs. Joseph Briggs, 1576 Harrisburg-pk, Briggsdale, were both born Dec. 10, 1849.

Although they have never met, they have much in common. Both have been married to men who fought in the civil war and both are now widows.

Mrs. Ewing had a family dinner and open house for friends and relatives Saturday afternoon. Members of the Briggs family gathered at the home in Briggsdale, Saturday, but no celebration was held since Mrs. Briggs has been ill.

Mrs. Ewing was born in Jackson County. She married John E. Ewing, a Civil War veteran and sheriff of that county. For five years she has lived with her nephew, Walter C. Horton, of 172 S. Richardson-av. She is the last of a large family.

Mrs. Briggs was born in New Madrid, Mo. She married Capt. Joseph M. Briggs of the Union Army, even though she considered herself a "Rebel." Her father sent her to Ohio to escape the war.

She attended Ohio Wesleyan University in 1864 when it was called Ohio Wesleyan Female College, and once was asked by the college president to restrain her "Southern views."

She used to visit Camp Chase Confederate Cemetery when she was younger and decorate the graves there.

In 1881, Capt. Briggs built the family mansion in Briggsdale where two of Mrs. Briggs' seven children were born.

About the only thing the two women don't have in common is their children.

Mrs. Ewing has none.

Mrs. Briggs now has 17 grandchildren, 24 great-grandchildren and 11 great-great-grandchildren.

Six Hilltoppers Suffer Injuries In Week-end Traffic

At least six Hilltop residents were injured in traffic accidents on rain-slicked streets over the week-end.

Most seriously injured was Jess Rice, 58, of 2447 Valley View-dr, who is in "fair" condition in Mt. Carmel Hospital with a possible skull fracture suffered early Sunday when a car driven by his wife, Mrs. Olive Rice, 47, rammed a parked car and a utility pole in the 100 block of N. Hague-av.

Mrs. Rice, who suffered cuts and bruises, also was taken to Mt. Carmel hospital by firemen.

Mrs. Virginia Friend, 45, of 70 N. Powell-av, suffered head injuries and shock in a head-on collision at Souder-av and Broad-st, early Sunday.

She was riding in a car driven by her husband, Russell Friend, which collided with an auto driven by John W. Kazee, 49, of 913 John-st. Firemen took her to Mt. Carmel Hospital.

Others who suffered cuts and bruises in accidents included Mrs. Flora Swank, 28, of 237 S. Princeton-av; James Stevenson, 19, and his wife, Grace, 19, of 675 S. Wayne-av;

Hilliards Thespians Elect Officers

New officers were recently chosen by the Senior dramatics Club of Hilliards High School. They are: Howard Crispin, president; Margie Knick, vice president; Eleanor Williams, secretary; and Camille Hoover, treasurer.

An early project of the club will be a school assembly show Jan. 25. Camille Hoover Don Clippinger, Carol Walker, Don Patterson, Mary Jane Fenner, Eleanor Williams, and Joann Price have volunteered to work on the assembly program.

$850 Fire Hits Sullivant Ave. Home

A blaze that broke out on an enclosed back porch did $850 damage to the two-story frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Okey James, 2727 Sullivant-av, near Harris-av, late Monday afternoon, firemen reported.

Four motorcycle patrolmen routed traffic around the area from 4:30 to 6 p. m. while firemen, hampered by dense smoke, battled the blaze, the cause of which was not determined.

CLASS SELLS TREES

The Fidelis Class of Hilltop Church of Christ was served a ham and potluck dinner Saturday evening in the basement of the church. Mr Louis Trout, pianist for the Sunday School, played Christmas carols. Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Kegg, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Daugherty, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Marzluf were hosts and hostesses for the dinner and entertainment which followed.

The class is selling Christmas trees at 15 S. Westgate-av.

Newsies Named For Hilltop Area; Sale Next Saturday

Charity Newsies Leroy S. "Lee" Weigand and C. Carlton Hartley have been assigned the Hilltop and Henry Haire the Sullivant-av area for next Saturday's paper sale.

The Hilltop is supplying much of the manpower needed to put across this "100 Per Cent for Charity" campaign.

Members from the Hilltop and their assignments are: Fred Moritz, at The Fashion store; W. Herbert Dailey, J. C. Harrington and Judge Edward C. Turner, all at headquarters (Memorial Hall's west basement); Max Gutkind, Long and High southwest; Walter W. Grelle Jr., Broad and High, northeast.

Otho Hayner, Town and High, northwest; A. Louis Holzbacher, Parsons and Livingston; Robert L. Duham, Main and Third, northwest; James W. McDevitt, Spring and High, northeast; A. T. Vollmann, Broad and High, northwest, and Theodore E. Vollmann, paper delivery.

The Newsies are accepting applications for help from the deserving needy in the store at Memorial Hall.

After these appeals are investigated by members, the recipients will be instructed to come in for complete new outfits of clothing and shoes, for food orders, and such. This is paid for entirely out of your contributions, with not a cent charged to administrative expenses. Such costs are cared for by profits from the Newsies' annual fall outing at Beulah Park.

Sherick Opens Hilltop Studio

Jack Sherick

A new dancing studio is being opened on the Hilltop by Jack Sherick to take care of the 117 pupils he has in this section. The new studio will be at 3178 W. Broad-st and class registrations will be held Saturday from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Sherick's teaching methods advocate private or semi-private instructions or small classes. He has taught such well-known Hilltop dancers as George and Jackie Hardy, the Albery Sisters, Nancy Bailey and Ray Baker.

Sherick graduated from West High School in 1930 and is an active alumnus. He has danced many times in Hilltop Minstrel shows. On the future list for Sherick students is a dance revue at West High School in June.

Hilliards Teacher On County Comm.

Mrs. V. F. Patterson, Hilliards High School teacher, has been named to the steering committee of a conference of Franklin Co. teachers that will discuss the problems met in working with children and youth.

The conference will be held Jan. 26 and 27 at Lincoln High School, Gahanna. Theme of the conference is "We are Teaching Youth."

Shellhaas Feted By Shriners

By Myron T. Seifert

Hilltop Shrine members, largely from the Glenwood Methodist Church, completely surprised Rev. Joe Shellhaas, pastor of the church and recently elevated to the rank of Noble in Aladdin's mystic rites.

His parishioners, with the aid of Mrs. Shellhaas, "overpowered" the popular Hilltop clergyman at the informal reception given in his honor.

More than 40 Shriners beseiged the parsonage and church, unbeknown to Rev. Shellhaas and, for once, completely surprised him.

The boys in red fezzes assembled quietly in the basement of the church, while Rev. Shellhaas concurrently held a church committee meeting upstairs in the church parlor, following which Noble Jack Morris inveigled the newly elected Noble to the basement, where, first in the dark and then a flash of light, he saw his Hilltop brother Nobles, in circular form, greeting him.

His "flock" presented him with a beautiful eight-diamond-studded Shrine platinum emblem, now proudly worn in the lapel of the Hilltop theologian.

Presenting a Shrine fez on behalf of and in honor of Mrs. Shellhaas, Hilltop Noble Curt Wilcox did the honors. Bob Cramer, MC of the happy occasion, was responsible in a large measure for the plans and success of the meeting.

Celebrities, including Judge C. J. Randall, Dr. R. J. Miller, president of the Hilltop Shrine Club, George Schoedinger, Dr. Howard Whitehead, Charles Hill and others, added their congratulatory words to the occasion.

Wives of Nobles, including Mrs. Charles Walton, Mrs. Ray Kaufman, Mrs. Bob Cramer, Mrs. W. M. Baker, Mrs. Phil Johnson and Mrs. Ralph W. Kimes, prepared a sumptuous repast in the parsonage for the honored Noble Rev. Shellhaas and his parishioners of Shrinedom.

Those present were C. J. Randall, C. Wilcox, Ray Kaufman, R. K. Cramer, Mart Seiller, J. C. Hill, Clarence Ely, Leo Phillips, Howard Moon, Stephen Nemes, John Phillip, Dr. Howard Whitehead, Garnell Layman, Ed Witherspoon, Dr. T. S. Fox, Leo Amspoker, C. Walton, Jack Alkire, Jack Marvin, Philip Johnson, Lou Saunders, Ray McVay, Ralph Kimes, Chase C. Kimes, Dr. W. M. Baker, Jack Merriman, Noble Allen, Earl Williams, George Schoedinger, Sr., Jerry Spears, Eugene Glidersleeve, Emmit Lehman, Theodore E. Vollman, William McPherson, Dr. Clarence Fry, Robert Teaford, W. Krause, Walter Hoelcher, W. L. Phillips, Dr. Ray Miller, F. D. Sparks.

Christmas Edition of Record Goes On Sale Here Thursday

200 Men To Sell 10,000 Copies Of All Charity Paper

Members of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club, assisted by members of the new Hilltop Lions Club, will become "paper boys" Thursday evening as 10,000 copies of the special Kiwanis Christmas edition of the Hilltop Record goes on sale.

The entire Hilltop will be covered in the house-to-house canvass. It is estimated that 200 men will take part in the sale.

Dinner will be served to the salesmen at 6 p. m. in the West High cafeteria, just before the sale, which will begin at 7:15. After the sale, the men will report back to the Sparks-Kent Market to turn in the money collected and partake of coffee and doughnuts.

The Hilltop has been divided into eight sections for the sale. Section leaders are Pearl Spence, Herb Deems, Eugene Wolf, Dr. F. L. Keiser, Larry Scales, Ira Claggett, Ray McVay and Ed Melvin.

The entire proceeds of the paper sale and advertising in the paper will be used for the 1950 projects of the Kiwanis Club. The money will be used in this community for the benefit of the less fortunate people here. Much of it will be used for the underprivileged children of the community, providing them the means of moral, mental, spiritual and physical development that would otherwise be denied them.

The first Christmas edition sold by the Kiwanians was published two years ago. This year's paper is more than twice as big in size and circulation as that first edition.

The 24-page two-color paper will contain messages from Kiwanis officers, special Christmas stories and features, and greetings from prominent Hilltoppers and dignitaries from all sections of the city.

We urge you to be as generous as you can when the paper salesman comes to your home. You will be aiding in providing recreation facilities in areas where they are most needed, sponsoring and maintaining sea and air Boy Scout units, providing summer camp trips for deserving boys and girls, continuing scholarships for West High graduates, and benefitting countless other worthy community projects.

Troop 214 is sponsored by St. Mary Magdalene School.

Hilltop Father Of Seven Dies Of Auto Injuries

A father of seven was killed in traffic Thursday night, just two weeks after his brother lost his life in a similar pedestrian accident Thanksgiving morning.

Raymond P. Durham, 45, of 309 Emmit-av, suffered a skull fracture and compound fractures of both legs when he walked into the path of an eastbound auto as he crossed the highway in the 4400 block of W. Broad-st, Sheriff's Deputy Paul Stormont said.

His brother, James, 60, who lived at Adams dump on McKinley-av, was killed outright when struck by a car in McKinley-av, at the New York Central grade crossing at Harrison-rd.

Raymond Durham was pronounced dead at Mt. Carmel Hospital, where he was taken by Prairie Township emergency squadmen. Dr. Robert A. Evans, coroner, ruled the death accidental. He said the driver was John W. Leech, 38, of 1469 Mulford-rd.

Durham is survived by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Elizabeth Durham, whom he was en route to meet after alighting from a truck; two daughters, Mrs. Donna Allen, 22, and Mary 12; five sons, Robert, 23; Raymond, jr., 17; Daniel, 15; Jimmy, 9, and Jerry, 7; and a sister, Mrs. Marie Kennedy, and two brothers, Harry D. and William Durham, all of Columbus.

Funeral services were at 10:30 a. m. Monday followed by burial in Union Cemetery.

Teachers Get Pay Hike

WILLIAM H. WOLFE, 731 S. Eureka-av, is assured of a turkey on the table at Christmas. Wolfe won the second Hilltop Record Christmas Turkey Contest. When notified he had won the contest, Wolfe thought he was being kidded.

The news was a pleasant surprise since Wolfe, a sheet metal worker, has been out of work for the past year and recently underwent an operation. His entry in the contest was a pasteboard Santa Claus with the answers on the gifts in Santa's pack.

Wolfe is pictured with his son, Gregory, 3. He also has two other children, Delores, 21, and Donald, 13.

MRS. EARL PORTER, 67 S. Eureka-av, winner of a new Crosley Sheldavor refrigerator, receives the certificate for it from Ed Witherspoon, owner of the Better Home Center, 2775 W. Broad-st, who conducted the contest. Mrs. Porter won on a 50-word story on "Why I would like a Crosley Sheldvador." Judges for the contest were Phil Stout, attorney; M. E. Sensenbrenner, president of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club, and L. P. Beall, president of the West Side Board of Trade. Mrs. Porter's entry was best in the opinion of the majority of the judges.

Asks Jury Study Of Rate Setting

Emile Reiss, attorney and former Hilltopper, last week requested Prosecuting Attorney Ralph Bartlett to conduct a grand jury investigation on the "entire bus fare and electric rate business."

Reiss, a candidate for mayor, charged "there must be corruption on the part of some persons, or group of persons" in the increase of bus fares which followed a vote of the electorate against the raise in November.

"If the jury finds it so," Reiss stated, "the offenders should be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law."

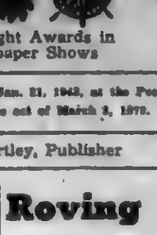
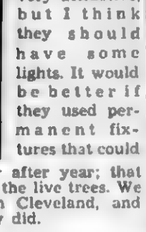
Roving Photographer

By Bill Gibbon



The question for this week is: "What do you think of the decorations put up on W. Broadst and Sullivant-av, by the Hilltop Business Association?" Your ideas for "Roving Photographer" questions will be appreciated.

Mrs. Betty Wheelock, 787 S. Burgess-av, housewife: The decorations are very attractive, but I think they should have some lights. It would be better if they used permanent fixtures that could be put up year after year; that would conserve the live trees. We used to live in Cleveland, and that's what they did.



Sammie Lancia, 198 N. Hague-av, crane operator: They look pretty nice, but I've noticed several blown down. I hope they'll be up for Christmas. If we have some snow, it will look good. I think it is more appropriate to use live trees, rather than artificial decorations.

Mrs. L. W. Rohr, 291 S. Brinker-av, housewife: I like the decorations very much. I have noticed a few that have fallen down, but it is hard to keep them up when there are strong winds. The trees they used are second growth trees, so their use will not affect our natural resources. Those small trees grow so closely together that they have to be cleared off anyway to allow the larger ones to grow.

James O. Roberts, 306 S. Terrace-av, owner of dairy laboratory: I have noticed some have blown down. They would have been all right if they had been wired up properly. I don't think they look bad, but they should have done a little better job of it. I think the decorations are a good idea.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

KIT had flown at her bundle without ceremony. The guests stepped around her into the living room and Marvell went off for sherry and biscuits.

Fanny immediately liked Edith Searle. The pale, reserved face, the unbecoming ecru embroidered dress covered, she thought, a dignity of spirit that must have flinched under Marvell's booming onslaught. She said warmly, "We are not strangers at all, Miss Searle. I see your sister, Mrs. Fiske, in town quite often and she speaks a great deal of you."

"You know Jennifer? She comes out very rarely. She thinks this the wilderness."

"Is it?" asked Ben.

"It is very quiet. But I have good neighbors."

"Where is Amory now?" Ben went on, determined to ignore Marvell for the moment.

"He's in Paris. He left college in his third year. Papa thought he had a talent for painting. Certainly he had little for Harvard." They laughed together in appreciation of Papa and Amory.

Marvell found it all going well when he returned. They were in a semi-circle of chairs, talking easily. He passed the sherry and wafers and returned to Kit. "Pretty handsome," he admired Nedda's present, laid out on a chair—a jacket, jodhpurs, stock, gauntlets and riding crop. He set his glass down on the mantel with just the right touch of indifference. He had had an extra on the way in. That was an old trick, two ahead, one in hand.

"Marvell," said Nedda, drawing him into the circle, "I have always told you Boston was very small. Mr. and Mrs. Hall know members of my family, and I don't believe I've mentioned before that my sister, Jennifer, had a suitor in your family."

He smiled at the way she wanted him to be included.

"Your brother - in - law, Proctor Barlow. He was very persistent one spring. It was when we were all living at home in Dedham," she turned to Fanny. "Once he brought his sister, Elizabeth, with him," Nedda went on. She supposed they were all thinking of her on Kit's birthday.

Fanny pushed back a stray curl and leaned forward, her lips opened in eagerness. She thought there were possibilities in this story. Nedda, like a player in Puss-in-the-Corner, would have to run to the nearest empty space.

"That's very interesting," said Marvell with a gleam in his eye that was not lost on Ben. "Nedda comes from the best of Boston, Ben, so she would know—even the hangers-on. And let me tell you something," his voice was unnecessarily loud. "He has acquired an heir. Doing very well indeed. You said you knew Proctor—did you know Emily, his wife? She's like a little sewing basket, all cushioned. Sentimental, weeps like that girl in the song, I've forgotten her name, but you know the one."

Ben could stand it no longer. It was worse, much worse, than he had expected. "I think I will have a brandy, Marvell." He set down his sherry glass. "This is, I fear, too much of a ladies' drink." But he didn't have to take the unwanted drink after all, for Kit brought in the last two guests. Peter and Audrey marched behind her, clutching their presents to their chests. They were more serious than ever under the heavy burden of good behavior. Scanty pink tissue barely covered the sea-shell picture frame in Audrey's hands. The wrapping of Peter's gift had drifted off on the ride over and he thrust at Kit an enormous cup and saucer, with nothing to conceal its startling red and gold decorations highlighted by the letters, "Chicago, 1897."

The suddenness of their entrance, the nakedness of their gifts, eased everyone. In the hubbub of thanks with much hilarity, Kit led the way into the dining room.

Ben had never realized a meal could last so long. Marvell kept jumping up and down, to give a hand to Mrs. Crane, to serve more wine to the ladies who barely sipped it and, as Ben rightly suspected, to refuel himself with an extra drink or two in the passageway. Marvell's energy to entertain was unflagging. He sat between Fanny and Nedda, leaving Ben to curb the children. Ben was impressed, as never before, by the unassailability of good breeding. He admired his wife and Miss Searle with all his heart for their responsiveness to Marvell's most tiresome posturings. When Marvell held out his hands, to prove their steadiness—God alone knew what Miss Searle thought of his past life—and boasted that now he could keep bees, apparently, the final test of the simple life, Kit cried down the table, "we don't need to! Nedda's got hives—" shrieks of giggles overcame her and Audrey—"in her orchard!"

Ben forced himself to think about Kit. He had come to see how she fitted into this new way of life and he was a little dismayed to find her so perfectly at home. He had not expected her to grieve over Elizabeth long, to be sure, but neither had he expected her to be so free. In her quick, expressive glances he found no trace of her mother. She had grown taller and browner and was far less subdued. He had always noticed the way she had clung to her mother, very charmingly, he thought. Now she was Marvell's. She doesn't even notice his drinking, he thought, she accepts it and it has hardened her.

Nor was there any charity in Ben's heart when Marvell finally stood up to give the toast. "To Kit's tenth birthday—her day! May she always stand in that wonderful place called 'Now.'" What did that mean, Ben asked himself. Where would his business, or for that matter, anyone's, be if they wished such nonsense. The man was a child, afraid to look back over his shoulder, or around the corner ahead.

When they left the table there was no slackening of pace. Marvell led them all over the farm, ignoring their dispirited footsteps. From the farthest orchard to the three-cornered meadow where the brook rose out of the spring. From the barn to his workshop. Back at the house, hot and dusty, their clothes tagged by long grasses, he urged more drinks upon them. When they refused, he drank openly by himself, but brought in a large pitcher of lemonade to tempt them. The children, who had disappeared right after lunch on some fun of their own, now came running pell-mell among the guests. Peter and Kit were quarreling over the riding crop. Peter held it above Kit's head and then spun around swinging it with vicious cracks.

"Don't do that!" Kit pounced on him. "You'll break it."

"It's nothing but old leather," scorned Peter, wanting it badly.

Audrey piped up. "Marvell will say we can play with it, so there!"

"Don't call him that. He's my father!"

"Well," said Audrey, with a flash of inspiration, "he's our plumber!"

Nedda gasped. Marvell nudged Ben. "That's the tribute I've been waiting all my life to hear!"

The children, conscious of their audience, pretended to scrap more fiercely. Ben turned away. The smell of whiskey was strong and

"Tuckered out, Ben? Just one more place. You won't mind—it's cool in there."

Before Ben could protest, he found himself shepherded along with the two women. The door to the carriage house was open and their way was marked by a shaft of dusty sunlight streaming across the heavy planked floor. The old oak beams that supported the vaulted roof cast shadows like crowbars down the length of the

It was a relief to their dazzled eyes—cool and silent.

"A little chapel!" exclaimed Fanny. "I expect to hear a chant."

Nedda, to whom the day had been one emotional assault after the other, hung back in the doorway. Ben leaned against the rough wall and closed his eyes, thinking to open them in a moment and say some word of approval. But while he caught his breath, Marvell shook him up by saying with immense enthusiasm, "Isn't it perfect?" Do you get the idea? Look!" and he strode to the far end of the room where a grain bin had been partly torn down to make a little elevation. He leaped up on the flimsy thing and with gestures from which Ben cringed, he began:

"Soft you, a word or two before you go,
I have done the State some service, and they know't,
No more of that. I pray you in your letters,
When you shall these unlucky deeds relate,
Speak of me, as I am. Nothing extenuate,
Nor set down aught in malice."

He dropped his hand down limply, the defeated Moor, the damned Moor.

"Splendid!" Fanny clapped and Nedda made a silent gesture of applause.

"Do you want to speak your piece now, Ben?"

Ben flushed. "Excellent," he said shortly. "I suppose you've been on the stage before?"

"Understudied the parts for touring companies that came to Portland," he came down from his height and glancing quickly around said to no one in particular: "We need more windows and I'll have to strengthen that platform. Put chairs in rows and get a curtain and who would ever know—golly, I can hear the rustle of the audience just before the curtain goes up right now!"

Cowboys Lose To Fostoria 51-37 For Year's Third Loss

By Dave Miller

West High's basketballers took it on the chin for their third time of the season, dropping a 51 to 37 verdict to an accurate shooting Fostoria five on the local court last Friday evening.

The Cowboys were definitely "off" on their shots. Phil Young, their ace high-scoring center who didn't play in the Grandview game last Tuesday, was off form because he was still not up to par at gametime.

Fostoria was hitting a good percentage of shots especially their scoring aces, Forward Don Rhude and Guard Ronnie Schumaker. The latter fouled out with less than three minutes left in the contest. He played a great game, sripping set shots from the side with unerring accuracy throughout the game.

Bill Thrush upheld the point making for the Cowboys, hitting for 13 points. Bill hit on six out of 10 attempted shots, for an unheard average of .600.

Rhude was high point man of the game with 19 points; followed by teammate Schumaker who collected 18 markers. However, the main reason for this two's big total was the poor defensive work of the Cowboys, which left the corners open throughout the game.

Proceedings started off when Schumaker stripped a side shot to match with Dave Caton's free throw early in the contest. Caton, starting his first game of the season, was second highest scoring on the reserve team last year, and was thus given his first varsity experience.

Jim Eckelberry and Rhude followed with hooks to give the visitors a commanding lead of 6-1, which was quickly cut down when Thrush and Caton followed with three quick tallies. Jerry Johnson, Cowboy sophomore forward, then stripped a long set shot to tie matters up at 6-all, and from here on the visiting Redmen took the lead to never be headed by our Cowboys.

A drive in the opening moments of the second period also was a fact for the downfall of the Cowboys. Schumaker, Center Jim Howell and Rhude got together for seven quick tallies, and an 18-11 lead, and from there on the visitors were unstoppable. Young's set shot near the end of the second quarter brought the Cowboys to within four points of the Redmen, but Rhude's push from the right corner ended the half with Fostoria in front, 23-17.

The third period was merely a replice of the first two quarters, with Fostoria increasing the lead to 35-21.

Midway of the fourth quarter Schumaker's second straight side shot just before he went out of the contest on personal fouls spelled a 16-point difference in the two teams at 43-27. However, the Cowboys showed they still had a little bit of "life" left in them by coming back with three straight drive-in pushups by Young, Thrush and LeRoy Hood.

In the closing moments, the visitors outtalleyed the locals 6-2 to spell the 16-point difference in scores at the end of the game.

The Cowboys hit on only 15 out of 52 shots as compared to 22 out of 49 for the winners, which pretty much tells the story of the contest. Rhude and Schumaker hit from the sides with deadly accuracy throughout the game. The visitors' 6-foot 4-inch center, Jim Howell, was held to eight points in the game and the winners' offense clicked with perfection from the side.

In the preliminary, the West reserves were divided up into two teams for an intra-squad tilt. The Whites consisted of Bill South, Paul Thompson, Dave Lazenby, Morris Dobbs, Jim Koontz, "Wimpy" Potts, Dick Wray and Eddie Gliebs, while the Reds included Kenny Anderson, Jim Lang, Warren Stevens, Ted Fladt, Ray Altman, Dick Wilson, Jim Hall and Russ Friend.

The Whites were the victors, 33-27, in a nice second half comeback in which they pulled up from a 17-11 deficit to win going away. Bill South of the winners was high point man with 13 markers followed by a teammate Wimpy Potts who collected 10. Warren Stevens topped the losers with nine.

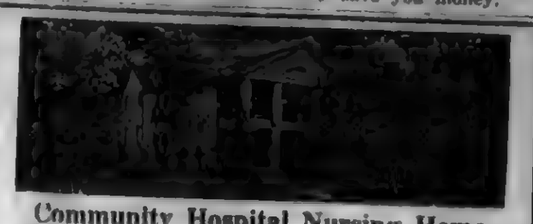
West Juniors Beat Everett Jr. In League Opener

By Dave Miller

West Junior High's basketballers opened the curtain on their 1949-50 City Junior High League by defeating an always dangerous Everett five, 42 to 30, on the losers' court last Friday afternoon.

The Broncos had the opening game jitters throughout the first half, but "shook 'em off" in the second half of the fray, and Everett found themselves playing even-steven with the local Juniors throughout the final period.

Everett tallied first in the game on a free toss by Center Jim Roddy. However, Jerry Trabue and Bill Haire followed with six quick points to take a commanding lead. Roddy cut the margin in half with a hook shot, but Center Bob Thornton and Guard Dick Hutchison followed with fielders along with Haire's gratis tom to end the opening period with the locals ahead by eight tallies.



The second period was the highest scoring of the game, with 26 points burning the nets throughout the quarter. Everett pulled up with early period markers by Forward John Tucker and Roddy. However, the local Juniors started a terrific offensive drive which netted them eight quick points by Thornton, Douglas, Clark, Haire, and Jerry Trabue.

The Carlton Rayl-coached five came back with successive goals by Tuckers and Roddy along with a duo of free throws by the latter. After Haire sank a drive-in, and Thornton made good on a lefty-hook shot, West Junior held at 27-10 halftime lead.

Everett outscored West in the third period of three markers, with the third quarter ending in a 33-10 lead for the local Red and White. West outscored Everett in the final period by a single tally with the final score being 43-30.

Bob Thornton, towering 6-foot 3-inch center for the locals, was high point man with 15 tallies, followed closely by Jerry Trabue also of the locals, who had 14.

LEAVING STARLING
By Janis Edwards

Students were sad to hear that Friday, Dec. 9, was Nick Janowitz's last day in Starling. He is a student at Ohio State University, who came to Starling Sept. 28. Mr. Janowitz was a student teacher in Mr. Pace's science classes. He will graduate from Ohio State University in March, 1950. He then hopes to be a successful science teacher.

Eight Shopping Days Til Christmas Notes: Have never seen such a lack of activity around the post office this close to Christmas . . . Mailed my greeting cards yesterday so that should help . . . A few of the small Gay Philosopher calendars are available at the Record office. First come, first served, until they are gone . . . The Gay Philosopher says: "Success is making hay with the grass that grows under the other fellow's feet" . . . Yours truly and a couple other Hilltoppers (don't know just who yet) will appear on Fern Sharp's TV show over WBNS at 4:30 today to plug the Kiwanis Newsie sale tonight . . . A big THANKS to George Hicks, the genial circulation manager of the Citizen, for supplying the newsbags again this year . . . Curt Roberts bagged a deer, the only one in that Allen-Story-Fox-Roberts team that went hunting in Pa. last week . . . Christmas tree sales spots have sprung up all over the Hilltop, so it should be an easy job to find a nice tree, and they will probably have some pretty cheap ones about Dec. 25 . . . Mrs. Ray Clark is expected to return to her home Saturday after a four week confinement at Mt. Carmel Hospital . . . Rosalie Agee's mother, Mrs. Perkins, is a White Cross patient . . . Joe Agee, erstwhile Record employe, has been sent to northern Michigan rather than Iowa in his new job with Mergenthaler Linotype Co. . . . E. E. McDermitt, owner of Mac's Service Station, 3079 W. Broad-st, is the proud papa of a nine pound baby girl . . . And our sincere apologies to Mr. and Mrs. Larry Minshall, 108 Columbian-av, for not announcing the recent addition of a son, Larry Jr. . . . Best reports have it that the Hilltop Library won't be able to open in its new home until about Feb. 1 . . . Our friend Mack Sauer, editor of the Leesburg Citizen, has just published a book called "Ramblings and Rumblings", dedicated to his late wife, Edith, a newspaper woman . . . Opening of Hilltop dance studios by Jimmy Rawlins and Jack Sherick brings to mind all the famous talent that has come out of West High, such names as theirs and Gene Sheldon, Gracebelle Day, Valeda Gugger, Audry Shields, Phyllis Rawlins and many others . . . Jean Worrel started his 20th year with Sun Life in November . . . Dr. Palmer Cordray seems to always have a pleasant smile for everyone.

Flowers of the Week

A Rosebud floral gift to Phil Stout, the retiring prexy of the Hilltop Business Association, for a swell job in 1949 as head man in the organization. A number of very successful programs backed up by fine ecopesation on the part of the membership attests to his ability in the position he held. Good luck, Phil.

Miss Derringer Dies At Home

Miss Claribel Derringer, 54, of 304 Nashoba-av, died Wednesday in her home. A teacher at the Eleventh Avenue School, Miss Derringer had taught in Columbus schools since 1917.

Surviving are her mother and father; Mrs. Lillie Derringer and Ed Derringer, both of Columbus, and two brothers.

Friends may call at the Schoedinger Funeral Home after 6 p. m. Thursday. Funeral services will be held there at 2 p. m. Saturday.

Rev. Titus New Pastor Of Immanuel Baptist Church

Announcement was made today that Rev. Robert L. Titus has accepted a call to the Immanuel Baptist Church, 286 Belvidere-av. He will assume his duties as pastor Jan. 8.

Rev. Titus replaces Rev. W. Howard Schoof, who resigned the pastorate of the Hilltop church to accept a position on the faculty of the Baptist Bible Seminary, Johnson City, N. Y.

Rev. Titus is a native of Spartansburg, Pa. He received his A. B. Degree from Taylor University of Upland, Ind. He attended Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

He has pastored churches in central Indiana, western New York, eastern Pennsylvania, and comes to Columbus directly from the Riverdale Baptist Church in Flint, Mich.

The special talents of Mr. Titus lie in the field of music. He traveled four years with the Versity Quartet of Taylor University; sang with the Moody Institute Singers (an a capella choir) on the Gold Network of NBC for part of one year, and has been very active for several years as an evangelistic singer and slide trombonist.

Rev. Titus' family consists of himself; Mrs. (Florence) Titus; Joy Carol, age 11; Paul David, age nine; James Robert, age six, and Marjorie Elizabeth, age three.

The Titus family will be moving to 212 N. Burgess-av, the week of Jan. 1.

Ad Error Starts Television Rush

Hilltoppers like the values offered in The Hilltop Record. H. B. Fast and L. E. Phillips of the Fast Electric Company, 1284 W. Broad-st, will verify that fact.

The Tuesday edition of the Record carried their advertisement in which the price of a Raytheon Television set Model 1101 was given as $149.95 for the 12½ inch screen unit instead of $249.95, which was the correct price.

Hilltoppers immediately began to besiege the Fast Electric Company by telephone and in person, asking if immediate delivery could be made.

Said Mr. Phillips, "That price which was mistakenly listed surely proved to us that Record advertising is read by Hilltoppers. We wish that we could obtain television sets at the price which was in error, because we found out that they could really sell through the Record."

Quick Thinking Prevents Accident

Thanks to the quick thinking of Mrs. Jane Jones, 60 Powhatan-av, a woman escaped possible serious injury on W. Broad-st, near Wayne-av, Monday. An unidentified pedestrian slipped on the pavement, falling under a bus that was picking up passengers.

The driver of the bus, not knowing what had happened, started the bus. Mrs. Jones ran in front of the bus, shouting to the driver, causing the bus to stop before the wheels passed over the woman.

SING TO BE HELD SUNDAY

A Christmas hymn and carol sing will be held Sunday, Dec. 18, at 9 p. m. at the Glenwood Methodist Church. The older youth fellowship will be in charge of the program. Everyone is welcome and a special invitation is extended to the youth of the churches.

Hilltopper Heads K of P Delegation

Jay L. Smith, 405 S. Eureka-ac, Franklin Co. deputy grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, will head the Franklin Co. delegation of the K of P at a district convention Tuesday in Mt. Sterling.

Talmadge Lodge 194 of Mt. Sterling will be host to the lodges of Franklin and Madison counties.

Two other lodge dignitaries from Columbus will represent the grand lodge.

Hearing Opened In Bus Dispute

Hearings opened Wednesday on the application of George L. Tarbutton, 180 S. Brinker-av, assistant county prosecutor, to represent the public in the transit rate dispute.

Tarbutton asserted that the court had no jurisdiction in the case since no contract existed between the city and the newly-formed Columbus Transit Co.

Representatives of the company charged Tarbutton with "unprofessional conduct", saying there was no legal basis for his challenge of the court's jurisdiction.

The hearing was to be resumed at 9:30 a. m. Thursday.

Church 'Adopts' DP Group

The Hillcrest Baptist Congregation this year is giving a practical demonstration of the Christmas spirit in a decision announced last Sunday to assume responsibility for a displaced person's family to be brought to Columbus from some European DP. Camp.

The local church's commitment involves three obligations: darfare from New York City, the providing of temporary living quarters upon arrival, and help in securing employment as soon as possible.

An estimated 205,000 of these Displaced Persons, individually or in family units, are being brought to America for relocation and settlement out of the D.P. Camps, which once were concentration and enforced labor camps.

These camps are to be closed by next June and the survivors have no home nor country to which to return. Thirty per cent of them are of the farmer class, the remainder of varied skills and professions. All being brought to America for settlement here are carefully screened before acceptance, as to physical and moral qualifications.

Hillcrest Church expects the arrival of its adopted family in about two months.

CAMP CHASE PARTY

The annual Christmas party of the Camp Chase Post 98, American Legion, will be held at post headquarters, W. Broad-st and Burgess-av, Friday, Dec. 23, at 8 p. m. Post members, their families and friends are invited. Santa Claus will be there with gifts for the children and there will be refreshments and a gift exchange for the adults.

HRCA PARTY FRIDAY

The High Ridge Civic Association Christmas party will be held at 7:45 Friday night in the recreation room of the Hilltop Church of God, Whitethorne and Saffordavs. Santa Claus will be on hand to distribute candy, apples and oranges to the children of the community.

"MISS KIWANIKWE", a 60-pound Duroc pig, will be auctioned off prior to the sale of the Kiwanis Christmas edition of The Hilltop Record. Proceeds from the auction will be added to the funds brought in by the sale. The first two copies of the Kiwanis paper will also be auctioned off as the salesmen, members of the Hilltop Kiwanis and Hilltop Lions Clubs, meet for dinner in the West High School cafeteria before the sale. "Miss Kiwanis", a registered Duroc sow, is the mother of the pig. Pictured holding "Miss Kiwanikwe" is Harold Cunningham, Kiwanian, who donated the pig to the club.

Rev. Schreiber Named Dean Of County Church School

Rev. Norman L. Schreiber, pastor of the Westgate Methodist Church will be the dean of the annual school of religion sponsored by the Franklin County Council of Churches which will be held at the First Congregational Church at 444 E. Broad-st each Monday evening from Jan. 9 through Feb. 13th, 7 to 9:50 p. m.

Rev. Harold McAdow, pastor of the Morgan Memorial Methodist Church, will act as Registrar. Rev. Gorden Price, assistant pastor of Trinity Episcopal Church, treasurer. Rev. Harold Dutt, pastor of Westgate EUB Church, is in charge of publicity.

The faculty is made up of 24 qualified instructors, consisting of pastors and competent laymen of the various churches of the county. There will be 21 courses offered by the school. These courses have been designed for personal enrichment such as, "The Background of the Old and New Testament", "Faith for times like these," "The social implications of the Christian Message," "The Will of God for your life," and "Protestant Truths."

Courses of Practical Churchmanhip consisting of "Effective Story Telling," "Patterns of Religious Belief," "Methods," "Choral workshop," "Church Architecture," and "Religious Radio". Courses will be offered for the Leadership in Church School consists of "Kindergarten, Primary, Junior, Junior High, High Schoolers, Young Adults, and the Adult Class."

M. E. Sensenbrenner, instructor of the adult class at Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church, will conduct a session on practical help in teaching adult church school classes. These and other courses are open to all who are living within Franklin County.

Deadline Set On Church Notices

The deadline for bringing in programs and schedules of Christmas services in Hilltop churches is noon Saturday, Dec. 17. All church copy for the Dec. 22 issue of the Record must be in at that time.

News, society and classified advertising deadlines remain unchanged for the Christmas issue.

THE WEST HILL FURNITURE CO. has been named Hilltop dealer of Frigidaire appliances. They will handle Frigidaire refrigerators, washers, deep freeze units and ranges. Daniel Ackley, salesman, is pictured showing a Frigidaire refrigerator to Mrs. Preston Leach, 92 S. Highland-av and Mrs. Margie Convertino, 2331½ W. Broad-st.

Witherspoon Named New HBA Prexy

Nippert, Cordray, Hegenberger Are 1950 Officers

Ed Witherspoon, owner of the Better Home Center, 2775 W. Broad-st, has been elected president of the Hilltop Business Association for 1950.

Witherspoon is a long-time resident of the Hilltop. He attended W. Broad-st School and went to West High School when it was located on Central-av. He opened his business on the Hilltop five years ago. A second Better Home Center was also opened about two years ago at 1288 W. Broad-st.

Witherspoon is a member of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club, the Masons and Shriners. He lives at 29 N. Huron-av.

John Nippert of the Nippert Electric Products Co., 1758 W. Mound-st, was elected first vice president of the association.

The office of second vice president went to Dr. Palmer Cordray, Hilltop physician of 2553 Sullivant-av.

Elmer Hegenberger, 106 Binns-blvd, was named treasurer of the association. Hegenberger is employed by the Shank and Saunders Insurance agency, 2459 W. Broad-st, where he is vice president and secretary.

Three members were elected to the association's board of trustees. They are: Sam Alford of the Thrift Finance Co., Joe Briggs of Briggs Insurance Agency, and Dr. Ray J. Miller, chiropractor.

Installation of the officers will take place in January, C. H. Campbell, permanent secretary of the association, announced.

Edwin May Dies At Home; Rites To Be Saturday

Edwin May of 557 Larcomb-av, a checker for the Hills Cab Co., died Wednesday in his home after becoming ill while at work. Mr. May was a member of the Maynard-av Methodist church.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lora May; his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Shrover of Grove City, and a sister, Mrs. Thelma Linton, 457 S. Eureka-av.

Friends may call at the Spears Funeral Home where services will be held at 1 p. m. Saturday. Intement will be at Greenlawn cemetery.

Post Second In American Legion Membership Push

Camp Chase Post, 98, American Legion, is in second place in the Legion's department of Ohio membership contest. The post having the largest increase in membership over the last three year average will win a $300 television set.

The local post is only 15 members out of first place. The contest ends on Dec. 31. Members have been asked to sign up one new member before the deadline.

Service in the armed forces between April 6, 1917, and Nov. 11, 1918, during the period between Dec. 7, 1941, and Sept. 2, 1945, which covers both World Wars, is necessary for membership in the Legion.

Injured As Auto Hits Parked Car

Ellen Crabbs, 25, of 1668 Sullivant-av, was treated in Grant Hospital early Wednesday for a possible fractured right ankle and a cut on her forehead after the auto in which she was riding struck a parked car in E. Broad-st.

The driver of the auto was Clarence L. McDaniel, 22, of 339 S. Hague-av.

TO TOUR EUROPE

Frank Sexton, 3251 Parkside-dr, well-known local wrestler, will tour Europe this winter for a series of wrestling bouts.

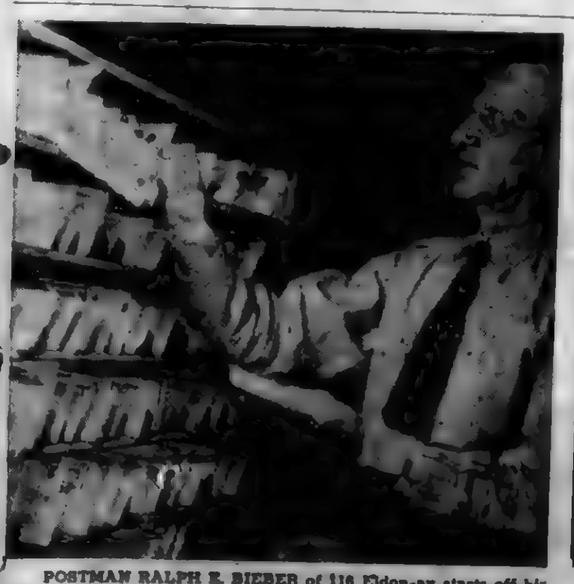
Cart Wheel Payday For Hilltop Record Workers

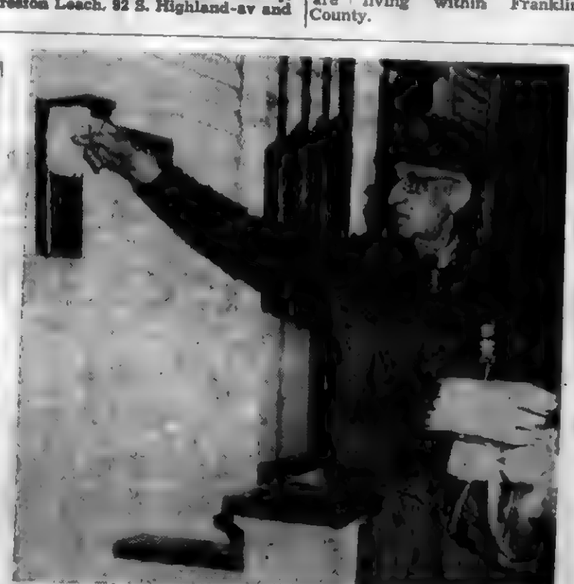


There's going to be a lot of hard cash spent on the Hilltop for Christmas gifts.

The 21 employees of the Hilltop Record will receive their week's pay in silver dollars Friday. The idea is to prove that the cart wheel laden Record employees do practically all of their buying from independent Hilltop merchants.

Last year more than 75 merchants reported getting some of the silver dollars soon after they were distributed to Record employees.

Chances are you will receive one of them as change from a Hilltop merchant. Let it be a reminder that Record employees put their money back into the community where it is earned, that they know complete shopping facilities are available right here in their own community.



For every one of these silver dollars returned to the Record office before Jan. 1 a five-month $1.25 subscription to the Record is offered.

POSTMAN RALPH E. BIEBER of 116 Eldon-av starts off his morning at 6 by sorting the mail for his route at the Hilltop Branch post office at 2824 W. Broad-st. The Christmas season brings more work for the mailman. He will appreciate your cooperation in mailing greeting cards early.

READY TO START DELIVERING MAIL, Bieber checks out on the time-clock and at the same time greets his "boss", Superintendent John F. Young, 2185 Parkside-rd Young, who succeeded John F. Raymond, 136 S. Southampton-av, as superintendent, joined the postal service on July 1, 1924.

AFTER CHECKING OUT, Letter-carrier Bieber catches a bus and rides to his route which starts at 2493 W. Broad-st. Here he delivers mail to the residence at 160 N. Wayne-av. Bieber has been delivering mail nearly every morning since July 2, 1923. He is a veteran of World War I.

BIEBER PICKS UP HIS THIRD LOAD of the morning at the storage box at Wayne-av and Grace-st. The Christmas rush has started and the loads are heavier with holiday advertising. The volume of Christmas cards begins about 10 days before Christmas, according to Bieber.

About Folks You Know

Jan. 2 will be a double celebration for Mrs. Pete Perini at 310 N. Hague-av. First of all she'll have the opportunity to watch her husband play with the rest of the Ohio State team in the Rosebowl game. And then—to top it all off, she'll see her brother, Tom, for the first time in two years. Tom has been stationed in Tokyo with the CAF personnel and will have the chance to fly across for the game and spend a few hours with his sister. Mrs. Perini is leaving Dec. 27.

• • •

Mrs. J. R. Lambert, 217 N. Chase-av, whose husband has been in Bradenton, Fla., because of illness since October, tells us that she has received word from her sister with whom he is staying—Mrs. S. W. Ernest—that he is "looking better." Mrs. Lambert hopes to join him in February and possibly bring him back with her. For you who would like to send him Christmas cards, his address down there is 3503 Seventh-av, Bradenton, Fla.

• • •

We're sorry to hear that Mrs. Paul Hurst, former Hilltopper, who now resides in Rosemead, Calif., will undergo an operation Jan. 3. Best of luck to her!

• • •

In a letter from Roy Wolfe—who has been making an extended vacation in North Bay, Ontario, Canada—he says that the temperature is now "just at zero" and has been at "fifteen below zero" and there has been a total snowfall of "19.3 inches for December and November." Br-r-r-r! But Mr. Wolfe adds that he likes cold weather.

CLASS PLANS PARTY

The Keystone Bible Class of Hillcrest Baptist Church will have a combined meeting and Christmas party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Coffman, 105 Eldon-av, on Saturday, Dec. 17, at 8 p. m.

Two Hilltop Girls To Entertain With Tap For Cloverleaf Christmas Party Dec. 18

Mrs. Louis G. Paas, 198 N. Powell-av, has been appointed general chairman of the annual Christmas party sponsored by St. Anthony Hospital Cloverleaf Clubs, to be held Dec. 19 at 2 p. m. at the hospital.

Assisting Mrs. Paas will be Mrs. Robert A. Doughty, 160 N. Chase-av, co-chairman, Mrs. Harry Briggs, Mrs. Del Combs, Mrs. Flavian Hall, Mrs. Edward Huffman, Mrs. Louis Mueller, Mrs. James Huntley, Mrs. Edward Redel and Mrs. Conrad G. Steller.

The entertainment program will include Carole Bauermeister, 336 S. Ogden-av, and Donna Jeanne Doughty, 160 N. Chase-av, tap dance; Donald Hensler, musical selections; Patty Manus, baton; and Mrs. Erma Huntley, solo.

The Arthur Corcorans Entertain Fern Circle At Supper Dec. 11

The Fern Circle of Robert Morris Chapter No. 373, OES, were entertained with a Christmas party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Corcoran on Sunday, Dec. 11. The 1949 officers' husbands were guests. After the business meeting a gift exchange and buffet supper followed.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Doran, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hegenberger, Rev. and Mrs. Joseph Shellhaas, Mr. and Mrs. James Ware, Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Galloway.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray McVay, Jr., and infant son, Mr. and Mrs. Noble Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Turner; Alice Goodall, worthy matron, Etta Timms, Ruth Draper, Lillian Wilcox, Marie Payton, Emma Cunningham; Mrs. Payton, Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Robinson were assisting hostesses.

Blue Star Mothers To Sponsor Matinee At Rivoli Dec. 17

West Unit Blue Star Mothers will hold its regular meeting Thursday, Dec. 15, at 8 p. m. at the American Legion Hall, 10½ S. Burgess-av, with Mrs. Louis Kruczynski presiding.

The business meeting will include election of officers for 1950 with a birthday and Christmas party for members following. Refreshments and a gift exchange will be featured at this party.

The group held a ward party at Chillicothe Hospital Sunday, Dec. 11, with personal gifts for the men in building 212. West Unit has already received donations of 2900 Christmas cards, three radios, two pianos, 94 records, nylon and rayon hose, books and magazines, for the veterans hospital.

A matinee to be held at the Rivoli theatre will be given Saturday, Dec. 17, to raise funds for rehabilitation work at the hospital. Tickets may be obtained through the schools and from Unit members by calling on Mrs. Kruczynski, RA. 5706.

Mrs. Rose Thompson, 68 S. Harris-av, hospital chairman, was in charge of the party at Chillicothe. Others who attended were Mr. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Weifel, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lauer, Mr. and Mrs. Knowlton, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sharkey, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kruczynski, Margaret Heiser, Mrs. Boyd Marmon, and Mrs. C. A. Thornton.

Christmas In Norway Is Topic

The Hilltop Little Theatre Guild will hold a Christmas party and gift exchange at the home of Mrs. Eva Bercaw, 2680 W. Broad-st, Sunday, Dec. 18, at 8 p. m. Mrs. Edna Shuman will give a talk on Christmas in Norway.

Hesperian Club Sets Meeting For Dec. 20

The Senior Hesperian Club will meet at the Virginia Hotel for luncheon at 1 p. m. on Tuesday, Dec. 20. Hostesses for the luncheon will be Mrs. J. M. McLinn, Mrs. N. S. Edberg, Mrs. Lewis McCracken, Mrs. J. P. Merrimen, Mrs. H. E. Greene, and Mrs. E. V. Mielke.

Mrs. M. E. Sensenbrenner is to be in charge of the program. She will present the Girls' Chorus from the State School as part of her program. There is to be an exchange of home made gifts.

Nightingale Wing 12 Elects Officers Dec. 21

Nightingale Cottage Wing No. 12 will meet at the YMCA at 1 p. m. Wednesday, Dec. 21, for a luncheon and Christmas party with an exchange of gifts. Each member will also bring a gift for needy children. Officers will be elected at the business meeting.

The hostesses are Mrs. N. H. Lothamer, Mrs. Herbert Herrel, Mrs. Arthur Hunter, Mrs. Richard Barrow and Mrs. Grace Dell.

Gold Star Mothers Announce Schedule Set For December

The month of December will be a busy one for the Columbus Gold Star Mothers of Chapter 1. The following dates have been scheduled for December:

Monday, Dec. 19, a visit will be made to veterans at Rocky Glen Sanatorium, McConnelsville.

A games party has been planned in the Swiss hall, Beck and Third-sts, for Tuesday, Dec. 20, at 1:45 p. m. This will be in the charge of Mrs. Bertha Kellar and Mrs. James Semons.

The group will meet with Santa Claus Thursday, Dec. 22, for a Christmas party at Chillicothe Hospital.

The regular meeting in Memorial Hall set for Friday, Dec. 23, has been cancelled until Friday, Jan. 18.

On Dec. 25, a Christmas night visit will be paid to veterans at Benjamin Franklin Hospital.

Chairman of hospital work is Mrs. Wm. C. Erler and co-chairman, Mrs. Joseph Trott.

It is much better to serve a good person than to give orders to a bad one.

The Low Down On High Ridgers

By One of Them

Glad to know MARGARET AKE came through unharmed. She had a narrow escape in an auto accident.

LOREN HIGHFILL has graduated from crutches to a cane; or shall we say he is stepping off the ladder of a three-month illness. Early this fall he miraculously escaped permanent injury as an auto struck him, which resulted in a farctured hip. Mr. Highfill in a fractured hip. Mr. Highfill never lost his smile while he was bedfast. Now he waves his cane around as if it were a baton. Well—almost, anyhow

RED CALLIF and his wife entertained their euchre club a week ago Friday. TALKING, of course, took up most of the evening, with RED discussing insurance, FRANK, his painting jcb, ART, the heavy snows in Pittsburgh, and UNDERWOOD, his type of business. The ladies, of course, were hashing over their Christmas shopping during refreshments. Did I say they played euchre?

While reading his Hilltop Record, FRED HOFFMAN was eating his favorite—a bag of peanuts. He was so astonished as he came upon his name. He started to tell his wife about it, when he choked on a peanut. He had quite a scare in his choking spell, but he pulled out of it. Don't think I'm trying to do away with you, FRED, but are you eating peanuts now?

MRS. JESSIE MOORE surprised her husband on his birthday. She asked him what he'd like for his birthday dinner last Sunday. Jus for fun he said watermelon, corn on the cob, fried chicken and apple pie. She filled his order, although the corn was OFF the cob and the PICKLED WATERMELON RIND had to do as watermelon. JESSE was quite pleased with the meal. Dinner Winner should have phoned them.

MRS. BERNARD FLOYD entertained her Eastern Starlet group with her Christmas party yesterday. If those shining stars, as they call themselves, didn't have the Christmas spirit when they came, they certainly had it before they left her home. DOTTY had it decorated from the porch way on down to the basement in Yuletide greetings and wreaths, including her big Christmas tree downstairs.

MRS. ROBERT ALLSHOUSE would almost rather knit than eat. Every free moment she takes out her needles and clicks away a few thousand stitches. Whenever there's a birth, or Christmas, or a birthday, she's right on the ball with a little knitted something as a gift. I hear she's pretty good at it, too. How about a display for the neighbors some day, MRS. ALLSHOUSE?

Don't forget TOMORROW. It's our HIGH RIDGE CHRISTMAS PARTY. Now this is a family affair. Best way in the world to get acquainted. I'LL be there with bells on. Who knows—I may even be SANTA CLAUS.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

By Pat Martindale

The Girl Scout Troops of District 8 will hold their Christmas party Dec. 20. The girls will sing Christmas carols over the amplifier at the EUB Church at 7:30 p. m. At 8 p. m. the girls will go to the auditorium of John Burroughs School where a Christmas program is being arranged by Mrs. H. C. Booth. After the program the girls will pack gift baskets to be distributed at the Feeble-Minded Institution.

Girl Scout Troops 13, 248, 249, 251, 203 and 146 will participate in the Special Freight program over WCOL from 1:15 to 1:45, Dec. 24. Mitzy Karabinos from St. Mary Magdalene's Girl Scout Troop 203 will sing a solo. Lois Hunter from West High Troop 146 will play the piano and Veronica Forster, a John Burroughs Brownie, will take part in the program. Patricia O'Brien will have a speaking part for the St. Aloysius troops. The St. Aloysius choir will sing a special arrangement of "Deck the Hall." Troop 203 and Troop 13, 248, 249 and 251 will sing a special arrangement of "Adeste Fideles" with Troop 146 singing the second verse in English. Four little Girl Scouts and Brownies will tell about Christmas in other lands. Joan Ingles from Brownie Troop 242 (whose mother and father are former Hilltoppers) will recite. Mrs. Pat Martindale writes the Special Freight program.

Starting Dec. 14, the Girl Scouts will appear on WLW-C every other Wednesday at 4 p. m. This program also is arranged by Mrs. Martindale.

Two new Brownie Girl Scout troops have been formed for the third grade girls at St. Mary Magdalene School. Troop No. 199, under the leadership of Mrs. Orville Todd, with Mrs. Harold Weber as assistant leader, consists of the following girls: Judith Cass, Sue Dethy, Kathleen Faller, Mary Gallicchio, Mary Haldeman, Beatrice Haney, Carolyn Helcher, Sandra Orendorff, Sara Hayes, Stella Todd, Kathleen Tonti and Barbara Weber.

Troop No. 201 has Mrs. Patrick Timmins as leader and Mrs. Charles D. Ream as assistant leader. The girls in this troop are Madalene Bovard, Betty Ann Evans, Karen Graber, Kathleen Justus, Sharon Meinhardt, Geraldine Murnane, Mary Quinn, Nancy Ream, Nancy Rubadue, Mary Catherine Timmins, Betty Tonti, Karen Vieth and Sharon Wills.

Mrs. Raymond Justus is chairman of the troop committee and she will be assisted by the following women on her troop committee: Mrs. Harry Haney, Mrs. Harley Haldeman, Mrs. George Graber and Mrs. Hans Vieth. Mrs. Paul Quinn will assist with the leadership of both troops. The troops are sponsored by St. Mary Magdalene PTA.

St. Mary Magdalene's Girl Scout Troop 203 will have a Christmas party on Wednesday, Dec. 14, at which time the girls will be presented with cooking badge awards.

There will be a 10 cent gift exchange among the scouts, and they will also wrap Christmas gifts for their mothers, and gifts for the State Institution.

The John Burroughs neighborhood Girl Scouts and Brownie Troops will have a get-together after school in the auditorium at 3:15 until 4:45 p. m., Dec. 16.

Girl Scout Troop 119 of John Burroughs School held its fourth birthday party Monday, Nov. 21. Refreshments were served by the troop committee, Mrs. Thos. Bohanan, Mrs. John Butterbaugh, Mrs. George Warren, Mrs. Delbert Pugh, and the troop leader, Mrs. Hugh Stimson and assistant leader, Mrs. Lawrence Kegg.

Two new girls, Lynn Bohanan and Janice Butterbaugh, were invested. The troop members receiving new membership cards in Patrol No. 1 were Carlene Williams, Lucy Pugh, Nedra Leist, Marilyn Warren, Lynn Bohanan and Janice Butterbaugh. In Patrol No. 2 Nancy Borror, Faye Jones, Dorothy Kegg, Doris Dailey, Rosemary Ryerson and Clara Howell.

On Armistice Day Troops 113 and 152 visited the Taystee Bakery.

Brownie Troop No. 157 gave a wiener roast, Nov. 11, at the home of Mrs. Joseph Ebright. Those present were Sharon Williams, Carol Ann Look, Pearl Sue Athey, Bonnie West, Karen Starkey, Judy Sellars, Juanita Ebright, Sandra Badgley, Sharon Amore, Betty Carson, Sandra Walz, Jody Whitsell, Diane Neely, Mrs. Joseph Ebright and her three daughters, leaders Mrs. Elmer Look and Mrs. Kenneth Starkey.

Members of John Burroughs Troop 127 are dressing a rubber doll and making a complete doll wardrobe to send to a needy child in Czechoslovakia. The girls are making Christmas decorations and gifts for their parents. The girls are Linda Prier, Sharon Andrews, Ruthann Hardacre, Nancy Brooks, Marilyn Ruhl, Annette Bates, Sandra McNamee, Nancy Reichelderfer, Sondra Beck, Sandra Blum, Gail Adams, Mary Jo Cramer, Shirley Anderson and Patricia Hanawalt.

Hoge, Burgess, Hilltop CC Lead In 'Y' Junior League

By Joe Hutt

Last Wednesday night, the Junior Leaguers of the Hilltop YMCA League got under way. This is the second year that the Junior League has been in operation. There are six teams officially entered in the league. They are, with their coaches: Hilltop YMCA, Jack Downing; Hilltop Church of Christ, William Groomes; Burgess EUB, Richard Grant; Oakley Ave. Baptist, Ewing Diggs; Westgate Methodist, Arthur Beard, and Hoge Memorial, W. Delph.

This year a new system has been initiated by Jack Downing of the Hilltop Y. In this system the coaches of the respective teams will vote for the outstanding player of the opposing team or one of his own players that he thought was best.

The two teams to start the evening off were the Hilltop Y and Hilltop C. of C. The Hilltop CC had a merry time as they coasted over the "Y" to the tune of 32 to 9. Parker, of the HCC was voted outstanding of his team and also was the game high scorer with 14 points. Spratly of the "Y", also was tops although he didn't hit for so many as Parker. He only collected three points. The score by quarters:

Hilltop "Y"	1	2	1	5	— 9
Hilltop CC	13	10	5	4	—33

In the second game, Burgess knocked off Oakley by the score of 36 to 31. Smith and Meredith of Burgess were high point men as they hit the nets for 14 points each, while Redman of the Oakley team, got 15 for individual high game honors. Meredith and Redman were the tops as rated by the coaches. The score by quarters.

Burgess	10	6	10	10	—36
Oakley	7	4	8	12	—31

The third game ended with Hoge being the winner of the hardwood battlers. The score was 34 to 24. Easterly and Proper of Hoge were tops with the coaches. Proper was high for Hoge with 14 points, while Schuk of Westgate was high for his team with eight points. The score by quarters.

Westgate	4	6	8	2	—24
Hoge	13	8	4	10	—34

The referee and umpire of the evening was Pete Perina of Ohio State University.

Hilliards High 5 Drops Thriller To Plain City 47-46

Plain City High won a thriller from Hilliards, 47 to 46, at Hilliards Tuesday night. The visitors held a two-point lead with three minutes to go and successfully stalled the scoring for the rest of the way, being limited to a free throw by Hilliards' Harry Walcutt.

Hilliards enjoyed an 11-point advantage at the half, 31-20, but P. C. had reduced this to 39-34 at the end of the third period.

The game was a scoring duel between the two centers, Oscar Jefferson of Plain City and Dick Hansen of Hilliards. Jefferson scored 20 points and Hansen 18.

Hilliards	12	31	39	46
Plain City	11	20	34	47

Two Veteran Officers Of West Gate Lodge Retire

Malcolm Grove

Two officers of West Gate Lodge of Masons who have served in their posts for many years recently resigned. Malcolm "Mack" Grove retired following 33 consecutive years as secretary, and Howard Hamilton completed 21 years as treasurer when their resignations were accepted at the lodge's annual meeting.

Grove, a charter member of the lodge, "worked hardest to iron out some of the wrinkles at our founding." He has served a long line of lodge masters in his job of secretary during the past 33 years. His efforts helped build the fraternal organization's membership to 1650.

Grove's lodge brothers have named him secretary emeritus. He was "retired from service with honor." He is succeeded by K. W. Sharadin.

Hamilton, long a member of the lodge, served as treasurer for 21 years. He was the first treasurer for the organization. He served the lodge "faithfully and well". J. W. Hilbert takes Hamilton's office as treasurer.

Ten Seniors Are Given 'National Honor Awards For Work And Activities Completed At West High School

Myron T. Seifert

National Honor members, 10 in all, of the West High January graduating class were named this week, Miss Blanche Kern, vice-principal, announced.

Heading the list is Marilyn Gauggel, 323 N. Warren-av, who is the only member of the class having a perfect scholastic record throughout her high school career.

Seven others on the list rank in the following order:

Phyllis Plank, Shirley Cline, Barbara Pindell, Jane Battrell, Charlotte Cranston, Jean Huston, and Joan Deyo.

In order to qualify for "National Honor" students must maintain a 3.5 standard, be of excellent character, and establish 10 service points during their high school days. Residence for one year is also deemed a minimum essential.

Students who made 3.5 or better by the time they are juniors, and in some cases where they missed the mark in the junior class, they may qualify in the senior year if they make 3.5) are admitted to the school's "L" Society. List this term includes: Jean Hutson, Barbara Pindell, James Lorenz, Kathryn Lentz, Marcia Brady, Phyllis Lowry, Walter Nickens, John Rockwell.

The students are chosen by a school faculty board, consisting of Irving F. Young, principal; Miss Blanche M. Kern, vice-principal; Miss Mary Dugan, English instructor; A. E. Buchanan, Senior advisor, and Myron T. Seifert, English teacher.

The Birth of the Charity Newsies

Back in nineteen-seven, while a blizzard was howling with glee,
Three of our town's merchants saw much in the misery
Of a tattered little urchin, who was trying to sell his wares,
To earn a few pennies and maybe help with his family's cares.
The lad was ragged and hungry and his fingers were still with cold,
But he stuck to his post and his papers and clutched his coins of gold.
Pennies were few that cold, cold day; for Christmas time was nigh,
And there weren't many people strolling around Broad and High.

Those men were former news boys and they felt a tug at the heart,
And wondered how many other boys, in life would get the first start
Standing on cold wet sidewalks, shouting their wares to the world,
Hungry and cold, while pellets of snow and sleet around them swirled.
The men knew there were many others, and wondered what they could do
To alleviate the suffering and give aid to at least a few;
And more men asked if they could help; and with enthusiasm fanned,
They planned and schemed and figured how to give a helping hand.

A sudden impulsive something sprang into the heart of each,
Could they reach a hand to the needy? Could they get other hands to reach?
They gave their time and service and worked with serious thought
Of how to help the little guys and those they knew had nought;
Each one gave some worthy thought and they finally found a plan
To get a band together to help their fellow man.
Then from the shelter within the door, they watched the youngster forlorn,
And there at the corner of Broad and High, the CHARITY NEWS was born.

It's a funny organization, made up of the funniest crew,
There's men from every walk of life, wealthy and poor ones too,
We've judges and doctors and lawyers; bankers and men in blue;
It isn't your place in society but the will in your heart to do.
There isn't one who asks for pay or expects to get a wage,
But there's ones a year they ask your help and want the central stage.
It's just a week before Christmas that they give their service and time,
And ask for you to contribute, if it's only a wee small dime.

They tell you the morning paper, it's printed red in part,
With a picture drawn in the middle, a picture that touches the heart.
The slogan is "GIVE—OPEN YOUR HEART — IT'S ALL FOR CHARITY.
No matter what race or religion, there is no disparity.
ONE HUNDRED PERCENT for the kids in town and it's wisely and well spent,
It's only used in cases of stress and the kids get every cent.
Where kids stay home from school, perhaps, because of the clothes they need,
They furnish the clothes and medical care and other things, indeed.

They don't stop there, for the daily care that's needed the whole year thru,
Is always ready and willing to help—and the cases are not always new;
They very seldom turn one down or have a reason to pause;
Of course, THE NEWSIES investigate, make sure it's a worthy cause;
Worthy of anything you give and only used to do well,
To help the suffering little ones and their hunger to dispell.
They're gruff and tough and callcused, big business men and small,
They give this day to the needy ones . . . God bless them, one and all.

'Tis now the year of forty-nine and winter is drawing near,
So when you hear the NEWS BOY call, just stop and give him ear;
The BIG RED HEART that each one wears, identifies the MAN.
We know by that RED EMBLEM he's a CHARITY NEWSIE FAN.
So if by chance on NEWSIE DAY you happen on the street,
To be attracted by the antics of some gentleman you meet,
Remember to buy a paper to help some little kid,
Open wide your heart and purse, you'll be mighty glad you did.

They dress in every conceivable way and do unconventional things,
You know they mean it from their hearts and give for the joy it brings.
You get a laugh from the things they say and the crazy things they do
They'd do even crazier things than that to make the "RED" show through;
Give him a "bill", a smile breaks through, he'll give you a button to wear,
He laughs and clowns, but underneath you'll find a solemn air,
If you give a coin, he'll thank you and bless the heart that gave,
For each bit helps with each bit more, some little child to save.
And God, with all His mercies, looks after small ones, too,
As our faith in Him is not questioned, let them put their faith in you;
Just don't forget the kiddies, for you were a kid, that's true,
Now maybe your fortune is better or maybe your pennies are few;
With faith and hope and charity, these seeds of love were sown
From just three men at Broad and High, the ranks have steadily grown.

To this blessed organization, that is known by the BIG RED HEART
That's always ready and willing to help if you'll only do your part.

Hysteria Threatens Private Flying

The recent airline crash, where a fighter plane rammed a transport ship near Washington, D. C., has precipitated a wave of mass hysteria that threatens the very existence of private flying.

Politicians, who know little or nothing of flying, have used the incident to bring their names before the public, exploiting the incident for the free publicity.

Statements and opinions were issued, demands for regulations were made, even before the Civil Aeronautics Board could conduct an investigation into the cause of the accident.

We are in favor of safety in the air, but air regulations should be made by competent officials. A sensible and productive program should be carried on to eliminate flying hazards. However, in most instances present regulations are sufficient.

Proposals as fantastic as prohibiting all but Instrument Flight Regulation flights in airport control zones and on federal airways have been made. In many parts of the country, including Columbus, this would mean the virtual collapse of private flying.

The growth of private flying in small planes has been an uphill fight all the way. The whole future of such flying is now threatened. Not since the wartime crisis, when private flying was banned in the eastern and western defense zones, have private flyers faced such a vexing problem.

Let's not let the politicians formulate our Civil Air Regulations.

'Think This Over'

By William "Doc" Campbell

Christmas Joys—Christmas Toys

Part One: Adults

If I could write the word "CHRIST"-MASS as high as I think it ought to be, surely the word "CHRIST" would reach to the Heavens and the word MASS would be on the level of a beautiful church (on earth) service. For today I am afraid a lot of people, about 40,000,000 in the United States, are not in accord with the CHRIST-MASS idea. It looks to me as if the now acceptable "X-mas" means only a cross or "X" placed before a Christmas gift list.

The Christmas season ought to embody the "Spiritual concept" to be found (for example) in the grand old hymn, "JOY TO THE WORLD", or in the modern lighter song classics, "WHITE CHRISTMAS" or "WINTER WONDERLAND", but it has become too "Commercial" to be Spiritual and indeed is far removed from the lowly "Manger" and its deep implication! Even the Three Wise Men brought gifts that were in keeping with their positions. The truly rich man brought gold—the other two, simpler gifts.

How well I remember two aunts of mine; one an aunt-in-law, a fine woman, but she sought each year to send presents to more than 100 friends; later, as she grew older, it became an awful burden and costly matter and strain. The other aunt, Margaret McLean, a single woman, but oh what an adorable personality, even at 75 years of age. She was a great church worker, leader in her small community, and a fighter for the RIGHT, too. She gave freely of herself and talents to others and was loved endearingly for it.

Now for the opposite side. Many years ago, in a large bank, a prominent minister said to me that these "Christmas Clubs" were, seemingly, encouraged by banks. They carried and used, over the year, the money deposited. Then people took out their $500 or $1000 and went on a spree of unnecessary and elaborate spending, far beyond their earning power. The Christmas Spirit should be for adults to worship "The NEW BORN BABE" and what he stands for, and with it His "Spiritual Christmas card" and message,

"PEACE ON EARTH and GOOD WILL TO MEN"

Part Two: Youth

Now for all the kiddies under, say, 15 years of age What joys they anticipate for a whole week, what a longing to be gratified by dear ole Santa or kind parents. And the Christmas tree—O beloved memory. I trimmed ours religiously for more than 20 years (up to the ceiling) with "flood lights" at first, then with "bulbs" later.

The greatest CHRISTMAS, I remember, [redacted] when our [redacted] daughters were about 10 years old; tree—a perfect fir, beautifully and gaily trimmed FOR THEM (not the adult, modern art fantasie, white or blue, but real evergreen with tinsel). That year we bought an Edison phonograph and had a wonderful record of the immortal contralto, Madame Schumann-Heink, singing "SILENT NIGHT, HOLY NIGHT." At a given time, Christmas morn, the two girls came anxiously downstairs, hearing that gloriously religious song. Then, with a burst of joy, as it dawned upon them that the tree and gifts were for them, a rapid run and hugs and kisses for us. Well, you know the rest—all week long, and I hope for all of their lives. Grandchildren now, and we are repeating the exciting opportunity for LOVE and AFFECTION (at a most reasonable cost).

Yes, dear reader, cut that buying budget to "common sense" and inexpensive, useful gifts and put emphasis on "CHRIST-MASS"!

You will be 100 per cent happier, I'll say, and will not be considered unwise.

"Christmas comes but once a year;
And when it comes, it brings "good cheer".
"SILENT NIGHT, HOLY NIGHT"
THINK THIS OVER.

HEARING ON PETITION TO ANNEX ADJACENT TERRITORY IN FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP TO THE VILLAGE OF VALLEYVIEW FILED; HEARING FIXED FOR JANUARY 30, 1950

Mr. Lauderbaugh offered the following resolution and moved the adoption of the same, which was duly seconded by Mr. McCoy:

BE IT RESOLVED, By the Board of County Commissioners of Franklin County, Ohio, that the petition for the annexation of certain adjacent territory to the Village of Valleyview, Ohio, signed by Margaret Parkey, et. al., being the majority of the freeholders in said territory, to-wit:

Beginning in the original centerline of Hague Avenue and in a westerly projection of the north line of Lot No. 1 Valleyview Addition as said Valleyview Addition is shown of record in Plat Book 19, Page 15, Recorder's Office, Franklin County, Ohio. Said beginning point being also at an angle point in the existing corporation line of said village; thence easterly with the existing corporation line (which is in a projection of the north line of said Lot No. 1), the north line of Lot No. 1; and the north line of the alley north of Dibbles Avenue; to the south line of the P. C. C. & St. L. R. R. Co. right-of-way; thence westerly with said south right-of-way line to a point at which a projection of the west line of Powell Avenue as said Powell Avenue is shown in Oak Knoll Addition of record in Plat Book 17, Pages 218 & 219, Recorder's Office, Franklin County, Ohio, would intersect said south right-of-way line; thence southerly with a projection of the west line of said Powell Avenue, with the west line of said Powell Avenue, and with a southerly projection of the west line of said Powell Avenue to a point in the south line of Valleyview Drive (width 60.0 feet); thence easterly with the south line of said Valleyview Drive to a point on the projection of the west line of the 20.0 foot alley between Hague Avenue and Powell Avenue as shown of record in said Oak Knoll Addition; thence southerly along the projection of said 20.0 foot alley in Oak Knoll Addition to a point in the south right-of-way line of the C.C.C. & St. L. R. R., said point being also in the corporation line of the City of Columbus; thence easterly with said south right-of-way line and the corporation line of the City of Columbus, to the original centerline of Hague Avenue; thence northerly with said original centerline and with the corporation line of the City of Columbus to the old north right-of-way line of said C. C. C. & St. L. R. R.; thence easterly with said old right-of-way line and the corporation line of the City of Columbus 100.00 feet; thence northerly, parallel to the original centerline of Hague Avenue, 15.00 feet more or less, to the present corporation line of the Village of Valleyview; thence westerly with the said corporation line of the Village of Valleyview to the original centerline of Hague Avenue; thence northerly with the original centerline of Hague Avenue and the present corporation line of the Village of Valleyview to the place of beginning, together with a map of said territory accompanying said petition, filed with the Board on the 9th day of November, 1949, and presented to the Board at a regular session thereof held this 16th day of November, 1949, be and the same are hereby ordered filed in the office of the County Auditor; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, By the Board of County Commissioners that a hearing upon said petition shall be held at the office of the Board of County Commissioners of Franklin County, Ohio, at the Court House, at ten A. M., eastern tandard time, on the 20th day of January, 1950; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Clerk of the Board be and he hereby is directed to notify the agent of the petitioners of the time and place of said hearing.

Voting Aye thereon: Harry T. Vieor, C. P. Lauderbaugh and Nathan A. McCoy, Jr.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Common Pleas Court, Franklin County, Ohio

No. 178869—Homer R. Langston, 1016 W. Temple, Los Angeles 26, California, Plaintiff, vs. Dorothy Tom Frazier, 67 Chapiel Avenue, Chicago 49, Illinois; Frank Frazier (husband of Dorothy Tom Frazier, 67 Chapiel Avenue, Chicago 49, Illinois; Betty J. Tom, and the unknown spouse of Betty J Tom, if any, 6760 Merrill Avenue, Chicago 49, Illinois; Fred A. Tom, 6763 Merrill Avenue, Chicago 49, Illinois; Marguerite Tom (wife of Fred A. Tom), 6763 Merrill Avenue, Chicago 49, Illinois, Defendants.

PETITION

Now comes the plaintiff and for his petition says that he is seized in fee simple and in possession of the following described real estate: Situated in the County of Franklin, in the State of Ohio, and in the Township of Franklin: Being in Survey No 1219, Virginia Military Land, and being also a part of a certain tract of 45.87 acres conveyed by Charles M. Tom, et al., to Emmet E. Tom, et al., by deed shown of record in Deed Book 284, page 420, Franklin County Records, and being more particularly described as follows: Beginning at an iron pin in the north line of the P. C. C. and St. L. Railroad right of way, which point is south 86° 26' West a distance of 455.0 feet from an iron pin in the west line of Hague Avenue, and in the north line of said P. C. C. & St. L. Railroad right of way; said point being also the southwest corner of a tract heretofore conveyed by said Emmet E. Tom, et al., to the Hilltop Supply Company by deed as recorded in D. B. 756, page 186, Recorder's Office, Franklin County, Ohio; thence from said point of beginning north 31° 01' East a distance of 114.90 feet to an iron pin; thence North 86° 26' East a distance of 406.36 feet to a point in the center line of Hague Avenue (passing an iron pin at 385.00 feet); thence north 23° 29' (West along the center line of Hague Avenue a distance of 187.04 feet to a point; thence south 67° 10' west a distance of 736.08 feet (passing an iron pin at 20.00 feet) to an iron pin on the east line of 20.989 acre tract; thence along the east line of said 20.989 acre tract south 23° 29' East a distance of 10.00 feet to an iron pin; being also the southeast corner of said 20.989 acre tract, and on the north right of way line of aforementioned railroad; thence north 86° 30' east along the north right of way line a distance of 266.26 feet to the place of beginning, containing 1.328 acres, subject to all legal highways. Plaintiff further says that the defendants Dorothy Tom Frazier, Fred A. Tom, and Betty J. Tom, whom plaintiff does not know if she is married or not, have or claim to have an interest in said real estate adverse to the plaintiff; that Frank Frazier is the husband of Dorothy Tom Frazier; that Marguerite Tom is the wife of Fred A. Tom; and that it is unknown whether Betty J. Tom is married or not, and if so what her name is or the name of her spouse, if any. WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays that the defendants be notified of the pendancy of this action and be required to set up their respective claims, if any exist, to said real estate, and that his title to the same be forever quieted against said claim and for all other and further relief to which plaintiff may be entitled in the premises.

Said defendants are further notified that they are required to answer said petition on or before December 24, 1949, or judgment may be rendered as prayed for therein.

God Is Universal Father

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Isaiah 7:16; Jeremiah 29: 31; Luke 1.

Jehovah told Jeremiah to write to His people, captives in Babylon, and to tell them to build houses, plant gardens and to eat of the fruit thereof.

Jeremiah's letter also said Jehovah commanded His people to take wives, and mates for their sons and daughters and to raise up children in their captivity.

To Zacharias, a priest of the temple, appeared an angel of the Lord, telling him that his wife should bear a son, and his name should be called John.

The angel also came to Mary, a virgin, telling her she should have a son. Mary ran to tell her cousin, Elisabeth.

MEMORY VERSE—Luke 1:31-32.

Glenwood Church Gives $4400 To Wesley Groups

By Myron T. Seifert

Sixty workers of the local Glenwood Methodist Church this week completed a campaign to raise $4400 for the United Wesley foundation, a project in Methodism, to provide a religious and social life for college students, particularly Methodists, at their respective schools. Chairman of the drive was Robert Cramer.

The local church's allotment of $4400 was a part of the church-wide goal of $275,000, Mr. Cramer said, adding that the bulk of the $4400 contributed by Hilltoppers will be used at Ohio State University where more than 5000 Methodist students are enrolled. The headquarters of the Methodist unit at Ohio State is the Indianola Social Center, where thousands of students have been helped to a better and nobler life.

First Year Services Sunday

The Community Christian Church will celebrate the first year in its new building Sunday, Dec. 18. The unit was opened last year on the Sunday before Christmas.

Since that time a beautiful electric organ has been installed in the church, and also new cushion seats, art glass windows, a gas unit in the furnace, and many other improvements. The new unit will seat around 200 persons. The plans are to extend the present unit to take care of a larger Sunday School and also for recreational activities. The new church will be built of stone.

The anniversary services this Sunday will be at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The church quartet, Helen Stewart, Catherine Hughes, Wilma McDonald and Elizabeth Burch, will sing "Bless This House". The pastor, Rev. James F. Lorenz, will preach on the topic, "How to Celebrate Our Anniversary". The evening service at 7:30 will be a missionary program. Rev. and Mrs. Carl Hahn from India will show motion pictures of that country. The public is invited to these services.

Westgate Church Offers Musicale

The senior and junior choirs of the Westgate Methodist Church will offer a Christmas musicale Sunday night at 8 o'clock.

The program will be under the direction of Robert Fisher, organist and senior choir director. Lella White will direct the junior choir, accompanied by Mrs. John Beall at the piano. The community is invited to this all-music service.

Community Church Plans Yule Party

The Community Christian Church will have its annual Christmas party, Friday evening, Dec. 16, at 7:30.

Cliff Matthews, superintendent of the Sunday School, will have charge. There will be a big Christmas tree that will be decorated by all at the beginning. The program will consist of a Christmas story in motion pictures, and special singing. Santa Claus will arrive during the evening with candy and refreshments. All are invited.

'Soldiers Of King' To Be Presented

Rev. C. H. Hellyer, pastor of the Whitethorne Avenue Church of Christ in Christian Union, has announced that the children of the church will present their Christmas program Sunday evening at 7:45.

A pageant, "The Soldiers of the King", will be the presentation. The public is invited to the program.

OPEN 9 TO 9 'TIL CHRISTMAS

FRED RAETHER, OWNER OF THE ECONOMY VARIETY STORE, 2402 W. Broad-st, is now celebrating his 31st Christmas shopping rush. Raether, proprietor of one of the oldest businesses on the Hilltop, has been located in the same place since Feb. 7, 1918. Raether's sister, Marie Raether, has been assisting him since the store opened. His son-in-law, Jack Alkire, also helps in the store. Raether, member of the Hilltop Business Association and the Hilltop Kiwanis Club, and charter member of St. John Lutheran Church, resides with his wife and sister at 203 S. Huron-av. They have three daughters, all graduates of West High School. They are Elizabeth of Houston, Tex., Lucille of Columbus and Ann. Mrs. Alkire, 3038 Crescent-dr. Offering a wide variety of Christmas gifts and holiday decorations, the store will be open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., two weeks before Christmas.

West High Choir To Sing In Schools' Choral Festival

The West High School Choir will participate in a "Christmas Choral Festival" sponsored by the Columbus Public Schools department of music at Central High School Sunday, Dec. 18, at 3 p. m.

Under the direction of Mrs. Edith White, the choir will sing "Sweet Little Jesus Boy" and "Susanni" as its portion of the program. The latter offering is a 14th century Christmas carol.

The choirs of all the Columbus high schools will combine their voices on the last two numbers, "Carol of the Bells" and "The Shepherd's Story".

Included in the program will be carol singing by the audience, led by Kenneth R. Keller, director of music for the Columbus Public Schools.

The complete program of the festival follows:

Gesu Bambino, by Yon; While By My Sheep, by Jungst. Linden-McKinley High School Choir. Mrs. Mabel Hayes, director.

When De Star Shines, by Cain; Sing We All Noel, by York. East High School Choir. Mrs. Miriam Summerford, director.

Sweet Little Jesus Boy, by MacGimsey-Lee; Susanni, 14th Century Carol, arr. by Tom Scott. West High School Choir. Mrs. Edith White, director.

Go Tell It On The Mountain, arr. by John W. Work; Hark, Now, O Shepherds, Moravian-Luvaas. Central High School Choir. Miss Elizabeth Moore, director.

The Three Kings, by Willan; Let Carols Ring, arr. by Black. North High School Choir. Evelyn Ross, director.

The Shepherds And The Inn, Mexican Carol arr. by H. Gaul; The Cradle Song of the Shepherds, Glatz Folk Song. South High School Choir. Ruth Lippincott, director.

Carol Singing By The Audience. Kenneth R. Keller, director.

Carol of the Bells, by Wilhousky; The Shepherds' Story, Dickinson. Combined High School Choirs. Kenneth R. Keller, director of music, Columbus Public Schools.

Present Christmas Comedy

The senior young people of Avondale Evangelical United Brethren Church will present a Christmas comedy titled "Home for Christmas" Sunday evening at 7:30 under the direction of Mary Margaret Thompson.

Those taking part are Donna Fritch, Violet Dover, Jean Junk, Don Cook, Norma Spradling, Sonny Sahr, Harold Davidson, Dave Moran and Doris Davidson.

TO PRESENT CANTATA

The children's departments of Glenwood Methodist Church will present a cantata, "The Christmas Secret", in Motter Hall Sunday evening at 7:30. This cantata is under the direction of Glenna Oesterle, Mrs. J. H. Cassell and Mrs. Nelson Jhensen.

On The Record

Silver Bucks Go Places And Buy Things

They were only given out last Friday, but the silver dollars on the Record payroll have really gotten around. They have been reported in such places as church collection plates and a safecracker's loot. They have been used to pay for just about everything from automobiles to hot fudge sundaes.

Record employees have reported plunking down the silver pieces for hair-cuts, Christmas trees and trimmings, gasoline and oil, and "the same old flour and potatoes."

A few of them have been hoarded to give to the paper boy or youngsters in the family for Christmas.

Quite a few have been reported by the cleaning establishments on the Hilltop, but as yet no one reports getting a silver dollar to patch a hole in a pocket made by the weight of silver dollars.

That the "silver dollar pay-day was a success is shown by the fact that the cartwheels are no longer a novelty at Hilltop stores, just four days after they were put in circulation. It shows the importance of the Record payroll in the economic balance of the community, and proves that Record employees believe in the motto, "Shop Hilltop."

Worthy Project: Near the end of the war a new set of initials "DP" was added to our vocabulary. For most of these displaced persons the war started ten years ago—and it still hasn't ended.

They were found, nearly dead, in the work camps and concentration camps of Germany. Many of them feared to return to the lands they were taken from to be used as slave labor. In many cases their native countries refused to take them. They will live on bare subsistance rations in cold, makeshift camps.

Many of them are professional men and skilled technicians, but are not allowed to work because they are not citizens of the country in whch they live.

Recently Czechoslovakia cancelled the passports of citizens outside the country. Most of these people were in Central Europe. They can't return home and they can't stay where they are. They add to the number of people who are literally "without a country." And even the DP camps are to be closed by June.

A move has been started to bring 205,000 of these people to America. The congregation of the Hillcrest Baptist Church has announced that it will resume the responsibility of a family of displaced persons, will pay their fare from New York, find living quarters for them, and aid them in securing work.

The people being brought to America are being screened carefully as to physical and moral qualifications. It is a pleasure to see that one Hilltop group realizes that these workers are an asset and not a liability to the community. It is good to see them give meaning to the words carved on the base of the Statue of Liberty:

Give me your tired, your poor,
Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free,
The wretched refuse of your teeming shore,
Send these, the homeless, the tempest-tossed to me.
I lift my lamp beside the golden door.

A FORTY-NINE SILVER RUSH took place at the Record office Friday as Record employees were paid off in silver dollars for the week's work. In the picture above, bookkeeper Jean Trott counts out the cart wheels as editor Harry Franken holds the bag. Silver dollars returned to the Record office by Jan. 1 will buy a five-month $1.25 subscription to the Record.

Home of Accident Victim Ransacked By Burglars

Burglars Monday ransacked the home of a man lying critically injured and unconscious in a hospital. The home was that of Roy Hyer, 60, of 292 Columbian-av.

Mr. Hyer sustained a compound skull fracture when his auto went out of control and hit a tree on Wilson-av on Nov. 22. He has lain unconscious in Mt. Carmel Hospital since the accident. Burglars entered the residence through a coal bin while Mrs. Hyer was visiting their son John Hyer, 604 Columban-av.

The burglars escaped with a brooch, two watches and a ring, valued at near $100.

THEATRES CLOSED

The Old Trail and Westmont Theatres are among 28 Columbus theaters that will be closed during the week before Christmas. The theaters will be open for a Christmas Day matinee.

Tarbutton Withdraws From City Bus Rate Fight

Hilltopper George T. Tarbutton, assistant county prosecutor, last week withdrew from the city's bus rate fight; was charged with contempt of court by attorneys for the Columbus Transit Co., and, at the same time promised to re-enter the case when it comes up for a final hearing.

The action followed a three-day hearing before Common Pleas Judge Dana F. Reynolds. However, according to Tarbutton's assertions, it appeared to be only the opening battle in the bus rate increase controversy.

Tarbutton said Monday that his intervention had brought about the court's increasing the CTC's bond covering collection of the increase in the bus rate from $10,000 to $50,000.

Represents Bus Riders

"What we've been trying to do," Tarbutton stated, "in intervening in this controversy, is to have the court consider the profits of electric rates in determining what the bus rates should be.

Tarbutton had applied to enter the rate fight between the city and the transit company in order to represent the bus riders' point of view. Actually, in the hearing, Tarbutton was opposed by transit attorneys and City Attorney Richard W. Gordon.

Charged With Contempt

CTC attorneys said they would file contempt charges against Tarbutton, two of his attorneys, John H. King and John W. Christensen, and the Dispatch Printing Co., as publishers of the Columbus Dispatch, because of a "serious breach of ethics" in releasing news of his application.

Tarbutton declared: "I am ready to meet the contempt charges in court." As of Monday afternoon, the charges had not been filed by CTC attorneys.

Contracts To Be Let On State School Repairs

Contracts will be let this week for rebuilding the roof of the fire-damaged wing of the Columbus State School, State Welfare Director John H. Lamneck said Saturday. Plans for rebuilding the remainder of the wing, hit by fire Nov. 3, are being prepared.

Work on the repair of the upper part of the three-story building will get underway after the first of the year.

Rebuilding and reroofing will total $150,000, officials said. Funds have been appropriated for the repairs.

Mrs. Bertha Cook Succumbs Sunday

Mrs. Bertha Cook, 69, of 3667 Britton-av, died Sunday in University Hospital. She was the widow of William David Cook.

Surviving are two sons, Edward Cottman, with whom she lived, and Percy E. Cook of Columbus; seven grandchildren, four great-grandchildren, and two sisters, Mrs. Myrtle Zinck and Mrs. Rose Vance, and a brother, George Cottman, all of Dayton.

Funeral services will be at 2:30 Tuesday at the Jerry Spears Funeral Home. Interment will be in Sunset Cemetery.

CAROLING TO BE TUESDAY

The Westgate EUB Youth Fellowship will meet at the Powell Avenue Church Thursday at 7:30 p. m. for the annual Christmas caroling. Chili will be served afterwards in the church basement.

Recommend Parking Ban In Capital-al

E. O. Melvin, 107 S. Warren-av, announced last week that the City Traffic and Transportation Commission has asked that parking be prohibited in Capital-al, between Wayne and Eureka-avs. Capital is the first alley south of Broad-st.

Melvin said that Broad-st merchants objected to the parking because the parked cars made it impossible for trucks to make deliveries to the rear of their establishments. He said that the commission considered allowing parking on one side of the alley, but that a survey showed it was advisable to prohibit parking in the alley entirely.

The narrowness of the alley made passing impossible and on one occasion a fist fight resulted when two motorists refused to yield the right of way.

The recommendation of the traffic commission will go to traffic engineer Harry Turner. Final action on the matter must be taken by city council.

State School To Keep Trainable Patients Only

The Columbus State School, 1601 W. Broad-st, beginning early next year, will become a central receiving agency for all feeble-minded persons in Ohio, State Welfare Director John H. Lamneck announced last week.

This change will constitute a reorganization of the Division of Mental Hygiene. A classification staff at the Hilltop institution will check each incoming patient to determine the case's mental status. Only those feeble-minded patients capable of taking training will be kept at the local school.

Under the new set-up, Ohio's 88 county probate courts must get permission from the state for each individual commitment. Quotas will be increased 50 per cent.

Scout Troop Sells Trees At Two Hilltop Sites

Boy Scout Troop 214 of St. Mary Magdalene Church is selling Christmas trees at Jerry's Service Station, Broad-st at Westgate-av, and on the northwest corner of Binns-blvd and Sullivant-av. E. T. O'Brien, 349 Algonquin-av, is chairman with Frank Christ, 450 S. Westgate-av, and Arnold Eifert, 228 Demorest-av, co-chairmen. Joseph Deibel, 146 S. Roys-av, and Harry Shifflette, 603 Binns-blvd, are arranging the workers.

Troop 214 has 43 scouts and 19 senior scouts under the supervision of John Martin, Scoutmaster, 484 S. Westgate-av, and Howard Harris, 204 S. Westgate-av. Thomas Garrity, 345 Binns-blvd; Fred Kirn, 2993 Fremont-st; Francis Boehm, 696 S. Hague-av; and Bill Davis, 608 S. Harris-av, are assistant scoutmasters.

All funds derived from this sale are used to purchase necessary equipment for scouts.

No Record Tuesday

In order to give all Record employees an extended Christmas vacation the Hilltop Record will not be published Tuesday, Dec. 27. The Record office will close at noon Friday, Dec. 23, and repoen the following Tuesday at 8 a. m.

There will be no change in deadlines for news, society notes, or classified advertising for the Dec. 29 issue of the Record.

3 Hilltop Girls Injured As Auto Hits Utility Pole

Three 17-year-old Hilltop girls were injured late Sunday afternoon when the auto in which they were riding went out of control and struck a utility pole at Washington-blvd and Broad-st, police reported.

The driver of the auto, Donna Carter of 128 N. Huron-av, suffered face cuts and chest bruises. The passengers in the auto, Pauline Clark of 338 S. Hague-av, and Mrs. Ann Manus of 659 S. Hague-av, suffered multiple cuts and bruises.

They were taken to Mt. Carmel hospital by police radio cruiser-m[illegible]

Mrs. Minnie Dudley, 43, of 927 W. Town-st, early Sunday suffered head and leg cuts when the car in which she was riding crashed into an iron pole in the 3200 block of W. Broad-st. She was treated at Mt. Carmel Hospital. The driver was James M. Castle, Hilliards.

Four persons were injured when a car driven by a southside man collided with a car driven by Charles E. Baker, 332 Lechner-av. The driver of the other car, Clarence R. Duff, was arrested after treatment for head lacerations and charged with failure to yield at a main thoroughfare.

Other persons injured less seriously in Sunday accidents were Earl Beard, 48, of 293 S. Burgess-av; and Miss Margaret Carroll, 49, of 70 S. Terrace-av.

Former Resident, N. L. Tracy, Dies

Newton L. Tracey, 68, Buckeye Lake, a resident of Eldon-av, for 20 years, died Saturday, Dec. 10, at Mt. Carmel Hospital after a short illness.

He was a retired employee of the Pennsylvania RR, and a member of West Gate Lodge of Masons No. 623. He leaves his wife, Pearl, a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Addie of 338 N. Ogden-av, a son Lawrence P. of Johnstown, Pa., and three grandchildren.

Services were held Dec. 13 at the Wylie Shroyer Funeral Home with burial at Eastlawn cemetery.

KIWANIS PARTY THURSDAY

The Hilltop Kiwanis Club will hold its Christmas party at the regular Thursday luncheon meeting. M. E. Sensenbrenner is in charge of the program, assisted by members of the music committee. Each member is asked to wear his old tie and bring a new one for a gift exchange.

FIRST COPIES OF THE HILLTOP KIWANIS charity edition of The Hilltop Record were auctioned off last Thursday. Sam Alford, representing the Thrift Finance Co., purchased the first copy for $47.50. Clarence Latham, professional auctioneer from Hilliards, handled the bidding. C. C. Hartley, right, bought a pig in a crate in the auction for $33. The pig, "Miss Kiwanikwe", was donated by Harold Cunningham.

Paper Sale Hits $4167

The Hilltop Kiwanis Club's charity edition of the Hilltop Record grossed $4167, Philip Stout, club president, announced today. Papers sold last Thursday on street corners and house-to-house brought $2514. Advertising provided $1400.

According to Stout the expected goal was attained. Results were similar to last year's. Funds from the paper sale will go to worthy charities. 10,000 papers were sold.

An auction, held at the club's pep rally dinner last Thursday evening at West High School, brought an additional $253. The first paper off the press was sold for $47.50 to the Thrift Finance Co. The second paper went for $25 to the Hilltop Lions Club. A pig, donated by Harold Cunningham, was also auctioned. It was sold to C. C. Hartley for $33.

Other buyers of first copies that sold for five and ten dollars are Ed Planck, Ed Melvin, Jim Miles, Jack Merriman, Bill Jones, the Hilltop Kiwanikwe, Russ Carter, Don Rice, Herb Deems, Larry Scales, Beryl Miles, Lou Saunders, Joe Briggs, Willard Harper, Bob Cramer, John Nippert, Phil Stout, Clarence Latham, Dr. R. J. Miller, Harold Cramer, Willis Slyh, and Harold Fox.

Sparks-Kent Market Robbed; Police Seek Safe-Cracker

2 Safes Cracked By 'Brute Force' Burglar Gets $5600

Police said today they had no leads to the identity of the thief who broke into two safes at the Sparks-Kent Supermarket, 2976 W. Broad-st, early Sunday taking loot totaling $5600.

The thief is believed by police to be a large man. Detectives estimate the hammer-wielding safecracker has netted more than $15,000 in his three-months' ramp[illegible]ge.

In his typical fashion, the safecracker literally smashed his way into the safes by brute force, leaving the floor "ankle deep in papers and safe parts."

Detective Sgt. Tom Sawyer said safes had been smashed by blows from a sledge hammer and pried open with a crow bar.

One of the safes, weighing nearly 300 pounds, was hauled into a wald-in meat cooler where it was smashed. Apparently the burglar hauled the safe into the cooler to avoid detection while he smashed out the bottom of the safe. This strong box yielded about $5,000 in checks and cash.

The other safe, approximately the same size, was smashed in the office of the market. The safecracker apparently buckled the door of the strong box with a blow from a sledge hammer and then pried the door open with a crowbar, Sawyer reported. The burglar took about $600 from this safe.

About half the loot taken was in cash and the rest was checks. A coin collection of Franklin Sparks co-owner of the store was also taken. Sparks said a rare $1.50 certificate was among the money in the collection. Also in the safe were several silver dollars.

The thief entered a back door and got into the glass-partitioned front office by climbing over cases of merchandise. As near as could be ascertained the theft occurred at about 2 a. m. Sunday.

The loss was covered with insurance by the Shank and Saunders Insurance Co. Jack Shank of the insurance agency said the loss had already been made good Monday.

Charles Kent and Franklin Sparks inspect a 300-pound safe that was hauled to the rear of the store and opened by brute force early Sunday morning.

V. F. W. Party Is Friday Evening

A Christmas party for members and their families of Westway Post 3441 of the V. F. W. will be held Friday evening at 8 p. m. at the post headquarters. Candy and presents will be given to the children.

Members of the Townsend Club will be guests of the post at the party. Comrades Exman and Geddes are in charge of arrangements for the party.

Draper Predicted To Head School Board

Robert M. Draper, attorney, of 74 N. Roys-av, was reported Monday to have the inside track for election as Columbus School Board president for 1950. Mr. Draper is the oldest, continuous member of the board. He began serving in 1940 and was re-elected for another four-year term two years ago. He would succeed Dwight Swisher, also an attorney.

A. V. PORTER, 80, assisted by his wife, 82, won The Hilltop Record's third week's Christmas Turkey Contest. Porter, a retired railroad clerk after 30 years service, lives with Mrs. Porter at 500 N. Warren-av, Valleyview. Porter was recently burned seriously when he attempted to light his gas furnace and it exploded. The Porters have eight children, 21 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. They say the bird will come in handy if all their children show up Christmas day. The final contest appears in today's Record.

Favorites Win In Jr. 'Y' League

The favored teams came out on on top last Wednesday night in the Hilltop YMCA Junior Basketball League. In the last game Burgess EUB had no mercy as they pummeled the Hilltop YMCA. Hoge Memorial beat Hilltop Church of Christ, and Oakley Baptist topped Westgate Methodist.

Oakley Baptist downed Westgate, 46-14. Redman of Oakley hit the net for 12 points as Lantz was hitting eight. Redman and Cockran were tops with the coaches for the game. The score by quarters

Oakley	10	8	15	16—46
Westgate	2	4	5	3—14

Hoge hit hard and early to defeat the Hilltop Church of Christ by the score of 26-11.

Proper was high point man, with eight points for Hoge, while Dixon of Hilltop Church of Christ, was high game man with nine points. Proper was voted outstanding again by coaches. The score by quarters.

Hoge	12	6	2	6—26
Hilltop CC	0	9	0	2—11

Burgess tangled with Hilltop YMCA under a deluge of points as they pumped shots continuously to beat them 74 to 9. Spratley of the Hilltop "Y" did his best to no avail. Meredith was high man.

Undefeated West Juniors Romp Over Indianola 40-21

By Dave Miller

West Junior High's powerful basketball team will go into its holiday vacation season undefeated for the first local junior high team to do so since the season of Paul Theisen, Chuck Weeks and Co. in 1945-46.

The local Broncos are fresh from a 40-21 victory over a completely outclassed Indianola five in a game played on the latter's court last Friday afternoon. The week before, the local juniors took a 42 to 30 victory over Everett in their opener.

Also this year's junior quintet is believed to be the first to score 82 points in their first two games. Lehman has four boys who stand over six feet, amazing for a junior high five. In fact, the entire starting lineup from last season is back for competition this year.

The reason for bright prospects this year is credited entirely to Lehman. Last season when Lehman realized that his ninth-graders were not big enough, he decided to whip up a team consisting of eighth graders, looking into the future for a better team for the next season.

In the Indianola tilt, it was all West.

The score was tied at 7-all with 20 seconds left in the opening quarter, and after the automatic, Guard Bill Haire sank a duo of free throws and Center Bob Thornton followed with a hook to provide the Broncos with an 11-7 first period advantage.

From there on in the second period, the locals held a commanding lead throughout, at 17-11 at the halftime intermission.

Jerry Trabue, ace forward for the locals, tallied 10 points in the third quarter, and along with Thornton's two fielders and Roger Meyer's and Dick Hutchison's single goals, the little Cowboys succeeded in outscoring the Indians, 14-2, in the third period, with the period ending at 31-13.

West exploded with nine quick points early in the fourth period to give the Broncs a commanding 40-16 lead. Then Coach Red Lehman inserted his second and third teams to finish out the fray. It was evident, however, that if the first team had played the entire game, they could have rolled the score easily to 50 or more.

Trabue, who had only a basket at the half, was high point man with 13 tallies, followed by Indianola's Jim Hodge, who plunked in 11. Thornton of the locals collected nine.

Trabue, who will be lost at midyear by graduation, is tied for high scoring honors in the City Junior High League with 27 points in two contests.

Hilliards Loses Close Game 52-51

A final quarter surge gave Grove City a 52-51 victory over Hilliards at Grove City. It was the first win of the current campaign for the Greyhounds.

Grove City, led in scoring by Jerry Culberson, with 15 points, and Charlie Stephenson, with 12, trailed until the start of the final period. The Greyhounds then got a point ahead and a see-saw battle resulted, with Grove City eventually getting the upper hand.

Hilliards won the reserve affair, 26 to 20.

Score by periods:

Hilliards	9	19	36	51
Grove City	8	14	34	52

West Opens League Play With Win Over Aquinas

By Dave Miller

Playing courageous ball for 32 long minutes and getting a great percentage of rebounds, West High's basketball five re-entered the win column, opening their 1949-50 City League campaign with a decisive 60 to 50 win over Aquinas on the West court last Friday evening.

The Cowboys held leads of from nine to 16 points throughout the fray, and only a flow of substitutes by the Cowboys near the end of the game kept the locals from winning by 20 or more tallies.

There were two very prominent reasons for the Hilltoppers' victory. One was the fact that the Cowboys' one-two-three scoring punch was together for the first time this season. They were Guard Bill Thrush, Center Phil Young and Forward Jim Rudolph. This trio accounted for 58 of the Cowboys 60 markers. These three, of course, have experienced action together before, but in their games so far this season have not been "on" as they were Friday.

The other fact was very evident. The Cowboys took 84 shots, showing that the Hilltoppers got more than their share of rebounds throughout the fray.

Five quick goins at the beginning of the second quarter netted the Cowboys with their biggest lead of the night at 23-12. Thrush, Young and Guard Jack Winnestaffer took part in these proceedings. As the first half finished the score was 38-28.

Aquinas Coach Jack McAndrews must have really talked things up at halftime because his Terriers scored six straight markers in the third quarter before the Cowboys could retaliate. The lead had been short-lived to 38-29 before Winnestaffer and Marzola exchanged long pushes.

In talking with Aquinas mentor, McAndrews, your reporter found that McAndrews thought Aquinas could have given our Cowboys a much better contest if their high-scoring forward and captain, Jerry Miller, had been able to play. Miller suffered a sprained ankle in a scrimmage practice session last Wednesday evening, and will be out of action for at least three weeks. It was very evident that the Terriers missed Jerry. Their big center, John Masdea, had to shoulder nearly all the under-basket work.

Top scorer of the Aquinas-West tussle was Guard Bill Thrush, who collected 19 points. Masdea of the visitors was runner-up with 18 markers, followed by Center Phil Young and Jim Rudolph of the locals, with 17 and 13 markers respectively.

The West reserves remained undefeated after their tilt with Aquinas' seconds in the prelim Friday. The local seconds were 45 to 26 victors over the visitors, who were held scoreless in the final quarter. Ted Fladt was high man with nine points, followed by teammate Warren Stevens and Aquinas' Joe Casparro, both getting eight.

Win Your Christmas Turkey

This Is Your Last Chance for a Free Turkey -- If You Didn't Win Before -- Try Again

It's Easy — Just a pencil and paper are all you need — Just read these instructions — Then Start — All of the advertisements on this page have letters omitted from words used in composing them and the complete message can be interpreted only by taking the letters of the alphabet and placing them in their proper places. The letter can be used only in the respective advertisements in which they appear. Do not cut letters out, but cross each one out of the line as used — then you can check your results. All ads must be filled out. Awards will be made with consideration given to correctness, originality in submitting answers, promptness and neatness. All replies must be addressed to "Christmas Turkey" Editor and be received not later than noon Friday, Dec. 23rd. Winner of this last contest will receive a free turkey before Christmas.

The Spectator by C.C.Hartley

Page Diogenes: One evening recently a man called at the home of E. O. Melvin, 107 S. Warren-av. He offered Mr. Melvin $2 in payment of a bill over seven years old, dating back to the time when the latter had operated his hardware store at Wayne and Broad. Mr. Melvin didn't recall any such debt, whereupon the man explained that he had taken an article from Melvin's store seven years ago and now he felt he should pay him. All of which should restore some faith in mankind.

Night Before Notes: Margaret Halsey is proudly displaying a sparkler denoting the fact that she said "yes" to Shug Baines . . . A slap on the wrist to our reporter for omitting the name of E. H. Gildersleeve, 238 N. Ogden, from the list of new 32nd degree Masons recently . . . Mrs. Phoebe Jerman, 47 Clarendon-av, is back home after a month in the hospital and wants her many friends to know she appreciated their many cards, flowers and gifts . . . Thelma Kuhn has sold the Hilltop Tune Shop to Henry Poisson and has purchased the White Cottage Grill at Shawnee Hills . . . Eddie Barber, manager of the Sohio station at Powell and Broad, will take off for Central Lake, Mich., about March 1, where he and the Mrs. will operate a hunting and fishing camp . . . A big word of thanks to Mr. Bryson of the Columbus State Hospital and Guy Cook of the Columbus State School for their fine work in behalf of the Charity Newsies last Saturday . . . It was wedding bells last Friday for Art Jones, formerly of 243 N. Warren-av, and Lois Haggard and they are now at home at 43 E. Cook-rd . . . Frank and Ruth Ritchie will be present at the Rose Bowl for the OSU-S. Cal. tilt . . . Susie Johnson is due in town this week.

Merry Christmas To All!

The Uninvited?

The Saturday Evening Post is publishing a series of articles, "My Three Years In Moscow," written by Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, former U. S. Ambassador to Moscow. The current article deals with "What REALLY Happened at the Moscow Conference" of Foreign Ministers in March, 1947.

Here is a passage from the current article:

"Although the Foreign Ministers and their deputies agreed on many minor points, there was no substantive agreement on any of the major issues. At the sixteenth meeting — on March 28 — Bevin, of Britain, asked Bidault, of France, 'Where are we?'

"'God knows,' M. Bidault replied.

'I didn't know HE was a member of the Council of Foreign Ministers,' Mr. Bevin rejoined."

Could it be that the world's present state of unrest could be traced to HIS exclusion from such international councils?

For Free

If you have a relative stationed in Germany with U. S. armed forces, you can send him a radio Christmas greeting free of charge, through courtesy of the Airways & Air Communications Service Squadron, Wright-Patterson Air Base.

Write out and address your greeting to Amateur Radio Station K8FAD, 1914th AACS Squadron, Wright-Patterson AF Base, Dayton. The message will be sent, by voice, by K8FAD to another station in Germany and on to its destination. Make your message brief and containing: (1) full name and address of person to whom it is going; (2) the actual Christmas greeting; (3) your full name and address.

Grain Elevator Planned

Construction To Begin In "About 60 Days" Here

John Eshelman of Eshelman Grain Inc. announced today that construction will begin in "about 60 days" on a 250,000 - 500,00 bushel grain elevator on Georgesville-rd between the New York Central railroad and Sullivant-av.

Eshelman said his company had been negotiating with Ernest Johns of the railroad for the purchase of the land. Three acres of the 22-acre tract have been sold to Ray Highfield of the Sullivant-av Lumber Co.

The cost of the grain elevator will be between $300,000 and $500,000. It will employ between 50 and 100 men when completed. The tract has been rezoned for "heavy industry" under the rural zoning laws of the county.

Dr. C. E. Hamner To Return To State Hospital

Dr. Charles E. Hamner, 59, former assistant superintendent of the Columbus State Hospital, has resigned as superintendent of West Virginia's Spencer State Hospital effective Feb. 1, and will return to Columbus.

Dr. J. F. Bateman, superintendent of Columbus State Hospital, said Dr. Hamner will return to Columbus to work with him. Dr. Bateman said Dr. Hamner's duties have not been determined, but that he would begin work here early in January.

Mrs. Hazel Long Taken By Death

The Record regrets that it failed to carry the obituary of Mrs. Hazel Ritchie Long, 202 Letchworth-av, who died Nov. 15, following an extended illness.

She had been associated with the Long & Haldeman Dry Cleaners for more than 15 years and was a member of the Hilltop Business Association.

Mrs. Long is survived by a son, James Ritchie; 202 Letchworth-av; a sister, Mrs. Carl E. Miller, 369 Nashoba-av; her mother, Mrs. Louella Roberts of the Nashoba-av address; two grandchildren; one niece, Mrs. James Richards, 303 Columbian-av, and one nephew, Keith Miller, 369 Nashoba-av.

The remains were sent to the Dowd Funeral Home in Mt. Vernon, by the Jerry Spears Funeral Home. Services were at 2 p.m. Friday, Nov. 18, followed by interment in Mound View Cemetery, Mt. Vernon.

No Record Tuesday

In order to give all Record employees an extended Christmas vacation the Hilltop Record will not be published Tuesday, Dec. 27. The Record office will close at noon Friday, Dec. 23, and reopen the following Tuesday at 8 a. m.

There will be no change in deadlines for news, society notes, or classified advertising for the Dec. 29 issue of the Record.

Comm. Council Party Planned For December 29

The Hilltop Community Council Christmas party will be held this year on Thursday, Dec. 29, at the Glenwood Recreation Center.

All elementary and pre-school children of the community are invited to the party, which will begin at 1:30. Movies will be shown and a group of children will participate in a Christmas program. There will be the traditional tree and carol singing. Campfire girls are assisting in the program.

Members of the committee in charge of the party are Mrs. Ray Cave, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Drake, Mrs. Edward Thompson, Miss Matilda Stuart, Mrs. Earl Abrams, Mrs. Ralph Stickler, Mrs. R. W. Self and Averille Thorne.

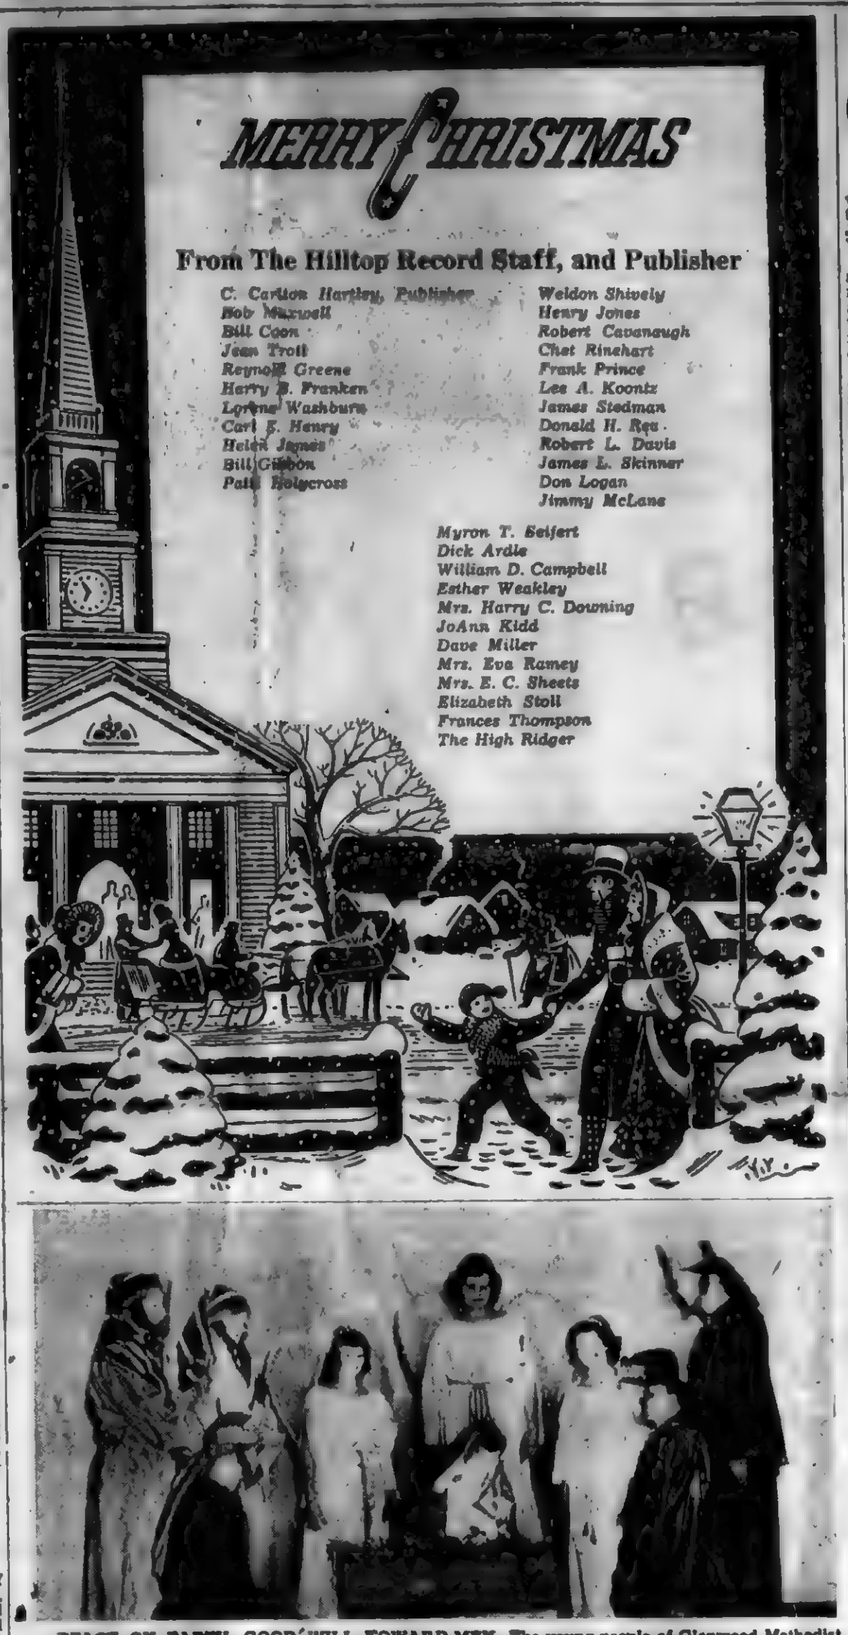
Library Holiday Schedule Set

Mildred Phalor, librarian, announced this week that the Hilltop Branch Library will close at noon Saturday before Christmas and New Year's days. The library will also be closed all day Monday, Dec. 26, and Jan. 2. No books have been dated due on any of these days.

Winter hours in effect at the library are from 1 to 9 p. m. on week days and from 9 to 9 on Saturdays.

The library is still located at the Hague-av address. Announcement will be made later of the opening date of the new library.

Hilltop Women Aid In Seal Sale



Mrs. Harold Steele, Christmas seal sale booth chairman, today thanked Hilltop volunteer women for their "unusually fine cooperation in manning booths." Christmas seal booths closed on Wednesday after two weeks of operation at the downtown post offices.

Among those assisting from the Hilltop were Mrs. Hazel Starkey, 385 Lechner-av; Mrs. H. V. Rhodes, 666 Binns-blvd; Mrs. William Hinchman, 570 Crescent-dr; Mrs. John E. Graham, 65 Letchworth-av, and Rosemary Murnane, 2930 Palmetto-st.

Sparks To Head Retail Grocers

Franklin Sparks, co-owner of the Sparks-Kent Super Market, 2976 W. Broad-st, was elected president of the Columbus Retail Grocers Association at its last meeting.

New officers and directors of the association will be installed at a dinner meeting at the Southern Hotel Jan. 16.

PEACE ON EARTH, GOOD WILL TOWARD MEN. The young people of Glenwood Methodist Church re-enact the "Nativity" where Christ, lying in a manger in Bethlehem, is visited by kings and angels and shepherds. The shepherds, standing, left, are John Kimes and Leo Peoples. The angels are Jane Lloyd, Phyllis Phillips and Marlene Tague. The kings on the right are Stanton Prior, standing, and Don Edwards. Bob Smith, a king, kneels at the left. Gay Wade is Mary the Madonna. The group recently presented a pageant at the church, directed by Annis Turner.

105 On West Jan. Graduating List

By Myron T. Seifert

Sixty-two girls and 43 boys were named this week as potential graduates of the West High January Class, Principal Irvin F. Young said today.

Emphatic that students must meet the graduation requirements of 16 3/4 units, Mr. Young admonished the group to "dig in their spurs" and to make every moment count from now until commencement.

The list, named by the principal, is only tentative, since some of those enumerated may not "measure up" by deadline date.

H.R.C.A. Yule Party Declared Big Success

The HRCA first annual Christmas party held especially for the children of High Ridge on the evening of Friday, Dec. 16th, was an outstanding success. A large measure of the success of the party can be placed upon the shoulders of Mrs. H. T. Van Ness the publicity chairman of the association who contacted business firms and individuals and secured a most hearty co-operation from them.

Assisting Mrs. Van Ness as hostess for the party was Mrs. Herb Rumfield.

Santa Claus (Mr. Clarence Irvin) arrived at about 9 o'clock, and Mrs. Joe Thirtyacre, her daughters, and Mrs. Paul Seelig made sure that all of the kiddies were accorded the opportunity to meet him in a personal way.

President H. T. Van Ness says the High Ridge Christmas party will be even bigger and better next year and extends to all business houses and individuals thanks on the part of HRCA for their help in making this one a success.

Mrs. Kuhn Buys White Cottage Eatery

Mrs. Thelma L. Kuhn, former owner of the Hilltop Tune Shop, announced this week that she has purchased the White Cottage on Dublin-rd at Shawnee Hills.

Mrs. Kuhn said the establishment will feature fish-frys and round and square dancing will be held.

Mrs. Wing Dies

Mrs. Inez Wing, 74, formerly of 512½ S. Powell-av, died yesterday in White Cross Hospital. Funeral arrangements are being completed by the Wylie Shroyer Funeral Home.

HOWARD THOMPSON OF 847 S. HARRIS-AV, State House reporter for the Ohio State Journal writes his daily article on state politics. Known as "Sam"—for reasons he doesn't remember—since the third grade, Thompson started as an office boy at the Journal 25 years ago in November. Prior to beginning his newspaper career, Sam studied three years at Marietta College and two years at Ohio State's journalism school. During his boyhood days he carried newspapers and later worked in a print shop in Marietta, his home town.

SAM CHECKS A PHOTOGRAPH with the Journal's artist, Hal Betsch, also a Hilltopper, at 287 S. Westgate-av. Betsch is also working on his master's degree in fine arts at OSU. Before being assigned to the State House, Thompson covered the court house for 15 years. In 1948, and until 1948, Sam was city hall reporter for the Journal. During the early part of 1948, Thompson toured the nation for four weeks with Sen. Robert A. Taft on his early presi-

INTERVIEWING STATE officials is part of Thompson's job. Here he talks to Charles Sweeney, secretary of state, about a story. State government heads seek Sam's advice on private and public problems. When the legislature is in session, Sam reports the doings of the House and Senate. He also attends press conferences held by the governor and other officers. Committees of the General Assembly, when they hit a snag, often ask Sam what the parliamentary procedure is on the matter.

THOMPSON AND HIS FAMILY own their home on S. Harris-av, south of Eakin-rd. These days Sam keeps busy wrapping Christmas presents with the family. Shown with Sam (in the middle) are Mrs. Thompson, Bob, 16, and Roger, 13. They are members of the Hilltop Lutheran Church. Mrs. Thompson is active in PTA work at West Junior High School where Roger is a student. Bob, a student in aeronautical engineering at OSU, is also an office boy at the Journal. Roger, a Dispatch carrier, expects to follow his dad's footsteps. He will work on the Occident, West's newspaper. The Thompsons have lived on the Hilltop for 20 years.

MR. BAKER GIVES NIECE, MISS SCOTT, IN MARRIAGE TO MR. GRIFFIN NOV. 19 IN CANDLELIGHT CEREMONY

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Griffin

Mr. and Mrs. Fred D. Baker, 40 Latchworth-av, announce the marriage of their niece, Virginia Scott, to Mr. John H. Griffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Griffin, 601 S. Weyant-av. The double ring ceremony was performed Nov. 19, at 7:30 p. m., by Rev. M. Richard Drake in Whitehall Methodist Church, before an altar decorated with large white mums, palms and two seven-branch candelabra.

Given in marriage by her uncle, the bride wore a gown of white satin designed with a high neck and stand up collar, with cap sleeves and a full hooped skirt. Her veil was finger-tip and her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, gift of the bridegroom. She carried a white Bible adorned by a white orchid with fern entwined in satin streamers.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Edwin Brownfield, matron of honor, was attired in an American Beauty gown identical in style to the bride's, and carried a bouquet of eggshell roses.

Best man was Mr. James Griffin, brother of the bridegroom, and seating the guests were Mr. David Griffin, another brother, and Mr. Edwin Brownfield, brother-in-law of the bride.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the church for 100 guests. Mrs. John Reid, Mrs. Jack Powell, Miss Maxine Sands, Miss Gladys Shaw and Miss Jeanette Gue served as hostesses.

Mrs. Baker received her guests in a plum tissue faille dress with which she wore black accessories and a corsage of bronze mums. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a turquoise tissue faille dress with black accessories and a corsage of yellow mums.

The couple is employed at Morehouse - Martens Company and reside at 411 W. Second-av.

About Folks You Know

Goings — Comings — Doings
Of Your Hilltop Neighbors

Here 't's the week before Christmas,
And we're thinking of our friends
Who've sent in notes from time to time,
And helped this column meet its ends.

So we're wishing a Merry Christmas,
And a Happy Holiday to you—
Our gracious contributors—
Who always have "come through."

Our best to you, Mrs. Dhume,
Out Franklin Avenue way,
Then, too, the Misses Burnside,
And the family of H. H. Clay.

There's Alex Chambers and wife,
The Erdys and Paul Kuders, too,
Both Mann families, Clarence and Harry,
And Mr. and Mrs. H. P. McCue.

A happy new year to the J. C. Redmans,
To H. H. Herron, A. E. Wollerman;
To Mr. Anglim and Charles Arbaugh,
Mrs. Dan Collins and Mary Seaman.

The Kruczynskis are included,
And the family of Hetterscheidts,
The George Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Squire Lee
And Edith Gibbon on Broad Street;

Mrs. Bessie Groves, Mrs. Lambert,
The Frank Caliguris and Tom Crums,
The Harvey Wilson family,
And Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Landrum.

To Dr. and Mrs. T. S. Fox,
To Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mitchell,
The W. E. Brights and son, Bill,
We wish all a joyous Noel.

Mrs. Amy Primmer, Ella Barber,
Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Dunson,
The Zulaufs, the S. K. Martins,
To all, the best of the season.

And there's Mrs. Ivor Engle
Also the Jack Toops and their son,
We'd like to mention others,
But time and space march on.

So we'll end up this verse
Knowing we've missed important names,
But—a joyous and happy Christmas
To ALL Hilltoppers just the same!

Roving Photographer

By Bill Gibbon

This week's question: is "Have you made any New Year's resolutions yet or do you plan to? If you have, what is it?" Your ideas for "Roving Photographer" questions will be appreciated.

O. D. Steele, 366 Derrer-rd, automobile service manager: "I know I can make a resolution, because I've made them before. But I've never kept them all. I do expect to make some for next year. However, I don't know yet what they will be."

Mrs. Ralph Bieber, 810 S. Hague-av, housewife and part-time photographer: "I have made one resolution. That is to get eye glasses. I'm near-sighted, and I should have gotten glasses five years ago. But I never got them. I don't plan on any others. Usually resolutions don't last more than a day.

Howard Jones, 287 S. Terrace-av, chief custodian and engineer at West High School: "I haven't planned on making any New Year's resolutions. I've made them before and never kept them. I'm getting old enough to know that it's almost impossible to keep them."

Mrs. Louis Nobile, 500 Eldon-av, housewife: "No, I haven't even thought about making a New Year's resolution. I've given up the idea entirely of making any. I have, in the past, made resolutions, but I've always broken them. So I've given up.

Speakers To Assist In Dimes Drive

Newell Yaple, 203 S. Brinker-av, and Gerald Witherspoon, 2988 Wicklow-rd, have been chosen to represent West High School as junior speakers for the March of Dimes polio fund campaign to begin Jan. 9.

They will be among the 45 guests from all Franklin County high schools at the luncheon Wednesday, Dec. 28, at the Virginia Hotel, where they will receive their briefing from Sid R. Phillips, chairman of the Franklin County Chapter and Tom R. Sabrey, drive chairman.

Other junior speakers include Diane Bowen, 670 S. Hague-av, and Sally DeShetler, 266 Algonquin-av, of St. Joseph's Academy.

The young people, who are engaged in studying the story of polio and its effects in preparation for appearances before all types of clubs, were chosen by principals and teachers on the basis of speaking ability.

The first 9A music rehearsals for ecmmencement were held on Thursday, Dec. 15, the fourth period in room 38. One was held on Monday, Dec. 19, the second period, in room 36 also. Both were for boys only.

C'cago Av. Church Christmas Day Program Planned

The Chicago Avenue Church of Christ, 33 Chicago-av, will have services throughout Christmas day beginning with Bible School at 9:30 a. m.

Morning Worship at 10:30 a. m. will include two numbers by the choir, "Goodwill to Men," and "Lo! The Angel of the Lord." The minister, J. E. Gordon, will speak on the subject, "Did Jesus Come to Your House Today?"

Post Sponsors Essay Contest

The American Legion Post 614 is sponsoring the Americanism essay contest for boys and girls from the ninth, 10th, 11th and 12th grades in Hilliards.

The essays will be judged by the post Americanism Committee with the assistance of the post commander. Winning essays will be turned in to the county commander for competition in the national essay contest.

Did you ever notice that even high-priced liquor makes low down drunkards?

Hilliard Students Hold Caroling

A joint Christmas caroling was held Wednesday evening by the Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y Clubs of Hilliards High School.

Future plans of the club include a square dance to be held after the Hilliards-Mifflin basketball game Jan. 20. Milton Hall's orchestra will furnish the music.

A committee appointed to plan the initiation of new members consists of Bernard Geyer, Bill Rhoades and Bob Jenkins.

MEMBERS OF THE CAST of "Those Fawcetts Are Running Again" look over a publicity display for the play to be presented by the young people of Glenwood Methodist Church on Dec. 29, at 8:15 p. m., in Motter Hall at the church. The cast includes, left to right, Nellie Evans, J. R. Gardner, George Brown, Ned Moore and Charlotte Cranston. The advertising stunt, to be displayed in Seiller's next week, has water running continually from a faucet into a bucket that never fills up. Moore designed the display.

The Young People of Glenwood Methodist Church, 64 Highland-av, are presenting, "Those Fawcetts Are Running Again," a three-act Yuletide comedy in their Motter Hall auditorium at 8:15 p. m, Dec. 29.

Proceeds are to go to the Wesley Foundation Building Fund at Ohio State University. The play was written by Roger Miller, a member of the church's Older Youth group, who penned an earlier "Fawcett" play, "Home To The Wars," for Glenwood production in early 1948.

Especially adapted to the Christmas season, the recent sequel continues the humorous adventures of a family of five into problems of the father's first civilian Christmas after the war. Predicaments develop regarding the arrival of a prejudiced grandmother-in-law, a "atriot" preacher, and a prospective client who feels he is too lucky to need life insurance.

An unusually large cast of 20 includes Jim Gardner as the stormy father, Roy Fawcett; Nellie Evans as the referee-ing mother, Marilyn; Charlotte Cranston as Daughter Pat; George Brown (again) as Son Davy; Philip Edwards (again) as the highly imaginative son, "Fly"; Annis Turner (also director) as the eccentric Great Grandma Schuschenheimer; LeRoy Wise as Reverend Jimmy; Ned Moore (again) as the telegraph messenger; Bob Johnson (again) as Joey Winhurst; and the following supporting cast: Norma Canter, Bob Walker, Kenny Evans, Bob Maxwell, Dawn Dennison, Dennen Leach, Jane Prior, David Ely, Barbara Harper, Keith Smith, and members of the Older Youth, Senior Youth, and Intermediate Youth Fellowships are selling tickets at 50c per adult and 25c per child under 12 years old. Tickets may also be purchased at the door the evening of the play.

Center Opens Early In Holiday Season

During the Christmas holiday season, the boys and girls of the Hilltop will have an additional opportunity for leisure time activity, because of an announcement made by the City Recreation Department that the Glenwood Recreation Center will be open at 12 o'clock noon, or two hours earlier than during the school year.

Therefore, full recreation programs will be provided for 10 hours daily as long as the Christmas vacation lasts.

Hilliards Cagers Lose To London

London's cagemen, after an even first half, broke away in the final two periods in their game with Hilliards at London last night to win, 47-34. It was the victor's third win in four starts this season.

Hilliards trailed only 13-14 at the close of the first half but could net but six points in the third period as they watched the hosts zoom to a 31-19 lead. French's 14 points paced the winners.

London's reserves won the preliminary game, 44-32.

JOY TO THE WORLD: The glad tidings of Christmas time were proclaimed musically by the sixth grade chorus of John Burroughs School Wednesday. The chorus sang carols in the hall of the school: The traditional White Christmas offerings were also made on that day. Mrs. Betty Koontz is the school music teacher, and accompanist was Roberta Wilson.

The Hilliards High School Photoplay Club discussed having a photogrsphic exhibit at the county fair next fall, at its December meeting. It was also suggested that the name of the club be changed to Hobby Club in order that more members could be admitted.

Complete Second Week of Play In 'Y' League

In the second week of play in the YMCA league, Hoge, Burgess and Oakley came out victorious. Hoge got by Highland after having a close scare. Oakley won over St. Paul and Burgess beat Hilltop Church of Christ.

The first game was between Hoge and Highland. Hoge was out in the lead all the time and won 34 to 29. Wolfe and Sensenbrenner were high point men for Hoge, with eight each, while Bill Killian and Dave Bill for Highland were collecting eight points, too. Wolfe was voted best for Hoge, as he was rebounding most of the time, he wasn't shooting. The score by quarters.

Hoge	10	8	6	10	—34
Highland	8	6	8	7	—29

St. Pauls was out-classed and soundly trounced by Oakley Avenue Church. Jim Williams of Oakley was voted outstanding by coaches of both teams. The score by quarters.

St. Paul's	1	2	4	0	0—6
Oakley	12	6	6	6	—30

Burgess was never pressed as they ran over Hilltop Church of Christs 29-20. Kline of Burgess was high team scorer, while Taylor of the Hilltop Church of Christ, was high man for the evening with 12 points. The score by quarters.

Burgess	12	5	4	8	—29
C. of C.	5	4	4	7	—20

There was something strange
In the air that night
Before the Christ child came,
Even the star's cresset light wasn't exactly the same.
Happiness and fear crept into souls
That had never known its reign,
And from that night on
The world was changed
For the God in heaven
Had sent a King.
He was born in a manger
And He lived only for us,
And He died on a cross for our sins;
Then He arose in God's Glorious Trust.
In His Eternal Life He gives us
Hope
For our life and love to behold,
And never again will God give the world
A Story so beautifully told,
As the life of Christ
To bring peace on earth to His Fold.

West Students Trim Yule Tree

Inner Court of West High School with its majestic, stately pine, took on the Christmas "look" this week as seven students, delegated by Botany Instructor E. C. Reed, added the old-fashioned ornaments, tinsel, etc., to the fast-growing pine, so familiar a scene to every West High School student.

Students who embellished the tree with Christmas colors were: Marilyn Gauggel, Marilyn Mathews, Delores Shrum, Dick Brown, Dick Wray, Walter Binkley, and Jim Rudolph.

Main lobby of the school likewise sports a large evergreen with beautiful decorations, made possible through the efforts of Student Council members.

Pfc. W. M. Carter Assigned To AF Base In Germany

Willis M. Carter, son of Mrs. Belle Carter, 2242 Whitehead-rd, has recently reported to the Airways and Air Communications Service Squadron at Furstenfeldbruck Air Force Base, Germany. While in this organization he will serve as a teletype operator.

Prior to joining this AACS Squadron, Pfc. Carer was stationed at Freising Air Force Base, Germany, where he attended a teletype operator's school. His organization, a part of the Military Air Transport Service, is the major communications system of the Air Force and, as such, provides the Air Force with its air navigational aids and ground-to-plane communications.

The Christmas season again brings to our mind the Story of Bethlehem, the birth of the Christ Child, the Shepherds in the Judean Hills, the Story of the Star leading the Three Wise Men, bringing gifts to the Child whose cradle was in a lowly manger. The Angel Chorus singing Glad Hossana's of "Glory to God in the Highest and on Earth Peace and Good Will Among Men."

The story of the life and teachings of that Baby as He grew to manhood and of His willing sacrifice in giving His Life that all mankind might have everlasting life, is a story old yet ever new. It has come down to us through the ages, holding out its beacon light of Hope. It will be told each year as long as time shall last.

Many organizations are especially remembering the SHUT IN's, the underprivileged, the sick and the needy people all over the world, that their hearts may be cheered and their faith renewed in mankind.

Blue Star Mothers of America are doing just a little more this Christmas time by adding extra parties for the hospitalized veterans and giving extra gifts. This is a special "Thank You" to these boys and girls who were young and hopeful with futures of much promise, when the maelstrom of war caught them, and who by their service and sacrifice, preserved our America and our way of life. Many are blind, crippled, mentally ill and without hope of recovery or a chance to be home again. They look to us for whatever comfort and pleasure they can get beyond the actual necessities given by the government. These little extras that mean so much to each of us at this season have a far greater meaning to these service people, and they are so very grateful to the many organizations and individuals who do take time out from a busy schedule to visit and entertain them. By this act they are saving, "We have not forgotten."

If you have never visited a VA Hospital, Go and SEE for Yourself just what it means to these boys and girls to be remembered.

At this time we also wish to pay tribute to those who did not return. Those whose names are written in Gold on the Scroll of Honor. Our sympathy goes out to the Gold Star Mothers and Fathers and the families of those heroes and to say—

"The only justification for their supreme sacrifice is, that men may have peaceful homes, a peaceful nation and a peaceful world."

Blue Star Mothers of America wish at this time to THANK all who have so generously helped to carry on the work among veterans by attending the various money making projects or by making donations for this work. It takes cooperation to make a success of any undertaking.

To each and everyone we extend Greetings and Best Wishes for a Merry Christmas and for a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Mrs. H. H. Herron,
71 Eldon-av.
National Publicity Chairman.

Three R's Come To Life Via Records and Movies At West

By Myron T. Seifert

Audio-visual education is much in evidence at West High School.

As an adjunct to textbook "larnin'" students learn via radio, recordings and films at the Powell-av school.

A trip about the school will convince the most skeptical individual that this program is getting results, a deeper, fuller appreciation of the knowledge learned in the classroom is achieved.

Numerous record players with albums of literature, science and art have been used to supplement school work for some time at West High.

Recently, however, much new and scientific audio-visual equipment has been added to implement school work, to make school experiences more significant to the students.

Ask any student who has benefitted from listening to the music, literature and science recordings, and he or she can attest to its value.

A tape-recording machine with radio brings to the class-room many radio programs not available during school hours.

One teacher, for example, was teaching the subject-matter of the constitution to his class. Looking over the Sunday log of radio programs he discovered an unusual discussion on the constitution was billed so he decided to take home the "tape-radic" machine, record the program, and on Monday the tape brought to the students a rebroadcast of the Sunday program. The constitution and its implications are therefore made more vital to the students' life via the transcriptions.

Used frequently to bring to students "after school hour" programs, it is difficult to measure the extent and quality of knowledge and appreciation gained by this device.

A new record player, with dual speeds, has been procured for the physical education groups and classrooms.

Then, too, a tape recording device used in the classroom to record voices, can be preserved, or played back again for vocal analysis by the student.

Slides of films are used, particularly in health classes, to inform students on the best and latest in their field.

9 Tankmen In Training At OSU Pool

By Myron T. Seifert

Nine West High students, members of the school swimming team, five of whom made aquatic records last season, are training at Ohio State University's Natatorium on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday nights and Saturday afternoons, under the tutelage of Bill Smith, member of last year's Ohio State champion team.

Returning letter-men are Ronnie Bolin, state champion in the Individual Medley last season, Larry Gossett, Lowell Cummings, Gene Rigsby, and Joe Balthaser. New recruits include: Earl Cline, Spike Ringer, Dick Barnett, and John Current.

Rufe Glass, of the Powell Avenue school, will be local advisor for the group.

City teams will be divided, as last year, into two leagues, the North and South, respectively, Glass said. West High is in the South League.

League membership has been increased to eleven teams with the recent addition of Holy Rosary High School.

Forsake Boots And Saddle For Business World

By Myron T. Seifert

Two Cowboys want to be farmers, but no Cowboys want to be cowboys. That is what a poll of West High School seniors reveals.

When approximately 100 students receive their diplomas on Tuesday, Jan. 24, at the mid-year commencement, new horizons will be explored. More than half of the group have decided on higher education, and the majority of these will probably enroll in some university this spring. Others will begin work, or start to look for work.

A survey of the graduating class this week reveals the future plans of the 1950 January class. Sixty-eight of the students have stated their desire to attend colleges; of these 51 know in what field they want to study.

Twenty of the group will study some branch of the business world in college. This is the largest single group. Five wish to practice medicine and nursing, and five want to be forest rangers. Two wish to enter law, and two want to study music. Three will become teachers; three will be journalists; three dieticians; three scientists; one minister; one engineer; one air hostess, and two farmers.

Of those who do not expect to attend college, the majority plan to be secretaries and businessmen. Only a few girls said their ultimate plan was to be housewives.

One adventurous young graduate plans to be an explorer and hunter.

OSU Debaters Talk At Hilliards

The debate team from Ohio State University held a discussion in the Hilliards High School public speaking class, last Thursday morning. The topic of the discussion was, should it be "resolved that the President of the United Sates be elected by a direct vote of the people.

The affirmative speakers won the debate. They were chosen on presentation of speeches, good points, organization, teamwork and number of facts. The judges were Jeannie Vagnier, Jack Flickinger, Don McKeen, Emma Lou Nunamaker, and Howard Crispen.

By Myron T. Seifert

Santa Claus' workshop is now in high gear, judging from the multitude of activities on the agenda at West High School. The industrial art shops in particular are humming as all energy is devoted to meeting the Dec. 25 deadline, when the fruits of the boys' efforts will be appreciated by some individual who will receive the hand-manufactured products as a gift.

Homes on the Hilltop will be well marked if the number and quality of the attractive lawn markers made by the 7B boys, under the direction of instructor Jack Schuster, is any indication. Twenty-one boys are busy designing, cutting out, building and refinishing the numerical signs which will add much to the front yards of Hilltop homes.

Various types of tables, some miniatures for "sis", others to complete the household furnishings as a surprise for mom and dad, are being built by scores of Hilltop teen-agers as they "ply their trades" in helping Santa bring cheer to many Hilltop households. Inspectors Miller, Bateman, Shuster and Trout are supervising the work.

List of the hand-made articles and their makers follows:

Carl Schumacher, turned cedar lamp; James Thompson, bird-house and book jewel box; Jim Miller, cedar chest; Robert Wilkes, walnut record cabinet; Larry Gossett, walnut record cabinet for mother; Harold Charles, inlaid pump lamp; Richard Baker, walnut stepladder end table; Roger Hamrick, book jewel case for mother, football tie rack for father; Ronald Shunkwiler, turned lamp for mother; Ronald Whittington, inlaid pump lamp for mother; Robert Faistl, inlaid lamp for mother and dad; Warren Clay, turned cedar lamp for father; Dick Mayhew, inlaid checkerboard; Don Pasicka, large cedar chest for sister; Robert Brooks, checkerboard; Robin Crispin, round maple coffee table; Bob Glassburn, maple salad bowls; Richard Fladt, inlaid turned lamp for sister; Bill Killian, walnut telephone stand and chair; Don Miller, cherry telephone stand and chair for mother; Richard Brown, walnut telephone stand and chair for mother; Larry Frey, turned bowl and book jewel box for mother; Bill Vawters, carved horse for sister and spring buggy telephone seat for mother; Larry Morgan, large salad bowl for mother; George Crissinger, large cedar chest for cousin; Morris Cole, magazine basket for mother; Ronald Coup, shelf for antique dolls for uncle; Jack Love, record cabinet for mother; Joe Gossett, corner stand for mother.

Hanging of Greens Pageant To Be Held At Glenwood

The children of Glenwood Recreation Center will present "Hanging of the Greens" Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

For weeks the younger set of the Hilltop have been preparing for the Christmas season by making Christmas gifts, cards and decorations. Now, as a climax to their work, they will celebrate by joining in presenting this pageant which is based on the old English tradition of decorating the hall with greens and lighting of the Christmas tree.

The program will include familiar Christmas carols, solo numbers presented by members of several Hilltop Girl Scout troops, a candle lighting service conducted by girls from St. Aloysius School, and a solo number by Billy Harris.

Christmas candy will be given to all the children who attend. Parents and the general public are cordially invited. Glenwood Center is located one block south of W. Broad-st on Fairmont-av.

Twp. Schools Get $1800 On Purchase Of New Buses

School districts in Franklin Twp. have been allowed $1800 by the State Controlling Board for the purchase of school buses. The money was released Tuesday.

The money comes from an appropriation of $3,500,000 by the Ohio Legislature in the capital improvements law as a state subsidy to aid school districts to purchase new buses.

The state allows up to 25 per cent of the approved purchase price of a bus.

CARD OF THANKS

COOK — We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their sympathy and floral offerings in the loss of our beloved mother, Bertha Cook.

Mr. Cook and brother,
Edward Cottman, Sr.

Life is not worth anything unless it is attached to something—except it is associated with great causes.

During a grammar lesson one day the teacher wrote on the blackboard, "I didn't have no fun at the seaside." Then she turned to her pupils and said to one, "Ronald, how should I correct that?"

"Get a boy friend," he answered.

Getting High School Diploma At 58, Don Philips Aspires To Be Minister

By Myron T. Seifert

Character and education are synonymous terms to Don Philips, 58, of 109 N. Wayne-av, who will graduate this term cum laude (if such an honor were accorded graduates of Evening High School) and who has aspirations to become a minister of the Gospel, following his graduation from Evening High School, Jan. 26.

A familiar figure about Central Evening High School for the past five years, his persistence and application to his work is evident in his scholarship. A lifelong dream has come true for Mr. Philips—the completion of a high school education.

Approaching three score years of age when most men are thinking about retirement, Mr. Phillips still has another dream which is already taking shape—to continue his education for ordination in the ministry.

Mr. Philips' Christian experience began, he vividly recall, as a farmer 17 years ago, when he "was converted," since which time, he asserts, he has never swerved from his "calling."

During the depression years, 1929 to 1938, farmers were not receiving subsidies for their produce and crops and many went bankrupt both financially and spiritually, Philips avers. As a farmer during these trying years, he recalls, it was a "hand to mouth existence for most of us." Never losing faith in the goodness of God he persuaded his fellow-farmers not to give up—have faith and pray. His efforts were eventually rewarded and his prayers were answered.

He is now following his probationary period preparatory to being ordained a minister in the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Mr. Philips has been a teacher in the Avondale United Brethren Church for the past several years.

A BANQUET CLIMAXED THE FOOTBALL SEASON for the elementary heavyweights at St. Aloysius School recently in the school annex. The players received their football letter and a miniature gold football from their coach, Dick Koontz.

At the father and son dinner Rev. John Simon and Tim Sweeney, St. Aloysius baseball coach, were guest speakers. Robert Hetterscheidt entertained the boys and their fathers with a magic show. The seven cheerleaders also received their letters. They were Paula Kienle, Jackie Howard, Judy McAndrews, Sharon Close, Jean Hoover, Joan Lytle and Mary E. Miller.

MRS. MARY PORTER AND HER DAUGHTER, Cherri Lynn, 2, recently joined her husband, Kenneth R. Porter, in Athens, Greece, where he has been assigned in the office of the naval attache of the U. S. embassy. A former Hilltopper, Mrs. Porter is the daughter of Mrs. Bessie Groves, 2900 Crescent-dr. Porter, a chief yeoman in the navy, has known Mary since they were 13 years old. They were married three years ago. Mrs. Porter served in the Waves for one and a half years during the war. Porter, a former post office clerk here, has served seven years in the navy. He was stationed on a destroyer in the Pacific during the war, and participated in 17 battles. He recently re-enlisted for six years. Mrs. Porter graduated from West High School in 1939, and from Ohio State University in 1943. Mrs. Groves last week received a cablegram saying that Mrs. Porter and her daughter had arrived safely after a four-day air trip.

Groups Aid In Sale of Kiwanis Charity Paper

Several organizations aided the Hilltop Kiwanis Club in the sale and distribution of the charity edition of the Hilltop Record last Thursday.

Among these groups, according to Ben Knepper, chairman of the general arrangements committee, were, the Hilltop Lions Club; Westway Post, VFW; Camp Chase Post, American Legion; board of the Hilltop YMCA; Hilltop Community Council; Hilltop Business Association; Men's Class, Hoge Memorial Church; Men's Class, Glenwood Methodist Church; and the Sea Scouts.

The Kiwanikwe, the auxiliary of the local Kiwanis organization, prepared and served the meals for the pep rally dinner. The Sparks-Kent Food Market served coffee and doughnuts to the solicitors when they returned from the routes.

Kiwanis Installation To Be January 5

The annual installation banquet of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club will be held on Thursday, Jan. 5, at the Army-Navy Club, Ft. Hayes Barracks, according to Fred B. Warden, editor of the Hilltop Kikranews.

Tickets for the affair may be obtained from Jim Miles, 2586 W. Broad-st.

The club's regular Thursday noon meeting on Dec. 29 will consist of a general discussion of plans for the coming year. Awards for perfect attendance will also be made.

★ The flood of holiday calls again will jam telephone switchboards throughout the nation on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. Despite our best efforts, some calls will be delayed and some may not be completed at all.

We will handle as many calls as possible as promptly as we can. But, if you want to be sure of your calls, it would be wise to place them before the rush or on Monday, when your friends will be at home observing the holiday. The same low rates that are in effect on Christmas also apply on Monday, December 26.

'Think This Over'

By William "Doc" Campbell

More Bass — Less Treble

This may seem funny to you, but, as I listen over my radio (it is not the fault of the radio) the upper registers of, say, piano music, seem to be mostly above middle C, which perhaps gives a gayer tone to the music, but a fragile and unbalanced effect. It may be that people in general prefer it that way, as soprano to contralto. However, when you hear truly great music it is the lower register that gives to you richness and depth in a song or instrumental selection.

Take, for instance, the playing of the piano by the greatest pianist of all time, Franz Liszt. Most of his divine melodies were played in the bass, with here and there a trill or run in the upper, or treble. So with a Steinway Grand, for example, you get the grand tone of the bass, like a great contralto voice—a mellow, deep throated quality that enhances the production and makes for more balance.

It is the deep shadows in a picture that delight the person who is a true artist, whether in a painting or in music. I well recall an occasion when I was a dinner guest in a beautiful, cultured home in a small town in Pennsylvania. The dining room, of large size, was panelled in luscious solid mahogany, with a dark polished mahogany table laid out with a chaste and simple silver set and two large silver candelabra holding tall dark yellow candles, gleaming their lights on a gorgeous ensemble. Between the living room and dining room were two exquisitely proportioned "Ionic columns" in solid mahogany, from floor to ceiling. What a wealth of rich tones throughout that lovely room, what a "background" for charming ladies.

Yes, more "bass" in our fast living life and less "treble" would result in "deeper contrasts" and more balance. Once I asked a talented orchestra leader what made a person like great chamber music such as "Beethoven's Quartettes", etc., and he said, "Just balance, unity—more balance."

So, let us have the peace of mind that comes from deep, dark vibrations, like old wine, like rich old royal blue in velvet, and like the glorious low tones of a great organ in an age-old cathedral; of course with brilliant touches of light to vary the setting, for television (color) or by prints in reproduction in magazines.

This all may seem funny to you, but

THINK THIS OVER.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

BUT IT was the rustle of Nedda's skirt recrossing the threshold, Marvell heard, as Ben led her off to the house. Fanny and he were left alone. They were silent and then to break the pause she said firmly, "Oh, it is good to see you, Marvell." She was looking at him [illegible] steadily, at his red face and too bright eyes, at all the nervous energy he had been storing up for so long, a little blurred now in his voice, his gestures, his quick breathing.

"Do you see me, Fanny?" he asked. "Do you see what I want to do? That's the person, you know—what he wants to be. That's the only excuse we have for our belief in eternal individuality, Fanny—what we want to do."

It was on the tip of her honest tongue to say, "I see, but you must get at it, you know, dear boy, not just play at it." She didn't like this drinking, this false excitement, any more than Ben, because she didn't understand at all. He had everything now that he had almost missed. Surely he was going to be serious about it—the new work, the country [illegible], the really charming [illegible]ter. "We expect a great deal of you, Marvell," she said gently.

He did not answer her. She seemed as far away as a figure seen through the wrong end of a telescope. He swung back the door for her and they rejoined the others.

The November night dropped down suddenly and a sharp little wind was coming over the maples. Brewster's horn honked across the lawn that looked old and dry in the fading light.

Marvell made a last effort to hold on. "You mustn't go so soon," he cried. "We'll have a little supper. Something to drink, Ben."

Fanny spoke. "No more for today, Marvell. We're tuckered out, as you say, and I must get home to the children."

They all seemed glad of the end, even Kit, who was scowling at the Staneweski's, now romping freely with her riding crop. Nedda, ignoring their piercing cries, corralled Peter first and then Audrey. She detested these children but with firmness and some kindness she said, "I'll get you home. Come along."

"Pa said to call him when we were ready."

"You can call from my house. It is just down the road." To clinch the matter, she added, "While you wait for him, I'll show you my horses."

Marvell could not hope now to make up the distance between himself and the others. He cloaked himself in a royal, condescending manner as he saw them off, bowing over Fanny's hand, urging Brewster to drive his good friends with care and dispatch.

When they were gone, he wandered back by himself to the house. In the dining room, the table was still shrouded in the long white cloth. He heard his own footsteps fall behind him as he walked to the kitchen. Mrs. Crane had cleared up the dishes but had left an assortment of small bowls, humped with leftovers, lying on the table. He poked a finger into one bowl and drew it out covered with a greasy film of cold gravy. He sat down at the kitchen table, facing the dreary line of containers. How heavy he was suddenly! His head, his legs, his heart. What had he done? This double vision, himself acting, himself looking on, the divided illusion of what had happened or what would happen next! If there had been a singleness of purpose in his heart none of this [illegible] have happened. Now he had driven them [illegible] off—Ben, Nedda, Kit. And Kit was the worst of all—to have clouded up her lovely day. Now that it was gone, he knew what he had lost. He had been welcomed home as the prodigal only to taunt the forgiving welcome, spit upon the new robes. It hasn't touched Kit yet, any of it, he looked up dimly for some support. I've got to get her back where she belongs. She won't have much to remember. Where was Kit? She'd have to have some supper, first, no matter what.

As he turned in his chair to get up, he saw her faint silhouette against the screen door. With a great effort he stood up, bracing himself with one hand on the chair back.

"Shall we get supper?"

There was uneasiness in her voice and in her touch on his arm as she said, "Can we have a light?"

"Of course we can have a light!" he said angrily. He fumbled for the matches near the sink.

"Not the lamp," she protested and stood on her toes to reach the string from the single light bulb over the table. More angry, he went to the pantry and fumbled around for bowls.

"We'll have crackers and milk as a starter," he said, blinking up at the strong light.

Obediently she hunted up the supplies and laid them out on the table. When she glanced at him, he thought he recognized Elisabeth's old look—that faint, startled discovery that even if she wished he could never catch up with him. His knees trembled and he sat down at the table again. "It was nice seeing old friends, wasn't it?" Every word was an effort. She nodded and he leaned forward, a spoon spun across the metal top. "Never min'," he pushed the dishes away. "How'd you like to go back to Boston? Don't you kind of miss it after seeing Ben and Fanny again?"

"Now?"

"No, some fair morning." She seemed to shrink away from him. He was scaring the daylights out of her. He leaned his head on his arms. Maybe this wasn't the time to say it after all. She stood looking down on him. He must have fallen asleep, she thought, just as he used to do when he tried to read aloud to her after a long day outdoors. Now, as then, she felt, first, annoyance at being left out and then, as now, an almost sensuous feeling of protectiveness. He felt her hand on his head and looked up. She smiled, he was just playing 'possum.

"Kit," but before he could go on there was a knock at the back door. When Kit opened it, there was Nedda in a long plaid cape, carrying a covered basket.

"We met Staneweski on his way over here," she announced abruptly. "I turned over his hysterical children with great relief. Then I thought it would be a good idea to bring some supper to you. There's always a famine after a feast." She uncovered the basket. "Hot biscuits, chicken salad, floating island, the maid just packed it from the table to basket."

Marvell stood up unsteadily, "You're a sport, Nedda, a real sport."

"I'll make you some coffee first." Nervousness made her voice harsh.

"I'll help," cried Kit. "You sit in the corner, Marvell."

Rebuked and drowsy he made himself small, out of their way. [illegible] watched them move together from table to stove, talking softly, and they seemed so at home with each other that he could not remember a time when they had not been together. The woman and the child. That was how Elizabeth and Katherine must have looked together and it was a pity that it had ever been changed. A new thought pierced his drowsiness. "Listen," he interrupted their serious [illegible] on the coffee pot. They both turned to him. "I've got something to tell you."

Nedda poured him a steaming cup of coffee. "Wait till you drink this," she said.

Kit came closer. "What is it?"

"Please, let's have supper first." Nedda dreaded what it might be. "Kit, can you fix a place for us on the corner of the dining room table? The light is softer there."

Kit ran off, eager to do anything that would bring back the first hours of the party that had been so gay.

"Kit ought to hear this, too," he said. "I thought you were frozen up in that mausoleum of yours and I wanted to keep Kit out of your way, once, for fear she'd turn frosty, too. But you've got a warmer heart than any of them, Nedda, coming back here to help out. Never mind for what noble reason you think you came, you came. That's it."

"Hush," she pleaded. "I knew Mrs. Crane had gone home and it's always so desolate when the party's over."

"Desolate!" he echoed. "Nedda, I'm through. I tried something up here and it didn't work. You must have guessed what's wrong. Ben and Fanny know. It's the old story, Nedda, of getting another chance and missing it. But it's over! Now about Kit. She likes you, Nedda, and you're sorry for her, at any rate. Why don't you take her away for a while? Maybe to Boston in the winter and then in the summer, Bar Harbor . . ."

"Haven't you any pride?" she asked fiercely. "Why do you admit this to me? It's all over and finished. These people don't matter—I don't, even Kit . . . but you, you matter! But you've got to carry yourself proudly, you can't be sorry for yourself and discouraged at every turn." The pain in her face touched him. Most of all he admired the virginal banner of her courage. Why had no one appealed like that to him before? Instead of duty and responsibility and God knew what hypocrisy. He held out his hand.

"I believe you're the first friend I ever had." She clasped it, dazed by her own rashness. Friend! She ached to put her arms around him, to make up for the disappointment of the day with its pathetic, childish bravado at the end.

But she was wrong about one thing, he knew. Kit mattered most. "Kit," he called, hearing her in the pantry. "Come and drink a toast to your good angel." Nedda poured out a glass of milk. Kit took it in both hands and made a big, sucking noise as she drank, in relief at feeling secure again. Marvell's geniality returned. "Your arms, ladies!" They all squeezed through the narrow door.

HEARING ON PETITION TO ANNEX ADJACENT TERRITORY IN FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP TO THE VILLAGE OF VALLEYVIEW FILED; HEARING FIXED FOR JANUARY 30, 1950

Mr. Lauderbaugh offered the following resolution and moved the adoption of the same, which was duly seconded by Mr. [illegible]:

BE IT RESOLVED, By the Board of County Commissioners of Franklin County, Ohio, that the petition for the annexation of certain adjacent territory to the Village of Valleyview, Ohio, signed by Margaret Parker, et. al., being the majority of the freeholders in said territory, to-wit:

Beginning in the original centerline of Hague Avenue and 50 ft westerly projection of the north line of Lot No. 1 Valleyview Addition as said Valleyview Addition is shown of record in Plat Book 19, Page 15, Recorder's Office, Franklin County, Ohio. Said beginning point being also on an angle point in the existing corporation line of said village; thence easterly with the existing corporation line (which is in a projection of the north line of said Lot No. 1), the north line of Lot No. 1, and the north line of the alley north of Dibblee Avenue; to the south line of the P. C. C. & St. L. R. R. Co. right-of-way; thence westerly with said south right-of-way line to a point at which a projection of the west line of Powell Avenue, as said Powell Avenue is shown in Oak Knoll Addition of record in Plat Book 17, Pages 218 & 219, Recorder's Office, Franklin County, Ohio, would intersect said south right-of-way line; thence southerly with a projection of the west line of said Powell Avenue, with the west line of said Powell Avenue, and with a southerly projection of the west line of said Powell Avenue to a point in the south line of Valleyview Drive (width 40.0 feet); thence easterly with the south line of said Valleyview Drive to a point on the projection of the west line of the 20.0 foot alley between Hague Avenue and Powell Avenue as shown of record in said Oak Knoll Addition; thence southerly along the projection of said 20.0 foot alley in Oak Knoll Addition to a point in the south right-of-way line of the C.C.C. & St. L. R. R., said point being also in the corporation line of the City of Columbus; thence easterly with said south right-of-way line and the corporation line of the City of Columbus, to the original centerline of Hague Avenue; thence northerly with said original centerline and with the corporation line of the City of Columbus to the old north right-of-way line of said C. C. C. & St. L. R. R. thence easterly with said old right-of-way line and the corporation line of the City of Columbus 100.00 feet; thence northerly, parallel to the original centerline of Hague Avenue, 15.00 feet more or less to the present corporation line of the Village of Valleyview; thence westerly with the said corporation line of the Village of Valleyview to the original centerline of Hague Avenue; thence northerly with the original centerline of Hague Avenue and the present corporation line of the Village of Valleyview to the place of beginning, together with a map of said territory accompanying said petition, filed with the Board on the 8th day of November, 1949, and presented to the Board at a regular session thereof held this 15th day of November, 1949, be and the same are hereby ordered filed in the office of the County Auditor; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, By the Board of County Commissioners that a hearing upon said petition shall be held at the office of the Board of County Commissioners of Franklin County, Ohio, at the Court House, at ten A. M., eastern standard time, on the 30th day of January, 1950; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Clerk of the Board be and he hereby is directed to notify the agent of the petitioners of the time and place of said hearing.

Voting Aye thereon: Harry T. Vigor, C. P. Lauderbaugh and Nathan A. McCoy, Jr.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Common Pleas Court, Franklin County, Ohio

No. 178800—Homer E. Langston, [illegible] W. Temple, Los Angeles 26, California, Plaintiff, vs. Dorothy Tom Frasier, 67 Chapel Avenue, Chicago 49, Illinois; Frank Frasier (husband of Dorothy Tom Frasier, 67 Chapel Avenue, Chicago 49, Illinois; Betty J. Tom, and the unknown spouse of Betty J Tom, if any, 6703 Merrill Avenue, Chicago 49, Illinois; Fred A. Tom, 6703 Merrill Avenue, Chicago 49, Illinois; Marguerite Tom (wife of Fred A. Tom), 6703 Merrill Avenue, Chicago 49, Illinois, Defendants.

Now comes the plaintiff and for his petition, says that he is seised in fee simple and in possession of the following described real estate: Situated in the County of Franklin, in the State of Ohio, and in the Township of Franklin: Being in Survey No 1279, Virginia Military Land, and being also a part of a certain tract of 46.87 acres conveyed by Charles E. Tom, et al., to Emmet E. Tom, et al., by deed shown of record in Deed Book 284, page 420, Franklin County Records, and being more particularly described as follows: Beginning at an iron pin in the north line of the P. C. C. and St. L. Railroad right of way, which point is south 86° 30' West a distance of 454.0 feet from an iron pin on the west line of Hague Avenue, and in the north line of said P. C. C. & St. L. Railroad right of way; said point being also the southwest corner of a tract heretofore conveyed by said Emmet E. Tom, et al., to the Hilltop Supply Company by deed as recorded in D. B. 784, page 198, Recorder's Office, Franklin County, Ohio; thence from said point of beginning north 31° 32' East a distance of 134.96 feet to an iron pin; thence North 86° 30' East a distance of 466.40 feet to a point in the center line of Hague Avenue (passing an iron pin at 435.00 feet); thence north 23° 29' West along the center line of Hague Avenue a distance of 167.04 feet to a point; thence south 67° 10' west a distance of 726.68 feet (passing an iron pin at 20.00 feet) to an iron pin on the east line of 20.989 acre tract; thence along the east line of said 20.989 acre tract south 23° 29' East a distance of 15.00 feet to an iron pin; being also the southeast corner of said 20.989 acre tract, and on the north right of way line of aforementioned railroad; thence north 86° 30' east along the north right of way line a distance of 266.20 feet to the place of beginning, containing 1.325 acres, subject to all legal highways. Plaintiff further says that the defendants Dorothy Tom Frasier, Fred A. Tom, and Betty J. Tom, whom plaintiff does not know if she is married or not, have or claim to have an interest in said real estate adverse to the plaintiff, that Frank Frasier is the husband of Dorothy Tom Frasier; that Marguerite Tom is the wife of Fred A. Tom; and that it is unknown whether Betty J. Tom is married or not, and if so what her name is or the name of her spouse, if any. WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays that the defendants be notified of the pendency of this action and be required to set up their respective claims, if any exist, to said real estate, and that his title to the same be forever quieted against said claim and for all other and further relief to which plaintiff may be entitled in the premises.

Said defendants are further notified that they are required to answer said petition on or before December 26, 1949, or judgement may be rendered as prayed for therein.

Attorney for Plaintiff
Robert M. Draper

God Sends the Messiah — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Isaiah 9:2-4; 9:1-7; 11:1-9; Jeremiah 33:14-16; Luke 2.

Isaiah prophesied that at the last the Lord's house should be established on the top of the mountain, and that all nations should come to worship there.

Again Isaiah prophesied that the people that walked in darkness should see a great light, and it would shine on those that dwell in the shadow of death.

There would come a time, said Isaiah; when the wild beasts should dwell in peace with the domestic animals—"and a little child shall lead them."

When the shepherds had gone away, Mary thought of all that had happened and "pondered them in her heart." MEMORY SEE—Luke 2:10-11.

V of A To Serve Christmas Dinner

Dinner for approximately 150 men will be prepared for the annual Volunteers of America Christmas feast. The turkey and pumpkin-pie menu will be served to all employees of the Industrial Department, and any transient men or local homeless men in Columbus on the holiday, according to Lt. Colonel Susan Thom, director of the Columbus post.

A special afternoon party for the boys and girls in the Volunteers of America [illegible] will be held in the recreation room at the Volunteers of America headquarters, 379 W. Broad st, Friday afternoon. Lt. Colonel Thom has been notified that Santa Claus plans to attend the children's party.

425 Bibles Sent To Japan By Hilltop Kiwanians

The Support of Churches Committee of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club has completed one of the projects in sending Bibles to Japan. The project was launched last March at a noon luncheon of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club at which time Rev. Jack Faulkenburg of the Bible Meditation League presented the challenge to help rebuild Japan on the basis of a democracy from the Holy Bible.

At that luncheon 70 Bibles were donated. Since that time the Kiwanis club has continued to donate to this cause with 425 Bibles having been sent. Others who cooperated were The Linden Kiwanis and the following Hilltop Churches: Hoge Memorial Presbyterian, Westgate Evangelical United Brethren, Burgess Avenue Evangelical United Brethren, Highland Avenue Friends, St. John Lutheran and Glenwood Methodist.

Members of committee are Harold Fox, Paul Rausch, Dr. Howard Whitehead, Robert Cramer and Rev. Harold Dutt, chairman.

HELP BUILD HOSPITAL

In keeping with the Christmas spirit, the members of the Eastwood Seventh-Day Adventist Church Sabbath School will give a special missions offering at the end of the year to help build a hospital in Belem, Brazil. All of the denomination's 16,000 Sabbath Schools throughout the world will participate in this project. The Sabbath schools have made a three month study of the medical needs of the two million people living on the banks of the rivers in the Amazon river valley.

The Low Down On High Ridgers

By One of Them

Katie, BAR that door! BERNARD FLOYD has finished his bar. It's snazzy. Lots of good times are had in their basement, even to the wee hours.

Hooray for MRS. MAYNARD BROBECK! She's over the top. A couple weeks ago we had in our column that MRS. CHAS. SMITH has a collection of 27 sets of salt and pepper shakers—BUT MRS. BROBECK has her beat. 35 pairs of same! (Filled, that would make dozens of corn on the cob quite tasty.) The latter's collection comes from many states and several from foreign countries.

Does anyone else in our neighborhood have a hobby they'd like to make known to the rest of us Hi Ridgers? Just write me—through the Record. We all like to see our name in print once in a while. That's what the Record is for—to catch up on all the news of each other.

Wasn't that Christmas party fun? Half the parents were believing in Santa Claus themselves that night at our Hi Ridge party, the only mishap being KATIE MALONEY, who chipped off a piece of tooth or filling upon biting into candy or popcorn or something.

A. C. ADAMS bought a new Ford. Remember way back when—not as far back as ADAM—but I know A. C. ADAMS remembers—those Ford touring cars? We thought they were doozies. They've come a long way, and now ADAMS still thinks he has a doozie, and RIGHT he is. It's a pretty sharp Christmas present, believe me.

HAZEL MOOR wants a turkey for Christmas, but she doesn't want to do the work it involves. Here's your solution, housewives: Take your husband out to a Christmas dinner in a restaurant where there won't even be any dish washing—unless, of course, HUBBY can't foot the bill.

MINNIE WHEELER made a fruit cake today. She put everything in it, too. Did you ever see her holiday tables? Her decorations are unique. What will be your idea for Christmas this year, MINNIE?

HERB LINNEAR finished his Christmas shopping in November. At least that's what he said he was going to do in mentioning it last fall. Wonder what he was doing on Broad Street loaded down with parcels Saturday? Still Christmas shopping, HERB?

RUTHIE EVANS entertained her bridge social yesterday. It was at this meeting she learned that her "secret sister" was her very own sister at home. She can still hardly believe that PATTIE could keep it a secret a full year. "It's unbelievable," she quotes.

Two weeks or so ago, KAY WATTS went to Galion, Ohio, to visit a sick friend. This friend happens to be a former Hi Ridger. Remember ESTHER CORDRAY? She is convalescing from a brief illness.

Glad to hear that EARL SHELDON is feeling better after his attack of illness the other day. The same goes to MRS. MABEL MOFFAT, who has been released from Doctors Hospital. She is convalescing at her daughter's home.

Christmas carols are being played early in the evening and can be heard over the amplifier from our Hilltop churches. It makes a person feel good inside to listen to the Christmas music. But that isn't enough. See about joining in with the services yourself.

SEE YOU AT CHURCH.

Churches Offer Midnight Masses

The Catholic churches on the Hilltop will start Christmas with midnight services. A solemn high mass will be offered at St. Mary Magdalene and St. Aloysius Churches at midnight.

Other services at St. Aloysius will be at 6, 8 and 10 a. m., and at noon. High masses will be sung at St. Mary Magdalene Church at 6, 8, 9:30 and 11 a. m., with low masses before and after each high mass.

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year

News of Rome

By Mrs. E. C. Sheets

We are glad to welcome to our community, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Johnson and children Leland and Susan. They are formerly of Chittenden-av, and are located in their new home on Buena Vista-av. He is connected with the Jeffry Manufacturing Company.

Mrs. Gordon Olson, 130 Lennox-av, entertained for her daughter, Kay's seventh birthday anniversary, Sunday afternoon. The little guests were Linda Richey, Sharon Streitenberger, Beverly Campbell, Cookie Shaner, Sandra Wallace, Marion Smith, Rex Lamb and the young hostess.

The Franklin County Farm Implement Association held its annual Christmas party at Beechwold last week. Each year several County High Schools are asked to be represented with a number for the program. This year Hilliards High School was represented by Wanda Sherwood with her accordion, Grove City High School with their German Band, Worthington High School Theatre group, and the Mifflin High School with the Harding Twins who were really wonderful in their art. The prizes run as follows, first prize $15.00 for school and $5.00 for group. Second prize $10.00 to school and $5.00 for group. Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Lamb attended the affair, representing Meyers Sales and Service.

Ed Whalen and Mary Whalen, brother and sister of James Whalen, visited Thursday with the Whalens and then attended the PTA program of Rome School.

The Monitors, the young married class of Columbia Heights Sunday School held their annual Christmas party at the home of their teacher Albert Caris, Maple-dr. He was presented with a lovely book. The out-going president, W. G. Lamb, was given a leather billfold. It was an election of officers meeting, which resulted in Mrs Ernest Schroeder, President, Kent Richey, Secretary, and Mrs. Russell Butin, Treasurer. Delicious refreshments were served to 20 guests.

Jean Wyker, a teacher in Mt. Zion High School, near Bucyrus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Wyker, Norton Road, will spend her Christmas vacation with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Butin and sons, formerly of Doren-av, are now located in their home recently purchased at 352 Lennox-av.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Darden Jr. and son, David, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Tope, will arrive the latter part of this week from Newton, N. C., to spend the holiday season with her parents.

Forest Brush, 334 Maple-dr, is still confined to his bed with an attack of pneumonia. He has been sick for the past three weeks.

The annual Christmas party of the WSCS of Columbia Heights Church was held at the home of Mrs. E. C. Sheets, Sr., Pasadena-av, Wednesday. It was a potluck affair with around twenty-five present. Two baskets were prepared for a worthy family. Another bushel of gifts was taken to the State Hospital and those present enjoyed a white elephant gift exchange, which afforded much fun.

The Luther League of St. Paul's Church met at the church Dec. 18. As a group they went to sing Christmas carols and then went to the home of Paul Toops, where the regular meeting and election of officers was held. Result was Gordon Vandiver, president; Bob Edwards, vice president, Paul Toops, treasurer and Marilyn West, secretary.

Glenwood Recreation News Notes

Adults and youth alike enjoyed the Christmas dance which was held last Friday night at Glenwood Center. With seasonal decoration and Ray Cinconi's orchestra to provide the music for dancing, we can sincerely say that a good time was had by all and the spirit of Christmas was truly felt. The Girls' Athletic Assoc. provided the refreshments which consisted of cookies and lunch.

• • •

The Golden Age club enjoyed an old fashioned taffy pull last Tuesday. This week the club members had their Christmas party and exchange. This club welcomes adults over 50 years of age and meets on Tuesday from 1:30 to 3 at Glenwood Recreation Center.

• • •

Wednesday evening a number of children representing Glenwood, will join other youths of the city to sing Christmas carols from a traveling bus which will be located in the down town section of the city. After caroling the entire group will enjoy hot chocolate and cookies at Glenwood Center.

Glenwood G. A. A.

First meeting of the Glenwood Girls Athletic Association was held at the center last week. At that time the girls had a short basketball practice, after which they baked cookies for the Christmas dance scheduled for Friday.

Glenwood Personalities

Jane Conard of 1889 Fairmont-av was one of four teen-agers who represented the City Recreation Dept. at the Recreation Division of Social Agencies banquet held at the Southern Hotel. Miss Conard was chosen to attend because of her ability in leadership and her interest in community activities.

Miss Conard is a student at West High and is active in girls' sports at West and at Glenwood Recreation Center.

Odd Fact

17 Junior High Students Honored At Assembly

Seventeen West Junior High 9-A students, by virtue of maintaining high scholastic records in their school work, were honored at "The Excelsior" in the school auditorium Tuesday.

Guest speaker for the program was Don Ebright, treasurer of the State of Ohio, and aspirant for the state's gubernatorial post.

Students signally honored at the school's convocation include Sonya Albery, Ruth Borland, Rita Elliott, Marion Goolsby, Nyla Grabill, Shirley Kanavel, Donna LeFever, Shirley Deitchle, Marcia Lowery, Carol Rickert, Donna Theisen, Ann Cockfield, Eleanor Cozad, Joan Davis, Barbara Williams, Ronald Grant and Ronald Raike

Also on the Excelsior program were selections by the Girls' Glee Club, "Trees", "Skip To My Lou" and "Deep In My Heart".

Thirty-seven present 8B's and 9B's who were honor students in the seventh and eighth grades were introduced.

Excelsior pins were presented to the 17 students by Tola McFarland, who read the names.

Response to the presentation was by Marcia Lowery, followed by "School Loyalty Song", led by Ola Trump, with Donna Theisen, president of student council, presiding.

Bowser Receives Reserve Commission

Phillip C. Bowser, 35 N. Hague-av, was one of 11 cadets in the advanced Army ROTC course at Ohio State University who received their commissions as second lieutenants at ceremonies held on the campus Dec. 16.

Families of the students attended the exercises during which Col. Carlos Brewer, professor of military science, administered the oath of office and presented gold bars.

Stork Derby Opens With The New Year; First Baby To Be Heaped With Prizes

Hilltop Merchants To Fete First Baby and Parents

The "first baby" derby of 1950 starts at 12 midnight, Saturday, Dec. 31. This is the 12th annual New Year baby race sponsored by The Hilltop Record and Hilltop merchants.

The first baby to be born to Hilltop parents in the New Year will receive a number of valuable prizes. There will also be gifts for the mother and father of the first-born.

Rules for entering the baby derby are as follows:

1. Parents of babies being entered must furnish The Hilltop Record with date, hour, minute and place of birth.
2. Full names of parents and their address must be furnished.
3. The name (if chosen), sex and exact weight must be provided.
4. A statement with this information must be furnished together with the name and signature of the attending physician.

If a birth is to be considered for entrance in the derby, proof of time of birth must be established at the office of the Record, 2465 W. Broad-st, by 12 midnight, Monday, Jan. 2, 1950. Statements should be put in the Record's mailbox.

Must Live On Hilltop

To be eligible for entry, parents of the baby must live in the Hilltop area, which is bounded on the east by Central-av, on the west by the western Franklin Township boundary line (including the community of New Rome), on the north by Trabue-rd and on the south by Frank and Climo-rds. Also eligible to enter are any parents who are regular subscribers to The Hilltop Record who live in Franklin County west of the Scioto River.

The following gifts will be given by the Hilltop firms listed below:

Many Firms Give

The following Hilltop firms are donating these gifts to the first Hilltop baby of 1950: a Baby Breck gift package, Campbell's Pharmacy, 2766 W. Broad-st; two gallons of cleaner, BOS Products Co., 3274 W. Broad-st; portrait, J. Curtis Allen, photographer, 221 N. 17 Junior High Students Honored At Assembly

Seventeen West Junior High 9-A students, by virtue of maintaining high scholastic records in their school work, were honored at "The Excelsior" in the school auditorium Tuesday.

Guest speaker for the program was Don Ebright, treasurer of the State of Ohio, and aspirant for the state's gubernatorial post.

Students signally honored at the school's convocation include Sonya Albery, Ruth Borland, Rita Elliott, Marion Goolsby, Nyla Grabill, Shirley Kanavel, Donna LeFever, Shirley Deitchle, Marcia Lowery, Carol Rickert, Donna Theisen, Ann Cockfield, Eleanor Cozad, Joan Davis, Barbara Williams, Ronald Grant and Ronald Raike

Also on the Excelsior program were selections by the Girls' Glee Club, "Trees", "Skip To My Lou" and "Deep In My Heart".

Thirty-seven present 8B's and 9B's who were honor students in the seventh and eighth grades were introduced.

Excelsior pins were presented to the 17 students by Tola McFarland, who read the names.

Response to the presentation was by Marcia Lowery, followed by "School Loyalty Song", led by Ola Trump, with Donna Theisen, president of student council, presiding.

Bowser Receives Reserve Commission

Phillip C. Bowser, 35 N. Hague-av, was one of 11 cadets in the advanced Army ROTC course at Ohio State University who received their commissions as second lieutenants at ceremonies held on the campus Dec. 16.

Families of the students attended the exercises during which Col. Carlos Brower, professor of military science, administered the oath of office and presented gold bars.

KING OF KINGS

I have no frankincense or gold or myrrh,
Not even one small lamb to offer Thee,
Oh, Holy Child, who graced the manger bed,
I do not come from eastern lands afar,
Nor from the rugged hills that stand nearby,
But down the shadowed avenues of Time
I found my way to kneel before Thee now.

I am no child, the years have left their marks
Of joy and sorrow, bitterness and hate,
Poor gifts to place before Thee, Infant King,
But here I am, my hands are empty, quite,
My head is bowed in deep humility
That one as destitute as I should find
The door unlatched, a welcoming inside.

But there inside, a miracle took place.
And I, who came in abject poverty,
Now suddenly was rich, I realized
The gift of love was mine, a love so great
It bore a cross and wore a thorny crown,
I said no word but in my heart of hearts
I crowned Thee King of Kings.

SHEPHERDS

The air is vibrant with the Christmas story,
Infinitely warm in all its glory,
Night awakened by the brightest star
And word of Him repeated near and far.

For never has the night been as the day,
And in the quiet hills the shepherds pray,
Each holding reverence with gentle heart
With fearfulness and wonder all apart;
Intent upon the miracle revealed,
Intent upon the promise of the healed;
Each hears the singing of the Savior's birth,
Of hope incarnate—of a Peace on Earth.

A YULETIDE OF PEACE

With virginal purity snowflakes fall
Upon the earth;
In mystical silence, wise men recall
The Savior's birth.

Now waits to hear
The message of peace, the angelic band
Sings every year.

Hallowed and hushed, are the sand and the snow
Through east and west
Beauty and reverence letting us know
The world is blessed.

A Yuletide of peace . . . wherever you are,
And shining for all . . . the Bethlehem Star.

CHRISTMAS MESSAGE

Please, my dear, wherever you are,
Look up and find the Christmas Star,
Remembering always, as you do
It is bringing a message from me to you.

Though by the world it can't be heard,
Each silver twinkle spells a word.

For a flop and a shot of gin,
Or just a chap by hard luck bit?
No matter what his past has been,

Today, he's king of fairyland,
No monarch wealthier than he
Who holds its treasure in his hand;
To its joy has the magic key.

This is the land of heart's desire
Of childhood's faith in all that's true,
In this good saint, who never tires
Who shall make all their dreams come true.

Believing love shall make them true.

CHRISTMAS STORY

He had forever-shining stars to light His tiny form,

He left as toys, for small forgotten kings.

FIRST CHRISTMAS LULLABY

Sleep, little new-born lambs, on this startled hill;
Let the pasture grass be soft to your tender hides;
Nuzzle your mother's snowy flanks; go still
With drowsiness blown from midnight mountain-sides.

Sleep, little calves, in the golden straw beneath
This humble thatch of Bethlehem, and lie
The star's light close your eyes, your gentle breath
Makes visible frost upon the air.
Forget
Your wide-eyed wonder, little donkey; and sniff
The scent of sleep. And in my arms, my son,
Curl down to dreams. This hour is enough
For one small boy, and heaven's will is done.
Frances Frost,
in BETWEEN THE BOOK ENDS.

If there is weakness in Christianity it is because we are weak Christians. It is because we have for so long lacked a deep and transforming commitment to the faith we profess. There is no Christianity in the world without people like us. We are it—or else it is not.

To one and all go our sincerest wishes that this be the Happiest Christmas ever!

Hilltop Merchants To Fete First Baby and Parents

The "first baby" derby of 1950 starts at 12 midnight, Saturday, Dec. 31. This is the 12th annual New Year baby race sponsored by The Hilltop Record and Hilltop merchants.

The first baby to be born to Hilltop parents in the New Year will receive a number of valuable prizes. There will also be gifts for the mother and father of the first-born.

Rules for entering the baby derby are as follows:

1. Parents of babies being entered must furnish The Hilltop Record with date, hour, minute and place of birth.
2. Full names of parents and their address must be furnished.
3. The name (if chosen), sex and exact weight must be provided.
4. A statement with this information must be furnished together with the name and signature of the attending physician.

If a birth is to be considered for entrance in the derby, proof of time of birth must be established at the office of the Record, 2465 W. Broad-st, by 12 midnight, Monday, Jan. 2, 1950. Statements should be put in the Record's mailbox.

Must Live On Hilltop

To be eligible for entry, parents of the baby must live in the Hilltop area, which is bounded on the east by Central-av, on the west by the western Franklin Township boundary line (including the community of New Rome), on the north by Trabue-rd and on the south by Frank and Climegrds. Also eligible to enter are any parents who are regular subscribers to The Hilltop Record who live in Franklin County west of the Scioto River.

The following gifts will be given by the Hilltop firms listed below:

SMALL TOWN

Some city-dwellers regard with derision
The inhabitants of little towns,
Believing them uncouth and without vision
And dubbing them "rubes" and "clowns".

Yet there occurred, one long-ago December,
In just such a small town as one of them,
The greatest world event of all—remember
That famous little town called Bethlehem?

Olga Hecox (Reprinted.)

IN THE CITY OF DAVID

The clouds drawn back, a mighty star hove right
And stood mid-heaven above the quiet town,
A majesty of music filled the sky
A majesty of radiance flowed down.

Within the crowded stuffy Syrian inn
A restless sleeper stirred and raised his head.
Was that some distant music, faint and thin?
It couldn't be—in Bethlehem, he said,

And, turning, slept. He did not hear the feet
Of shepherds hastening through the village street,
And, turning, slept. He did not hear the feet
Of shepherds hastening through the village street.

The Babe of Christmas slept.
Mary
Held Him within her arms,
And prayed that God would keep

The miracle was done.

BY TREE OR BELL OR LIGHT

Wherever a bell shall ring tonight,
Wherever a candle glows,
A leaf of love seeks out the light,
A blade of beauty grows.

Nor ever the Christmas carols rise,
Nor greetings hailed again,

Comes down on troubled men.

Wherever a tinseled tree is spread,
Wherever a painted toy,
Some bit of the Herald's news is sped,
"Glad Tidings of Great Joy."

Seventeen West Junior High 9-A students, by virtue of maintaining high scholastic records in their school work, were honored at "The Excelsior" in the school auditorium Tuesday.

Guest speaker for the program was Don Ebright, treasurer of the State of Ohio, and aspirant for the state's gubernatorial post.

Students signally honored at the school's convocation include Sonya Albery, Ruth Borland, Rita Elliott, Marion Goolsby, Nyla Grabill, Shirley Kanavel, Donna LeFever, Shirley Deitchle, Marcia Lowery, Carol Rickert, Donna Theisen, Ann Cockfield, Eleanor Cozad, Joan Davis, Barbara Williams, Ronald Grant and Ronald Raike.

Also on the Excelsior program were selections by the Girls' Glee Club, "Trees", "Skip To My Lou" and "Deep In My Heart".

Thirty-seven present 8B's and 9B's who were honor students in the seventh and eighth grades were introduced.

Excelsior pins were presented to the 17 students by Tola McFarland, who read the names.

Response to the presentation was by Marcia Lowery, followed by "School Loyalty Song", led by Ola Trump, with Donna Theisen, president of student council, presiding.

Bowser Receives Reserve Commission

Phillip C. Bowser, 35 N. Hague-av, was one of 11 cadets in the advanced Army ROTC course at Ohio State University who received their commissions as second lieutenants at ceremonies held on the campus Dec. 16.

Families of the students attended the exercises during which Col. Carlos Brewer, professor of military science, administered the oath of office and presented gold bars.

Yule Tree Base Is Pride Of Sunker Family

By Myron T. Seifert

Most unusual and spectacular in appearance are superlatives that will describe the beautiful Christmas tree at the Harry G. Sunker home, 423 Townsend-av. Folks from every part of the city come to view the sparkling and uniquely-anchored tree at the Sunker household.

Of unusual interest is the base in which the tree is placed. It was made by Mr. Sunker 18 years ago of plaster of paris. It is a representative of a mountain, showing many realistic contours, including rivers, bridges and streams. Dimension of the mammoth hillock is six feet by four feet at floor level. Miniature churches, Santa, his sled and reindeer are spotted on the model, along with other Christmas objects. The base is painted green, with white snow capping the top.

The tree, when decorated by Mr. Sunker, is a joy to behold. It requires two nights, involving about 11 hours of work, to trim it right, Mr. Sunker says. An additional five hours are needed to spot his colored bulbs in the special wiring made for this purpose.

Ornaments, some of which are very old, are placed to best advantage with the largest ones, hand-made and blown in variegated colors, at the bottom of the tree.

A china doll, given Sunker when he was only two years of age, is always given a preferential spot. Red and silver strands of rope add an artistic touch by giving the tree depth, Sunker avers. Finally, the spangled tinsel which adorns every good looking tree must be sprinkled lightly and neatly.

John Keats, the English author, must have been thinking of a Christmas tree when he said, "A thing of beauty is a joy forever," for certainly a Christmas tree is just that.

When bells ring out on Christmas day and fun and frolic hold full sway, we wish you joy, cheer and laughter, and bright New Year to follow after.

Stork Derby Opens With The New Year; First Baby To Be Heaped With Prizes

Hilltop Merchants To Fete First Baby and Parents

The "first baby" derby of 1950 starts at 12 midnight, Saturday, Dec. 31. This is the 12th annual New Year baby race sponsored by The Hilltop Record and Hilltop merchants.

The first baby to be born to Hilltop parents in the New Year will receive a number of valuable prizes. There will also be gifts for the mother and father of the first-born.

Rules for entering the baby derby are as follows:

1. Parents of babies being entered must furnish The Hilltop Record with date, hour, minute and place of birth.
2. Full names of parents and their address must be furnished.
3. The name (if chosen), sex and exact weight must be provided.
4. A statement with this information must be furnished together with the name and signature of the attending physician.

If a birth is to be considered for entrance in the derby, proof of time of birth must be established at the office of the Record, 2465 W. Broad-st, by 12 midnight, Monday, Jan. 2, 1950. Statements should be put in the Record's mailbox.

Must Live On Hilltop

To be eligible for entry, parents of the baby must live in the Hilltop area, which is bounded on the east by Central-av, on the west by the western Franklin Township boundary line (including the community of New Rome), on the north by Trabue-rd and on the south by Frank and Climo-rds. Also eligible to enter are any parents who are regular subscribers to The Hilltop Record who live in Franklin County west of the Scioto River.

The following gifts will be given by the Hilltop firms listed below:

Many Firms Give

The following Hilltop firms are donating these gifts to the first Hilltop baby of 1950: a Baby Breck gift package, Campbell's Pharmacy, 2766 W. Cowboys Come From Behind To Beat Foes 55-50

By Dave Miller

An old saying around the sports world is that the real champion is the one that can come from behind to victory. The statement fits our Hilltoppers, who in the cage tilt last night overcame a seven point deficit in the fourth period to take a thrilling 55 to 50 verdict from a tough Bellefontaine five on the losers' court.

The Hilltoppers held a commanding lead all throughout the opening half. However, they were held to four baskets in the third quarter while Bellefontaine was racking in 18 points to provide the Chieftains with a five-point lead at the third period's mark.

But the final quarter decided the issue and proved that the local basketballers have the ability to fight from behind. The Cowboys outscored the host five in the final quarter, 22-12.

Young was high point man with 24 points, followed by Bellefontaine center Jack Harvey with 14. Jim Rudolph was runner-up for the Cowboys with 11. High-scoring Guard Bill Thrush was held down to eight, but played his usual brilliant floor game.

17 Junior High Students Honored At Assembly

Seventeen West Junior High 9-A students, by virtue of maintaining high scholastic records in their school work, were honored at "The Excelsior" in the school auditorium Tuesday.

Guest speaker for the program was Don Ebright, treasurer of the State of Ohio, and aspirant for the state's gubernatorial post.

Students signally honored at the school's convocation include Sonya Albery, Ruth Borland, Rita Elliott, Marion Goolsby, Nyla Grabill, Shirley Kanavel, Donna LeFever, Shirley Deitchle, Marcia Lowery, Carol Rickert, Donna Theisen, Ann Cockfield, Eleanor Conad, Joan Davis, Barbara Williams, Ronald Grant and Ronald Raike.

Also on the Excelsior program were selections by the Girls' Glee Club, "Trees", "Skip To My Lou" and "Deep In My Heart".

Thirty-seven present 8B's and 9B's who were honor students in the seventh and eighth grades were introduced.

Excelsior pins were presented to the 17 students by Tola McFarland, who read the names.

Response to the presentation was by Marcia Lowery, followed by "School Loyalty Song", led by Ola Trump, with Donna Theisen, president of student council, presiding.

West Broad Street School Grades Celebrate Christmas

West Broad Street School was a beehive of activity the last few days before Christmas vacation, with the decking of halls, the trimming of trees, the singing of carols, the telling of stories, the making of gifts for mother and daddy, and all the things that go to make the bright eyes shine and hearts grow light.

The first floor hall glows with two giant Christmas trees illuminating a mural, depicting the Christmas story, made by upper grade pupils. The windows sparkle with snow scene and fir trees made by happy children's hands.

The following is a peep into the various rooms and an account of their doings.

Kindergarten

The kindergarten had a Christmas tea for their parents Friday. The children sang their Christmas songs and served their mothers with hot punch and cookies.

The two kindergarten groups had their pictures taken. These pictures were placed in folders the children made for a surprise for their parents.

First Grades

The five first grade rooms at West Broad School were busy all month making Christmas decorations for their rooms, gifts for father and mother, ornaments for their trees and Christmas cards.

Miss Sperry's class is memorizing the poem, "The Night Before Christmas", by Edgar Moore.

Miss Birch's pupils have written Christmas greetings to their parents and made a trip to the post office to mail them.

Second Grade

In the second grade they made their own Christmas tree ornaments and room decorations. Students colored and studied Raphael's "Madonna of the Chair" and "Sistine Madonna".

Gifts were made for the mothers and fathers.

Third Grade

Christmas gifts for the parents: Mother—a plaque made from a paper painted black with showcard paint and decorated with a flower in the middle of the plate. The children colored a stencil of a "Colored Mammie" and inserted a paper pad for a memo for their mothers to use in the kitchen. A piece of cardboard was cut out and pasted on the back to make it firm. Hot pad holders were woven on looms.

Father—Desk calendars were made for the fathers in one of the rooms. Old Christmas cards were used to make decorative calendars in another room.

Fourth Grade

The children in the fourth grade enjoyed making the room decoration which consisted of a blackboard mural showing the manger scene.

Christmas trees were brought in and decorated by the children. They made holly wreaths and colored bells and candles. Free-hand illustrations were made showing Christmas scenes, Santa Claus and scenes of the baby Jesus, wise men and shepherds. The children designed the cover for a carol book and also designed cut-out pictures from small pieces of colored paper for Christmas cards.

Clay articles made for Christmas gifts were candle holders, flower pots, plaques, vases, ash trays, paper weights, and pencil holders.

Fifth Grade

The fifth grades had much fun making gifts of clay to delight their parents. Ash trays, candle holders and a great variety of miniature animals and figures were made.

One group wrote and presented to the entire school a Christmas play. Its theme was "Christmas In Many Lands".

The children in this grade also decorated their room and trimmed the trees.

Stork Derby Opens With The New Year; First Baby To Be Heaped With Prizes

Hilltop Merchants To Fete First Baby and Parents

The "first baby" derby of 1950 starts at 12 midnight, Saturday, Dec. 31. This is the 12th annual New Year baby race sponsored by The Hilltop Record and Hilltop merchants.

The first baby to be born to Hilltop parents in the New Year will receive a number of valuable prizes. There will also be gifts for the mother and father of the first-born.

Rules for entering the baby derby are as follows:

1. Parents of babies being entered must furnish The Hilltop Record with date, hour, minute and place of birth.
2. Full names of parents and their address must be furnished.
3. The name (if chosen), sex and exact weight must be provided.
4. A statement with this information must be furnished together with the name and signature of the attending physician.

If a birth is to be considered for entrance in the derby, proof of time of birth must be established at the office of the Record, 2465 W. Broad-st, by 12 midnight, Monday, Jan. 2, 1950. Statements should be put in the Record's mailbox.

Must Live On Hilltop

To be eligible for entry, parents of the baby must live in the Hilltop area, which is bounded on the east by Central-av, on the west by the western Franklin Township boundary line (including the community of New Rome), on the north by Trabue-rd and on the south by Frank and Climo-rds. Also eligible to enter are any parents who are regular subscribers to The Hilltop Record who live in Franklin County west of the Scioto River.

The following gifts will be given by the Hilltop firms listed below:

Cowboys Come From Behind To Beat Foes 55-50

By Dave Miller

An old saying around the sports world is that the real champion is the one that can come from behind to victory. The statement fits our Hilltoppers, who in the cage tilt last night overcame a seven point deficit in the fourth period to take a thrilling 55 to 50 verdict from a tough Bellefontaine five on the losers' court.

The Hilltoppers held a commanding lead all throughout the opening half. However, they were held to four baskets in the third quarter while Bellefontaine was racking in 18 points to provide the Chieftains with a five-point lead at the third period's mark.

But the final quarter decided the issue and proved that the local basketballers have the ability to fight from behind. The Cowboys outscored the host five in the final quarter, 22-12.

Young was high point man with 24 points, followed by Bellefontaine center Jack Harvey with 14. Jim Rudolph was runner-up for the Cowboys with 11. High-scoring Guard Bill Thrush was held down to eight, but played his usual brilliant floor game.

Room 204 made cookie dishes and fruit bowls from old phonograph records which were designed to suit each child.

They had a Christmas party on Wednesday afternoon.

Sixth Grades

The sixth grade rooms at West Broad looked like Santa's workship. After studying about evergreens in science, each pupil of Room 201 drew and painted an evergreen tree about 14 inches high.

In Room 202 the chief emphasis was on the true spirit of Christmas. This was brought out through the use of stories and original work by children. The theme was:

For somehow, not only at Christmas,
But all the whole year through,
The joy that you give to others is
The joy that comes back to you.

Room 205 presented the Christmas pageant. Everyone who saw it was deeply inspired by the wonderful message and thought it portrays.

Hillcrest Baptist Service To Be Christmas Eve

The Hillcrest Baptist Church is arranging its second annual late-hour Christmas Eve Candlelight service, to be held Saturday evening from 10 to 11 o'clock. A similar service a year ago attracted an unexpectedly large attendance.

Included in the service this year will be the Biblical Advent story in choric speech, a manger adoration scene by a youthful group of traditionally costumed candlebearers, and a dramatization entitled "Bethlehem Neighbors."

Dane Stoll will direct the choir, with Mrs. Paul V. Crosier at the organ and Mrs. Cortland L. Roth at the piano. The pastor, Rev. A. L. Roth, will deliver a brief message and voice a pastoral Christmas wish.

The service, to which everyone is invited, will conclude with a congregational carol-sing.

Plenty of Generals

Let us not be desirous of vain glory (Gal. 5:26). Do you remember the story of Lincoln, who received a telegram from a man who volunteered to be a general in the Union Army? Lincoln wired back that they had plenty of generals, but they did need a lot of good privates.

Observe the world's greatest anniversary by attending Christmas church services.

17 Junior High Students Honored At Assembly

Seventeen West Junior High 9-A students, by virtue of maintaining high scholastic records in their school work, were honored at "The Excelsior" in the school auditorium Tuesday.

Guest speaker for the program was Don Ebright, treasurer of the State of Ohio, and aspirant for the state's gubernatorial post.

Students signally honored at the school's convocation include Sonya Albery, Ruth Borland, Rita Elliott, Marion Goolsby, Nyla Grabill, Shirley Kanavel, Donna LeFever, Shirley Deitchle, Marcia Lowery, Carol Rickert, Donna Theisen, Ann Cockfield, Eleanor Conad, Joan Davis, Barbara Williams, Ronald Grant and Ronald Raike.

Also on the Excelsior program were selections by the Girls' Glee Club, "Trees", "Skip To My Lou" and "Deep In My Heart".

Thirty-seven present 8B's and 9B's who were honor students in the seventh and eighth grades were introduced.

Excelsior pins were presented to the 17 students by Tola McFarland, who read the names.

Response to the presentation was by Marcia Lowery, followed by "School Loyalty Song", led by Ola Trump, with Donna Theisen, president of student council, presiding.

News of Rome

By Mrs. E. C. Sheets

We are glad to welcome to our community, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Johnson and children Leland and Susan. They are formerly of Chittenden-av, and are located in their new home on Buena Vista-av. He is connected with the Jeffry Manufacturing Company.

Mrs. Gordon Olson, 130 Lennox-av, entertained for her daughter, Kay's seventh birthday anniversary, Sunday afternoon. The little guests were Linda Richey, Sharon Streitenberger, Beverly Campbell, Cookie Shaner, Sandra Wallace, Marion Smith, Rex Lamb and the young hostess.

The Franklin County Farm Implement Association held its annual Christmas party at Beechwold last week. Each year several County High Schools are asked to be represented with a number for the program. This year Hilliards High School was represented by Wanda Sherwood with her accordion, Grove City High School with their German Band, Worthington High School Theatre group, and the Mifflin High School with the Harding Twins who were really wonderful in their art. The prizes run as follows, first prize $15.00 for school and $5.00 for group. Second prize $10.00 to school and $5.00 for group. Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Lamb attended the affair, representing Meyers Sales and Service.

Ed Whalen and Mary Whalen, brother and sister of James Whalen, visited Thursday with the Whalens and then attended the PTA program of Rome School.

The Monitors, the young married class of Columbia Heights Sunday School held their annual Christmas party at the home of their teacher Albert Caris, Maple-dr. He was presented with a lovely book. The out-going president, W. G. Lamb, was given a leath election which resu Schroeder, Richey, Sec sell Butin, refreshmen guests.

17 Junior High Students Honored At Assembly

Seventeen West Junior High 9-A students, by virtue of maintaining high scholastic records in their school work, were honored at "The Excelsior" in the school auditorium Tuesday.

Guest speaker for the program was Don Ebright, treasurer of the State of Ohio, and aspirant for the state's gubernatorial post.

Students signally honored at the school's convocation include Sonya Albery, Ruth Borland, Rita Elliott, Marion Goolsby, Nyla Grabill, Shirley Kanavel, Donna LeFever, Shirley Deitchle, Marcia Lowery, Carol Rickert, Donna Theisen, Ann Cockfield, Eleanor Conad, Joan Davis, Barbara Williams, Ronald Grant and Ronald Raike

Also on the Excelsior program were selections by the Girls' Glee Club, "Trees", "Skip To My Lou" and "Deep In My Heart".

Thirty-seven present 8B's and 9B's who were honor students in the seventh and eighth grades were introduced.

Excelsior pins were presented to the 17 students by Tola McFarland, who read the names.

Response to the presentation was by Marcia Lowery, followed by "School Loyalty Song", led by Ola Trump, with Donna Theisen, president of student council, presiding.

Bowser Receives Reserve Commission

Phillip C. Bowser, 35 N. Hague-av, was one of 11 cadets in the advanced Army ROTC course at Ohio State University who received their commissions as second lieutenants at ceremonies held on the campus Dec. 16.

Families of the students attended the exercises during which Col. Carlos Brewer, professor of military science, administered the oath of office and presented gold bars.

Hilltop Merchants To Fete First Baby and Parents

The "first baby" derby of 1950 starts at 12 midnight, Saturday, Dec. 31. This is the 12th annual New Year baby race sponsored by The Hilltop Record and Hilltop merchants.

The first baby to be born to Hilltop parents in the New Year will receive a number of valuable prizes. There will also be gifts for the mother and father of the first-born.

Rules for entering the baby derby are as follows:

1. Parents of babies being entered must furnish The Hilltop Record with date, hour, minute and place of birth.

2. Full names of parents and their address must be furnished.

3. The name (if chosen), sex and exact weight must be provided.

4. A statement with this information must be furnished together with the name and signature of the attending physician.

If a birth is to be considered for entrance in the derby, proof of time of birth must be established at the office of the Record, 2465 W. Broad-st, by 12 midnight, Monday, Jan. 2, 1950. Statements should be placed in the Record's mailbox.

Must Live On Hilltop

To be eligible for entry, parents of the baby must live in the Hilltop area, which is bounded on the east by Central-av, on the west by the western Franklin Township boundary line (including the community of New Rome), on the north by Trabue-rd and on the south by Frank and Climerds. Also eligible to enter are any parents who are regular subscribers to The Hilltop Record who live in Franklin County west of the Scioto River.

The following gifts will be given by the Hilltop firms listed below:

Cowboys Come From Behind To Beat Foes 55-50

By Dave Miller

An old saying around the sports world is that the real champion is the one that can come from behind to victory. The statement fits our Hilltoppers, who in the cage tilt last night overcame a seven point deficit in the fourth period to take a thrilling 55 to 50 verdict from a tough Bellefontaine five on the losers' court.

The Hilltoppers held a commanding lead all throughout the opening half. However, they were held to four baskets in the third quarter while Bellefontaine was racking in 18 points to provide the Chieftains with a five-point lead at the third period's mark.

But the final quarter decided the issue and proved that the local basketballers have the ability to fight from behind. The Cowboys outscored the host five in the final quarter, 22-12.

Young was high point man with 24 points, followed by Bellefontaine center Jack Harvey with 14. Jim Rudolph was runner-up for the Cowboys with 11. High-scoring Guard Bill Thrush was held down to eight, but played his usual brilliant floor game.

"ALL I WANT . . ."

Little Frankie Ventola got his Christmas presents early this year. Just a few days before Christmas, Frankie, five-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Ventola, 350 S. Warren-av, got two small front teeth.

BOYS' CLUB PROGRAM
By John Mehrle

The Christmas party of the Boys' Club will be held Tuesday, Dec. 20, at 7:00 p. m. in the club rooms. The nativity scene will be presented by members of the Boys' Club. A $10.00 basket of groceries will be given as a door prize. At the conclusion of the program, each member will be given a sack of candy.

As usual, Starling will have its white Christmas of gifts and trinkets given by the pupils and PTA mothers of Starling. Some of the gifts which are to be distributed to the patients of the State Hospital are pipes, tobacco, candy, ties, handkerchiefs, playing cards, fruit, combs, soap and costume jewelry. The gifts will be placed under the tree which is in the main hall.

Stork Derby Opens With The New Year; First Baby To Be Heaped With Prizes

Hilltop Merchants To Fete First Baby and Parents

The "first baby" derby of 1950 starts at 12 midnight, Saturday, Dec. 31. This is the 12th annual New Year baby race sponsored by The Hilltop Record and Hilltop merchants.

The first baby to be born to Hilltop parents in the New Year will receive a number of valuable prizes. There will also be gifts for the mother and father of the first-born.

Rules for entering the baby derby are as follows:

1. Parents of babies being entered must furnish The Hilltop Record with date, hour, minute and place of birth.
2. Full names of parents and their address must be furnished.
3. The name (if chosen), sex and exact weight must be provided.
4. A statement with this information must be furnished together with the name and signature of the attending physician.

If a birth is to be considered for entrance in the derby, proof of time of birth must be established at the office of the Record, 2465 W. Broad-st, by 12 midnight, Monday, Jan. 2, 1950. Statements should be put in the Record's mailbox.

Must Live On Hilltop

To be eligible for entry, parents of the baby must live in the Hilltop area, which is bounded on the east by Central-av, on the west by the western Franklin Township boundary line (including the community of New Rome), on the north by Trabue-rd and on the south by Frank and Climer rds. Also eligible to enter are any parents who are regular subscribers to The Hilltop Record who live in Franklin County west of the Scioto River.

The following gifts will be given by the Hilltop firms listed below:

Cowboys Come From Behind To Beat Foes 55-50

By Dave Miller

An old saying around the sports world is that the real champion is the one that can come from behind to victory. The statement fits our Hilltoppers, who in the cage tilt last night overcame a seven point deficit in the fourth period to take a thrilling 55 to 50 verdict from a tough Bellefontaine five on the losers' court.

The Hilltoppers held a commanding lead all throughout the opening half. However, they were held to four baskets in the third quarter while Bellefontaine was racking in 18 points to provide the Chieftains with a five-point lead at the third period's mark.

But the final quarter decided the issue and proved that the local basketballers have the ability to fight from behind. The Cowboys outscored the host five in the final quarter, 22-12.

Young was high point man with 24 points, followed by Bellefontaine center Jack Harvey with 14. Jim Rudolph was runner-up for the Cowboys with 11. High-scoring Guard Bill Thrush was held down to eight, but played his usual brilliant floor game.

Popcorn Balls, wrapped in different color cellophane and combined with Christmas greens, make gay holiday centerpieces. They also make inexpensive edible Christmas tree ornaments that are enjoyed by young and old. But don't stop with the Popcorn Balls recipe. Read on — and on — and on! You'll be thrilled.

Old-Fashioned Popcorn Balls

1 cup Karo Syrup, Red or Blue Label
1 cup brown sugar
½ cup water
1 teaspoon vinegar
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 quarts unsalted popcorn

Combine first four ingredients in saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until mixture boils. Continue cooking, stirring almost constantly to hard ball stage (256° F.) or until a small amount of mixture forms a hard ball when tested in very cold water. Remove from heat; quickly add butter and blend. Slowly pour over popcorn in large bowl, while mixing well. Form into balls, using as little pressure as possible. Butter hands, if desired. Makes 16 about 2½ inches in diameter.

Pink Cinnamon Popcorn Balls: Follow above recipe substituting Red Label Karo Syrup for Blue Label and granulated sugar for brown sugar. When mixture boils add ¾ cup red cinnamon candies. Proceed as above.

For Pastel Popcorn Balls: Omit cinnamon candies and when adding butter, tint syrup any desired shade with vegetable coloring. Use 2 teaspoons vanilla.

For Easy Meals Between Holidays

Bolster up the meals between Christmas and New Year's, with one or two good spaghetti dinners. They're satisfying, they're easy and they're thrifty; three reasons why they fit into the between-holiday season. All you have to do to assure a delicious meal is to open a packaged spaghetti dinner — cook the spaghetti, heat the sauce, open the can of Italian-style cheese — and you have a menu mainstay spiced and seasoned with a chef's skill that's taken only a few minutes to prepare. If you prefer, you can serve canned ravioli for the mainstay. The bite-size pastry cushions, filled with meat, are canned in a delicious chef's sauce. With them serve vegetables — broccoli and canned or quick-frozen cut corn and a green salad would be good. A dessert from the corner bakery or a dish of fruit would top off a good meal.

Fluffy Pumpkin Pie

1 package prepared butterscotch pudding
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon molasses
1½ cups milk
2 egg yolks
1 cup cooked or canned pumpkin
2 egg whites
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 baked 9-inch pie shell

Combine pudding powder, salt, and spices in saucepan. Add molasses and a small amount of the milk and mix well. Add egg yolks and blend. Add remaining milk and pumpkin. Cook and stir until mixture comes to a boil and is thickened.

Beat egg whites until foamy throughout, add sugar gradually, and continue beating with rotary egg beater until mixture stands in peaks. Fold in hot pudding, mixing well. Turn into pie shell. Chill.

Plum Puff Pudding

3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup drained pitted canned plums
1½ cups plum juice
½ cup water
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ cup sifted cake flour
2 eggs
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
⅛ teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons sugar

Combine tapioca, salt, cinnamon, plums, plum juice, water, and butter in saucepan. Place over medium heat and cook until mixture comes to a full boil, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and add lemon juice. Pour into a greased 2-quart baking dish and keep hot.

Sift flour once and measure. Beat eggs with cream of tartar and salt until very thick and lemon-colored, adding sugar gradually. Add flour all at once and stir until smooth. Turn out over hot tapioca-fruit mixture. Bake in slow oven (325°F.) 50 minutes, or until cake is baked. Serve warm. Makes 8 servings.

Magic Christmas Fondant

White magic for Christmas! Snowy, creamy fondant candies, that the children themselves can make to help Santa Claus with his task of gift giving. They can't burn their fingers, because the fondant needs no cooking; and they can't be disappointed, because the recipe for it is failure-proof. Here's what to do: Blend ⅔ cup sweetened condensed milk and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Gradually add 4 cups sifted confectioners' sugar, mixing until smooth and creamy.

Fondant Variations!

Use fondant between nut meats or as a stuffing for dates; or form into small balls and roll in chopped nut meats, shredded coconut, grated chocolate, candied fruit. Flavor and color as desired and form into round flat creams.

Holiday Rennet Desserts

2 cups milk (not canned)
1 package chocolate rennet powder
Sweetened whipped cream
2 tablespoons chopped raisins
2 tablespoons chopped nuts

Set out 4 or 5 individual dessert glasses. Warm milk slowly, stirring constantly. Test a drop on inside of wrist frequently. When COMFORTABLY WARM, (110° F.) not hot, remove at once from heat. Stir rennet powder into milk quickly until dissolved — not over one minute. Pour at once, while still liquid, into individual dessert glasses. Do not move until set — about 10 minutes. Then chill. Just before serving chilled rennet desserts, top with 1 tablespoon whipped cream, raisins and nuts.

Feel glum? Keep mum.
Don't grumble. Be humble.
Trials cling? Just sing.
Can't sing? Just cling.

Don't fear. God's near!
Money goes. He knows.
Don't rust. Work! Dust.

VA Sends Yule Boxes To Prisons

Preparations for the holiday are under way at the local post of the Volunteers of America. Included in this year's plans will be the packing of Christmas boxes for men in prisons around the state who have no family or friends to send them Christmas remembrances.

Members of the Volunteers of America staff and local advisory board are filling boxes with nonperishable foods, candy and cigarettes. Each member of the Volunteer Prison League who is behind bars will receive a gift.

Christmas Play Given By West Dramatics Class

By Myron T. Seifert

Christmas will be observed at West High School in a fitting manner Wednesday, Dec. 21 (last day of school before vacation) when the 12A dramatics class will present a Christmas play for junior high and senior high assemblies, respectively.

The inspiring play, entitled "Why the Chimes Rang", is sacred in nature and shows in a very convincing way how the real worth of a gift cannot be measured in terms of money or precious jewels, but by the spirit of the giver.

CANDLELIGHT SERVICES SET

Two identical candlelight communion services will be held Thursday evening, Dec. 29, at 7 and 8:30, at Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church. New members will be received.

Both services will be open to strangers in the community who may be without a church home, Rev. A. J. Wold, pastor, announced today.

Hilltop Merchants To Fete First Baby and Parents

The "first baby" derby of 1950 starts at 12 midnight, Saturday, Dec. 31. This is the 12th annual New Year baby race sponsored by The Hilltop Record and Hilltop merchants.

The first baby to be born to Hilltop parents in the New Year will receive a number of valuable prizes. There will also be gifts for the mother and father of the first-born.

Rules for entering the baby derby are as follows:

1. Parents of babies being entered must furnish The Hilltop Record with date, hour, minute and place of birth.
2. Full names of parents and their address must be furnished.
3. The name (if chosen), sex and exact weight must be provided.
4. A statement with this information must be furnished together with the name and signature of the attending physician.

If a birth is to be considered for entrance in the derby, proof of time of birth must be established at the office of the Record, 2465 W. Broad-st, by 12 midnight, Monday, Jan. 2, 1950. Statements should be put in the Record's mailbox.

Must Live On Hilltop

To be eligible for entry, parents of the baby must live in the Hilltop area, which is bounded on the east by Central-av, on the west by the western Franklin Township boundary line (including the community of New Rome), on the north by Trabue-rd and on the south by Frank and Climeaverds. Also eligible to enter are any parents who are regular subscribers to The Hilltop Record who live in Franklin County west of the Scioto River.

The following gifts will be given by the Hilltop firms listed below:

Cowboys Come From Behind To Beat Foes 55-50

By Dave Miller

An old saying around the sports world is that the real champion is the one that can come from behind to victory. The statement fits our Hilltoppers, who in the cage tilt last night overcame a seven point deficit in the fourth period to take a thrilling 55 to 50 verdict from a tough Bellefontaine five on the losers' court.

The Hilltoppers held a commanding lead all throughout the opening half. However, they were held to four baskets in the third quarter while Bellefontaine was racking in 18 points to provide the Chieftains with a five-point lead at the third period's mark.

But the final quarter decided the issue and proved that the local basketballers have the ability to fight from behind. The Cowboys outscored the host five in the final quarter, 22-12.

Young was high point man with 24 points, followed by Bellefontaine center Jack Harvey with 14. Jim Rudolph was runner-up for the Cowboys with 11. High-scoring Guard Bill Thrush was held down to eight, but played his usual brilliant floor game.

By Mrs. E. C. Sheets

We are glad to welcome to our community, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Johnson and children Leland and Susan. They are formerly of Chittenden-av, and are located in their new home on Buena Vista-av. He is connected with the Jeffry Manufacturing Company.

Mrs. Gordon Olson, 130 Lennox-av, entertained for her daughter, Kay's seventh birthday anniversary, Sunday afternoon. The little guests were Linda Richey, Sharon Streitenberger, Beverly Campbell, Cookie Shaner, Sandra Wallace, Marion Smith, Rex Lamb and the young hostess.

The Franklin County Farm Implement Association held its annual Christmas party at Beechwold last week. Each year several County High Schools are asked to be represented with a number for the program. This year Hilliards High School was represented by Wanda Sherwood with her accordion, Grove City High School with their German Band, Worthington High School Theatre group, and the Mifflin High School with the Harding Twins who were really wonderful in their art. The prizes run as follows, first prize $15.00 for school and $5.00 for group. Second prize $10.00 to school and $5.00 for group. Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Lamb attended the affair, representing Meyers Sales and Service.

Ed Whalen and Mary Whalen, brother and sister of James Whalen, visited Thursday with the Whalens and then attended the PTA program of Rome School.

17 Junior High Students Honored At Assembly

Seventeen West Junior High 9-A students, by virtue of maintaining high scholastic records in their school work, were honored at "The Excelsior" in the school auditorium Tuesday.

Guest speaker for the program was Don Ebright, treasurer of the State of Ohio, and aspirant for the state's gubernatorial post.

Students signally honored at the school's convocation include Sonya Albery, Ruth Borland, Rita Elliott, Marion Goolsby, Nyla Grabill, Shirley Kanavel, Donna LeFever, Shirley Deitchle, Marcia Lowery, Carol Rickert, Donna Theisen, Ann Cockfield, Eleanor Conad, Joan Davis, Barbara Williams, Ronald Grant and [illegible]

Also on the Excelsior program were selections by the Girls' Glee Club, "Trees", "Skip To My Lou" and "Deep In My Heart".

Thirty-seven present 8B's and 9B's who were honor students in the seventh and eighth grades were introduced.

Excelsior pins were presented to the 17 students by Tola McFarland, who read the names.

Response to the presentation was by Marcia Lowery, followed by "School Royalty Song", led by Ola Trump, with Donna Theisen, president of student council, presiding.

Bowser Receives Reserve Commission

Phillip C. Bowser, 35 N. Hague-av, was one of 11 cadets in the advanced Army ROTC course at Ohio State University who received their commissions as second lieutenants at ceremonies held on the campus Dec. 16.

Families of the students attended the exercises during which Col. Carlos Brewer, professor of military science, administered the oath of office and presented gold bars.

BIG SCREEN TELEVISION

Mail Carriers Walk Many Weary Miles

LOADED . . . A familiar sight on the streets this time of year. He wishes he had Santa's reindeer to help with the load.

Give a thought to the foot-sore mail carrier, who probably trudges more weary miles during Christmas week than does old St. Nick himself.

His mailsack will be even heavier this year than in 1947. Last December, the nation's postal service delivered 5,000,000,000 pieces of mail. They expect to break that record this Christmas.

You can help spare your mail carrier's bunions—and incidentally speed delivery of your own Yuletide letters, Christmas cards, and packages—by heeding the Post Office Department's suggestions:

1. Shop now—get your Christmas mail and packages off as early as possible.

2. Wrap your gifts carefully. Address them plainly—Aunt Susie may be able to decipher your handwriting, but not all postmen carry magnifying glasses and crystal balls. Register valuable letters. Insure valuable packages.

3. Be sure to put the full address on each piece of mail. Include city zone numbers.

4. Send your Christmas cards by first-class mail. Put a three-cent stamp on every Christmas card and seal the envelopes. They are more personal that way, and if your friend has moved, the card will be forwarded. Third-class mail doesn't have that privilege.

5. Remember that Air Mail for letters and Christmas cards is only a nickel, and it will get them to distant points more quickly—especially if you slip up on Suggestion No. 1.

THE ADVERTISERS ARE OUR FRIENDS. WHY NOT BE THEIR FRIEND AND PATRONIZE THEM?

Y-TEENS DECORATE TREE

By Wilma Headley

The Y-Teens of Starling Junior High met Wednesday, Dec. 14, to decorate the Christmas tree. The tree is located in the main entrance hall. They made decorations out of plastic straws, plaster of paris, paper and popcorn. While some of the Y-Teens decorated the tree, the others stood in the background and sang Christmas carols. They chose a committee during the meeting to take the trimming from the tree Wednesday, Dec. 21, when the holiday vacation begins. The tree is a very beautiful Norwegian pine which almost reaches the ceiling.

Money Returned, Peggy Believes In Santa Now

A few days before the holidays, Peggy Kirwin, 25, lost her purse containing $286 near Broadway in New York. She had saved the money to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Kirwin, 105 N. Huron-av, over Christmas.

Before the day was over Peggy got back her money bank. Joseph Saravis of Jamaica, N. Y., brought the purse to her office. He refused a $25 reward.

Weeping with joy and gratitude Pegy said she would give it to a church.

To Go To Hospital

George M. Painter, 1641 Sullivant-av, expects to return to White Cross Hospital after the first of the year for an operation, the result of a recent auto accident.

Painter, a Hilltop grocer for many years, was involved in an accident on Route 61, near Mt. Gilead six weeks ago.

'Used Cars' Listing Added To Classified

Do you want to sell that automobile of yours? There is a good possibility you can find a ready buyer for it right here on the Hilltop.

Heretofore, all used car ads have been placed in the "Miscellaneous For Sale" column. Effective next Tuesday, Jan. 3, they will be inserted under our newly-created "Used Cars For Sale" classification. Here they will receive concentrated attention from our car-conscious readers.

Be one of the first to use this new, interest-packed column. Call your ad in now, before it slips your mind. Dial RA. 1125, ask for "Classified."

Big Day For Lauer Family

Mother Wins Prize -- Joanne To Wed On Radio -- And Spike Celebrates Birthday

By Myron T. Seifert

Things have been happening fast and furiously at the C. F. Lauer, Jr., home, 84 S. Westgate-av, where along with holiday festivities, the entire household has been teeming with excitement over the news that daughter Joanne, 19, and her fiance, Paul W. Ricketts, Jr., 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Ricketts, 99 S. Brinker-av, will appear on WCOL's "Bride and Groom" program broadcast Feb. 17 on a nation-wide hook-up.

Mr. Ricketts is manager of the Lauer Co., Dry Cleaners, 2699 Sullivant-av, and both are graduates of West High School.

Mrs. Lauer will accompany the young couple to Hollywood. Grandfather Lauer of Los Angeles will give the bride away during the ceremony.

On the same day last week Mrs. Lauer, winner of the WBNS silver anniversary contest, was recipient of an International silver service, for her sagacity in suggesting the most progressive advancement on the news horizon that happened in the past quarter of century. Her answer of the origin and development of the rayon industry was acclaimed best by the radio judges. Then, too, brother Carl Frederick, Jr. III, alias "Spike", to his many juvenile friends, observed his birthday on the same day. So it is no wonder that the Lauer house is full of excitement.

Here's how Joanne tells the story of events that transpired during her Hilltop romance:

"We had seen each other while going to and from school but didn't know each other although we lived only one street apart. I had a surprise party for my Aunt Phyllis (Lauer) and we met at the party. Paul dated Phyllis but didn't date me for a year. We went to a square dance given by the West High Triangle Club Nov. 1, 1946 (our first date) and then dated regularly until the night before Thanksgiving when we decided to date steady. We went steady without exception until Valentine's Day 1949, when we became officially engaged.

ALL IN ONE DAY LAST WEEK Mrs. Carl F. Lauer, Jr., of 84 S. Westgate-av, was the winner of Ferq Sharp's silver anniversary contest; her daughter, Joanne, learned she would be married on the "Bride and Groom" program on Feb. 17; and her son, Carl, celebrated his seventh birthday. Mrs. Lauer and Joanne look over the silver service tea set which is the prize Mrs. Lauer won.

Franklin Twp.

Mrs. Charles Martin, 1865 Harrisburg-pk; Mrs. W. Woodyard, 2120 Eakin-rd; Mrs. Harry C. Downing, 2050 Eakin-rd; Mrs. Edward L. Lantz, 325 Derrer-rd; Mrs. George W. Halliday, 1487 Hague-av; Mrs. William Sands, 459 N. Eureka-av.

Post Plans Gala New Year's Party

The annual New Year's Eve party of the Camp Chase Post 98, American Legion will be held at the post headquarters, Burgess-av and Broad-st, Saturday night.

Party chairman W. D. Ferguson has secured Jack Hedges Band to play for the dancing. The doors will be open at 8:30 and dancing will start at 9. Dancing to the band will continue until 1:30 a. m. and recorded music will be played from that time until the party ends.

The dance is open to the public at $1.25 per person, Favors will be furnished. Soft drinks will be available.

CLOSE FOR INVENTORY

Jack Boyer, manager of Gearhart's Hardware, announced this week that the store will remain closed Tuesday, Jan. 3, so inventory can be taken. The store will be closed Monday in observance of New Year's Day.

Zoning Amendments Hearing Set At Sullivant Ave. Airport

C. P. Lauderbaugh, chairman of the Franklin County Planning Commission, has announced that a public hearing will be held Monday, Jan. 9, in the administration building of the Sullivant Avenue Airport to amend the zoning map as it affects "Apartment", "General Commercial", "Light Manufacturing" and "Heavy Manufacturing" districts of Franklin Twp.

Maps showing the proposed amendments are on file in the office of the planning commission in the court house.

Suffers Stroke

D. C. Finneran

D. C. Finneran, 50, 211 S. Eureka-av, Tuesday suffered a stroke, caused by high blood pressure, which affected his speech and the use of his left arm. His condition had "improved" Wednesday, according to his wife.

Finneran, a group head in the insurance division of the Veterans Administration, is the 12th District commander of the American Legion. He is past commander of Camp Chase Post, American Legion, and past county commander of the Legion.

Koontz Seen Sure To Be Council Pres.

Henry A Koontz, Hilltop member of city council, seems virtually certain of being president of that group when council elects its new leader next week.

In a recent poll five of the members stated they would vote for Koontz. A majority of four is needed for election. Although not the senior member of council, Koontz got the most votes in the last general election.

Baby-Child Photo Ballot In Today

The official ballot for the Hilltop Record-J. Curtis Allen photogenic baby and child contest appears on page 7A of today's Record. All ballots must be in the Record office by Jan. 5. Each voter is allowed to cast only one ballot.

Pictures of the finalists of the weekly contests will be on display in the window of the Westgate Electric Co., 2656 W. Broad-st. Winners will be announced in the Record.

Post Seeks Tide of Toys For Europe

Children of the Hilltop were urged this week by Camp Chase Post of the American Legion to dig into their Christmas stockings for toys to send to European children missed by Santa.

The Post is participating in a nation-wide "Tide of Toys" being sponsored by the Legion. Commander Robert Dagett of the Hilltop Post makes the following suggestions to contributors of toys:

1. Select toys which are sturdy enough to stand an oversees journey.

2. Write a personal note of greeting giving your full name and address, and attach it securely to the toy.

3. Do not give electrically-powered toys or war toys of any type.

Daggett said that a representative of the legion would be at the post from 1-4 and 7-10 p. m. daily until Jan. 5 to receive the toys.

He added that the legion would also pick up toys in the afternoons and evenings. Persons wishing to donate toys should call the post at RA. 0295; call Mrs. Ray McVay, auxiliary chairman, at RA. 4082 or call Daggett at JO. 2365.

Members of the post are contacting Hilltop merchants for their contributions to the toy drive.

Stork Derby Opens With The New Year; First Baby To Be Heaped With Prizes

Church Given New Pulpit

REV. JAMES F. LORENZ, pastor of the Community Christian Church, 107 S. Powell-av, admires a new walnut pulpit which George Tuvell, 272 N. Oakley-av, made and gave to the church as a Christmas gift. Last Christmas Tuvell, a railroader, gave the church a communion table and lectern that he had constructed. The chancel furniture will be dedicated Sunday, Jan. 1.

Hilltop Merchants To Fete First Baby and Parents

The "first baby" derby of 1950 starts at 12 midnight, Saturday, Dec. 31. This is the 12th annual New Year baby race sponsored by The Hilltop Record and Hilltop merchants.

The first baby to be born to Hilltop parents in the New Year will receive a number of valuable prizes. There will also be gifts for the mother and father of the first-born.

Rules for entering the baby derby are as follows:

1. Parents of babies being entered must furnish The Hilltop Record with date, hour, minute and place of birth.

2. Full names of parents and their address must be furnished.

3. The name (if chosen), sex and exact weight must be provided.

4. A statement with this information must be furnished together with the name and signature of the attending physician.

If a birth is to be considered for entrance in the derby, proof of time of birth must be established at the office of the Record, 2465 W. Broad-st, by 12 midnight, Monday, Jan. 2, 1950. Statements should be put in the Record's mailbox.

Must Live On Hilltop

To be eligible for entry, parents of the baby must live in the Hilltop area, which is bounded on the east by Central-av, on the west by the western Franklin Township boundary line (including the community of New Rome), on the north by Trabue-rd and on the south by Frank and Clime rds. Also eligible to enter are any parents who are regular subscribers to The Hilltop Record who live in Franklin County west of the Scioto River.

The following gifts will be given by the Hilltop firms listed below:

Many Firms Give

The following Hilltop firms are donating these gifts to the first Hilltop baby of 1950: a Baby Breck gift package, Campbell's Pharmacy, 2766 W. Broad-st; two gallons of cleaner, ROS Products Co., 3274 W. Broad-st; portrait, J. Curtis Allen, photographer, 221 N. Ogden-av; electric vaporizer, Goodwin's Pharmacy, 2772 Sullivant-av; electric alarm clock, Robinson's, 2403 W. Broad-st; table lamp, A. H. Butler Furniture, 1438 Sullivant-av; one dozen diapers, Economy Variety Store, 2402 W. Broad-st.

A gift from First Federal Savings and Loan Association, 2369 W. Broad-st; home-made cake, Home Bakery, 2752 Sullivant-av; $5 grocery order, Fox Food Shop.

Special Deadlines For Tuesday Record

In observance of the New Year's holiday the Hilltop Record office will close all day Monday, Jan. 2. The regular issue of the paper will be published Tuesday. Deadlines for classified advertising, society notes, and news will be at noon Saturday.

Polio Victim Seeks Job, Useful, Independent Life

Ted Roeltger, 24, 131 Nashoba-av, is a young man who needs some help—just a little help. He's had a lot of bad luck, and it's due time he got a little boost and some good luck.

"When Ted was five years old he was attacked by polio. Before he was completely recovered from the illness—when he was just seven—Ted was struck by an auto on his way to school. This nearly finished off young Ted, but his determination and grit pushed him on.

Before Ted graduated from high school, he slipped on a slick pavement and fell, breaking his right arm. The arm didn't recover from the injury properly, and it was necessary to operate on it and remove some bones. The arm, and his right hand, have never been the same since. The polio left his legs weak and deformed. The break left his writing arm weak and stiff.

Takes Training

None of these set-backs stopped Ted. After high school, he studied further in another school. Recently, as a part of the vocational rehabilitation program, Ted has taken shoe repair training under Floyd E. Unger, 2223 W. Broad-st. But now, because of

Cowboys Come From Behind To Beat Foes 55-50

By Dave Miller

An old saying around the sports world is that the real champion is the one that can come from behind to victory. The statement fits our Hilltoppers, who in the cage tilt last night overcame a seven point deficit in the fourth period to take a thrilling 55 to 50 verdict from a tough Bellefontaine five on the losers' court.

The Hilltoppers held a commanding lead all throughout the opening half. However, they were held to four baskets in the third quarter while Bellefontaine was racking in 18 points to provide the Chieftains with a five-point lead at the third period's mark.

But the final quarter decided the issue and proved that the local basketballers have the ability to fight from behind. The Cowboys outscored the host five in the final quarter, 22-12.

Young was high point man with 24 points, followed by Bellefontaine center Jack Harvey with 14. Jim Rudolph was runner-up for the Cowboys with 11. High-scoring Guard Bill Thrush was held down to eight, but played his usual brilliant floor game.

"ALL I WANT . . ."

Little Frankie Ventola got his Christmas presents early this year. Just a few days before Christmas, Frankie, five-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Ventola, 350 S. Warren-av, got two small front teeth.

JOB'S DAUGHTERS NEWS NOTES

By Patti Holycross

Well, here Christmas is over and we are just about ready to start a new year. I hope Santa Claus was good to every one.

A couple of our past queens are spending Christmas at home. Joan Steen, a student at Emerson College in Boston, Mass., and Jean Meservey, who is working for the Navy Department in Washington, D. C., both made their parents happy by arriving here in time for the holidays.

I understand that Jean Lockwood, our chaplain, and her family spent Christmas this year in Cleveland with her grandparents. Santa had quite a ways to go to find her.

I surely was proud and happy to see such a wonderful turnout at our meeting Dec. 21. Our Christmas party was a big success and a big thanks goes to the line officers, Mrs. Emrich and the [illegible] for helping out.

Those who participated in giving to the needy family might be interested in knowing that it turned out very fine and required two cars to deliver all the food. Thanks everyone.

It's just about time to sign off for this year and I want to say that I've really enjoyed writing this column for the past six months.

So, Happy New Year to everybody—see you next year!

MAKING THE BEST OF Living

By careful planning and saving, this young couple built the home of their dreams with the help of Canada's largest home-loaning institution, the Sun Life of Canada. Furthermore, at small additional cost, they wisely protected their investment with a Sun Life Mortgage Protection policy which, should the husband die before the home is paid for, instantly clears all remaining mortgage indebtedness.

PLANNED LIFE INSURANCE BRINGS PEACE OF MIND

Without obligation, let me tell you how the facilities of the SUN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA can best meet your particular needs in a way that will fit your pocketbook.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

DEN 2, PACK 86

The Cubs of Den 2, Pack 86 have been busy during the Holiday season, being guests of Sally Flowers on WLW-C Television. A skit was put on "Meet Santa Claus", played by Mickey Leach, Jackie Lamano, E. G. Bucheib and Billy McLaughlin. Christmas carols were sung by all Cubs of Den 2 on the program.

On Monday a Christmas party was given by the Cubs. Each mother received a gift made by the Cubs. Wall plaques were given to each grandmother. Each guest received a box packed with cookies, candy and pop corn made by the Cubs.

Mrs. Barbara Laicher, whom the Cubs sponsor, was showered with gifts at this party, and on Friday, boxes of cookies, candy and leather craft gifts were distributed at several local institutions, and the Sun Ridge Rest Home where Christmas carols were sung. Food and toys were given to two needy families by the group.

The Cubs sponsored a rummage sale, paper drive, collected sales tax stamps, and sold cards to provide money for their parties and gifts to the needy.

The den mother is Mrs. Charles Meddles, 507 Binns blvd.

Quilting Ladies Meet At Mrs. Wilson's

Mrs. Forest Wilson, 576 Crescent-rd, chairman of the quilting ladies of Bethlehem Lutheran Church, entertained the group with a Christmas dinner Wednesday, Dec. 28, at noon.

Those attending were Mrs. Charles Allers, Mrs. William Davis, Mrs. Earl Douglass, Mrs. E. J. Klamfoth, Mrs. J. J. Mitchell, Mrs. Clarence Schofield, Mrs. Mary Woehrle and Mrs. Ruth Ballard.

MEETING TIME CHANGED

The Eureka Guild of Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church has announced a change in plans. The meeting originally scheduled for Dec. 27 has been postponed and will be held on Jan. 3, 7:45 p. m., at the church. The Christmas season program is in charge of Mrs. Oakley Wiseman and Mrs. Edward Hakola.

KNIGHTS HOLD OPEN HOUSE

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert B. Knight, 20 Piedmont-rd, will hold open house for the members of the 17th district OES chorus and husbands Sunday, Jan. 1, from 2 to 5 p. m. Mrs. Knight is director of the choral group and Mrs. Josephine Nowell, 147 N. Warren-av, is accompanist.

A GROUP OF ICE-SKATERS pose in front of the frozen fountain of Westgate Park Lake as winter comes to the Hilltop, bringing ice and snow for winter sports.

Good News, Busy Day For Lauers

"We decided to wait one year in order to finish out the school year at OSU and save a little. We both attended OSU. I attended Twilight School at State for the past two quarters. I am a major in Home Ec. but haven't learned to cook or sew yet!

"Paul was a commerce student. He started as an employee for my dad while he was going to State. I am employed by the State Highway Patrol as an IBM keypunch operator. I have wonderful people to work under. When I heard the news, everyone congratulated me from Colonel Mingle on down.

"My Aunt Phyllis married Paul's friend George Carroll from New York. They were married Nov. 18, 1947, and are expecting their first offspring around the first part of February.

"This has certainly been a merry Christmas for God has truly been good to us.

"We are planning to drive out in our own car. Mother and Spike are going with us. Paul's mother and dad are going by train.

"My Grandfather Lauer will give me away for Daddy can't leave his business at this time. He plans to visit our relatives in the summer. My Aunt Bertie and Uncle Bob (the Robert Clinton Ludwigs) of Los Angeles will be our attendants. Bob is of Columbus, his mother is Mrs. John Randles of 151 N. Powell-av. Bertie is my mother's sister, also of Columbus, daughter of Mrs. Mary and the late William A. Williams of 380 Midland-av.

"My Aunt Leota and Uncle Bill Thompson are planning a trip all through the South beginning Jan. 2nd and will be at the wedding. I have three sets of aunts and uncles living in California, plus grandparents. We plan to spend at least a month in California and possibly Mexico.

"We will be married on Feb. 17, 1950, a Friday. We would have liked to be married the 14th but consider ourselves very lucky as it is.

"We are looking for an apartment, preferably on the Hilltop. We will have a nice reception when we return. We both like swimming (although I can't swim too well 'cause Paul has always been too busy to teach me). I have been kidding Paul about going on a shrimp cocktail diet and you know the more I think about it, the better it sounds (for the honeymoon, I mean).

"The next month will be taken up with showers, and a small engagement party for our families, packing and oh yes, a lot of buying.

"By the bye, be sure and tune in your radios and hear of Paul's unusual occupations."

Hilltopper Is PR Director Of TB Group

The appointment of Mrs. Virginia Benton, 65 S. Westgate-av, to the position of public relations director of the Columbus Tuberculosis Society and director of the Christmas seal sale was announced today by Mrs. W. Hynes Pitner, 206 Parkview-av, president.

Mrs. Benton, who handled publicity for the 1949 seal sale, succeeds Mrs. Ben L. Weber, Reynoldsburg, seal sale director for the past five years. Mrs. Weber's resignation becomes effective Jan. 1.

"The new public relations job was created," Mrs. Pitner stated, "because we want Franklin County residents who support the Columbus Tuberculosis Society through the purchase of seals, to know what we are doing on a year-round basis. Everyone who buys seals should know how his money is being spent and should share our feeling of pride in the tuberculosis control program."

Mrs. Benton has handled publicity for several Community Chest campaigns in Lynn, Mass., and was public relations director for the Red Cross in that city in 1948. Other experience includes the authorship of a column for the Lynn Daily Evening Item, Lynn, Mass., the editorship of a weekly newspaper in Maine, and the writing of continuity for radio stations in Massachusetts and Connecticut.

new braces and shoes. Ted's body is not balanced well enough for it to be safe for him to operate shoe repair machines. There is a danger that he might fall into one of the machines.

So Ted is asking for a break, a chance, a start. He's not begging or pleading. He feels sure that, in the right job, he can do good work for his employer. So far, Ted hasn't settled back and waited for the world to give him a living. He has gotten out on his own and done different kinds of work.

He has a considerable amount of selling experience. When he was physically able, Ted sold Fuller brushes house-to-house. After his health broke, he sold hosiery on the phone and by appointment. He has also worked as a counter man in a meat market. Lately, he has been working part-time at two jobs. Salaries of both jobs together are not enough to live on, however. He has been working a few hours a day at Unger's, wrapping shoes and breaking them down for repair. He has also worked a while each day for another local handicapped person, Elmer Jones. Jones makes wreaths and Ted has been selling them at a stand on W. Mound-st.

Asks For Opportunity

Now Ted is asking for an opportunity to get a real start, to get a real job and to begin to be independent. He would like to rent a room, where the overhead is not too high, and start a news stand here on the Hill. If that doesn't materialize, Ted would be happy to work in a grocery, or an office, or at any kind of counter-sales work.

Ted lives with his folks, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Roettger. Mr. Roettger works for the Columbus Dispatch.

Cowboys Meet Chillicothe Friday Night In Second Vacation Tilt

By Dave Miller

West High's basketballers will conclude their over-the-holiday schedule tomorrow evening when they visit a tough Chillicothe five for the locals' seventh battle of the season.

After the Chillicothe tilt tomorrow evening, the Hilltoppers will return to school next Tuesday and then will reopen their 1949-50 City League campaign by visiting North Jan. 6.

From then on, for the initial time this season, games will be played on a two-a-week basis, mostly on Fridays and Tuesdays.

Chill' other's five will sport practically the same team that opposed our Cowboys in Chillicothe last season. At that time, the Cavaliers had but two seniors, only one of them being a regular. The Cowboys we e 56 to 38 winners over the Cavaliers last season.

Returning lettermen back from last season's team include Forwards Jim Greisheimer and Don Bates; Center Dick Long, and Guards Billy Cousins, Jim Hockenberry and Jim Burnstine. This team recently defeated Urbana 65-47.

The Cowboys, who before the Bellefontaine tilt last night had won two and lost three, have been looking good as of late with the consistent "hitting" of their scoring trio, namely Jim Rudolph, Bill Young and Bill Thrush.

Young is leading scorer of the squad with 71 markers, pressed closely by Bill Thrush with 68. Rudolph, although playing in only two games, is third with 21, closely followed by Guard Jack Winnestaffer with 20.

Williams announced the following traveling squad: Forwards Capt. Jim Rudolph, Frank Carson, Jack Gammon, Paul Ellingsworth and Jerry Johnson; Centers Phil Young and George Crissinger; and Guards Bill Thrush, Jack Winnestaffer, Tommy Wright, Dave Caton and Bob Epps.

Clyde Dennison Dies In Hospital; Funeral Tuesday

A Columbus fire captain with 30 years' service in the Fire Department died Friday night in Mt. Carmel Hospital after suffering a brain hemorrhage. Capt. Clyde Dennison, 52, 34 N. Warren-av, was admitted to the hospital Dec. 17. He had suffered a brain hemorrhage Dec. 9. Thursday he suffered a more severe hemorrhage and was in an iron lung until the time of his death.

Capt. Dennison was a veteran of World War I and a member of the Apostolic Gospel Church, the American Legion and the Fire Fighters Local No. 67. He entered the Fire Department Feb. 1, 1920, and was given the rank of captain Aug. 23, 1932. For the past 13 years he served at No. 5 Engine House, Thurman-av and S. Fourth-st.

Surviving are his wife, Martha; a son, Henry, Hollywood, Fla; three daughters, Mrs. Herman Kingry, of the home, and Mrs. John Morgan and Mrs. James Seagle, both of Columbus; his father, James Albert Dennison, Columbus; a brother and nine grandchildren.

Services were at 2 p. m. Tuesday in the Apostolic - Gospel Church. Burial was in Green Lawn Cemetery by the Jerry Spears Funeral Home.

Major Ferguson Appears In Show In Nagoya, Japan

Major Robert I. Ferguson, former Hilltop resident, and graduate of West High School, was one of the stars in "Snowflake Follies", presented Dec. 15 in Nagoya Hall, Nagoya, Japan, by headquarters squadron, Fifth Air Force. The audience of nearly 33,000 occupational personnel voted the show a smash hit.

Duets sung by Major Ferguson and Mrs. Mildred Howell, wife of Lt. J. B. Howell, supply officer, Fifth Air Force Radio School, were among the most successful of the thirteen acts presented. Included in their selections were "Make Believe," "White Christmas," and "Why Do I Love You?" Repeated encores voiced the enthusiasm of the music-loving occupationaires.

Major Ferguson is currently assigned to office of Deputy for Materiel, Fifth Air Force Headquarters in Nagoya. The Fifth Air Force, occupation air force of Japan, is the most powerful air arm under Far East Air Forces.

"Snowflake Follies" was written and directed by Master Sergeant Guy L. Steed, Food Service Section, Fifth Air Force Headquarters, an old hand at theatrical productions with background experience in Hollywood and on Broadway. The music was provided by 748th Fifth Air Force Band, under the direction of Chief Warrant Officer Wessel Poenie.

Karl Strauss Burial Monday

Karl Strauss, 43, a machine operator for International Derrick & Equipment Co., died Friday at 2553 Sullivant-av. His home was at 636 S. Warren-av.

Mr. Strauss is survived by his wife, Virginia; son, Curtis, at home; mother, Mrs. Katherine Strauss of Marysville; three sisters, Marie and Mabel, both of Marysville, and Ellena Welch of Sidney, Ohio; two brothers, Clarence of Marysville and Fred of Springfield. Services were at the residence at 1 p. m. Monday with final service at 3 p. m. Monday in Folkness Chapel, Marysville. Burial was at Marysville by Jerry Spears Funeral Home.

Mother, Daughter Knocked Down, Purse Snatched

A Hilltop mother and daughter were knocked down as they left White Cross Hospital, Tuesday night by two purse snatchers who escaped with the mother's purse.

Mrs. Floy B. Harmel, 61, of 269 Nashoba-av, told police the purse contained $45 in cash and an endorsed check for $27. The daughter, Ruth H. Harmel, 34, although knocked "head over heels" said she managed to hold onto her bag.

Miss Harmel said the thieves, described as teen-aged, attacked them at Russell and Park Sts. as they left the hospital after visiting her sister, Miss Madge Harmel, a patient there.

Says:
Women are poor losers, especially when trying to reduce.
WITH THIS YOU CAN'T LOSE!
Maybe it won't be your fault when that accident occurs to YOU. But the responsibility is notoriously hard to place in auto accidents. That's why an insurance policy is so essential. With it you CAN'T lose. Joe Briggs, 2599 Sullivant Ave. RA. 3194.

Resolved:
TO STOP MAKING RESOLUTIONS

We all know the fellow who talks a wonderful game—then gets up to bat and strikes out. New Year's resolutions are something like that—lots of talk, but little performance. That's especially true of resolutions that we Americans don't even think to make—like being full-time citizens.

For instance, election arguments start at the drop of a hat, and the oratory goes on and on. But at the last national election about half of us took our politics out in talk—45 million didn't bother to vote.

And jury duty. As a source of conversation trials are wonderful. We read the newspaper accounts, discuss them at great length—and explode with indignation when the verdict doesn't please. Then comes a call to jury service and too many of us turn out to be the worst kind of duty dodgers. Or take Union—or School—or Stockholders' Meetings—we're willing to enjoy the benefits but haven't time to participate.

Maybe we don't realize what those things mean to us. The right to vote, to serve on juries, to talk up in meetings—those rights are fundamental to freedom. Without them we are no longer free men. We folks of today didn't have to work for those rights—we inherited freedom from our forefathers. But never forget—they won our freedom at a cost of untold sacrifice—in fortunes, homes, and their very lives.

So don't let's risk losing our freedom. Let's get out and vote. Let's take time to join civic organizations—and speak our minds. Let's serve on juries gladly. In short, let's stop just making resolutions—let's get out and work as full-time citizens!

EVERY HOME should have this guide to the Rights and Duties of an American.

Do you know your rights? Do you know the nine keys to good citizenship . . . the how and why of each? You'll find all this useful information and many other interesting facts about your country in this handy little booklet. Send 25¢ to the American Heritage Foundation, 17 East 45th Street, New York City.

Are you a full-time citizen? Check Here!

You're working for Freedom if you can answer "yes" to the questions below.

☐ Do you find out election issues? Attend local political gatherings? Hear both sides? Ask questions? KNOW the issues?

☐ Do you vote intelligently in all elections? No election is unimportant. Vote in all of them . . . according to your conscience.

☐ Do you serve gladly on juries? If you haven't served before you'll be surprised to find how interesting and important it is.

☐ Do you join local civic groups? Help improve your community's schools? Good education promotes Freedom.

☐ Do you vote in union elections and stockholders' meetings? Take part in the decisions that affect your life. Don't let someone else do it!

THE HILLTOP RECORD

The Hilltop, Columbus 4, Ohio, Thursday, December 29, 1949

MISS PEGGY PRATT, 498 S. Powell-av, has been appointed to the teaching staff of the new Hilltop dance studio of Jimmy Rawlins at Broad and Hague.

Miss Pratt has been a dancer and teacher since childhood and is now completing her post-graduate course in the Jimmy Rawlins Teaching Method. She will devote most of her time to ballet, tap and baton for children.

Rawlins is accepting enrollments for the Hilltop location at the downtown school, Spring and High, AD. 1191. Classes will start as soon as the Hilltop Library moves to its new location.

Cheerleaders Picked At Hilliards High

New cheerleaders were chosen recently by the Hilliards High School. Those who passed the tryouts and are now leading cheers at the basketball games are: Aletha Gardner, Karen Meyers, Margie Wagner, Charlotte McNaber, and Dora Jean George.

These cheerleaders will take their place with the three older cherleaders, Joanne Price, Camille Hoover and Jeannie Vagnier.

Household Hint

Spots and stains on thick materials like mattresses, upholstery, pillows, heavy rugs, and sometimes on wallpaper, may be removed by an absorbent material. Cornstarch, white cornmeal, talcum powder or salt can all be used to absorb a moistened stain. Shake absorbent powder gently on the wet spot, then brush off with a soft brush. Repeat procedure until surface moisture has been absorbed. Finally, cover the spot with powder and leave for several hours before brushing off.

The church is not a dormitory for idlers and sleepers, but an institution for workers. It is not a rest camp, but it is a front line trench.

Claire Patterson, William McCrady To Be West Graduation Speakers

By Myron T. Seifert

Four students, class speakers and alternates for commencement exercises to be held at West High School, Jan. 24, at 2:30, were selected today by a faculty committee, consisting of Mary Dugan, Jane Thomas, Evelyn Hall, Thelma Knerr, and Myron T. Seifert.

Top honors were accorded these four by virtue of meritorious speeches written by each student.

Speakers are: Claire Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Patterson, 608 S. Hague-av, and William McCrady, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. McCrady, 178 S. Roys-av.

Alternates selected are: Jim Conley, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Conley, 71 South Westgate-av, and Jean Houston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Houston, 291 N. Ogden-av.

Typical of many in the class, the four students have been active in scholastic and extra curricular activities, throughout high school.

Claire, who is a native of Zanesville, aspired to become a journalist and will enter that college at Ohio State University, come September, 1950.

Her activities at West High follow: Class speaker, Y-Teens, intramural basketball, photoplay, Latin Club, room president, student council, ways and means committee for senior class, lily parade, usher for band variety, Y-Teen banquet, intermediate choir, secretary of intermediate choir, 100 Club, Latin Club banquet, senior banquet, paper drive, Dramatics Club, usher Christmas Cantatas, Homecoming decorating committee, business advertising, business advertising cashier.

It is not strange that William McCrady is class speaker. In his ninth year, he was also class speaker for the Excelsior Society (honorary for West Junior High). Bill is therefore a natural at public speaking.

Aspiring to become an "M.D.", Bill has already begun a career as a diagnostician—not on the human body, but the model T Ford of vintage of 1927 which he drives about the Hilltop. Trumpet player in his own right, Stan Kenton's music is his favorite.

His activities in high school include swimming, city and district champs, track, cross country, Buckeye Boy's State, Hi-Y, Hi-Y secretary, city water chief on Hi-Y Day, band, dance band, Band Variety Shows, Christmas and Memorial Day parades, Circleville Pumpkin show, 6th period performance football skits, Latin Club, Athletic Show, senior entertainment committee.

Alternate speakers, Jeanie Huston and Jim Conley have interesting thumb-nail sketches; Jim contemplates a collegiate career at Otterbein or Ohio State where he may major in the fields of merchandising or political science. Chief diversion now is watching television. Televised wrestling commands much attention at the Conley household. Jim's activities at West are student council, Latin Club, study hall monitor, Baccalaureate usher, paper drive, chairman senior class refreshment committee.

Jeanie plans to work following graduation in January and expects to attend Ohio State in the fall. She has not decided upon her major course yet.

Interested in sports, Jeanie is an avid fan and active in the Girls' Athletic Association at West High.

Her other activities include vice president of intramural sports, baseball class team, cheerleader, basketball tournament, miss senior queen, choir, spring festival, band variety, operetta "Bittersweet—Anne", football concessions, Latin Club, French Club, "L" Society, and National Honor.

NEW YEAR'S EVE SERVICE

Watch Night services were held at Dover Chapel Saturday evening, beginning at 9 o'clock, by the Valleyview Church of Christ in Christian Union, Rev. Talmadge Johnson has announced.

COMMUNION SERVICES SET

Identical candle-light communion services and reception of new members will be held at 7 and 8:30 p. m. Thursday at the Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church, 29 S. Eureka-av.

Starling Jr. High School Notes

HI-Y BASKETBALL

By Ralph Edsell

The Starling Junior Hi-Y basketball team played and lost its second game of the season Monday, December 12. Starling lost to Franklin 30 to 23. The game was played at the YMCA.

STYLE SHOW

By Wilma Headley

The girls in the home economics classes of Junior and Senior High schools will hold a style show in Central High School auditorium Thursday, January 5, at 1:30 p. m. Skirts, blouses, dresses and aprons made in the clothing classes will be modeled. The music for the show will be by the Central High School orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Rockey. The occasion is the meeting of the Franklin County PTA Council. The girls who will model the clothes made by Starling pupils are: Juanita Sells, Jennette Riggs, Thelma Kidwell, Georgia Barnhart, Eleanor Weikert, Virginia Clark and Doris Wilson. These girls are from the seventh and ninth grades.

STARLING REPORTERS

By Bob Evans

these pupils from Miss Kelly's 9B English classes have contributed articles to The Hilltop Record:

SALLY'S SALLIES

"Let's be original and name him after our richest and oldest relative."

Hilliards Class To Present Four One-Act Plays

The Sophomore Class of Hilliards High School will present four one-act plays Jan. 25 to raise money for their class.

The committee for play selections included: Margaret Phillippi, Harry Ball, Dave Warner, Aletha Gardener, Bob Burns, John Elterman, and Margie Wagner.

Plays that were chosen are: a drama, "Bread"; mystery, "Who Murdered Who"; and two comedies, "Bobby Sox" and "Be Home by Midnight."

To avoid criticism: Say nothing; do nothing; be nothing.

Frontier Film Comes to Old Trail

Romance and adventure on the frontier in the '70's are stressed in "She Wore a Yellow Ribbon", Technicolor movie coming Sunday to the Old Trail Theater. Revolving about the dramatic situations of a lonely cavalry post facing a threatened Indian attack, the picture stars John Wayne, Joanne Dru, John Agar, Ben Johnson and Harry Carey, Jr.

Wayne has the chief heroic role. Agar and Carey are seen as rivals for the love of Miss Dru, whose final surrender to Agar is marked by her acceptance of a yellow ribbon, reminiscent of an old ballad.

The co-feature at the Old Trail will be "Red" Hot and Blue," starring Betty Hutton and Victor Mature.

ORPHANS FARTIED

Brownie girl scouts from St. Mary Magdalene School held a party for the children of St. Ann's Orphanage, Saturday, Dec. 17. Twenty-six girls from troops 199 and 201 collected and wrapped over seventy toys. A troop leader dressed as Santa helped the Brownies to distribute the toys, candy and balloons to the children.

Ideas die in some heads because they can't stand solitary confinement.

'Think This Over'

By William "Doc" Campbell

Happy Family — Sophisticated

I know many friendly families; but this one I write about, is of quite a different specie. They don't follow rules of family adherence according to society HOYLE . . . in fact they might be called "DIS-HOYLE". They live in a lovely small house in the suburbs . . . have delightful modern stuff . . but that is merely the materialistic side. The father is hard working, and successful . . . loves good music, a good cigar, and his family. The mother is very wise, human and democratic; sways her brood, almost . . . (I said, almost) at will. There is a daughter . . . three positive lads, one about 21 years, and one small grandchild . . . beautiful and cute. They all argue, talk back . . . etc. . . yet, all in all . . . are DEFINITELY "HAPPY" . . . WHY? Because Dad's and Mother's rope is always ready to lasso the others when necessary, yet, it is so loose that the family is "ENFAMILE" always.

They have several cars, not to be extravagant, but bought knowingly for specific uses . . . daughter's "convertible" . . . eldest son's swank "convertible" (his own) and Dad's "family car." No "putting on the dog" here, but merely necessary conveyances for the carrying out of their respective businesses. They have smart, modern clothes, a beautiful, dependable radio, a wonderful television set, etc. Happy, I'll say! because they are generous to a "T" and cooperative . . . "held together" by something that is not routine or too exact . . . I call it 'sophistication" (which means no highbrow bunk) in fact, no hypocracy—there, that might be styled one manner inside . . another manner outside.

If you are liked by them, you are indeed welcome! Now, is it possible to be happy and not be governed by universal society rules? Well, I have seen so much selfishness in families . . . no one else but "themselves", so self-centered "putting on the dog" (that purile stuff).

The eldest son, for example, of this family is so adaptable that when he speeds in his "convertible" he dresses for it, but at home, it is the custom for this entire family to be informal . . . slacks, sport shirts, etc. even on the women folks. The mother with her hair under a made-up turban . . . so on and so on . . . but let them go out in their respective cars for a formal function . . . then see the "glamour" and "know how" in dress. I respect them for their courage to live the way they desire. It is a joy to be in that family circle . . . it is something to be always welcome in that modern American group.

In and out coming in at most anytime of day . . . going out to shop anytime of day, yet never too hurried to greet you with a happy atmosphere and sincere fellowship. You actually live in that home! Have you one like that? Are your sons and daughters free to live their own lives? Or, are you "possessive" even as to their "freedom of choice" in college going or business future?

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

THE BLINDS were drawn in Kit's bedroom. The thin cord of light that slipped through touched the brightest squares of the quilt that was thrown over the bed. Kit woke up slowly. She traced the line of sun that crept up the yellow wallpaper. She slept a great deal these hot days. After the harsh bout of scarlet fever, she was renewing her strength with endless little catnaps. Soon she would be eleven years old. It seemed to her that she had slept almost the whole summer away.

But as she grew wider and wider awake, she remembered happily that she was to go downstairs for supper. She stretched lazily and then carefully raised her head from the wrinkled linen-covered pillow. She was afraid of making too quick a move lest the bed slip away in the dizzy turning of the room. She raised herself up further—nothing happened. She was safe. She looked at the dusty little zinnias still in a blue bowl on her rosewood desk and then at the painted chairs and table. The big oval braided rug from her old nursery was on the floor though she couldn't see it from the bed. Last spring, with no warning, a letter addressed to her had come from Uncle Proctor, informing her that the furnishings of her old room, together with some boxes of her mother's, were being shipped out to her. She had been as pleased as Marvell had been angered, but he had given in after Nedda had talked him around. Most of the toys were consigned to the Stanewemkis; the furniture, she welcomed happily. She had done without it for so long and now it seemed as if it could never have been anywhere else. But the boxes had been the exciting thing, filled with heavy linens all embroidered in undecipherable letters that were her mother's initials; silver that was lavishly scalloped and chased and incredibly tarnished, and a Dresden tea set, so thin the light shone through the cups when they were empty. Marvell had made it clear that they belonged to Kit. "Your dowry," he said rather bitterly. Gradually, after the first wonder over such riches had passed, they fell into disuse. Most of the things were packed away. Mrs. Crane had pounced on the linen sheets and cases during Kit's illness.

Kit had insisted upon writing Uncle Proctor. "Why thank him for what is yours?" demanded Marvell. "He doesn't give a snap for you."

"Because he remembered," she insisted," and I want to tell him about us—me."

He made her promise she would confine her letter to herself, a silly thing to ask, he admitted, and privately Kit agreed with him. She labored over the note till it was ready to show to him.

"Dear Uncle Proctor:

Thank you for my things. I need a desk now because I am writing plays. We are very happy on the farm which is a big place mostly running down hill. I have a lot to do. Thank you for my Mother's things. They will come in handy.

With love your neice,
Katherine."

Marvell groaned when he had read it. It was so free from any fault except the conversational "we," what could he do but let it go?

"Why do you end it that way?" he asked irritably. "They know who you are. Just say 'Katherine.'"

"I don't think that's polite," she objected. "Anyway, it's all finished."

"Niece is spelled wrong," he was as determined as she.

Kit stared at the offending word. "Is that all?" she asked witheringly. The letter was posted but no reply came back as Kit had hoped it would to prove her father wrong.

• • •

During her long convalescence the writing of plays had been neglected, but Marvell had read her all the Barrie he could lay his hands on. In the cubbyholes of the desk were only Nedda's daily notes on thin gray paper. Nedda had never failed to write her when she had not been able to see her. Some of the toys had helped pass the long stretches, but none were so much fun as Poker, which Marvell had taught her. Nor could any game be as full of surprises as the magic lamp—a feat which Marvell had borrowed from Aladdin. He practiced his art on a small blue glass, brass trimmed oil lamp. It was a childish game she would never have enjoyed in good health but she had to confess it had worked for almost everything she wanted—except a horse and the three-cornered meadow near Nedda's orchard, where she had first discovered the brook. She had seen it so clearly, marked off by crumbling stone walls into a mis-shapen triangle, an oasis in the hot stretches of fever. It would surely sit into the room, she fancied—so brown and green with the uneven silver markings of the water, where wild iris and lady slippers and the almost invisible white violets grew. She must have it, she must! Or at least see it again. Couldn't she wish for just a glimpse of it? Knowing it was impossible, she wished for it all the harder.

Marvell was stumped. "But you can see it, Kit, in your mind."

"But it's not mine that way! I want it mine! I can think of Nedda's house or anything and I don't want that."

The next day Marvell presented Kit with an envelope. She drew out a sheet of heavy white paper, neatly typewritten and decorated with a large red seal. She looked hard at the perforations of the seal and then turned inquiringly to Marvell.

"There's your meadow," he said.

"Mine?" She did not know what the paper meant, but she trusted him not to fool her.

"Recorded for all to see. Yours—outward and inward."

"Read it to me."

"KNOW all men by these presents that I, Marvell Coomes, of Colcord, County of Worcester and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, in consideration of the sum of one dollar and other valuable considerations paid by Katherine Barlow Coomes of said Colcord, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, do hereby give, grant, bargain, sell and convey unto the said Katherine Barlow Coomes a certain lot of land lying in the northeast of said Colcord bounded and described as follows . . ." He stopped, out of breath.

"I haven't paid any dollars"

"The lamp took care of that," he assured her. "First it told me what to do and then paid cash."

She smiled at him in sudden love. She would never give him away.

• • •

There was a bustle outside of her door. Mrs. Crane came up about this time every afternoon to remake the bed. Kit could hear Marvell, too, snorting in little whispers. He was going to carry her downstairs. She blinked like a cat, pretending warily, just to have waked up.

"Do you feel like getting up, dearie? Miss Kit, I mean." Nedda had suggested this formality of address. In Mrs. Crane's mouth, it rhymed with "biscuit." Mrs. Crane's square, plump face under her gray fuzzy bangs always looked warm and worried.

"Of course she does," said Marvell. "Nedda's bringing ice cream over." He was gazing at Kit in what he considered an unconcerned manner, but the little wrinkles around his eyes were deepened by unceasing search for signs and symptoms.

"If I can wear my bhalis tea-gown," said Kit grandly. That was one of Nedda's gifts. Its soft, light wool felt good over Kit's thin arms. It was enchantingly long, sprigged with yellow roses and tied with yellow satin ribbons. Marvell fussed noisily about the room, pulling up the shades while Mrs. Crane helped Kit into the robe. After she had licked her face off with a damp cloth, Mrs. Crane asked her in a piercing whisper when she had last used the pot. Kit, feeling elegant in her trailing gown, ignored the indignity.

As Marvell lifted her expertly in his arms, Mrs. Crane cautioned, "She shouldn't be downstairs more than two hours at most," punctuating her warning with a terrific rattling of the bedslats as she shook out the mattress.

Kit felt something should be said against Mrs. Crane, for her unfortunate reference to the pot. She passed on to Marvell the only information she had as they descended the back stairs. "Mrs. Crane keeps Cutlcura soap in her bureau to give her that smell."

"I thought that was pure unadulterated Mrs. Crane I've been smelling all along."

He laid her down on the sofa facing the windows to the valley. It was so strange that Kit kept perfectly still, little by little reassuring herself that nothing had been changed since she had last been in the room.

When Nedda comes we'll have the ice cream, maybe out on the terrace if she thinks it will be all right for you."

Kit was charmed with everything. All the weeks of hateful inaction and isolation melted away with the lovely feeling of being in her right place again—of the room which folded around her as softly as the first delicious ache of falling asleep.

When later she heard voices, the dark of Marvell's and the lighter ringing tones of Nedda's, she was only half awake.

All interested persons are invited to attend and will be given opportunity to be heard.

Maps showing the proposed zoning amendments are on file in the office of the Franklin County Planning Commission.

FRANKLIN COUNTY RURAL ZONING COMMISSION
George A. Goodfleisch, Sr.
Secretary 1t—12-29

HEARING ON PETITION TO ANNEX ADJACENT TERRITORY IN FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP TO THE VILLAGE OF VALLEYVIEW FILED; HEARING FIXED FOR JANUARY 23, 1950

Mr. Lauderbaugh offered the following resolution and moved the adoption of the same, which was duly seconded by Mr. [illegible]:

BE IT RESOLVED, By the Board of County Commissioners of Franklin County, Ohio, that the petition for the annexation of certain adjacent territory to the Village of Valleyview, Ohio, signed by Margaret Page, et al., being the majority of the freeholders in said territory, to-wit:

Beginning in the original centerline of Hague Avenue and in a westerly projection of the north line of Lot No. 1 of Valleyview Addition as said Valleyview Addition is shown of record in Plat Book [illegible] Page 15, Recorder's Office, Franklin County, Ohio. Said beginning point being also at an angle point in the corporation line of said village; thence easterly with the existing corporation line (which is in a projection of the north line of said Lot No. 1), the north line of Lot No. 1, and the north line of the alley north of Dibble Avenue; to the south line of the P. C. C. & St. L. R. R. Co. right-of-way; thence easterly with said south right-of-way line to a point at which a projection of the west line of Powell Avenue, as said Powell Avenue is shown in Oak Knoll Addition of record in Plat Book 17, Pages 218 & 219, Recorder's Office, Franklin County, Ohio, would intersect said south right-of-way line; thence southerly with a projection of the west line of said Powell Avenue, with the west line of said Powell Avenue, and with a southerly projection of the west line of said Powell Avenue to a point in the south line of Valleyview Drive (width 60.0 feet); thence easterly with the south line of said Valleyview Drive to a point on the projection of the west line of the 10.0 foot alley between Hague Avenue and Powell Avenue as shown of record in said Oak Knoll Addition; thence southerly along the projection of said 20.0 foot alley in Oak Knoll Addition to a point in the south right-of-way line of the C.C.C. & St. L. R. R., said point being also in the corporation line of the City of Columbus; thence easterly with said south right-of-way line and the corporation line of the City of Columbus, to the original centerline of Hague Avenue; thence northerly with said original centerline and with the corporation line of the City of Columbus to the old north right-of-way line of said C. C. C. & St. L. R. R.; thence easterly with said old right-of-way line and the corporation line of the City of Columbus 100.00 feet; thence northerly, parallel to the original centerline of Hague Avenue, 15.00 feet, more or less, to the present corporation line of the Village of Valleyview; thence westerly with the said corporation line of the Village of Valleyview to the original centerline of Hague Avenue; thence northerly with the original centerline of Hague Avenue and the present corporation line of the Village of Valleyview to the place of beginning, together with a map of said territory accompanying said petition, filed with the Board on the 8th day of November, 1949, and presented to the Board at a regular session thereof held this 15th day of November, 1949, be and the same are hereby ordered filed in the office of the County Auditor; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, By the Board of County Commissioners that a hearing upon said petition shall be held in the office of the Board of County Commissioners of Franklin County, Ohio, at the Court House, at ten A. M., eastern standard time, on the 23th day of January, 1950; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Clerk of the Board be and he hereby is directed to notify the agent of the petitioners of the time and place of said hearing.

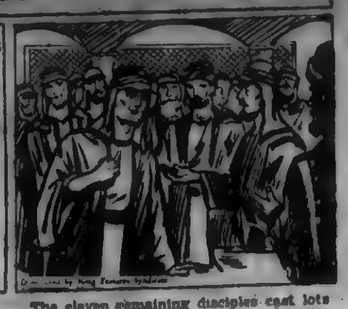
Disciples Carry on Jesus' Work

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Acts 1; 1 Peter 2:9-10.



Forty days after His resurrection, while talking with His disciples, Jesus "was taken up; and a cloud received Him out of their sight."

Jesus told the disciples to stay in Jerusalem until they received the Holy Ghost, then to go preach—"unto the uttermost ends of the earth."

The disciples returned to Jerusalem, where they remained in prayer and supplication with others, including Mary, Jesus' mother, and brothers.

The eleven remaining disciples cast lots to select a twelfth to replace Judas; and the lot fell to Matthias.

MEMORY VERSE—Acts 1:8.

CANTATA GIVEN JAN. 1

The Fidelis Chorus of the First Evangelical United Brethren Church of Circleville will present a Christmas cantata entitled "Chimes of the Holy Night" Sunday, Jan. 1, at 7:30 p. m. at the Avondale Evangelical United Brethren Church, corner Avondale and State-st. Clarence Radcliffe is the director and Pat Nau the accompanist. The public is invited.

County Religion School Starts Monday, Jan. 9

The Franklin County School of Religion sponsored by the Franklin County Council of Churches will be held each Monday night, 7:30 to 9:50, from Jan. 9th through February 13th at First Congregational Church of E. Broad-st.

This school is for all persons who wish to know better the content and application of Christianity to life. Particularly is it for officers and teachers of the Church School and active leaders of the church. Rev. D. S. Mills, pastor of the Avondale Evangelical United Brethren Church will teach the course, "A Faith For Times Like These." This is a study of the Christian Faith against the problems facing men today.

Robbi J. Folkman of Temple Israel will teach the course, "The Background of the Bible." This will be a study of the Old Testament using Hebrew sources. Rev. J. W. Parrish pastor of The Shiloh Baptist Church will conduct the class, "The Rise and Development of The Negro Churches in America." This is a historical study embracing all branches of the Church.

Mr. Robert Cotner, Minister of Music, St. John's Evangelical Church will conduct a "Choral Workshop." This will include techniques of choral singing in actual singing sessions. It is designed for members of volunteer Church choirs. Also seventeen other sources will be offered, taught by competent instructors which will cover the various phases of Church life and all departments of the Church School.

Yochum To Address Church Study Group

Dr. Harold L. Yochum

Dr. Harold L. Yochum, president of Capital University and prominent religious leader, will address the study group of Glenwood Methodist Church Thursday, Jan. 5. Dr. Yochum will talk on his experiences as a delegate to the World Council of Churches, which was held in Amsterdam, Holland, in the late summer of 1948.

The Glenwood Study Group, Mrs. Daniel Joseph, chairman, will begin the book, "We the Peoples of the Ecumenical Church", at the January session. Previous studies in the field of Christian Social Relations, "We the Peoples of the United Nations" and "The Bible and Human Rights" have provided the background for the present study which is pertinent at this time.

Mrs. L. E. Kline will present the first chapter in the text prior to Dr. Yochum's talk on "World Christmas at Amsterdam". The study group meets from 10 a. m. until noon.

A young Indian girl was asked by her high school teacher to write something about Socrates. She wrote: "Socrates was a Greek philosopher who went about giving people good advice. They poisoned him."

Church Deacons Aid Need Families

Among the workers spreading cheer and good will on Christmas Eve were the deacons of the Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church. A labor of love, in which the deacons are engaged throughout the year, is greatly accelerated at Thanksgiving and Christmas. Following a visit and careful study of the needs of various families, baskets of food, clothing and toys are prepared and delivered to them.

Through the year a number of emergency calls are received from many parts of the city. Many families, in temporary emergency, who decline public charity, have been assisted. The names of such persons are known only to the members of the board and never kept on file. Floyd Badgley and Warren Buck were the committee representing the board of deacons this year.

Loew's Ohio

Loew's Ohio for New Year's week, starting Saturday, Dec. 31, is showing the Technicolor musical, "On The Town", with six stars—Gene Kelly, Frank Sinatra, Ann Miller, Vera Ellen, Betty Garrett and Jules Munshin. New York is the backdrop for this gay tale of three sailors on a 24-hour leave. There are midnight shows Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 31, and Jan. 1.

Loew's Broad

Loew's Broad as its two New Year's week attractions starting Saturday, Dec. 31, offers the western adventure, "Ambush", with Robert Taylor, Arlene Dahl and John Hodiak, plus the Technicolor Lassie feature, "Challenge to Lassie," with Donald Crisp, Edmund Gwenn and Reginald Owen. The Broad has midnight shows Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 31 and Jan. 1.

"I wonder if you would be so kind as to weigh this package for me," said the customer in the meat market.

"Why certainly," the butcher agreed. "It weighs exactly 3¼ pounds."

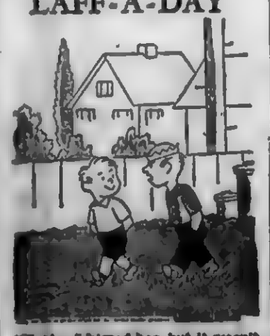
"Thank you," the customer replied, "it contains the bones you sent me in the four-pound roast yesterday."

Hilltop Pastor To Give Video Talk Friday

Rev. A. J. Wold

Rev. A. J. Wold, pastor of Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church, will address the television audience via Rhea McCarty's Open House, 2:30 to 3 p. m. Friday, over station WTVN.

His talk, "Strength for Loving in 1950", will be a discussion of the problems of every-day life and the solutions which Rev. Wold believes practical and effective for application during the coming year.



For six years Rev. Wold conducted a radio program in Chicago, stressing the "Strength for Living" theme. He is the present chaplain of the Ohio House of Representatives and has won wide repute as a speaker.

Roving Photographer

By Bill Gibbon

This week's question: "Why do you live on the Hilltop?" Your ideas for "Roving Photographer" questions will be appreciated.

Ed Peters, Sr., 805 S. Hague-av, state liquor store manager: "My wife, two sons and I like this end of town and have lived out here since 1934. The community is away from most of the factories and it is nice and clean. I like the neighborhood better than any other in the city. We built our home in 1941."

Mrs. Howard Lloyd, 126 N. Eureka-av, housewife: "I've lived on the Hilltop all my life. My grandmother, Mrs. Ruth Randall, built the house we live in, in 1904. I just never thought of living in any other part of town. The folks here are friendly like they are in a small town. It is a fine community in which to raise children."

John Arrington, 2671 Whitehead-rd, die setter: "I've lived on the Hilltop with my in-laws for two years, since I was married. My wife, a long-time Hilltopper, died 16 months ago when my daughter, Linda, was born. I like the community, and my home is close to my work. I work at the General Motors plant."

Mrs. T. S. Fox, 25 S. Brinker-av, housewife: "The 1913 flood caused Dr. Fox and me to move to the Hilltop. We moved here to get out of the flood. The doctor's office was located at Sandusky and W. Broad-st. We were married on the Christmas before the flood, 37 years ago, moved here, and we never want to move away again. We especially like the people. They are so community minded."

The best place to keep the cord of your electric mixer is to coil it in the mixing bowl rather than around the motor.

Words of the Wise

Look to your health; and if you have it, praise God, and value it next to a good conscience; for health is the second blessing that we mortals are capable of; a blessing that money cannot buy. —(Izaak Walton)

The Low Down On High Ridgers

By One of Them

DOROTHY DURBIN has been wanting to discard her coal furnace ever since she moved into Leach's home on Butler. She got her gas conversion in time for Christmas. Santa must not have wanted to get his red suit all sooty.

ELECTRIC WATT dreamt up a New Year's Eve Party while KAY was gone (three weeks ago, you know she went to Galion). When she returned, plans were made to make use of their bar on this gala occasion. She's all for it of course—always is for a good time.

Those bars these neighbors are building are nice. If I had ambition, I'd build one too—all I have are candy BARS — my specialty anyhow.

DAVID AND GAREY of the CRITES AND RIES families, respectively, are handsome little boys. These lads have a chance for winning in the FINALS of the Hilltop photogenic contest.

We wish them luck!

A little long daughter arrived last week. "She's a little long, but we love her," declared her parents. However, they didn't mean in length. Yes, MR. AND MRS. JAMES LONG just had a new little daughter.

A son came into the lives of MR. AND MRS. GLENN JORDON. Congratulations!

"Ooley Drooley" wrote a card to GENNY RUMFIELD last week and made a date with her. Who did it turn out to be?—her husband! Was she disappointed! Sad, wasn't it?

Know what FAIRBANKS got as a Christmas gift? He thought all along his wife acted a little fishy when he questioned her what the present was. The only clue she gave him was that it was real. He thought sure it was a dog and they have two, already. It turned out to be a FISHING rod and REEL. If he'd have put two and two together he'd have guessed it.

Over on Wrexham—I won't say what number—the platter was made clean before the company even sat down for their Christmas dinner. How. The turkey slid off to the floor. It was quickly recovered and no one knew the difference. It probably even tasted better than usual.

ART SCOTT bought a blue Crosley. They like it—but the MISSUS has to be sure SHE sits up in front. One day she got stuck in the back seat with the children and had to call for help in order to get out.

Wreaths and holly are still up. Our mistletoe has wilted from not being used. The only one that stands under it is my wifey and she's worn it out trying to rearrange it to attract attention; and I've blown it to pieces in creating a breeze in dodging her.

Well, the year is about out and Father Time is looking around the corner for that first New Year's babe. Which of the Hi Ridgers is going to have that first baby? I won't have a prize to hand out, but I'll see that your name gets in our column.

How about your New Year's Resolutions? Any one have suggestions? I don't know what I'll decide for myself. Maybe it'd be a good idea to give ALL my pay check to my wife this year. But no—that wouldn't be so hot—I'd never get any allowance for tobacco at all at that rate.

She mixed coffee grounds in my pouch last week. Coffee is so high now, it'd be cheaper to put tobacco in HER percolator. OH IF I WERE SINGLE—HOW MY MONEY WOULD JINGLE!

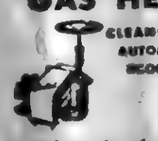
Good thing she doesn't know I write this column. She'd censor everything and write it herself.

Happy New Year!

Some of the world's greatest minds have discoursed on the power of prayer, but we like this summing up that a reader sends: His grandfather and father were plowing their field when a terrible lightning storm broke. Grandfather ran for the farmhouse, looked back and saw his son staring skyward. "Hey," he yelled, "what are you doin'?"

"I'm prayin', Dad."

"Prayin'! A scared prayer ain't worth a damn, son—run!"



It is well to remember that mansions in the sky cannot be built out of mud thrown at others.

Public spirited local merchants, as an expression of goodwill, want you to receive this lovely basket of gifts if you have just moved to the city, become engaged, are a New Mother, have just moved to a new address within the city, or just become Sweet Sixteen. There's nothing to buy. No obligation. Phone your Welcome Wagon Hostess whose phone is listed below and arrange to receive these gifts.

News of Rome

By Mrs. E. C. Sheets

Mr. and Mrs. Russel Hughes, 107 Pasadena-av, announce the marriage of their daughter, LaDonna, in Greenup, Ky., Dec. 10, to Robert G. Fellows, 1012 Oregon-av, Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Lamb, Buena Vista-av, entertained with a family dinner Christmas Day. The guests were Mrs. Grace Lamb (his mother) and his brothers, Don and Joe Lamb. Mr. and Mrs. Loel Lamb (another brother) and children, Gail and Trent, 181 S. Sylvan-av, and the hosts, six sons, Tom, Jim, Bill, Tim, Rex and Tad. Violet Salzgaber of Lane-av was also one of the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Barnecut, Maple-dr, spent Christmas Day in Worthington at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Earl Knisly, Kenbrook-dr.

Mr. and Mrs. George Terry, Maple-dr, entertained with a pot-luck Christmas dinner at their home. The guests were his brother and sisters and family, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Morehart and family, Mt. Sterling, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Williamson, Mrs. Carrie Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Vandermark and family and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Terry, all of London, and the hosts' children, Georgeanne and Dick.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jones and son, Bob, and Mrs. Earl Knisely and son, John, spent Monday evening at the home of Mrs. R. G. Barnecut.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Rose, 84 N. Greiner-rd, entertained her father, Clint McCoy, and brothers, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McCoy and daughter, Karon, of Marysville, and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. McCoy, Columbus, Christmas Day with a family dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Stormont and family, Pasadena-av, visited Christmas afternoon with his mother, Mrs. A. L. Stormont, Ashville, and later in the day went to Richwood, O., to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Griffiths.

Mrs. Arthur Mossman, Dayton, spent several days at the home of her sister, Mrs. Oscar Baker, Pasadena-av, having come to attend the installation services, when Mrs. Baker was made worthy matron.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Adams and daughter, Janet Sue, Kenbrook-dr, Worthington, visited Monday with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. O'Hara, W. Broad-st.

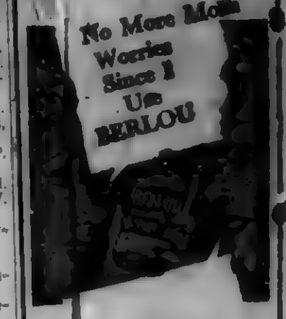
All the children of the J. L. Coulter family, Pasadena-av, visited their parents Christmas Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Degen, Pittsburgh, Pa., is visiting their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Coulter, and daughter, in Grove City. They also visited the Coulters Sunday afternoon.

Although more than 90 years of age, Mrs. Elizabeth McCoy was hostess to a pot-luck Christmas dinner. Her five children, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Howell and family, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Marlow and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mayhew and Mr. and Mrs. Bill McCoy. There were several of the second and third generation as well as several other guests in the party.

Mr. and Mrs. James Whalen, Buena Vista, entertained Tuesday evening, the guests being Jodie Jenkins, Mrs. Chester Lower, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hausefeld and daughter.

We are glad to welcome to our community, with best wishes in their new homes, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Steele and daughter, Connie, 156 Lennox-av. Mr. Steele is connected with the Ward Baking Co. Mr. and Mrs. Warren Mills, 94 Lennox-av, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Corder, 100 Buena Vista-av. Mr. Corder is with the Red Star Yeast Co. Mr. and Mrs. John Davis, 96 Buena Vista-av, and Mr. and Mrs. John Cross, 94 Buena Vista-av.



The Ruth Circle of Columbia Heights Church held its annual Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Hugh Cox, Buena Vista-av. The gift exchange from Silent Sisters was taken care of and afforded much surprise as to who has been our "who is who" for the past year. A new Silent Sister drawing took place at this meeting. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and her daughter, Patti Cox.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Werner and family spent Christmas season in Peoria, Ill., with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Courtwright.

Looking Ahead Into The Year With The HBA

From this corner it looks like this year will present the greatest opportunity yet for service from the Hilltop Business Association.

The background and reputation of this group and the growth it has attained through competent leadership this past year and in years gone by, along with programs that have been introduced and are being processed, set the stage for a very active and successful year.

We are looking forward to a maintained interest by the new president, Ed Witherspoon, and we feel there is a real challenge before him.

This organization that has grown to nearly 175 strong is now ready for a full time paid secretary with offices in the community. Numerous new and needed services can be provided for the membership with such a facility.

This is the year that something should be done to provide round-the-Hilltop transportation for all the folks of the community so they may avail themselves of the fine services offered by both Sullivant Avenue and Broad Street business firms.

With the constant growth of the Hilltop it is fitting that a service should be provided to acquaint newcomers with our fine community. This could easily be another service of the HBA.

Looking to the school needs of the Hilltop in the future, it appears that we should no longer postpone the demand for more and better buildings here for our children in school.

Numerous other civic activities can bring much in return to the community if the organization is properly geared for a big year.

Congratulations, Ed, and may this be the year!

New Building Will Be Fine Addition

Congratulations are in order to Don Smith, local attorney, on the announcement this week that the Hilltop is to have a three story office building at Broad and Harris. This should prove a fine addition to an already growing business section and he deserves many words of thanks from a grateful community.

After New Year's Notes: Jeanne Work spent Christmas week-end in Kentucky, with a very close friend, shall we say? . . . Charley Kent says he never knew there were so many youngsters on the West Side until he started passing out oranges down there . . . Dr. Fred Marsch is enjoying his three year-old son's Christmas train no end . . . Bill Bunner recently underwent an operation . . . Esther Weakley and Margaret Maxwell are two people who never fail to express appreciation for even the smallest kindnesses. People like them make days a lot brighter . . . The Don Smiths will take a Bermuda cruise in the near future . . . Fred Warden was the recipient last week of a special plaque for his services in editing the Hilltop Kiwanis bulletin . . . Eddie Egan was a recent winner of a Bermuda trip from his firm . . . Jim Cooper, plant engineer at Fisher-Ternstedt plant, is a new Kiwanian . . . 303 ties and two mufflers were given by Hilltop Kiwanis to the local state institutions before Christmas, cleaning being done by Story Cleaners at Ewald and Son . . . Lt. and Mrs. Richard Smith are stationed at Ft. Meade, Md. . . . One of our storages says when you have to tighten your belt a notch it is a recession; when you have no belt to tighten it is a depression and when you have no pants on which to tighten a belt, it is a panic . . . Mrs. C. R. Jones Dies In Hospital

Mrs. Anna Lena Jones, 70, of 86 Derrer-rd, died Wednesday in White Cross Hospital after six days' illness.

A native of Sweden, she spent 68 years of her life in this country, 38 years of which she resided in Columbus.

She was a member of the Grand Central Rebekah Lodge 699, and was a past president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of No. Four, P. M.

Surviving are her husband, Charles R. Jones, an engineer at White Cross Hospital; a son, Arthur Brandon, St. Louis, Mo.; a brother and three grandchildren.

Friends may call at the Feil Funral Home. Funeral services will be held there at 3 p. m. Friday, with Dr. William Bashford Richards, superintendent of White Cross Hospital, officiating. The Rebekah Lodge will hold services at 8 p. m. Friday at the funeral home. Burial will be in Sunset Cemetery Saturday morning.

Heads Jamboree

Vernon D. Sanford

At a recent meeting of the local Council Executive Board, Vernon D. Sanford, Southwest District Leadership Training Chairman of the Boy Scouts of America was appointed District Jamboree Chairman. The Second National Jamboree will take place at Valley Forge State Park, Pa. from June 30-July 6. More than 40,000 scouts and leaders are expected to take part in what will be considered the biggest scouting activity in the past 11 years. The Jamboree will take place during the 40th Anniversary Crusade of the Boy Scouts of America.

District troops and Explorer units are reminded that the quota will be one scout from each unit and that all reservations must be made on the official jamboree application and submitted to the local council by March 1.

To Speak At HBA Meet

HAROLD K. SCHELLENGER

New officers of the Hilltop Business Association will be installed on Tuesday, Jan. 10, at the Westgate Methodist Church, according to C. H. Campbell, secretary. Harold K. Schellenger will be the principal speaker of the meeting.

The 1950 officers, Ed Witherspoon, president; John Nippert, first vice president; Dr. Palmer Cordray, second vice president; and Elmer Hegenberger, treasurer, will be sworn into office by Judge Cecil Randall.

Schellenger is on leave from the Byer & Bowman Advertising Agency this year to serve as director of the Ohio Voters, a statewide organization working toward a greater participation in politics of business and professional people.

The topic of Schellenger's address to HBA members is, "Making Tomorrow's Customers Today's". A former newspaper editor and native of Jackson, O., Schellenger was on the public relations staff at Ohio State University for 15 years. He graduated from OSU in 1924.

He has been director of the department of public relations at Byer & Bowman since April, 1947.

Other officers to be installed at the January meeting are Sam Alford, Joe Briggs, and Dr. R. J. Miller. They are members of the association's board of trustees.

HILLTOP WOMAN INJURED

Dorothy Roettger, 20, 131 Nashoba-av, and three friends were struck by an auto last Monday evening while crossing N. High-st, to attend a movie at the State Theater. They were taken to University Hospital and released Tuesday. Dorothy is still in a semi-conscious state in bed at her home. She suffered severe bruises. The others' injuries were minor. She is being attended by Dr. Duane Burnard, 2528 W. Broad-st.

'Undecided' On Razing Weber Home

The district office of the Socony Vacuum Oil Co., Inc., this week stated that it was still undecided when it would resume work on the service station the company planned to construct on the southwest corner of Burgess-av and W. Broad-st.

At present, the wreck of the old Weber home stands there. For more than two years after the occupants had moved from the residence, the Hilltop Teen-Canteen, and the Hilltop YMCA had used the premises for a recreation center. The "Y" vacated the building in October.

Gasoline tanks and cement pavement were built on the property two years ago, but work was never completed on the project.

First Federal Assets Over 14 Million

The annual statement issued this week by the First Federal Savings and Loan Association shows total assets of $14,341,496.13 at the close of business in 1949.

The association was formed on the Hilltop 28 years ago and was formerly known as the Hilltop Building and Loan Association. The Hilltop branch of the First Federal is at 2389 W. Broad-st.

In a year-end statement, company officials said that each account with the association is insured up to $5,000. Reserves and surplus of the organization total more than $1,100,000, and holdings in cash and government bonds come to more than two and three-quarter million dollars.

Officers and directors of the First Federal are W. C. Bidgood, president; E. H. Stauch, vice-president; Dr. T. R. Fletcher, treasurer; H. G. Deems, secretary; Paul J. Solomon, cashier; Morris Hopper, general counsel; Dr. T. S. Fox, C. W. Walton, Dr. G. B. Nessley, Cecil J. Randall and Dr. H. Whitehead.

Three Hilltoppers Play In Band At Rose Bowl

Three Hilltop members of the Ohio State University band are expected back in Columbus Thursday after playing in the Rose Bowl in California.

Jimmy Hill, Johnny Glass and Allen Williams all took part in the band show that entertained people clear across the continent and thrilled some of the game spectators nearly as much as the game itself.

Hill is a freshman at the university. He was formerly a drum major at West High School and now has his own orchestra. Glass, a sophomore, was drum major at West for two years preceding Hill. He is a sophomore at State, and would like to take over the drum major position there some day.

Hill lives at 68 Powhatan-av; Glass lives at 593 Wiltshire-rd; and Williams lives at [illegible] Dearden-av.

New '50 Dodge Attention Getter

The new 1950 Dodge that came out yesterday is already drawing wide public attention according to Ed Planck of West Side Motors, 1350 W. Broad-st.

Features of the new Dodge include a wide landscape windshield, more head and leg room, "knee level" seats, and [illegible] drive. No shift Gyro-Matic will come optional on the Coronet model.

Planck said that the public is invited to come in and see the new Dodge in the show room of West Side Motors.

Georgiton Leaves Broad-Eureka Site

George Georgiton, proprietor of Georgiton's Candy and Cream Stores, said today he has closed his store at W. Broad-st and Eureka-av in order to give his full attention to the store at W. Broad-st and Hague-av.

Georgiton's store specializes in home made ice cream and candies. Georgiton added that he wished to thank former customers of the Broad-Eureka store for their patronage.

Hilltop 'Y' Budget For '50 Is $10,000

The Hilltop YMCA received a $2500 increase in its 1950 operating budget from the Community Chest, Averille M. Thorn, local "Y" secretary announced today. The total fund for this year's operating expenses is $10,000.

The increase over the 1949 figure was granted by the Community Chest because the branch "Y" has added one full-time worker, and one part-time employe to its staff, according to Thorne. Both are trained workers in the social and recreation field.

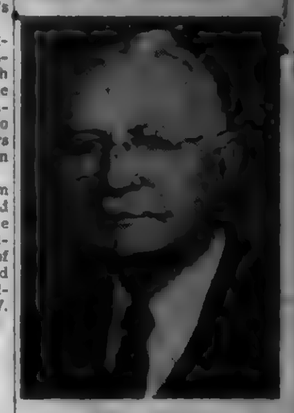
A more extensive program planned for 1950 also justified the increase in the budget. The local "Y" is still without a building in which to conduct much of its activities. Its office is located in the Claggett real estate building, at N. Ogden-av and W. Broad-st.

Dr. C. O. Miller Celebrates 25th Anniversary Here

Dr. C. O. Miller

Jan. 10 will mark a milestone of 25 years of professional service to Hilltop residents by Dr. C. O. Miller, optometrist, of 2484 W. Broad-st. Dr. Miller, in observing the anniversary of his start in professional circles in this community commented: "Twenty-five years in one location is a long time. When I first opened my offices they were but a one room affair on the second floor of this building. Today it is really quite different with ground floor offices and the latest available optometric equipment at my command."

During the 25-year period Dr. Miller's case record numbers are now approaching the ten thousand mark. His services have not been totally confined to the Hilltop since many former residents have moved to other cities and states and still return here for his services in aiding their vision.



Aside from his professional activities Dr. Miller is highly interested in the Hillcrest Baptist Church work. In the Kiwanis he is a member of the church committee and is active with the Boy Scout Troop 181 of which he is committee chairman. As a participant in the Hilltop Minstrels he has been in all 20 shows. He was the first secretary of the Hilltop Business Association and at present holds membership in the American Optometric Association and the Optometric extension program.

Dr. and Mrs. Miller, who has been his assistant over the long period of years, plan no special observance of the anniversary.

Albert Mechem Dies In Athens

Albert Mechem

Albert Mechem, 94, owner of the Mechem Shoe Co., 2469 W. Broad-st, died last Friday night in Athens. He was buried Monday in Green Lawn Cemetery, Nelsonville.

Until 1942 Mechem managed the Hilltop Shoe Store which he has owned for 14 years. He bought the store, which has been located here for 22 years, from his two sons. For several years, after leaving the Hilltop, Mehcem worked in his son's shoe store in Athens. Three years ago he broke a hip, and was required to retire.

One son, Stanley, has been a member of the Ohio Legislature from Nelsonville for several years. Stanley owns shoe stores in Nelsonville and Athens. His other son, Walter, operates a dry goods store in Nelsonville.

While a resident of the Hilltop, Mechem lived on S. Westgate-av. He is also survived by a granddaughter and a grandson, both of Nelsonville.

Zail H. Kemp, 230 S. Westgate-av, who has been associated with the Hilltop store for 22 years, since it opened, has managed the store since 1942.

Cause of Crime In Home Says Prison Chaplain

The chief causes of crime are in the home and the best way to prevent crime is to have a happy family group in which obedience to authority is taught, Rev. Valerian Lucier, O.P., told the Holy Name Society of St. Aloysius Church Wednesday evening.

Father Lucier is Catholic chaplain at the Ohio State Penitentiary. He talked to the group on [illegible] conditions [illegible] encouraging [illegible]

Bruce Savage, [illegible] of 329 S. Yale-av, was discharged to his home following treatment at the hospital. His hip had been injured about a year ago when the bicycle he was riding was struck by a truck.

West High Girl Enters TB Society Editorial Contest

West High School is represented this year in the annual school press project conducted throughout Franklin County by the Columbus Tuberculosis Society in conjunction with the National Tuberculosis Association.

Twelve Franklin County schools have submitted entries to the contest through their newspapers. The project is aimed at educating young people about the prevention and cure of tuberculosis.

Representing West High is Charlene Bowers who is competing in the editorial class. The last time that West High entered the contest, in 1947, first prize in the feature story class was taken by Virginia Casey of West.

Prizes are $15, $10 and $5 in each of three classes—editorial, feature, and cartoon. Winning entries will go to the Ohio Tuberculosis and Health Association for state judging and [illegible] in this contest will compete [illegible] national honors through the National Tuberculosis Association.

Franklin County judges are Dr. James E. Pollard, dean of the school of journalism, Ohio State University; Katherine Sullivan, local newspaper woman, and Dr. Arnold B. Kurlander, Chief of the Division of Tuberculosis, Ohio Department of Health.

John Burroughs PTA Executives Meet; Plan Cub Scout Night

The executive board of the John Burroughs PTA will meet Friday, Jan. 6, at 1:30 p. m.

The regular monthly meeting of the PTA will be held Tuesday, Jan. 10, at 8 p. m. in the school auditorium.

Cub Scout night is being observed with Joe Goodwin leading the topic "Making Use of Your Spare Time." Special features will be presented by Cub Packs 43 and 86 which are sponsored by the school. Hostesses for the evening are Mrs. Leo Chesser, Mrs. Harry Keller, Mrs. Warren Leeka, Mrs. Russell Martin, Mrs. Thomas Bryant and Mrs. William Doersam.

The PTA will show a movie for the children of the school on Wednesday, Jan. 11, at 12:40 p. m.

'Success for Children' Topic at PTA Meeting

West Junior-Senior High PTA study group will meet Wednesday, Jan. 11, at 1:30 p. m. in the school apartment.

Miss Kern, vice-principal, will give the invocation. William Gulden, Arlington High principal and West High parent, will discuss the topic, "What Kind of Success For Our Children?" Tea will follow with Mrs. L. H. Fyffe as chairman, assisted by Mrs. Upperman, Mrs. Karl Meister, and Mrs. William Miller.

Since there is no general PTA meeting at the school this month, all mothers are urged to attend this meeting.

VISION

Dr. C. O. Miller

On the occasion of this 25th anniversary of caring for the vision needs of this Hilltop Community—I wish it were possible to personally visit and say "Thank You" to the thousands whom we have served in these past 25 years at this same location.

It is heartwarming to realize that in this 25-year period there have been so many—who by their return visits and the visits of their children and friends—have shown faith in me as their optometrist and guardian of their vision. Again, "Thank You"—Patients, Friends and Neighbors."

...n Ohio minister on a westbound bath was reading his Bible when a man leaned over the back of the seat and said, "I don't believe a word in that book."

The minister ignored the remark. Soon it was repeated in a much louder voice: "I don't believe a word in that book."

Losing his patience, the minister turned and looked directly at his interrupter. "My good man," he said, "would you mind going to hell quietly?"

The carpet in front of the mirrors of some people is worn threadbare, while that at the side of their bed, where they should kneel to pray, is as good as the day they put it down.

Many West Seniors Plan Careers As Doctors, Nurses

By Myron J. Seifert

West High School numbers among its alumni a legion of doctors and nurses, who are serving the Hilltop and other communities in a creditable manner.

In a poll, conducted at West High in Zoology Instructor E. C. Reed's class last week a great number of students indicated that they contemplate careers in medicine and nursing.

Asked why they hoped to follow these vocations the students made many responses:

JEAN NELSON, because "there could be no greater reward than seeing one get well because of the care you've given them; JO-ANN BERGMAN, "I have always had respect for the medical world, and have always wanted to be a nurse, and to help people who are in need of medical attention;" SHARON CLARKIN, I did not decide to be a nurse until I had experience working in the hospital. This gave me an interest in medicine;" MARY-LOU LEACH, "I have always wanted to be a nurse, and my experience working in the hospital has given me great respect for that profession;"

WALTER GIBSON, "Medicine is an honorable profession and the members of it have done much to ease the pains and increase the happiness and health of the world. I want to do my part, add my bit to the betterment of society; BOB WILSON, "because my kids will need a better father and there is money in it;" TOM MYERS, because I feel that I can benefit humanity by devoting my life to the sick and suffering;" DAVE CATON, "I believe I would be a credit to the world of medicine, also I need the money;"

LOIS JENNINGS, "because there is nothing more rewarding than to have the feeling of being able to help someone who needs you;" DICK BRENNER, "I would like to be a doctor to diagnose disease and give the least medicine possible;" JACK GAMMON, "Medicine in an interesting and diversified profession. This work has appealed to me because of this and a sincere interest in helping others;" MYRTLE SOWERS, "I would like to be a nurse because it helps to get along with people and I'll get to know them better;"

PHYLLIS PLANK, "It is not definite that I'm going to be a nurse but I think it would be wonderful workinig with people whom you know will need and appreciate your work. If I do become a nurse I know that it will help me later in life;" DOT STARKEY, "My profession isn't decided but if it is nursing, it will be because nursing is and always will be a necessary occupation for women;" RUTH OGLE, "I have not decided whether I shall take nursing or not, but I think it would be a wonderful profession;" JO FRESHCORN, "I hope to be a nurse because there will always be illness which must have attention. Not only would you be helping the sick but you would also be helping yourself. Everyone should at least know a little about medicine;"

MARY BEESON, "I plan to enter a nursing career. Such a career will enable me to support myself and will lay a foundation for marriage;" SHIRLEY MIELKE, "I want to become a nurse because nursing is an uncrowded field. Also a nurse can better care for her family and is always assured of a job;" MARILYN MATHEWS, "I've always wanted to enter some branch of the medical world. At first it had been nursing but now I've changed my career to being a physical therapist. I believe that working in this field I will have a good sound basis for a happy marriage."

Other students who want medical careers but failed to state reasons for their choice of occupation are: Earl [illegible], Gene Morris, Rodger Hixon, Tom Wright, Bill Paul, [illegible] Henkel, Gene Rigsby, Donna Dietz.

CAN DO
Be Your Own Linoleum Laying Expert!

MAYBE you've had a yen for a long time to put new linoleum on those kitchen counters whose tops have became cracked and warped with time.

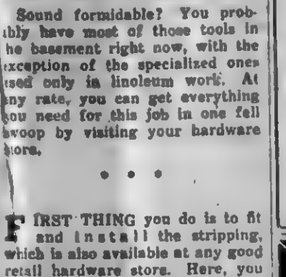
Or maybe you're building brand new kitchen counters, work space or shelves and are thinking about covering them with linoleum.

Well, you can do it, and make a good job of it, too.

First and foremost, you must have the proper tools. Here's what you need:

A carpenter's dividers for outside scribing of contours, an underscriber for marking inside contours, a linoleum knife and a paste-spreader. And the paste, naturally. In addition, you should have on hand a hammer, screwdriver, nail set, pocket knife, pliers, combination square, hacksaw, marking pencil, file, steel measuring tape, tin snips, carpenter's square and putty knife.

Sound formidable? You probably have most of those tools in the basement right now, with the exception of the specialized ones used only in linoleum work. At any rate, you can get everything you need for this job in one fell swoop by visiting your hardware store.



• • •

FIRST THING you do is to fit and install the stripping, which is also available at any good retail hardware store. Here, you will need the combination square and tin snips to bend the trim strips to right angles to go around outside corners. Basically, the procedure is to cut out a perfect 90-degree triangle from the nailing portion and the top trim in order to allow a right-angle bend without overlapping. On an inside corner, only a single snip is needed. Make it in the nailing portion only, leaving the rounded trim uncut for bending.

When the trim is in place, scribe the linoleum with the dividers or underscriber, whichever is needed for a particular contour, and cut it for an exact fit with the linoleum knife. This knife is a specialized tool, designed with a curved blade, sharpened only at the point, and a thick handle. Using it, you combine a maximum of pressure with a maximum of accuracy.

With trim strips installed and the linoleum cut, lay the linoleum aside and spread paste over the surface to be covered. Although professionals use waterproof cement on a two-inch strip around the sink and ordinary paste elsewhere, you will find it little more expensive to use waterproof paste exclusively.

When you finally lay the linoleum on the surface to paste it down, make absolutely sure that you get all the air bubbles out.

Many experts say that sandbagging is essential in order to hold the linoleum until the adhesive has set, usually overnight. But to be good and certain, you'd better use sandbags.

When a speaker has nothing to say it generally takes him a long time to say it.

Juniors Try For 1st Win Over Barrett

By Dave Miller

West Junior High's cage five will resume their City Junior High League play tomorrow afternoon when they battle an always tough Barrett five on the West court.

As far as records can reveal in the junior high loop, West Junior has never defeated Barrett. That's quite a statement, but the local juniors will be out with all they have tomorrow afternoon to see what they can do about it.

For the first time in a couple of seasons, the local junior high five has practiced over the holidays. Coach Red Lehman of the locals has been putting his forces through some rugged scrimmages with some tough five to get his team in razor sharpness for the big fray Friday afternoon.

Lehman has said that the one thing he hopes to do before retiring from the coaching ranks is defeat Barrett. That wish may come true tomorrow afternoon. The local coach has been putting his team through games with three County League reserve teams, and one city League reserve team.

His team has more than doubled the score on each team from the county league, including Hilliards, Gahanna Lincoln, and Groveport. The juniors scrimmaged with Central's reserves Wednesday.

Both Barrett and West are undefeated in two previous league clashes. Barrett has defeated Roosevelt and Crestview while West has taken wins over Indianola and Everett.

The probable starters:

West	Pos.	Barrett
Bob Thornton	F	Jim James
Roger Meyer	F	Don Mouser
Jerry Trabue	C	J. Scurlock
Bill Haire	G	Jim Wirtz
Dick Hutchison	G	Jim Smith

West Reopens City League Play At North Friday Night

By Dave Miller

West High's basketballers reopen their 1949-50 City League season Friday evening when they visit North High to battle an always dangerous Polar Bear quintet.

Both teams enter the fray with a won-three, lost-four mark and the match, not only by comparison of scores but by comparison of opponents, between our Cowboys and North will probably turn into a free-scoring thriller-diller ball game.

The Cowboys will be out to avenge a 44-42 defeat by practically the same North five at North last season in the second round. The Cowboys defeated North, 56-40, in the first round match.

Practically the same two teams that met in the second round at North last year will engage in the fray tomorrow. The only player West will have absent will be Dick Culbertson, a guard. North will employ all but Forward Paul Jones and Center Dick Hyatt, who, like Culbertson, graduated in June. The loss of Hyatt will hinder North considerably, and with West's high-scoring center, Phil Young, in the fray, the center spot may spell the difference.

The Cowboys, in their contests to date, have defeated Bexley, 52-41; Aquinas, 60-50; and Bellefontaine, 55-50; While losing to Newark, 50-47; Grandview, 52-50 (overtime); Fostoria, 61-37, and Chillicothe, 56-46.

North has defeated Lancaster, 59-46; Upper Arlington, 57-45; and St. Charles, 50-36; while dropping out to Dayton Roosevelt, 48-46; Grandview, 47-44; and Marysville, 50-49.

Young tops the Cowboys in scoring to date with 114 points, being second best in the Greater Columbus area, ack Zack Willson, pivotman of the Polar Bears, tops North with 80 markers. Other probable starters for North with points in parenthesis: Charlie Zepp (69) and Bob Blanchard (70) at the forwards, and Dick Gardell (29) and Joe Bourne (15) at the guards. Tommy Thomas (25), who injured an ankle in the Dayton game, and hasn't played since, may see action in the West fray.

West Junior High Senior Class Speakers Chosen

By Myron T. Seifert

Two West Junior High seniors will be class speakers at the Junior High commencement exercises to be held in the school auditorium Wednesday, Jan. 25, at 2:30 p. m., I. F. Young, principal, said this week.

Sonja Albery, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Albery, 2634 Elliott-av, and Ron Grant, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Grant, 476 S. Harris-av, by virtue of their meritorious speeches in competition with other 9A students, will hold top spots on the commencement agenda.

Sonja will use as her rhetorical talk the topic, "Stepping Stones", while Ron will exhort his listeners to the theme of "Drift or Row".

Both are honor students at the Hilltop school, and have been active in many school activities.

The parents of both are graduates of West High, so traditionally the speakers will have the spirit of their alma mater when they appear at commencement rites.

Planning a business career is paramount in Sonja's mind; and projecting into the future, Ron hopes to follow the avocation of an engineer.

Sonja, during her junior days, has been in the school's Band Variety Show and a member of student council and the office monitor group. Ron has been interested in all school sports.

Perfume bottles, including many from foreign countries, are found in Sonja's collection, and Ron devotes much of his leisure to acquiring and exhibiting rare stamps.

Sonja and Ron, members of the Glenwood Methodist and Burgess EUB Churches, respectively, are active in fellowship circles there.

Fozzy's Nursery To Move In Feb.

Fozzy's tree nursery, now located at 3230 W. Broad-st, will move in February to 1040 Georgesville-rd, according to H. E. Fosaugh, Jr., owner.

Fosaugh said he had polled 200 of his customers to learn their opinions on the convenience of the new location—70% liked the new position; 30% were doubtful. The new place is located one mile south of the GM plant.

Rumor has it that a medical building will be built this Spring where Fozzy's now stands.

Fozzy's has been in business in his present location for 13 years.

SAY DEATH IS TIME

You can say death's no more than these events:
The postman comes [illegible]
The milk man pas[illegible] eighteen cents,
The bottles paid fo[illegible] boys
By on their bikes, [illegible]
Hurled [illegible]
(Tell [illegible]
No [illegible]
You [illegible]
W[illegible]
T[illegible]
A n[illegible]
The [illegible]
Wit[illegible]
Raymond Kresensky.

BUT DEATH COULD BE THIS:

[illegible] waiting in a half-plowed [illegible]
[illegible] requiem, chanted by the [illegible];
[illegible] lying in a vase of blue;
A [illegible] bed that's emptied [illegible], of pain.
And death could be this: a pass[illegible] garland
On [illegible] worn book, by shaking [illegible] and now still;
A [illegible] that hangs upon a broken [illegible]ge;
A [illegible]ndering lane, lost some[illegible]here on a hill.—S.V.

MAIL ORDER CATALOGUE

Looks evenings when her boys [illegible]ith chores are done,
She rests while they pour green wood on slow fires.
Turns a hundred pages, one [illegible] one;
Her wishing book, they laugh; she never tires
Of wandering in the dreams she finds in lovely picture faces,
Cascades of willow satin, patterned Venise laces.

Now the book is gray, its pages worn,
So often has she held it on her knee,
Dividing bits of beauty, hunger-born
From longing and unlovely years.
Yet eagerly
She unties bulky bundles when the mailman calls,
Leaving heavy duty boots, and rip-proof overalls.

Jean Comeans Long, in The Columbus Dispatch.

Household Hint

Your finest linens will have a smoother finished texture if they are damp-dried instead of dried out completely. They will be easier to iron, too.

HEARING ON PETITION TO ANNEX ADJACENT TERRITORY IN FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP TO THE VILLAGE OF VALLEYVIEW FILED; HEARING FIXED FOR JANUARY 20, 1950

Mr. Lauderbaugh offered the following resolution and moved the adoption of the same which was duly seconded by Mr. McCoy:

BE IT RESOLVED, By the Board of County Commissioners of Franklin County, Ohio, that the petition for the annexation of certain adjacent territory to the Village of Valleyview, Ohio, signed by Margaret Parkey, et. al., being the majority of the freeholders in said territory, to-wit:

Beginning in the original centerline of Hague Avenue and in a westerly projection of the north line of Lot No. 1 Valleyview Addition as said Valleyview Addition is shown of record in Plat Book 15, Page 15, Recorder's Office, Franklin County, Ohio. Said beginning point being also at an angle point in the existing corporation line of said village; thence easterly with the existing corporation line (which is in a projection of the north line of said Lot No. 1), the north line of Lot No. 1, and the north line of the alley north of Dibble Avenue; to the south line of the P. C. C. & St. L. R. R. Co. right-of-way; thence westerly with said south right-of-way line to a point at which a projection of the west line of Powell Avenue, as said Powell Avenue is shown in Oak Knoll Addition of record in Plat Book 17, Pages 218 & 219, Recorder's Office, Franklin County, Ohio, would intersect said south right-of-way line; thence southerly with a projection of the west line of said Powell Avenue, with the west line of said Powell Avenue, and with a southerly projection of the west line of said Powell Avenue to a point in the south line of Valleyview Drive (with 60.0 feet); thence easterly with the south line of said Valleyview Drive to a point on the projection of the west line of the 16.0 foot alley between Manse Avenue and Powell Avenue as shown of record in said Oak Knoll Addition; thence southerly along the projection of said 16.0 foot alley in Oak Knoll Addition to a point in the south right-of-way line of the C.C.C. & St. L. R. R., said point being also in the corporation line of the City of Columbus; thence easterly with said south right-of-way line and the corporation line of the City of Columbus, to the original centerline of Hague Avenue; thence northerly with said original centerline and with the corporation line of the City of Columbus to the old north right-of-way line of said C. C. C. & St. L. R. R.; thence easterly with said old right-of-way line and the corporation line of the City of Columbus 160.00 feet; thence northerly, parallel to the original centerline of Hague Avenue, 15.00 feet, more or less, to the present corporation line of the Village of Valleyview; thence westerly with the said corporation line of the Village of Valleyview to the original centerline of Hague Avenue; thence northerly with the original centerline of Hague Avenue and the present corporation line of the Village of Valleyview to the place of beginning, together with a map of said territory accompanying said petition, filed with the Board on the 8th day of November, 1949, and presented to the Board at a regular session thereof held this 15th day of November, 1949, be and the same are hereby ordered filed in the office of the County Auditor; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, By the Board of County Commissioners that a hearing upon said petition shall be held at the office of the Board of County Commissioners of Franklin County, Ohio, at the Court House, at ten A. M., eastern standard time, on the 20th day of January, 1950; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Clerk of the Board be and he hereby is directed to notify the agent of the petitioners of the time and place of said hearing.

Voting Aye thereon: Harry T. Vicor, C. P. Lauderbaugh and Nathan A. McCoy, Jr.

OPERATION HELICOPTER

Marine Corps Uses "Eggbeaters" In New Assault Landing Tactics

SKY FULL OF 'SKEETERS—A flight of Marine [illegible].

By HENRY C. NICHOLAS
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The United States Marine Corps, the oldest military branch of the nation, is perfecting the newest and most revolutionary tactics for landings on enemy shores in the event of another war—assault by helicopter.

Throughout the history of warfare, each conflict in succession has seen the appearance of a new military weapon. Very often the conflict ended before these new weapons were fully developed and exploited.

In the Civil war, for example, there appeared the first ironclad warships, the Monitor and Merrimac. It was not until years later that wooden ships disappeared and were replaced by our modern warships.

The tank was conceived in World War I but it was not until World War II that tanks were perfected and used in great masses. The airplane is a similar example.

World War II was no exception. Many new weapons made their appearance and the military has been experimenting with them to determine the extent to which they can be used in any future conflict. One such weapon was the relatively undeveloped rotary-wing aircraft, commonly known as the helicopter—often facetiously called the "egg-beater."

• • •

AMPHIBIOUS operations on enemy shores are one of the most dangerous and costly of all military operations. The casualties are so great, with the troops being forced to wade through the surf exposed to enemy fire, as to be physically sickening to even the toughest of commanding officers.

The Marine Corps believes it has found the answer to the difficult and costly amphibious landing operation. This new and revolutionary method will make the par- trooper and [illegible] wading through the [illegible] to the enemy beach as of [illegible] the armored knight of [illegible] Ages.

As shown in a field demonstration on [illegible] Corps Reserve [illegible] landing operations of [illegible] shores may be conducted in the next war:

While [illegible] ships are still far out at [illegible] widely dispersed formations [illegible] numbers of helicopters would be launched.

Heavily escorted by fighters to guard [illegible] air attack and accompanied by [illegible] bombing aircraft to [illegible] enemy defenses, the troop-carrying helicopters carrying men and [illegible] would head [illegible] enemy coast at full speed.

• • •

THE HELICOPTERS would not be forced to land on beaches and discharge their troops there. Instead, they would pass over the coastal cliffs and land the troops fully equipped and in combat formation [illegible] the enemy's flanks or rear.

In the [illegible] assault attacks 75 mm. [illegible] have been landed, assembled and made ready for firing in support of the attack within three minutes. These 105 mm. howitzers have been landed and the giant rifles [illegible] within a few minutes.

Other [illegible] meanwhile would scout the enemy, creating smoke screens where necessary and laying communication wires from the observation units to the howitzer firing positions.

After the spearhead back from the beach had gained contact with [illegible] it would then be possible to bring the main force with heavy and powerful weapons ashore by conventional means.

Meantime, the helicopters would be busy supplying the advanced [illegible] with additional support and supplies and evacuating the casualties.

The difference between listening to a radio sermon and going to church is the same as the difference between calling your girl on the telephone and spending the evening with her. And what a difference!

News of Rome

By Mrs. E. C. Sheets

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Denman, 261 Pasadena-av, announce the arrival of an eight pound baby girl at Mt. Carmel Hospital. They have named the daughter Barbara Jane.

When the Junior Choir of Columbia Heights Church sang on television recently, itwas the first time they wore their white capes and black ties, that were made by Mrs. R. G. Barnecut and Mrs. W. G. Lamb. They were taken to and from the station by teachers of the basement school, of which Mrs. Ernest Schroeder is superintendent.

Opal Williams, 45 West-st, who is located in Washington, D. C., has returned to D. C. after spending the holidays with her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Ely, formerly Martha Adams, and daughter, Alice Ann, made a short stop at the home of her cousin, Mrs. R. G. Barnecut, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ball, 103 Evergreen Terrace, entertained her nephew, Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Moore, and two daughters of Denver, Colo. Dr. Moore is staticned at General Army Hospital just outside that city.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Stormont, Pasadena-av, attended a party Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hancock, Grove City.

PAUL BEZ, OWNER OF SUNBRITE CLEANERS, 2130 Sullivant-av, can now offer his customers even better pick-up and delivery service with a new Ford station wagon. Bez, an army veteron who spent six months in Japan, was formerly associated with Modern Cleaners for one and a half years.

Bob Stormont, Tom Lamb, Paul Armstrong, Wayne Montague and Johnnie Phillips, formerly of Cincinnati, now entering OSU, attended a midnight show, spent the night at the Stormont home and breakfast was prepared and served by the host's father, J. L. Stormont.

Mrs. R. G. Barnecut, Maple-dr, entertained her Sunday School class with a Christmas party at her home. After games had been played and gifts exchanged, delicious refreshments were served to the following guests: Shirley Jewett, Jackie Werner, Linda and Barbara Toy, Mary Jane Trimmer, Freda Smith, Patti Denman, Rosemary Montgomery and Phyllis Rings.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hook were entertained at the George Terry home New Year's Eve.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Richey and sons, David and Stephen of Detroit, were week-end guests at the home of his brother, Kent Richey, Pasadena-av.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Johnson, Buena Vista-av, entertained his brother, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Johnson, Chittenden-av, and his mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Brenner, N. Fourth-st, Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Kent Richey and family and house guests, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Richey and family, spent Sunday with their sister, Dr. and Mrs. E. P. Phillips, near Groveport.

Priscilla Warner, Pasadena-av spent several days last week as a guest of Jim Berry at his home in Akron.

Mr. and Mrs. Maywood Courtwright (brother of Mrs. Henry Warner) of Muskegon, Mich., and Rene Robert, Joigny, France, were New Year's guests at the Warner home. Mr. Courtwright is a professor in Muskegon College while Rene Robert is an exchange instructor from France in the same college.

David Warner, Bob Shaner, Victor Rausch and Paul Evans were the boys of this community who represented Hilliards High School when they played Sharonville High School. Many sightseeing tours had been planned. One of the most enjoyable was the Proctor & Gamble trip, when they were presented with souvenirs of the company's product in very neat boxes.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Warner were New Year's eve guests in Dayton at the home of the R. E. Goulds.

Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Miller and family spent New Year's day at the home of his mother, Mrs. Ethel Miller, Clintonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Kimes, Nona Kimes, Herbert Rex and Blaine T. Sickles were dinner guests New Year's day at the home of the Ralph R. Hoffmans, Grandview. They also attended the open house of 150 friends in the evening, at which time Miss Nona entertained guests with accordion numbers. Alice Bland, formerly a Hollywood star, also entertained with a specialty dance.

Mr. and Mrs. John N. Cross, 93 Lennox-av, one of our newcomers, announce the birth of a daughter Monday, Dec. 26, at White Cross Hospital.

Blaine T. Sickles and his sister, Ming Sickles, of Miami University, entertained Nona Kimes at a dinner party Friday evening at the Jai-Lai Restaurant. Nona will return to Ohio State University this week as a senior, majoring in interior design.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Snyder, Jim Snyder and Marilyn, of the Hollywood Inn, will return this week from Washington, D. C., where they have spent the holidays.

Odd Fact

I have never met a man who has given me as much trouble as myself.

WINDOW BOOSTS BUCKEYES

The Rose Bowl winning Buckeyes got a boost in the holiday decorations of Dade Barnhill, 130 N. Terrace-av. An electrically lighted sign reading "Ohio State Beat California" was displayed in the Dade window, flanked by brightly colored ribbons and a border of illuminated New Year bells.

Two Additions Made To Trophy Case In '49 Sports

By Dave Miller

With the coming of a new year, an interesting question is—"Has the year of 1949 been a successful season for West High School in sports?"

Only two trophies have been added to the already full trophy case in the West High lobby. However, it's a cinch that West has never experienced more fighting or harder-trying teams.

The two trophies came in cross-country and in swimming, two minor sports, but two in which West has always been top-notch.

The West High aqua-men came through in perfect form in the recent season. They won the city and district championships, and placed third best in the state. Ronnie Bolin, only a junior, was state champion in the 150-yard individual free style.

Ted Bitando, a physical education major at Ohio State, coached the champs. Members of the team included Bill McCrady, Wes Hart, Dick Sherman, Capt. Louie Wolfe, Walt Binkley, Joe Balthaser, Spike Ringer, Larry Gomeff, Ronnie Bolin and Lowell Cummins.

The cross-country team, city champions, runner-up in the district and eleventh in the state, speaks for itself with this record. Ronnie Coup was the individual star of the season, as he successfully defended the city and district crowns he won last year. Ronnie finished sixth in the state meet, and will be back again in 1950 for another try at it.

Other members of the champion city team include Dick Pendell, Cliff Everett, Gerry Witherspoon, Bob Wood, Malcolm McCoy, Jack Perkins, Dick Burnett, Jack Luebring, Jack Conrad and Wilbert Werling. All except Pendell, Wood, McCoy and Luebring will be back for next season's action, but all being available in spring track.

Rufe Glass was coach of the X-Country boys. Some folks may wonder why the local tracksters are calling themselves city champs, after hearing it being announced after the meet that they tied South for the championship. It was discovered a week after the meet that a recheck of the statistics proved West was the champ by a half point. However nothing of this is being published because South will not give up the trophy.

Running down sports in 1949 we find that none of the major sports teams from the Hilltop won first place in the City League.

The 1948-49 basketballers finished their year with a won 10, lost 10 record in all games played with a 5-7 mark in City League play. They dropped their only tournament game, 32-31 to Delaware Willis. The Cowboys had a great first round in the city loop, but after losing stars Chuck Weeks and Paul Theisen by graduation at midyear, they won only one game in the second round.

Members of George Williams' squad included Jim Rudolph, Phil Young, Weeks, Theisen, Dick Culberison, Bill Thrush, Fred Adams, Jack Gammon, LeRoy Hood, Bob Tewell, Jack Gammon, LeRoy Hood, Bob Tewell, Jack Winnestaffer, Bob Epps and Larry Frazier. Culbertson who played all year, was high scorer with 165 points.

The reserve basketball team came out of things a little more successful than the varsity, however. They lost the reserve championship on the last day of the season by losing to champion East, 21-19. The locals had a 9-3 city league mark and a 10-5 overall mark. Paul Ellingsworth was high scorer with 123 points.

West Junior's basketball quintet won their final three games in the City Junior High League to finish with a won five, lost five mark with an all-eighth grade team. Jerry Trabue was second highest scorer in the league with 127 points. Trabue and Guard Bill Haire were named to the All-City team.

The track team had a rather dismal year. They were fourth in the city and third in the Hilltop Relays, both events being won by Central. One bright spot in the current track season was the jet-propelled running of Don Eitle, who set many records in the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Eitle placed second in the state in the 100.

West High's baseball team finished in undisputed second place, dropping out of the championship by virtue of a 5-4 last inning loss to Linden McKinley, the champ. The Cowboys lost in both rounds to Linden and once to South in the final game of the year. The Cowboys, in non-league tiffs, defeated Chillicothe twice and Grandview and Mifflin once. In the tournament, the Cowboys defeated Grandview, but lost to Marion Harding.

Boys making all-city included Dick Culbertson and Jack Pickens, infielders; Dick Kirk, outfielder; Catcher Bob Birle, and Pitcher Phil Young. All but the latter two were repeaters from last season's all-city.

Then came the summer vacation and it was time for the first football practice (Aug. 20). The Cowboy footballers, after winning two straight pigskin championships in '47 and '48, had a bad year. They finished with a 2-4 mark in the City League, and a 3-6 record in all games.

Boys who made the all-city team included Center Bob Epps; Guard Dick Will and Tackle Dick McDermitt. Epps was named to a first string center berth in the annual North-South game, in addition to being named to every local all-city team.

With the coming 1950 season, let's hope that West can have an array of championships to add to their trophy case. The 1950 coaches:

Senior basketball, George Williams.

Reserve basketball, Fred Heishman.

Junior Hi basketball, O. D. Lehman.

Cross country and track, Rufe Glass.

Senior baseball, George Williams.

Junior baseball, O. D. Lehman.

Senior football, Mack Pemberton.

Children Frolic At Yule Party

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

MARVELL began as he always did these days with the war. He could never have time enough to justify his theories and Nedda was a silenced, if not convinced, listener to his discussions of expanding markets, free trade, imperialism. She thought his words brilliant enough, but they had none of the romantic mystical appeal of Amory's letters, written from the field where he was serving with the Ambulance Corps in the Red Cross. "I wish you'd read a good book on economic history, Nedda. You'd discover even the Civil War wasn't a matter of abolition of slavery."

"I remember history more for the suffering of human beings in an idealistic cause, Marvell, than for all the tariffs in the world." She was trying hard to keep hold of her end of the thread.

"You think so, to be sure, on a fiduciary trust fund out of State Street. I tell you that wealth and the lack of it have destroyed more souls, as you say, than all the sin, original and otherwise in the world. The war hasn't touched us much yet. No, it hasn't, in Concord and thousands of towns like it. Shortages and discomfort, that's all. But whenever I think we have escaped here, that Kit has escaped the way the French children have gone, and my conscience tells me I am sorry to be better off than others, my reason tells me that we'll get it yet in ten or twenty years because it is economic. Man doesn't live by bread alone, you're right there, he lives by the distribution of bread—and don't tell me Amory never talks about the food problem—"

"Yes," said Nedda, conscious of a peculiar tightening in her throat. "I had a letter yesterday. Not like the others—he thinks it won't be much longer now . . ."

"I suppose," teased Marvell, "that being in the front line of this holy war with his Red Cross flying he thinks he has a private wire to the Almighty."

"He has done a splendid job, Marvell," she protested passionately.

"I know he has." He couldn't resist making fun of Amory to Nedda. He could see him, pale, cool and collected in a handsome uniform which he vaguely confused with the dressier French field officers'—but at times he was envious of Amory's participation. He tried to believe that he had not avoided the issue of war by doubling his work, expanding his garden with the feeble assistance of Mrs. Crane's weakwitted nephew, Piney! Perhaps he should have taken the government job at Nitro. But he couldn't save dragged Kit off to a wartown. He was better off here, he was doing more. The repetition of this self-assurance frequently troubled him.

Nedda was speaking again. "They need more of everything. Money, supplies, Aunda. He suggested, he asked—I have done a lot of local work but, perhaps, I am not as efficient as Amory thinks. Only, there is a place to be filled . . ." Now it was out—her one plea, her one chance of startling him into definite action, so long delayed.

"You're going!" He spoke in triumph as if she had finally given in to some long urging of his. "I knew something was happening to you, Nedda. I have been watching you opening out more and more and wondering when . . ."

"Oh, Marvell!" she cried in distress. "I don't know!" There was no going back now. "You must help me. I won't go if you want me here."

He could not imagine what it would be like, not having her within call. "I don't see how we'll manage, Nedda, but we'll have to."

A slight breeze stirred the hollyhocks, rubbing their wide-ribbed leaves together so that they seemed to whisper hollowly: "Go on, you must, you must."

"I have lived a long time, Marvell—" He smiled, what was she? Only a little over thirty. "With almost nothing to show for it. You once said I was frozen—you were right, I was like an iceberg nine-tenths submerged in underwater dreariness. But it has been different since you came. I cannot leave, if you will let me stay."

"Nedda!" He spoke the word so pityingly that she shrank back.

"Yes, I must say it. I want to stay with you. I don't think you could love me—I mean love—but you've said that for all the reasons of marriage, companionship is best, I want that."

"Nedda," he began again, "it isn't enough. What you have just said out of your heart is the finest part about you. You will be proud of saying that some day." A cry, a half sob broke from her. "What can I give you? You ought to get a whole brass band, not just a quaver." Marvell was deeply moved. His anxious face, his outstretched hand heartened her. She must not plead, she must persuade.

"It's not what I should get, Marvell, it's what I can give you. We could all travel together, the three of us, we could have a house in town, you could go back to your own work where you belong, you hate them, don't you? But you needn't. You can match them! You will be alone but now you need success . . ." She broke off, and raised her eyes to his. He had not said a word. He seemed stricken with fear, she had seen that look in animals, just when you thought you had their confidence. He had withdrawn in every fiber. What had she said to thrust him off? Out of her numbness she heard him say, "I am no good at marriage, Nedda, not success. It's nothing I want nor understand." There was a weary finality in his voice that he tried to cover up. "Nedda, don't be foolish! This is a challenge to you to start over again. It's the right thing, even if it hurts. Ending and beginnings always hurt, Nedda."

Then, she knew it was hopeless. She looked at him sorrowfully. "I shall have to go—now. You will, too, some day."

"Nedda!" It was Kit standing in the doorway. She had wakened to the sound of their voices and had waited ever so long for them to come to her. She had gone to the door and had waited for them to finish, but she couldn't wait any longer.

"What are you doing here?" Nedda knelt before her. "We were just coming in."

Kit looked at her gravely, fingered one of the coral earrings and asked, "Where are you going with Marvell?"

"Nowhere with Marvell, my dear. I am going over to Paris to visit my brother and I shall give you Neru to keep for me."

Marvell stod above them dumbly. He knew Kit was looking to him for affirmation that Nedda could not go away. The fear that had overwhelmed him as he stood listening to Nedda's breaking voice was still sharp in his mind. He winced to see in Kit's eyes the pain of knowing something was wrong, something that could be set right if he would take one step.

They carried her back to the living room between them and brought out the ice cream to divert her, but the white and gold afternoon was dark and somber now.

"You will help me pack, won't you, Kit? There are ever so many things that will fit into your room, and then I shall want you to know where we put things so that you can help me unpack when I return." Nedda's eyes burned so brightly that Kit thought she, too, must have fever. She ate the ice cream miserably, barely hearing Nedda's excited nervous voice outline plans and promises of the lovely things she would send back to her.

"The ice cream has frozen her tongue," said Marvell, when Kit kissed Nedda silently in the first of a series of sad farewells.

After Nedda had gone, Marvell tried in vain to cheer her up. "Well, you finally got your horse —without Aladdin. The brake is worn off that lamp."

"I don't want the horse now. Who will ride with me?"

"You can't expect to have everything." He was irritated by her silent accusation.

"But," she gulped loudly, "her house with no one in it! And just when we belonged to someone . . ."

"Kit," he pleaded, "we won't be alone, we've got each other. That's what we came up here for!" When she made no answer, he cried, "What would you have had me do —marry her?" He had not meant to shout it.

"Is that what she wanted?" Then he added passionately, "Yes, I want you to!"

"But why?" He could not understand her at all. Had she no natural sense of possession? "I would be different then," he coaxed.

"No! No!"

"Would you like her to take the place of your mother?" he demanded, striking at her last vulnerable point.

"No one ever takes another's place."

"Don't they? You can't keep each thing in your life like last year's clothing in a closet. You have to clear things out. Or you'll never get far with all that baggage, Kit."

"I keep a place for everybody I have known!"

She was so sure it maddened him. "There is a great deal you don't understand," he said, that high-handed dismissal so familiar to the young.

"But I do! I do!" But the half-finished sentences died, she had never understood, the remote anguish of her disappointment in him was crystallized into a hard substance that pressed upon her heart. She was tired and overwrought and burst into hard, dry sobs. He took her in his lap and rocked her back and forth to quiet her. She was soft and round in his arms. Only her uneven breathing reminded him of their conflict. No one will invade our fortress again, he looked down at the droopy head, until we let the drawbridge down the day you go out to face the world.

The Low Down On High Ridgers

By One of Them

1950

How many times this month will we still be using 1949 in dating our mail, receipts and checks (the latter for those who still have any money left after Christmas)?

Anyway it's always nice to start out a new year—wondering what it will bring and everything!

T. L. HELPHREY has a new HUDSON he is mighty proud of. All the new gadgets inside his car look sharp. The same goes for BOB VOORHEES, who's out driving his new NASH. They were both determined to start out the New Year in the right way, weren't they?

Registers are out—at least for the WILLIAMSONS. ED'S wife was cleaning the dust out from the kitchen register with her vacuum cleaner attachments, and when she left it for a couple of minutes, ED, who is always running into the kitchen for a bite to eat, accidentally stepped back into the opening, turning his ankle. It kept him home from work two days this week, but he's O. K. now.

Whose telephone book doesn't have doodling all over it? CAMPBELL'S two children erased all the etchings, including some telephone numbers, on the outside cover. Now they'll have to look them up inside.

The new porch furniture the WOERNERS got for Christmas will be used this winter in their basement which they have recently refinished.

Last Saturday, HELEN JENKINS' automatic washer was delivered to her. A demonstrator will be out in a few days to show her how to use it. I wonder who is going to show WHO HOW to do WHAT? For she has already done several washings so far.

The GREENOS have some new little trees. Everyone seems to be adding a little here and a little there to their shrubbery. I've seen several fellows replanting their Christmas trees they bought for the holidays.

The REFUSE COLLECTORS will be sure to notice the new painted garbage can PENHAMS have. Who could miss seeing that pretty red color?

Words of the Wise

It behooves a father to be blameless, if he expects his son to be more blameless than he is himself. —(Pittsburgh Post-Gazette)

Odd Fact

Handed a check for one cent by the cashier in the office where he was employed, with the explanation that he had been accidentally shortchanged on his vacation pay, an upstate New York man found his bank would charge him five cents to cash it. He framed it.

It should not discourage us that our kindness is unacknowledged; it has its influence still.

'Think This Over'

By William "Doc" Campbell

Educational Frills Versus Educational Thrills

A "frill" is a flounce or accessory added to the regular gown to make it APPEAR more lovely. A "thrill" is a sensation that bowls you over with joy, leading to a probable educational result. Well, our great American public school system is full of thrills, and if the major subjects are reconstructed, they too will be considered a thrill and not merely tough, uninteresting assignments.

Many people still say that art, athletics, dramatics, music, etc., are frills. These confused souls should have seen two great shows at West High School as I saw them recently. According to an old adage, "Man cannot live by bread alone." So, a fast moving basketball game is certainly a grand and keen thrill, and when you see these splendid lads, tensely earnest, you must concede the game's dynamic educational value.

I was "used up" in yelling and cheering their aptitude, coordination and spirit, though they lost by only two points. Some thrill! And yet there are many people who still call it a "frill".

The other wonderful show was "Bitter Sweet Anne", a light opera by the music department. There were 150 pupils of both sexes in the cast, but the fair sex predominated. You talk about semi-professional shows — why, the only thing that lacked intense drama was the audience. It is truly a thankless job to "whip into shape" 150 pupils and soloists (with adolescent voices) so that the audience might get a "kick" out of this so-called educational frill. Why, indeed, the two acts were so professional and exciting that I marvelled, again and again, at the lovely stage color effects, so dramatic, the beautifully drilled singing choruses and soloists, all costumed in lavish fittings.

Of course, at first, the cast was scared, stiff (so would you be). What I cannot comprehend was the appallingly complacent, apathetic audience, made up mostly of parents! Why, do you know, I actually led that balcony audience on several occasions, in the applause, which was quickly followed AFTERWARDS, by the audience! Parents ought to make it a vital point to visibly encourage the producers (teachers and pupils) who almost wear themselves out in months of preparation to make it "frill" succeed.

Well, it did "go over big" and finally the audience woke up. But if a school audience cannot exert more enthusiasm and spontaneous encouragement for their own and other people's children, then let's go back to the old "geometric puzzles" and "partial payments" and all these high school subjects that ought to be revitalized with "thrill-pills" to excite pupils to enjoy them and thus get TRUE educational values!

We must remember that youth flourishes on sincere, spontaneous praise. Why stint them? If you take the "frills" out of education in this modern age (of senseless grown-up thrills) you kill the spirit in a child. So watch out for a "revolution in youth". Force never educated anyone. "Pie a la mode" your classics and the pupil will never forget your subject and will use it in daily life.

I never did believe that education should be all "dessert" but —well, let's have more "educational thrills" which will make "life's journey" exciting and deeply educational.

MAKING THE BEST OF Living

When this happy groom said, "I do", he really meant it. He looked beyond the orange blossoms and rice down the uncertain years. He resolved to provide for his bride as far as was humanly possible. That was why he saw his Sun Life of Canada representative before the ceremony and arranged a program of insurance that fully protects the girl he has sworn to cherish.

PLANNED LIFE INSURANCE BRINGS PEACE OF MIND

FAITH IN GOD -- AND THE FUTURE

GO TO THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE THIS SABBATH

This week millions of Americans will attend services of the Churches and Synagogues of the nation. Each in his own way will be showing his faith in God, the same faith on which our forefathers founded this nation. All of us need that faith. It can give us the strength and purpose necessary for the future. Without faith, hope is lost; with it, we can find peace and happiness.

A SENSE OF FAIR PLAY is deeply rooted in Americans. In baseball, football or any sport, the slightest tinge of unfairness can ruin a team or a player. This sense of fairness also extends into business and politics.

However, sometimes when our emotions overcome our reason, we forget to be fair. For instance, if "Freedom means government by consent of the governed"—any far-reaching changes, such as suggested in Compulsory Health Tax Bills, these facts should be considered:

Surveys show that the vast majority of our people do not want Federal control of medical service, schools or churches; the vast majority of our Doctors want no Federalized controls, to hamper them in service to their patients; great numbers of our people closely ally their religious beliefs with the handling of their own personal health, and should certainly not be compelled to "buy" a service they would not use.

American sense of fair play says: Allow no minority pressure groups to force through legislation that IGNORES these facts.

The Church Receives Power — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Acts 2:1-41.

When the day of Pentecost had come, the apostles were in a room together, when suddenly there came a sound as of a rushing, mighty wind.

There appeared to the apostles, sitting together, "cloven tongues" that were like fire, and they sat upon each one of them that were in the room.

All the apostles were filled with the Holy Ghost, and they began to speak in different languages than their own, as the Spirit gave it to them.

When devout men of many tongues heard this, they rushed to see for themselves; Peter told what had happened.

MEMORY VERSE—Acts 2:38.

1951 May See Hilltopper Elected Mayor

The election of Henry A. Koontz as city council president indicates that the Hilltop will have a big role in the 1951 mayoralty race in Columbus.

Of the six men who have suggested they would like to be mayor, two are from the Hilltop and one is a former Hilltopper.

Emile Reiss was the first to announce his candidacy for the office. Reiss is an attorney and lived on the Hilltop for a number of years. In a telephone interview he stated that he was interested in returning to the Hill. Reiss is not affiliated with either of the main parties.

The Record announced recently that Leo L. Phillips will be a candidate in 1951. Phillips is a Republican and has been active in local politics a number of years. Rumors have had him seeking election as sheriff and city councilman, but he sought neither of these offices. Phillips was in the police department a number of years and served as chief of detectives under Mayor Floyd Green.

The elevation of Koontz to the head of council might put him in the mayor's office before the 1951 election. If Mayor Rhodes is nominated and elected governor in 1950, Koontz would serve the remainder of his term as mayor. Being the incumbent mayor would draw a lot of votes for Koontz in the '51 elections.

Koontz has been Republican committeeman from the 10th Ward for the past 18 years and has the reputation of being a good party man. He piled up more than 50,000 votes to lead the ticket in last November's council election.

Incidentally, Mr. and Mrs. Koontz are celebrating their 27th wedding anniversary today.

* * *

THE LAST HILLTOPPER to serve as president of city council was Wyatt L. Millikin, a Democrat, who was elected to the post in 1938. There were four Democrats and three Republicans in council that year. Millikin edged out Joseph Jones, immediate past president, for the leadership of council. Republican Myron T. Gessaman was mayor at that time.

Milton W. Westlake was the last Hilltopper to be council president before Millikin. Westlake started his last term in council in 1938 after coming out of a 15-year retirement to run for the post. The first piece of legislation he proposed that year, on the night of Jan. 1, was the removal of street-car tracks from W. Broad-st.

Ohio Oil To Build On W. Broad St.

The Ohio Oil Co. will build a modern service station "some time this year" at 3237 W. Broad-st, according to M. S. Groves, manager of the company's zone office at 17 S. Glenwood-av. The station will have a frontage of 102 feet on W. Broad-st.

Owners of the L & K Sandwich Shop, now located at that address, will vacate the property before Mar. 1. They have no plans to re-locate their business on the Hilltop.

According to informed sources, the oil company bought 82 feet from the L & K at $17,500, and 20 feet from Ralph C. Schmelzer for $8,000.

The William P. Zinn & Co. handled the transaction for the Ohio Oil Co.

Farm Co-op Safe Cracked In Hilliards

A safe at the Farm Bureau Co-Op store in Hilliards was looted of $1,000 by a hard working, muscular thief, Sheriff's Deputy Fred W. Selby reported Thursday.

The burglar broke a latch on a rear ground floor window and entered the building. He took bolt cutters, an electric drill and other tools from the farm store in the building and started to work on the 10-foot high safe.

Standing on a desk, he moved into position; ripped away the metal panel on the front of the big vault, then discovered there was a thick cement wall that could not be opened.

Finally he used the electric drill and a heavy instrument and made a hole large enough to crawl through.

Once inside the safe he tried to open the concrete wall to give him more space and light for his work.

Sheriff's deputies called for the safe company to open the vault so an inventory could be made. Deputies hesitated to crawl into the safe since it might destroy fingerprints.

The burglary was discovered by Glenn McDaniel, 35, of Hilliards, branch manager of the store.

Police Chief Frank Harrison has asked Columbus residents to aid police in combating the present wave of burglaries by reporting all suspicious persons seen around business places and any unusual sounds coming from such places at night.

In the third position are, Judy Leach, two and one-half years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Leach, 287 Southampton-av, child class; and Jimmy Nash, three months old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nash, 406 S. Powell-av, baby class.

Vote To Construct Sewer

OK $8,000 To Bypass Westgate Park Lake

City Council Monday night appropriated $8,000 for the construction of a sewer in Westgate Park to clear up pollution in Westgate Park Lake. Work on the project is expected to begin in the spring.

The legislation, submitted by council president, Henry A. Koontz, was passed by a 7-0 vote. The location of the sewer will be decided upon by the city engineer.

The pollution problem in the park goes back to 1939 when a city engineer gave the opinion that septic tank overflows from the county were emptying into the lake.

The community was aroused to action last spring when the city announced that it was considering filling in the lake. The county sanitary engineer had been advised of the need for sanitary sewers along Derrer-rd, but said they could not be constructed unless the residents petitioned for them or they were ordered by the State Board of Health.

The proposed sewer, by which drainage from the county ditch would bypass the lake, was one of the means suggested by city officials for ending the pollution problem.

'50 Dog Licenses Go On Sale In Hilliards, Rome

Humane officers will be on duty Jan. 20 in Hilliards and Jan. 18 in New Rome to take applications for 1950 dog licenses. The location in Hilliards is Arch Alder's Chevrolet agency and in New Rome it is Harrison's Market.

Jan. 20 is the deadline date for the purchase of dog licenses without paying a penalty. All persons owning dogs, three months of age or older, who do not purchase a dog license by then will be subject to a fine. License fees are $1.00 for male and spayed female dogs; $3.00 for female dogs; and $10.00 for a kennel license.

Licenses may be purchased daily in the office of the county auditor in the courthouse. Applications for dog licenses mailed to the county auditor's office are acceptable if accompanied by the corerct amount and a full description of the dog, including sex and age.

2 Hilltop Cats Outdo Ripley; Believe It Or Not

Bob Ripley, please note.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond M. Montgomery, 7013 W. Broad-st, report that Bob "Believe It Or Not" Ripley has nothing on them. Recently Ripley's article of drawings and facts, which appears in The Record regularly, told about a cat with eyes of two different colors. Ripley said this was the only cat like that in the world of which he knew.

But the Montgomerys state they have two such felines. Both cats, the father with short hair, and his long-haired daughter, have one greenish-yellow eye and one blue. However, the colors of the left and right eyes are reversed.

Dr. P. L. Cordray Ill At Home

Dr. Palmer L. Cordray, with offices at 2553 Sullivant-av, is recovering in his home from a slight embolism suffered early last week. Doctors at Mt. Carmel Hospital, where Dr. Cordray was treated, say the condition was the result of an auto accident of about seven months ago.

The condition affected the use of Dr. Cordray's left arm and leg temporarily.

Local Bands To Play At Dances

A series of dances at various city recreation centers is being planned by the Recreation Dept. Well known local bands are providing the music for the dances, under the auspices of the Musicians' Federation.

The first dance will be held at Glenwood Recreation Center in the latter part of January. Teenagers are particularly invited to these dances. All dances will be open to the public, and there will be no charge.

Navy Plane Rushes Young Mother To Boston Hospital

A young Hilltop mother was flown to Boston, Mass., Saturday for treatment by the only artificial kidney in the world at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital.

Mrs. Carolyn Allender, wife of G. William Allender, 560 Hilltonia-av, gave birth to a boy Tuesday in University Hospital. As a result, Mrs. Allender is suffering from a complete kidney stoppage.

Mrs. Allender, with her husband, and three physicians, members of the University Hospital staff, made an emergency flight Saturday night in a Navy plane provided by Capt. J. B. Young, commander of the Naval Air Station at Port Columbus.

Capt. Young said the navy plane flight was authorized when doctors at University Hospital reported that special facilities at the Boston hospital were needed to treat the young mother.

M. H. Tapia, Mrs. Allender's father, reported this morning that his daughter is "not doing so well."

"They started the artificial kidney today," Tapia told The Record this morning. Doctors have been keeping a clost observation and making chemical tests on Mrs. Allender's blood.

Mrs. Carolyn Allender

The Allender's son, seven-pound James Hudson Allender, was born via Caesarian delivery and is reported doing well in University Hospital.

Cyclists Injured In W. Broad-st Crash

Two motorcyclists were injured when their cycles collided with an auto at Stevens-av and Broad-st Sunday night.

Robert L. Shell, 23, of 21 S. Grubb-st, suffered a fractured right wrist and leg cuts. Cecil Green, 21, of 17 Hosack-st, was cut about his legs. Both were treated at Mt. Carmel Hospital.

Police said they were riding west on Broad-st when they collided with an auto driven by Harvey W. Walters, 26 Schultz-av.

FRANK WEBER ILL

Frank Weber, 141 N. Chase-av, is confined to his home by illness. An employe of the Moores and Ross Milk Co., Weber has delivered a milk route on the Hilltop for 20 years. Officials of the company say they hope he will be able to return to his route in the near future.

'Farmers of The Year' Honored

GUY SNYDER, PRESIDENT OF THE HILLIARDS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE, presents plaques to Jay W. Liggett of Amlin and Raymond Dellinger of Amity-rd, Hilliards, who were chosen junior farmer of the year and farmer of the year respectively. Ralph Wooding, chairman of the agricultural committee of the chamber of commerce, looks on. Howard S. Foust, state director of agriculture, was the speaker of the evening, Monday, when the presentations were made. Other members of the committee who helped plan the "Farm Night" are E. V. Haueisen and Clark W. Van Scholck. The meeting was held in Hilliards High School.

Marilyn Gauggel, President of West Honor Society, Has All 'A' Record

By Myron T. Seifert

Only student to merit a perfect scholarship record in the January graduating class of West High School, Marilyn Gauggel, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gauggel, 323 N. Warren-av, who was dually honored by election also as president of West High's National Honor Society.

First girl in the history of the Powell-av. School to become executive head of the honorary group, Marilyn brings to the post a well-rounded background of extra curricular activities.

Awarded 36 service points by her teachers during her high school days, she has been signally recognized for a wide variety of achievements.

More recently she had leading parts in the school operetta and the 12A Christmas play.

Member of the Queen's Court at Homecoming festivities this year, she is an ardent athletic fan.

She is active in the cheerleading squad and a stalwart in the Girl's Athletic Association, the Y-Teen program also requires much of her time.

Interested in conservation of natural resources Marilyn plans to do work in this division of of the government, and proposes to take courses at Ohio State preparatory to qualifying her in this important field.

Both father and mother of Marilyn are West High graduates and carried a reputation for scholarship and service during their high school years at Old West High on Central-av.

Significantly the Gauggel pattern of scholarship does not exclusively belong to Marilyn. Her father, Fred, was likewise president of the honor society, then the "L" Society (National Honor Society was not instituted at West High until 1930), when he was a student at West High.

The Gauggel parallel in extra-curricular activities was evident in 1919 when Mr. Gauggel was a senior.

Of his many activities "The Occident," school year book, lists: Editor-in-chief of Occident; President "L"; Vice-president Junior Class; secretary-treasurer, Hi-Y; Debating Team 1917-18; Senior Class Play; Junior Farce; Senior Vaudeville; Science Club; ex-president, B. & S. Chapter 14; West Movies; Glee Club

Characterized in epigram the Year Book said of him:

"His signal deeds and powers high.
Demand no pompous eulogy"

Mr. Gauggel is instructor of biological sciences at Linden-McKinley High School. Mrs. Gauggel (Mildred Matheny) graduated in the class of 1920.

Mrs. Faudree To Lead Hat Instructions At 'Y' Begins Jan. 17

Mrs. Albert Faudree, 508 Woodbury-av, will instruct a hat class at the YWCA as a feature of the new program series beginning Tuesday, Jan. 17, for young business men and women.

During the eight-week program, Tuesday night will be known as "Hob-Nobbers' Night," offering a variety of interest groups. There will be canasta, leathercraft, bridge, drama workshop and music, in addition to the hats. At the conclusion of the classes at 9 p. m. there will be a social period of movies, singing and "getting acquainted."

Directing the program will be Rowena Kesley, adult program director, and Mrs. J. K. Fitzwater assistant adult program director.

Classes have been scheduled to permit participants to enroll in two if desired.

Registration may be made on the first night, January 17, for all except the bridge and hat classes, for which advance registration is requested. For further information call the YWCA, AD. 9121.

Is There Room in the Poorhouse for 149 Million People?

In 1932 Franklin D. Roosevelt, then a Presidential candidate, had this to say about government spending:

"Any government, like any family, can for a year spend a little more than it earns. But you and I know that a continuance of that habit means the poorhouse."

Those words, important 17 years ago, have even greater significance today. Why? Because in every year since 1932 (with the exception of the two fiscal years immediately following the war) our federal government has spent more than it has collected!

In 1932 our federal government spent 4½ billion dollars. For the fiscal year of 1950, it is estimated that our federal government will spend ten times that amount . . . 45 billion dollars.

To give you an idea of just how much money this is, consider these facts:

1. If everyone in the United States cashed in all his life-insurance policies, the total would amount to 44 billion dollars. This would not be enough money to run the Government for one year.

2. If every urban home owner in this country sold his home, the total would amount to 30 billion dollars. That's just enough to run the Government for eight months.

3. If every farmer in this country sold his farm, farm equipment and livestock, the total would amount to 25 billion dollars. The Government could not run for seven months on that amount of money.

These facts put a new light on the staggering size of our federal dollar expenditure for the fiscal year of 1950. And remember, this excessive spending is in the face of a national debt of more than 250 billion dollars!

Isn't it as true today as it was in 1932 that a "a continuance of that habit means the poorhouse?"

Just what are you doing to end excessive spending by our federal government? Have you written your Congressmen? Have you discussed the problem with your business associates, your friends, your employes?

Let's make sure our representatives in government know how we at home feel about the continuance of a habit that "means the poorhouse."

The time for action is NOW!

What Other Editors Say

Nearing His Waterloo . . .

(Owego (N. Y.) Times)

John L. Lewis, coal czar, did not emerge a victor from the New York City conference in which he decided that the miners could work three days per week until such time as the operators met his vague demands and signed contracts. The beetle-browed dictator merely "saved face" by his decision which indicated he was not too far from his Waterloo as a man of destiny.

In the first place the three-day proposition pushed into the background the "no contract, no work" rule that Lewis has pulled strike after strike to enforce, and the miners are a bit dazed by his change in attitude. In the second place he knows, and the miners know, that a three-day week means polite starvation with bills mounting that cannot be paid.

Then, again the three-day week means increased use of gas and oil for heating and greater curtailment of coal purchases, resulting in less work for miners when full production is resumed. Finally, Lewis has not yet been able to get his pension fund on a going basis, and those who benefitted for a time are now without income.

Sooner or later a break will come in the union ranks and Lewis' power will be at an end, also his $50,000 annual salary and $25,000 annual expense account. Just at present, according to miners' statements, they fear to oppose the will of Lewis because they know they will be beaten up by thugs, their homes damaged, their chances of working in the mines reduced to the vanishing point. The miners are all but bankrupt and they know it, Lewis knows it, and while their future is dark, his future is far darker, and his sleep must be anything but restful.

Roving Photographer

By Bill Gibbon

The question for this week: "What has been the effect of the sale of colored oleo?" The question was asked of four Hilltop grocers. Your ideas for "Roving Photographer" Questions will be appreciated.

Jerry Watson, owner of Jerry Watson's Red & White Market, 3117 W. Broad-st: "We still sell more plain oleo, and the colored oleo hasn't hurt the sale of butter at all. During the first two weeks colored oleo went on sale, the sales went up, but they have leveled off now. The sale of colored margarine has increased very little the total sale of oleo. However, we don't sell too much oleo here anyway."

Herman Schulze, owner of Schulze Food Market, 1971 W. Mound-st: We are selling more colored oleo now than white. The total sale of margarine is up some — about 10%. The sale of butter has not been affected very much, but it is off a little. It's down about 10% Lately I have been ordering less butter.

* * *

Warren H. McDaniel, owners of Mac's Super Market, 3006 Sullivant-av: The sale of butter, with colored margarine on the market, hasn't been hurt one bit. Butter sales have not decreased one dollar. The first week a lot of people tried colored oleo, but the total sale of oleo has not increased; it settled down to normal. Of the oleo sales, about 60% are colored oleo sales. The 10 cents more on colored oleo hurts its sale somewhat.

Mrs. Chloe Anna Sparks, associated with Sparks-Kent Super Food Market, 2878 W. Broad-st: "The sale of colored oleo has not affected the sale of butter at all. The total sale of oleo has not changed, however, more customers are buying colored oleo than white oleo. About 90% of the margarine buyers are buying colored oleo. The first week the colored oleo came out there was a slight increase in the sales, but not nearly what we had expected.

State Department Becomes More Security Conscious | Taft Re-Election Chances Believed Greatly Improved

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Security measures in Washington have been tightened up as a result of the recent exposes before the House un-American activities committee of uranium shipments to Russia.

This is particularly noticeable in the State department, which is devoting more and more attention to the problem of security. For example, here are some steps taken by the State department:

Windows of rooms where coded messages are received are taped with the silvery band which indicates alarm protection and outsiders are forbidden to enter these rooms at any time.

Slogans such as "Don't take papers home" and "Keep your desks and files locked" are being printed at the bottom of each page of the department telephone book to remind employes of security regulations.

Departmental police make a spot check each night and will call any employe at home who has left files unlocked in his office, and order him back to the office to lock up.

Senator Taft

* * * *

● UPSWING FOR TAFT—Most active leaders of organized labor in Ohio privately are conceding that Senator Robert A. Taft will retain his seat in the United States Senate in the 1950 elections.

A signal victory for the forces backing Taft was the Ohio adoption of the Massachusetts form of ballot whereby the voters ballot for individual candidates instead of the straight party ticket. Taft's pre-election campaign also has added to his strength.

The labor leaders now say that unless they come up with an "exceptional" opponent, Taft again will win, and thus have an excellent chance for the GOP presidential nomination in 1952.

* * * *

● ARMS AID MOVES SLOWLY—There is only a slight possibility that any shipments of war material under the arms aid program will begin moving to foreign countries before the middle of January at the earliest.

At the moment, the arms program under direction of James K. Bruce, former ambassador to Argentina, is marking time waiting for bi-lateral agreements between the United States and the recipient nations.

Defense department officials, who have responsibility for procurement of the war goods, have been getting some surplus equipment ready for shipment immediately upon conclusion of the bi-lateral agreements.

However, the policy matters will be in the hands of the State department, where the wheels grind slowly. Broad general procedures are shaping up but policy details have yet to be worked out.

* * * *

● FOREIGN AID FUNDS—Despite congressional demands for a cut in foreign aid spending, the Economic Co-operation Administration probably will ask next year for a new Marshall Plan appropriation of about three billion dollars.

ECA to Ask Three Billion For 1950?

ECA is spending three billion, 778 million dollars this year on the European Recovery Program, but the agency has made it clear that this figure gradually will be reduced.

A definite figure for the new appropriation request has not yet been determined, but ECA sources said that three billion is a good guess of the amount to be asked.

ECA has just started to study the matter. Reports, statistics and other information are pouring into its Washington headquarters from ECA nations to be used as the basis for the request.

CHAPTER THIRTY

MARVELL stood waiting for the elevator that would take him to Ben's office on the twelfth floor. The severity of the lobby, the austerity of the elevator "boys"—all of whom might have served as chaplains in the Civil War, Marvell reflected—never failed to quality the cockiness of his arrival. There was no use being impatient, the elevators rose and descended according to some mysterious ritual presided over by the ancient, elegant, sideburned starter. So Marvell turned his eye on a young man who had been staring at the directory for some minutes. He was rather thin and tall and his general attitude of indifference, as well as the overcoat he wore, gave Marvell the idea that he was an ex-soldier. Someone had tried to dye the coat, not too successfully, a navy blue. They got into the elevator together and stepped off at the same floor. The young man seemed uncertain of the uniform doors with their discreet black or gold lettering that extended to his right and left. He gave Marvell a tight little smile. "Is 1214 this way? I've never been here before."

"Must be; I'm going to 1206." They turned left together and their footsteps resounded heavily in the cold corridor.

"Not lively, is it?" murmured the young man.

"Well, you can't expect too much," chuckled Marvell. "They're all occupied with the past or the future."

"I'm not," said his companion, almost defiantly.

Marvell stopped before the frosted glass marked "Raynesford, Higham and Hall."

"Just back from overseas?" he asked sympathetically.

"Yesterday." The young man removed his hat and Marvell saw the thick dark red hair and the dark eyebrows that lifted in surprise at his question.

"Well, good luck," said Marvell with a smile, opening the silent, well-greased door. On these periodic visits, he was always led immediately into one of the many little parlors, furnished with polished chairs and tables, which made up the hive of activity in which Ben flourished. Here were drawn up in dignified privacy the articles of corporation, the trusts, the final testaments. Marvell had been coming regularly every six months since the end of the war for a check-up of his statements as trustee, executor, whatever he was supposed to be in the line of duty, and to make, also, a public accounting of his own business affairs. It increased his sense of dignity to talk with Ben on an impersonal business level and it also gave him the freedom of Boston for a whole day. He usually spent it among the wholesalers in the North End where he bought his supplies, reading engineering news in the library, watching the progress of whatever city construction was going on, occasionally making friends with the boss on the job. This attention to professional detail gave him the feeling he was somehow engaged in important work, and though he often saw through the delusion when he returned to Colcoru and the simpler jobs of plumbing and repairing, it buoyed him for the time being. He wished Ben would hurry up for he wanted to get on with his own day. He thought again of the young man he'd just bumped into. Back yeaterday. If I were returning after at least three years of war, what would I think of this year, of this place? A new decade sounded promising but it had begun with the threat of the Volstead Act and blown up in the middle with a local explosion in South Braintree—would near-beer mean anything to a boy like that? Or the names Sacco and Vanzetti? For that matter did it mean anything to Ben, he wondered, as he rose to shake hands with him.

Ben carried a portfolio of papers and a ledger bound in gray cloth. His glasses swung from the black cord and his waistcoat was piped with a white braid, a touch that Marvell understood, now, marked a special meeting of directors or overseers.

"To bad to leave the country on such a glorious fall day, Marvell," Ben greeted him. "It must be lovely out there now."

"No east wind, warmer than here," Marvell agreed.

"First, your signature for these, and then I'll be glad to go over your books. . . ."

As he watched Marvell read over each document before signing, a procedure of which he highly approved, Ben admitted to himself that he couldn't puzzle him out. His attention to every detail, his almost childish insistence that Ben's accountant go over the books of his business in Colcord, the new interest with which he followed political and economic headlines—too liberal an interest for Ben—the distance he kept between them personally, due to Proctor, no doubt, though it was so unnecessary, struck Ben as being most unnatural. The man had changed. And he could not give much praise to Prohibition, either, for it had been in force less than a year. Just after the Armistice, Ben remembered it well, because his office had been closed, of course, and Marvell had come all the way down to see him and had returned the following day, "arvell had set up this new routine. First he had apologized for the party, which Ben had almost forgotten. Actually, Ben realised with some regret, he had given Marvell up as a bad case. Then he had sought intelligent information of his own affairs and Kit's. Ben's approval had been so warm that he had ventured to speak of Proctor, but Marvell froze up. "I shall never discuss him with anyone. I prefer you not to mention him again."

Marvell had blotted the papers and was now waiting for him. "How is Kit?" asked Ben nervously, feeling that his thoughts were indiscreet even in this private cell.

"Fine. Doing well in school. Very independent—" he smiled fondly. "She's got a marvelous memory and she's in a lot of plays."

"I wish you would bring her in to see us sometime," said Ben and meant it sincerely.

"When she's older, we'll be coming in to the theatre." Again that evasion of anything personal. "It's very good of Fanny to bother with her shopping. How are Fanny and the boys?"

"Fine, everything is fine but the world," said Ben cheerfully.

"What's the matter with it?" Suddenly Marvell recalled the red-headed veteran who had defied the past and the future. It was his world more than Ben's.

"Well, we're rather deep in the woods, don't you think? Unemployment costs are still high. And I don't like the vote for women."

"Why not?"

"Actually, it's unfair. It gives many men two votes, so to speak. Fanny will ask my advice—so will most of the ladies. A democracy can't have carbon copies, you know."

Marvell roared. "That's the most complex legal thinking I've caught you at, yet. You just double your worth, Ben."

"There is the working class, said Ben reprovingly. "No matter you've managed well. We've gone over the inventory—it's remarkably low."

"I shopped around with the small jobbers," interrupted Marvell. "There's not much overhead nor competition."

"You've managed well," Ben stubbornly insisted. "It's on a small scale but sound. Didn't you have trouble with labor during the boom?"

"Not much; sometimes I did a trade. I used inexperienced men but now they're coming back. We'll lay low for a while and then—prices will rise high, Ben. And costs are going down. This isn't a bad time to buy. I am going to look around for an investment soon."

It was on the tip of Ben's tongue to invite him to lunch, but he decided against it. They might run into Proctor—no sense in creating an awkward scene. He'd have to get thoroughly over his anger. Ben had an idea that since the birth of Proctor's son, Proctor had cooled off somewhat in his righteous indignation against his brother-in-law. Not Marvell. That was a pity—the man was an excellent executive. Barlow and Abbot could have used him to perfection during the war and might again if, as Marvell said, there was a boom coming. Suddenly as had the impression that Marvell was an exceptionally good actor. That under this impersonal, independent tack of his, he was lonely out there in that backwash. "Your good neighbor, Miss Searle, hasn't returned?"

"No, and Kit's pretty disappointed. They were great friends." He was aware of the undue emphasis he had put on the last sentence. That was silly. He had no responsibility there, none whatsoever, he argued as he had before over and over. She had to get out of that rut sometime. And leave more room for me, he added, half amused. But, he thought fiercely, am I not sticking to this—this back-breaking trench digging, rut or not, that's the first line of defense in making Kit's brand new world.

O. H. CRAFT, 2661 W. Broad-st, has been in the real estate business on the Hilltop for 21 years. A native of Gallopolis, and the son of a farmer, Craft came to Columbus in 1916. His work is divided between selling real estate, managing property and developing commercial enterprises. Craft was instrumental in the promotion of the shopping center on W. Broad-st, between Chase and Roys-avs. At present another similar development is in progress. According to Craft, 98% of his business is on the Hilltop.

CHURCH CLASS TO MEET

The Semper Fidelis Class of Hilltop Lutheran Church will meet at 8 p. m. Thursday in the church parlors. Hostesses will be Mrs. Bernard Lasher and Edna Nelson. Mrs. William Hallsteine will lead the devotions.

Wins Refrigerator On Quiz Show

Mrs. Marion Rein of 267 Latchworth-av, won a new Admiral refrigerator last week as a telephone-participant on WTVN's "Stop the Music" give-away show.

Mrs. Rein, a clerk at the Board of Education, was unable to identify the mystery tune, but did know one of the tunes which won her the prize.

TO ADDRESS MORTICIANS

Jerry Spears, first vice-president of the Ohio Funeral Directors Association, will discuss the propcsed code of ethics for Ohio funeral directors Friday when the association holds its Mid-Winter Educational Institute at the Deshler Wallick Hotel. The institute will be held Friday and Saturday.

ATTENTION HOUSEWIVES!

We are considering a plan to open a shop on the Hilltop for the purpose of selling women's and children's good used clothing. Many of us have fine dresses, coats, evening gowns, formals, etc., that we no longer have any use for. Our children may have outgrown some of their perfectly good clothing. OUR IDEA IS TO MAINTAIN A SHOP, WHERE YOU CAN PLACE THESE ARTICLES, TO BE EXHIBITED FOR SALE, ON A CONSIGNMENT BASIS.

If you make things at home—needle work, crocheting, or knitting, plaster plaques, or gift items, these also can be placed on exhibit for sale.

In case you would like to see such an outlet established on the Hilltop, please write or call at once, stating what suitable items you have to offer for sale in such a shop. If the response is good, we intend to begin at once, at a location already selected. Write immediately to Box 2, care of The Hilltop Record, or call RA. 1967.

Barrett Beats West Jrs. 28-27; Takes League Lead

By Dave Miller

In probably the most thrilling game ever witnessed on West's much-played basketball floor, Barrett defeated West Junior, 28 to 27, in a thrilling finish last Friday afternoon.

The local juniors, who entered the Barrett fray with an undefeated mark in two outings, will play host again to Linden McKinley Junior at West this afternoon. The locals draw the league bye on Friday.

The Barrett fray was a highly exciting affair. Even a person not much interested in junior high ball would have enjoyed the contest from start to finish.

The game was a nip and tuck affair all the way, with the two top individual point-makers in the league changing their spots. Jim James, Barrett forward, who, previous to Friday's outing, was tied with West's Jerry Trabue with 27 points for the league's top scoring honors, scored 11 points to Trabue's six. West's Bob Thornton tallied 10 points to be runner-up at the present time to James with 34 markers.

In the opening quarter, the local juniors looked a very good outfit as compared to Barrett. Buckets and a free throw by Trabue, Thornton and Doug Clark gave West a 7-4 lead early in the fray, but two buckets by James of the visitors made it 8-7. However, the two local guards, Dick Hutchison and Bill Haire, made good on consecutive longies as compared to James' free throw as the opening period ended, 11-9, with West ahead.

Barrett outscored the locals, 7-3, and grabbed an 18-14 margin at halftime. The fast tempo at which the game went in the initial period slowed down considerably and a rather dull second quarter therefore resulted.

Another low scoring period took place in the third canto, with Barrett still holding their slim lead. West held a 19-16 lead with 33 seconds left in the period, but two straight buckets by Jim Allen and James, the only points scored in the quarter by Barrett, provided the visitors with a 20-19 lead at the finish of the quarter.

Then the firewarks began. West took the lead on a hook shot by Thornton and a free throw a few seconds later. However, Charles Scurlock and Allen followed with pushes from the side, three minutes apart, to give Barrett still a lead of 24-23. Dick Hutchison's free throw tied the score at the automatic time, 24-all. Fifty-three seconds remained in the game.

A lot happened in those precious seconds, but not for West. Jerry Trabue missed one free throw but made good on his second free toss, and West had forged in front, and instead of "stalling" the ball the remaining seconds, they elected to try for a basket, and a bad pass was intercepted by Barrett's Scurlock, who tribbled the entire length of the floor, and just as he went in for the shot, was fouled.

Scurlock then sank both free throws and, under the new rules, Barrett received the ball out of bounds. The ultimate winners then began to stall, and as the clock showed 23 seconds remaining, Trabue was shoved under the bucket by Scurlock, and made his free throw, tying the score at 26-all.

Scurlock then received another free throw, which he converted, but with three seconds left West guard Bill Haire missed his first free throw, but with the pressure really on he sank the second to tie the count at 27-all, and West took the ball out of bounds, only to again foul Center Charles Scurlock, who made the free throw, and won the ball game—and whatta ball game.

16 OSU Student Teachers Sent To West High

By Myron T. Seifert

Sixteen seniors in the college of education, Ohio State University, have been assigned to West High School teachers for direction in their teacher-training program required of all college students who aspire to become teachers, Principal I. F. Young said today.

Prospective pedagogues and the West High teachers who will supervise them include Howard E. Hill with Mary Baker; Howard E. Nicklaus, assigned to George Heitz; Harold J. Peters, to Mrs. Estell Bell; Joanne Maretz to Lola Forbes; Donald E. Jenks to Jack Shuster; Ed Krebs to Arthur Miller; Alwood W. Griffith to Kenneth Love; John F. Neidecker to Arthur Buchanan; Melvin Sanford to Mary Murphy and Virginia Liggett.

Charles F. Tomlin to Dave Randall; William Woodyard to A. B. Cole; Rosalyn Jaan Bailey to Mrs. Florence Gardner; Jerry Schwarzkopf to R. E. Teichert; Ray Richard Middleton to Rufe Glass; and Peter Perini to Coaches Rufe Glass, George Williams and Orrie Lehman.

Two Items In Record Ad Find Ready Buyers

One of our readers in Bexley, Mrs. Ivan Bull, 141 S. Dawsonav, has used the Record want ads on several occasions when she had something to sell—and with good results.

Recently she advertised a boy's bicycle and an automatic draft regulator. Within 24 hours they were both purchased by Hilltoppers.

Every week, more and more people are discovering that the phrase, "Hilltop Record Want Ads Get Results" is not just a meaningless slogan, but a well-proven fact!

Why don't YOU turn your surplus belongings into ready cash—the easy, economical way? It's so easy to place an ad in the Record; simply dial RA. 1125. Payment can be made at your convenience.

When a man begins to really that he knows little, he is showing the first signs of wisdom.

Linden Underdog In Tuesday Fray On West Court

By Dave Miller

West High's basketballers should retain their undefeated City League mark after tonight's fray on the West court against Linden McKinley.

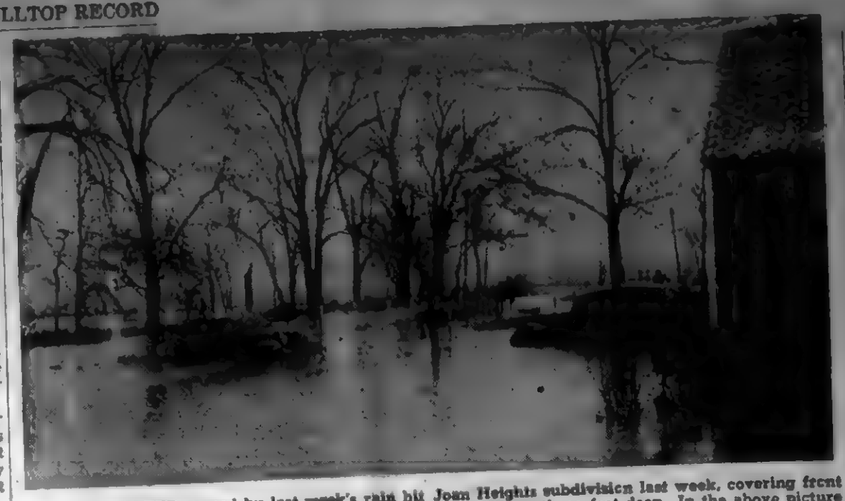
The Linden Panthers enter the fray with an overall record of three wins and six losses, while West goes into the game with a 4-5 record.

The Cowboys are undefeated in two league engagements, while Linden has dropped both their league appearances.

Linden's only returning letter man from the 1948-49 squad was Paul Burns, however he has not played in the last three McKinley frays, and the reason is not yet known.

The Cowboys have come a long way in the '49-50 basketball campaign. After mid-year, when South loses Paul Ebert and Central misses John. Wolfe, both by graduation, the Cowboys can consider themselves just about on the same level as any one else around the City Loop.

West will depend a lot on Guard Bill Thrush and Center Phil Young, their two scoring aces, and another, point-maker who has attracted a lot of attention in his last three ball games, Jerry Johnson. Jerry hit for eight points in the opener at Newark, but in the Bexley, Grandview, Fostoria and Aquinas frays didn't see so much action However, in substituting for Guard Jack Winnestaffer at Bellefontaine and Chillicothe, he hit for seven and 13 points respectively, and in last Friday's North game he collected 13.



Linden has defeated Rosary, 37-28; St. Charles, 34-30; and Upper Arlington, 48-45; while losing out to Grandview, 41-22; Zanesville, 46-39; Central, 56-30; Marietta, 29-24, and South, 78-47.

The Cowboys and Panthers have met one common foe, that being Grandview. The Cowboys forced the Bobcats into an overtime before losing, 52-50; while Linden dropped a 41-22 decision in the first game of the year to the Bob Dudley-coached quintet.

Top scorer of the Johnny Rawn coached Lindentes is Forward Bob Weber, who has 72 points in nine games.

The probable starters:

	Linden
F.	Bob Weber (5-11)
F.	Don Mouser (5-10)
C.	Bob Vannett (5-11)
G.	Larry Safreed (5-7)
G.	Bob Davis (5-10)
	West
F.	Jim Rudolph (5-11)
F.	Paul Ellingsworth (6-1)
C.	Phil Young (6-1)
G.	Bill Thrush (5-9)
G.	Jerry Johnson (6-0)

HIGH WATER caused by last week's rain hit Joan Heights subdivision last week, covering front yards and parts of N. Southampton-av with water as much as three feet deep. In the above picture is the car of Harold Ankrom, 358 N. Southampton-av, and the car of Gordon Grumbach, 362 N. Southampton-av. The Ankroms say that the water rises to this level nearly every year, although winter floods are rare.

G.M. Announces Plans To Expand Local Plant

Work To Be Completed By May 1; Expect Personnel Increase of 450

Plans to expand the plant on Georgesville-rd were revealed today by J. L. Conlon, General Manager of the Ternstedt Division of General Motors. In making the announcement Mr. Conlon paid tribute to the employees of the plant, the quality of work being produced, and to the citizens and city of Columbus where such pleasant relationships are enjoyed —all strong influences in deciding to expand here.

Paul L. Jones, Resident Manager of the plant, added to the announcement that the plans contemplate adding 128,000 square feet of floor space by extending the north side of the present building 160 feet.

Some 450 additional employees are expected to be needed, Mr. Jones said, when the building expansion is completed and in full production. Construction will begin as quickly as possible and be completed, he anticipated, by May 1.

Notes and Nubbins From Here and There: Doris Middleton Bresko and two children are in Columbus, up from Florida for a vacation . . . Twig 42 recently sent a letter to Billie Chrisman at Benjamin Franklin Hospital, signed by all the girls, and written—you guessed it—on toilet tissue . . . Coming events in the blue or pink bootie department include Betty and Claire Wiseman, Dot and Dave Randall, Penny and Dick Smith, Alice and Paul McDonald . . . Leo Phillips and the Mrs. are down Florida way but we understand he plans to be back in time to take part in the Hilltop Minstrel which is set for April 12-13-14 . . . Rose and Ed Ferguson are about to become Hilltoppers again, having purchased a home at 3048 Crescent-dr . . . Mrs. Kathryn Cramer and daughter, Marilyn, will be present for the New Orleans Mardi Gras this year . . . Modern Printing Co., Wheatland and Broad, will move ere long, just a few doors east of Central on Sullivant . . . May has been set as the month for the middle aisle promenade for Nancy Bailey and Jack Moore . . . Mrs. C. O. Shaver is the new treasurer of Highland Avenue Friends Church . . . George Terry, the Sullivant-av barber, is back at his shop.

Flowers of the Week

A big bouquet of Rosebud posies to Jack Sensenbrenner this week as he winds up his year as president of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club, and a number of other civic duties on the Hilltop. He has been a real spark plug and deserves the applause of the community for his enthusiasm and well directed effort.

Bids Still Open On Post Office Contract Station

The post office has received one bid to date on a contract station on the Hilltop which would provide post office services for residents in the vicinity of Sullivant and Nashoba-ave.

The store, possibly a drug store, if the bid is approved by the main post office, would sell stamps, issue registered letters, money and postal orders and parcel post, according to Erwin S. Merz, assistant postmaster. No delivery or box service will be provided, Merz said, however a mail box would be located in front of the store.

At present, similar stations are located at 984 W. Broad-st, and in New Rome.

Merz said no information was yet available on the new location of the Hilltop station. The local post office is required to vacate its present premises.

1950 Plymouth On Display Today

The new Plymouth for 1950 will be on display today at the West Side Motors showroom at 1350 W. Broad-st.

The Plymouth for this year will be known as "The car that likes to be compared", says Ed Planck of West Side Motors.

Plymouth this year will offer more comfort and safety, and better performance and reliability, Planck added. The public is invited to drop in and see the new car on display.

John Matrozas Buys Hilltop Store

Georgiton's candy and ice cream store at 2429 W. Broad-st has been sold to John Matrozas who will open a new business there in the near future.

In a recent story the Record told of the closing of the store, but failed to report that it had been sold. It will be opened after remodeling. George Georgiton, former proprietor, will continue to operate his store at 2763 W. Broad-st. He has been in business at that location for about two years. He had operated the other store for 12 years.

The Lost Is Found Via Record Ad

When Mrs. Clarence Deitchle, 2516 Eakin-rd, discovered that her bracelet was missing, she wisely placed an ad in the Record's "Lost" column.

Result: A lady, who had found the bracelet, was reading a copy of the Record in a Hilltop beauty shop. She saw the ad, and promptly returned the lost item to Mrs. Deitchle.

Many people with various needs are scanning the Record's Classified columns each week. Perhaps some of them are looking for the ad that YOU haven't placed yet.

West Side News Changes Ownership

Change of ownership of The West Side News is being announced this week.

Effective today the News is being published by C. Carlton Hartley, publisher of The Hilltop Record. 2465 W. Broad-st. The paper is being printed in the Record plant.

The transaction between the former publisher, G. D. Cremeans and his son, James, was completed today with Hartley assuming publication of this week's paper.

The News now in its fourth year of publication, covers the area west of the Scioto River to Central-av. The Hilltop Record serves the area west of Central.

A manager for the new paper will be named within a short time and numerous improvements are planned. Formerly a tabloid paper, the News was changed to standard size with today's issue. It is distributed by mail on Thursday morning.

Combination advertising rates in the News and Record are available through Record advertising salesmen.

New HBA Officers Are Installed

Judge Cecil J. Randall, 1989 W. Broad-st, installed the new officers of the Hilltop Business Association at the HBA meeting Monday evening.

Ed Witherspoon, proprietor of the Better Home Center, was installed as the 1950 president of the association. Other officers installed were John Nippert, first vice president; Dr. Palmer Cordray, second vice president; Elmer Hegenberger, treasurer; and Sam Alford, Joe Briggs, and Dr. Ray J. Miller, members of the board of trustees.

Harold K. Schellenger, on leave from the Byer and Bowman advertising agency, was the principal speaker of the evening. The topic of his speech was 'Making Tomorrow's Customers." He stressed the importance of businesses maintaining good public relations. "Service and courtesy often make the difference between failure and success," he told members of the association.

Retiring President Phil Stout was awarded a pen desk set for his service to the business association during the past year.

City Recreation Plans Outlined To Kiwanis Club

N. J. Barack, city recreation director, told members of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club the city's plans for improving recreation facilities on the Hilltop at the club's luncheon meeting today.

Barack said that his department was following the plan outlined in the Batchelor survey of the recreation needs of the city, but that his department could go only as far the the public allowed.

He said that providing adequate funds for the recreation needs of the community was the responsibility of the public and that planned developments would benefit the entire city.

At the Jan. 26 meeting of the club, Lyle Clark of Ohio State University will show the official movies of the Rose Bowl game.

Mrs. Ethel Jenkins Funeral Thursday

Deep Problem Solved – Boys Out of Mud

A policeman came to the rescue of two young boys stuck in the mud near St. Mary Magdalen School in the 500 block of S. Powell-av, Thursday.

The youngsters, about 7 and 9 years old, walked into a pile of loose earth that had been scraped by a bulldozer and were unable to get free.

Mrs. Evelyn Ferris, 506 S. Powell-av, called the police. Patrolman Raymond E. McKnight, 137 Lechner-av, was sent to the scene. He and Gene McClain, 13, of 138 N. Chase-av, waded out and freed the two boys.

After their rescue, the boys ran home before the patrolman could get their names.

16 OSU Student Teachers Sent To West High

By Myron T. Seifert

Sixteen seniors in the college of education, Ohio State University, have been assigned to West High School teachers for direction in their teacher-training program required of all college students who aspire to become teachers, Principal I. F. Young said today.

Prospective pedagogues and the West High teachers who will supervise them include Howard E. Hill with Mary Baker; Howard E. Nicklaus, assigned to George Heitz; Harold J. Peters, to Mrs. Estell Ball; Joanne Maretz to Lola Forbes; Donald E. Jenks to Jack Shuster; Ed Krebs to Arthur Miller; Alwood W. Griffith to Kenneth Love; John F. Neidecker to Arthur Buchanan; Melvin Sanford to Mary Murphy and Virginia Liggett.

Charles F. Tomlin to Dave Randall; William Woodyard to A. B. Cole; Rosalyn Jean Bailey to Mrs. Florence Gardner; Jerry Schwarzkopf to R. E. Teichert; Ray Richard Middleton to Rufe Glass; and Peter Perini to Coaches Rufe Glass, George Williams and Orrie Lehman.

Glass Blower To Appear At Rome PTA Meet

The members and their families of the Rome PTA will be given a program at the Rome School building by William E. Leonard, 694 Overbrook-dr, chief glass technician at Ohio State university, on Thursday evening, Jan. 19, at 8 p. m.

Mr. Leonard will give actual demonstrations of glass blowing and explain different glass techniques. He learned his art from his brother who learned it from a famous German glass-blower.

Mr. Leonard is truly the right arm of the scientist. Where you find the scientist and research chemist, you will find the glass-blower, who is probably the forgotten man of science, and seldom heard of in this connection.

Hilltoppers To Take Part In Gahanna Show

Several Hilltoppers will be present for a special entertainment at Gahanna on Wednesday, Jan. 18, at 8 p. m., at the Lincoln High School auditorium. The show is being sponsored by the Gahanna Lions Club.

Norman Diehl will act as master of ceremonies.

Other acts on the program include Kay Smith at the piano; Keith Miller, accordion; the Alberry Twins in a tap dance; the Magical Menges in magic; Bucky Buckaroos in western music; Jack Foulk, electric guitar; Gloria Page, ventriloquist; Shirley Clime, acrobatic dancing; Wilber Harden, novelty; Jean Weissert, marimba; Shorty Wells, bone rattler.

The show will be built around a three-act talent show from Gahanna. A small admission charge will be made.

Chief Seeks Extra Police To Halt City Crime Wave

Two more safecracking earlier this week in the area just west of the city brought the score close to 15 such burglaries on the Hilltop, West Side and western vicinity of the city during the past three months.

In an attempt to stem off this wave of burglaries and safecrackings, Safety Director C. C. Cole and Police Chief Frank Harrison, himself a Hilltopper, have said they will make attempts to enlarge the police force. They were to have met with Mayor Rhodes this week to discuss the possibility of adding at least 66 more men to the force.

Last week a lumber company on the West Side was burglarized and the 'boodlum was nearly caught. ADT alarms brought nine police cruisers to the scene. Several shots were exchanged and the burglar was almost cornered. However, he did escape. $1,000 was also taken from Farm Bureau Coop store safe at Hilliards late last week.

None On Hilltop

During the past two weeks, no major burglaries or safecrackings have occurred on the Hilltop. But during the few weeks previous, a series of well-planned safecrackings, apparently by the same burglar, had this community stirred up. It is obvious the criminals are allowing the Hilltop to "cool off". In the meantime, the burglars are striking the area that surrounds the Hilltop and West Side.

Latest burglaries occurred just west of the community when a 1000-pound safe was cracked at the Marble Cliff Oil Co., Trabue and Dublin-rds, and at the Farmers Exchange, Galloway, where the burglars found there was no safe. Both are in the county.

Seventy-five dollars was looted from the oil company safe.

Need More Police

Police heads are agreed that more patrolmen are needed. According to Cole, the force has lost 66 man-hours when "we shifted to a 40-hour week." However, at the present time, only 48 applicants for the police force are on the approved list. The list was approved Tuesday by the Civil Service Commission.

There is room for 150 applicants on the eligible list. But a sufficient number did not make application and participate in the last examination, which was held in December. Young men, interested in joining the force, cannot help bring the department up to its needed strength until the commission sets the date for another examination.

Usually exams are held every two years. However, according to a commission spokesman, in view of the need for more police, another examination will probably be given in the near future. Applications will not be accepted until the date is set.

To be qualified to apply, men must be between 23 and 30 years of age; five feet, nine inches to six feet, four inches in height; and between 150 and 225 pounds in weight.

Hilliards Merchants Hire Watchman

Merchants of Hilliards, who have been visited recently by safe crackers, have taken matters into their own hands and hired a full-time deputy sheriff to act as night watchman for the town's leading merchants. The watchman is a former physical education student at Ohio State University.

The merchants expressed the hope that the village council would provide enough money in its 1950 appropriations to provide everyone in the community with 24-hour police protection.

Mrs. E. Atkinson Rites Saturday

Emma Jane Atkinson, 78, of 2040 Fairmont-av, died Thursday at Westerville. She was a member of the Glenwood Methodist Church and the WBA.

Mrs. Atkinson is survived by four granddaughters, Mrs. Rachel Stinson, Mrs. Clarabel Bareck, Laurie and Jean Burbank, and one brother, John Trainer.

Friends may call at the Wylie S. Shroyer Funeral Home, 2553 W. Broad-st, where services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Saturday. Interment will be in Sunset Cemetery.

RECORD WORKER HURT

Lee Koontz, stereotyper at the Hilltop Record, cut the little finger of his right hand on a circular saw in the Record shop Wednesday morning. He was treated at Mt. Carmel Hospital.

Westway VFW To Hold Annual Banquet Feb. 11

The anniversary party of the Westway Post 3441 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be held Feb. 11 at 7 p. m. in the Columbus Maennerchor Club at 966 S. High-st.

The anniversary will mark the end of the current membership drive for which a goal of 100 new or reinstated members has been set by Commander Boystel. A radio, donated by the Wolfe Electric Co., will be presented to the member bringing in the most new members by that ttime.

Herbert Kunzi is chairman of the banquet and is assisted by Raymond Boord. Reservations must be in the hands of the chairman by Feb. 9.

Tickets are on sale at The Hilltop Van and Storage, 2830 W. Broad?st; Wolfe Electric Co., 2427 W. Broad-st; Ezza Barber Shop, 2820 W. Broad-st, and 191 S. Cypress-av.

MRS. ALLENDER IMPROVED

Mrs. Carolyn Allender, the young Hilltop mother who was flown to Boston, Mass., last Saturday in a Navy plane for emergency artificial kidney treatment, has shown "slight improvement," M. H. Tapia of Mobile, Alabama, her father, told The Record this morning.

Hilltop 'Y' Meeting Set For Feb. 9

The annual meetipg of the Hilltop branch YMCA will be held Thursday, Feb. 9, at 6:30 p. m., at the Central YMCA auditorium, 40 W. Long-st, C. C. Hartley, chairman of the board, announced today.

A report of 1949 activities and a discussion of plans for 1950 will be made by Averille Thorn, local "Y" secretary. An election of four new members of the board will also be held.

All "Y" members and those interested in the community project, are invited to attend the banquet. Tickets are available from the secretary and any member of the board. Tickets are $1.50.

George M. Brown Dies In Lancaster

George M. Brown, 908 Forest-av, Lancaster, O., formerly of the Hilltop, died Monday evening at White Cross Hospital.

Surviving are his wife, Dollie, three sons, Willis and Herschel of Lancaster, and Marion of McArthur, O., and four daughters, Mrs. Hazel Jones, Lancaster, Mrs. H. B. Herwick of Creola, O., Mrs. B. J. Elliott, 220 Binns-blvd, and Retha Brown of Columbus; six grandchildren and one great granddaughter.

Hilltop Twins Are First In City In 1950

THE FIRST TWINS BORN IN THE CITY IN 1950 were born to Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Alkire, 2460 Steele-av. The babies were born at 12:08 and 12:12 p. m., Jan. 2, in Mt. Carmel Hospital. A boy and a girl, the twins have been named James Michael and Janice Ann. The babies were delivered by Dr. Jack Miles, 2586 W. Broad-st. The Alkires have one other child, Jacqueline, three years old.

Tom Ellison and Janet LeValley Starling Commencement Speakers

Tom Ellison and Janet LeValley were selected in the semi-annual speech contest to give the speeches at the Starling Jr. High School commencement on Wednesday, Jan. 25, at 8:00 p. m. Their titles are respectively, "Education for Living in a Democracy" and "Do We Need a College Education?"

Judith Kaiser, Juanita Shaver, and James Knapp were chosen to give the speeches at the Court of Honor Assembly on Thursday, Jan. 12. The respective subjects were "Children of Today—Citizens of Tomorrow," "Vacations for Girls" and "What We Mean by Democracy."

Others in the contest were: Jack Flemming, Janet Grimm, Evelyn Neil, and Phyllis Wenger.

Each semester one of the major projects of the 9A's is the writing of essays and speeches. Each 9A pupil writes a speech and gives it in his 9A English Class. From these are chosen those to compete in the final tryout. From these are selected the Court of Honor and commencement speakers.

Judge Randall Files For Re-election

Judge Cecil J. Randall of 1989 W. Broad-st, Tuesday filed petitions seeking re-election to his seat in the Commop Pleas Court. Judge Randall, who is presiding jurist, became a member of the court in 1930. A Republican, he filed petitions along with three other members of his court, Judges John R. King and Joseph M. Clifford, Republicans, and Judge Dana F. Reynolds, Democrat.

Coffman - Knott Wedding Of Nov. 26 Is Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Earle N. Knott, Jr.

At 7:30 p. m. Nov. 26, Miss Wanda June Coffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Coffman, 103 Eldon-av, was united in marriage with Mr. Earle N. Knott, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Knott, Sr., of Washington, D. C. The Rev. Aaron L. Roth officiated at the double ring candlelight ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of traditional white slipper satin with peter pan collar of lace. The long fitted sleeves came to points over the hands. The full gathered skirt extended into a graceful cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of illusion, edged with Chantilly lace, was held in place by a tiara of crystal beads and tiny seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with a corsage of white roses, white stephanotis and white streamers.

Mrs. Albert Watts, matron of honor for her sister, dressed in an ice blue faille taffeta colonial gown, carried an arm bouquet of deep pink carnations.

Miss Gilberta Coffman, bridesmaid for her sister, and Mrs. W. M. Peeples, bridesmatron, wore identical gowns of teal blue faille taffeta and carried arm bouquets of light pink carnations.

Best man for Mr. Knott was his cousin, Mr. Howard McDonald of Romney, W. Va. Seating the guests were Mr. Albert Watts and Mr. Bernard Haughn. Alternate ushers were Mr. Floyd Coffman and Mr. Robert Milstead.

The reception was held in the fellowship room of the church. Hostesses were Mrs. Robert Milstead, Mrs. Clifford Aikin, Mrs. Sam Millisor, Miss Nova Anderson, Miss Helen Miller, Miss Phyllis Quinn and Miss Mary Knott, sister of the groom.

For going away the bride changed to a dress of lavender, with forest green accessories, black hat and coat.

The bride is a graduate of West High School and Grant Hospital School of Nursing. The groom is a graduate of Allegheny High School of Cumberland, Md., served three years with USMC and is now associated with the Army Security Agency in Arlington, Va.

Their new address is 1712 S. Taylor-st, Apt. No. 2, Arlington, Va.

Girl Scout News

By Pat Martindale

After singing Christmas carols over an amplifier at Burgess and Sullivant-av, the Girl Scouts of District 8 attended a Christmas party at John Burroughs auditorium Dec. 20. Around the Christmas tree in the center of the auditorium, baskets were placed for the troops to fill with gifts for the state hospital.

The 300 girl scouts attending the party were entertained by the St. Mary Magdalene and St. Aloysius scouts who sang "Adeste Fideles"; Mitzy Karabinos sang "White Christmas", and Mrs. Jane Forster who recently came to the U. S. from England and India, was guest speaker. Tea was served by Mrs. C. O. McNamee, Mrs. Lowell, Mrs. Hardacre, Mrs. Forster and Mrs. Haughn. The party was under the supervision of Mrs. H. C. Booth, district chairman, and the following committee: Mrs. M. Meisner and Mrs. R. Eyerman, gift chairmen, refreshment committees, Mrs. W. Glass and arrangements, Mrs. R. Haughn, Mrs. C. O. McNamee and Mrs. Perl Cropper. Mrs. K. L. Martindale was publicity chairman.

A day camp committee meeting was held last Friday night at the home of Mrs. H. C. Booth, 319 S. Roys-av. The 1950 day camp director for district 8 is Mrs. George Allmon, 3760 Big Run-rd, Grove City.

The Grove City Girl Scout and Brownie Troops held their Christmas parties the week before Christmas. Brownie Troop 223 with leader Mrs. Mathers and Intermediate Troops 204 with leader Mrs. George Allmon and Troop 225 with leader Mrs. Houghton made their Christmas gifts out of medal. Troop 204 joined with a Bob White Patrol Boy Scouts of Troop 86 in collecting food for the Welfare Council of Grove City, which was distributed to needy families.

The John Burroughs Girl Scouts and Brownies met in the school auditorium Friday, Dec. 16, after school to sing Christmas carols and eleven Brownie troops gave gifts to the Columbus State Hospital. Five Girl Scout troops also participated in giving gifts to the Hospital. The guest at the get-together was Mrs. Clayton Stickel who told two Christmas stories. About 185 attended this gathering. Brownie Troop 145 under the leadership of Mrs. Ralph Hunter, took a trip to the Taystee Bakery and through the Moores and Ross plant. This troop also made scrap books for the Hannah Neil Mission. A new Brownie troop, 149, made scrap books for a children's home in Cedartown, Ga. This troop also filled a Christmas basket of food for a needy family. The leaders of this troop are Mrs. Carl Frazier, assistants Mrs. Ruth Chesser and Mrs. E. R. Callahan. Girl Scout Troop 152 made scrap books for the Hannah Neil Mission. These girls also enjoyed a Christmas party at the home of their leader, Mrs. Raymond Haughn.

St. Aloysius Intermediate Girl Scout Troops took part on the Special Freight radio program over WCOL Dec. 24. St. Mary Magdalene Troop 203 and West High Troop 146 also participated in the program. Paula Kienle and Joan Hoover of Troop 240 and Patricia O'Brien of Troop 251 had speaking parts. Mitzy Karabinos, Troop 203, sang a solo, Lois Hunter, Troop 146, played a piano selection and Barbara Booth, Troop 146, took the part of a little Czechoslovakian girl. The script was written by Pat Martindale.

Neighborhood girl scout committee meeting dates are as follows: St. Aloysius, Monday, Jan. 16, at 1:30 p. m. in the school annex; Grove City, Monday, Jan. 16, at 8 p. m.; West High, Monday, Jan. 16, at 1:30 p. m. in the school.

Fouls Make Difference As West Wins Overtime Game

By Dave Miller

West High's star guard, Jerry Johnson, a sophomore, collected only seven points in Tuesday evening's fray with Linden McKinley, but four of those precious points came when they were most needed.

The Hilltoppers were forced to go into an overtime with the Panthers, but came out on the right side of a 46 to 41 victory at West.

Johnson pushed in two precious baskets just seconds after the overtime had begun, in which it started wth the score deadlocked at 40-all.

The game was a bitterly fought affair, with Linden getting the worst end of the deal, losing three man by the personal foul route, Forward Bob Woodring, Center Bob Vannette, and Guard Louie Troutman. West had three boys, with four personals, but lost none by the five-foul ruling.

In the overtime, with just one second elapsed, Jack Winnestaffer was fouled, but missed the toss, and with West receiving the ball out of bounds, Johnson got a pass from Guard Bill Thrush, and drove in and under the bucket for a perfect two-pointer. A few seconds later, the 6-foot, 1-inch sophomore act, plunked in another "golden" basket on a follow-up shot. With one minute left in the overtime, Phil Young sank a push, and West held a commanding lead of 46-40 with 45 seconds remaining. With 19 seconds to go, Dick Himler of the visitors cashed in a free toss for the Panthers' lone score of the extra period.

The Cowboys' two ace scorers, Bill Thrush and Phil Young may appear by a box score that they were at their usual form, with Young collecting 15, and Thrush getting 11. However, anyone could easily tell that neither was at his best, both missing a lot of shots. However, Young's rebounding and those combined 26 points between those two, went a long way in determining the win for the locals.

Linden led only twice in the game, midway of the second quarter at 15-4 and 33-32 early in the final period.

The Cowboys hopped off to a 6-1 lead early in the opening period, but Linden fired back and cut it to 9-8, and after a duo of tosses by Johnson and Bill Thrush of the Cowboys and three points by Bob Woodling and Larry Sengle of the Panthers, the initial period ended in the locals' favor 11-9 and the halftime score was 21-18.

Both the third and fourth periods continued in see-saw fashion, with neither team possessing bigger than a three-point margin throughout the last half. WWith 3:20 to go in the fray, West shot out into the lead at 37-34, but Troutman's long side shot put the Panthers within one point of the Hilltoppers at the automatic ime. Young and Bob Weber of Linden exchanged under-the-bucket shots, and Winnestaffer and Himler matched free throws to provide West with a 40-39 lead. However, with 23 seconds to go, Weber sank a free throw to tie the game up and send the fray into an overtime. The rest is history.

Coach Johnny Rawn of the losers was very much pleased with the showing of his squad, although losing. He indicated that the personal fouls wrecked his team, but was pleased with the showing of some of his less-experienced boys. Rawn said: "Our boys were hurt tremendously by their own fouls. I'm not condemning the referees, for they did a fine job, but when I discovered that the boys had committed 27 personal fouls, with three boys fouling out, I decided right there that was the difference, and I'm sticking to it."

Linden out-basketed our Cowboys, 15-14, but the Cowboys made 18 free tosses to 11 for Linden.

Young was high scorer with 18 markers, followed by Troutman of the losers, who collected 18 points.

In the reserve fray, West's seconds went back into the victory column by taking a rather easy, 42 to 34 win over Linden's reserves. Ted Fiadt of the locals, although playing only the first half, was high point man with 13 points.

Roosevelt Beats Starling 38-19

Starling lost to Roosevelt at the latter school, 38-19, on Friday, Jan. 6. The game was played evenly up to the half when Roosevelt's supremacy in height and speed begun to show.

Roosevelt began in the third and fourth quarters to dominate the play almost completely. The high point men were Pointer for Roosevelt with 10 points and Fitfick and Buck for Starling with four points each.

The individual scores were:

Roosevelt	Starling
Debenion—3	Fiffick—4
Evans—2	Robison—3
Pointer—10	Knowles—1
Markin—7	Lee—3
Wright—8	Tinsely—2

Cowboys Win 48-41 Over Weak-Shooting North Team

By Dave Miller

West High's basketball quintet took its second straight City League win last Friday evening when they scored a 48-41 victory over a rather weak-shooting North five in the losers' gym.

The Cowboys trailed throughout the early stages of the opening period, but pulled up for keeps late in the quarter on Paul Ellingsworth's follow-up shot, and they were never behind from there on.

The Hilltoppers were again paced by their two scoring aces, Center Phil Young, and Guard Bill Thrush, both of whom collected 13 points, followed by another up-and-coming star, sophomore Guard Jerry Johnson, who collected 12.

The superion rebounding and shooting of Young, who fouled out in the fourth period, and Forward Jim Rudolph, won the game. The latter played his usual great game, not collecting too many points, but getting a goodly share of the rebounds in addition to excellent defensive work.

While we're mentioning the reasons for the win, we may also say that another factor in West's favor was the performance of North's ace forward, Bob Blanchard and Center Zack Willson. Blanchard, who collected 20 points in his last City League game against South, made only one basket throughout the evening. Willson, who is high scorer of the team, was held to seven points.

Polar Bear Coach Carroll Woodruf also said that the main factor for the loss was the low-scoring performance of Blanchard. "Bob only hit one bucket tonight, and Marysville held him scoreless while we were losing to them, and in both games. I believe that was the difference," said Woodruf.

North took a commanding margin of 8-3, their biggest of the game, with two minutes elapsed in the opening period. However, Johnson, Ellingsworth, Young and Thrush followed with consecutive buckets, giving West a 13-8 first quarter lead, and from there on, it was easy sailing.

The closest North could cut the margin down in the second period was five points twice, at 15-10 and 17-12. The biggest advantage the Cowboys enjoyed in the period was a 30-17 lead just before Dave Creamer of North sank two gratis tosses to make the halftime score, 30-19.

In the third quarter, North came within five points once and to within six points twice. West held only a 34-29 lead midway of the quarter and also held margins of 31-25 and 35-29. After that latter margin, Young and Thrush connected for three quick points as compared to Thomas' free throw which ended the third quarter in West's favor, 38-30.

By this time, the game was getting pretty much out of hand for the officials. There was considerable "pushing" under the buckets by both teams, and a couple of times, a player would "lose his head" and decide to pay a guy back for a foul committed on him that the referee didn't happen to see, and, "they certainly missed quite a few," as one North rooter put it.

So by the time the fourth period began, the fans were raging, and the players kept getting away with their antics. West, who seemed to be caught the majority of times, had two boys foul out; one with four personals, and another with three. North had one man with four and two with three personals.

North threatened the Cowboys only once, in the final canto, that being with only 13 seconds left in the game when North's Creamer sank two free throws to cut the Cowboys' margin to 46-41, but Bill Thrush followed with his 13th point of the night on a push-in to end the evening's totals.

In the preliminary, West reserves lost their first game in five outings so far this year, dropping a 41 to 36 decision to North's seconds.

Many Hilltoppers Numbered Among Camp Ground Association Owners

The Lancaster Methodist Camp Ground Association cottage owners and friends, including a legion of Hilltoppers who reside in Franklin County, will meet at the Central YMCA for a reunion and "Kick-Off" dinner Saturday, Jan. 14, at 4 p. m., chairman of the Franklin County group, Mrs. Leefe P. Turner, said today.

The Lancaster Methodist Camp Ground, one mile west of Lancaster on Fair-av, whose four-score years of service to Methodism, has featured many illustrious names in its auditorium, accommodating 5000 people, including the late Billy Sunday, Sam Small, George R. Stuart, William Jennings Bryan, Sam Jones, Homer Rodeheaver, many presidents of the United States and governors of Ohio. Hundreds of Franklin County residents every summer visit the celebrated Lancaster camp.

"Big Things Are in the Making at Lancaster Camp" will be the theme to be discussed, following the dinner, by B. A. Durrant, erstwhile Cussins & Fearn head and member of the Lancaster Camp board of trustees.

Thousands of young people, each summer, avail themselves of opportunities afforded at Central Ohio's largest camp ground.

Executive committee in charge of the Saturday night reunion met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Myron T. Seifert, 46 S. Westgate-av, Sunday, Jan. 8, and made plans for the reunion and dinner, to which all friends of Lancaster Camp are cordially invited.

Five members of the Lancaster Camp board of trustees, residents of Franklin County, were in attendance at the executive session and assisted in making arrangements for the Saturday night festivities. They were B. A. Durant, 1911 Tremont-rd, E. A. Garrison, 92 N. Ogden-av, Mrs. Leefe P. Turner, 775 E. Broad-st, Clarence Stevenson, Groveport, and Dr. Stanley L. Copeland, 707 Linwood-av.

Other members of the committee include Mrs. B. A. Durant, 1911 Tremont-rd; Mr. and Mrs. David Sawyer, Groveport; Mrs. Stanley Copeland, 707 Linwood-av; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Speckman, Sr., 74 S. Westgate-av; Charles Thomas, 1503 Lincoln-rd; Mrs. Thirza Knight, 1503 Lincoln-rd; Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Turley, 1483 N. High-st; Mrs. E. A. Garrison, 92 N. Ogden-av; Mrs. Clarence Stevenson, Groveport; Mr. and Mrs. Myron T. Seifert, 46 S. Westgate-av, and Marcella Crain, 363 Oak-st.

Reservations may be made by calling any of the above.

"Well, I'll tell you," said the doctor, "it's the only room we have available just now. Is your roommate really troublesome?"

"Why, the guy's nuts! He keeps looking around and saying 'No lions, no tigers, no elephants', and all the time the room's full of 'em!"

20 West High Seniors Take State Scholarship Test

A score of West High Seniors will participate in the general scholarship test Friday, Feb. 3, at Central High School conducted under the direction of the Ohio Scholarship Tests division of the State Department of Education in cooperation with the colleges and universities of the state of Ohio.

Local seniors who will take part in the state-wide competition include:

12B: Don Casteel, Fred Brock, David Cockfield, Walter Gibson, Larry Hoover, Newell Yaple, Don Shaver, La Vonne Beard, Pat Bennett, Sue Glass, Clara James, Shirley Mielke and Gay Wade.

The test will be objective and will cover essentials of the high school academic course of study. There are five subject-groups, each subject being allotted 60 points, thus making a total of 300 points for the test as a whole. One-half hour is allowed for taking each subject, two and one-half hours for the whole test. Every contestant will be required to take all of the five subjects, English, history, mathematics, science and reading.

A local place-certificate of award will be presented to the students who rank among the first 10. All others in the upper 25% of the group will receive honorable mention certificates. These will be issued as soon as the scores are determined by the state office.

There are five districts, the boundaries of which coincide with those for the district-state scholarship test.

The 25 boys and the 25 girls who place highest in their district will each receive a certificate of rank. An honorable mention certificate will be presented to each of the other students who place in the highest ten percent in each district. These presentations will be made as soon as possible after the results are compiled.

The 25 boys and the 25 girls who place highest in the state will each receive a state certificate of rank. All additional students who place in the highest five per cent of the state will receive state honorable mention certificates and their names, along with those of the high 25 boys and the high 25 girls, will be printed in the annual State Scholarship Awards Bulletin. These certificates will be mailed to each superintendent or principal for distribution to those seniors entitled to this honor.

Scholarships of varying worth are granted by many Ohio colleges and out-of-state colleges to those who rank high in this test.

The basketball season is now in full swing. You will enjoy the city tournament contests on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights at Glenwood.

You may also like to see the younger generation play basketball. If so, we suggest you wander into Glenwood any afternoon and watch the boys and girls at play.

Movies

Starting Saturday, your children can see a full length movie, of the best choice, for a nickel at Glenwood Center. These movies will be shown by the Hilltop YMCA. The money received from these Saturday movies will go into the film rental fund of the YMCA.

The movies will start at 10:45 a. m. and a different show will be given each Saturday.

To Conduct Washday Clinic At Robinson's

Cornell Federer

The Workless Washday Clinic, a unique program which has met with wide acclaim from housewives throughout the nation, will be presented here Jan. 16, 17 and 18, it was announced today by the C. C. Robinson Co., 2403 W. Broad-st.

The clinic will be conducted by an expert home laundry consultant Cornell Federer, who will explain and demonstrate the ease with which laundering may be done at home. Only the latest and most efficient home laundry equipment will be used, M. E. Van Atta, manager of the store, said.

During the program, the home laundry consultant will answer questions pertaining to laundering problems. She will also discuss the best methods of washing various types of fabrics. In order to accommodate the large groups expected to attend, three identical sessions will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 2 p. m. Each person attending the clinic will be presented a useful gift.

Local Streets Included In Improvements

The city awarded contracts totaling $224,850 to seven firms for rebuilding eight streets and alleys, beginning next spring, Service Director Elmer A. Keller announced Tuesday.

The improvements include two long-awaited projects — W. Mound-st, between Central and Whitethorne-avs and Bryden-rd, between Parsons and Ohio-avs.
